State House Notices—Two.
Quincy Real Estate Co.—Houses to let.

Good Afternoon.

It is unusual that four candidates for an important office like that of county commissioner should all be natives of Quincy, but we are pleased that it is so. All have been honored by the voters with their confidence, and have not been found wanting.

Many favorable comments are heard concerning the speech of Mayor Hall at the dedication of the hose house at Wollaston. While some have been inclined to doubt the wisdom of expending so much money for a fire station, the arguments of the Mayor were convincing that the city had acted wisely. As the Mayor said, everything in these strenuous days costs more than a generation ago, but we live better and have more comforts. Quincy has been liberal with its fire department, he said, but the firemen seem to appreciate it, and strive to improve the service.

Drift of Opinion.

A milkman in a neighboring town has recently had an illuminating experiment in advertising. He spent $10 a week for three weeks in publishing an advertisement setting forth the breed of his cows, the purity of his milk, and a guarantee of its quality. In one week he got two customers, netting him a profit of $30 for the year; the next week he got two more and the next three, and writing about it to his local paper he says he is now several hundred dollars ahead of his advertising expenses. Now, who says that advertising doesn't pay?—Lowell Mail.

There is a bill before the Legislature, which seeks to place under the supervision of the State Board of Charities, all corporations organized under the laws of the state for charitable purposes, and a serious question arises as to the advisability of so doing. If this should mean that such institutions as the Milford Home for the aged, the proposed Bartlett Home or Milford's coming hospital, then there ought to be strenuous opposition raised its passage, for there is no need whatever for any such supervision and it would seriously hamper the work of such charities.—Milford Journal.

The conservative, deliberate and comprehensive course is the one to pursue. It is being pursued by those entrusted with the action of the United States. The President does well to cast on Congress its share of responsibility in the case. He will meet his own share, and both Congress and the President should recognize the trusteeship of the United States, not for chaos, but for order, not for "politics," but for civilization, not for sentiment but for justice, not for merely the present but for the future, in the settlements between Cuba and the world for which our dominating duty can neither be avoided nor deferred.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Pittsburg is much exercised over the billion-dollar steel trust scheme, because it will take away much of the business which is done in that city. Much of the official and clerical force of the Carnegie company will go to New York, and the Pittsburg banks will be large losers by reason of the transfer of deposit. Of course, the effects will be felt in all the ramifications of local trade and business. Naturally, if the centralization of industries goes very far, important consequences must come to many localities. But we are not sure that it is worth while to worry. That all the big schemes will turn out as their promoters and the public anticipate, is somewhat uncertain. — New Bedford Standard.

Industrial life must ultimately eliminate every remnant of privilege, of caste, of monopoly, prerogative; for the more industry becomes highly organized the more perfected it demands the intelligent cooperation of workers. Slavery dies out before the sight of free industry. Military or feudal types of society, with caste privileges, idleness, mastery blazoned on the mediæval heraldry, may struggle for their ancient rank, but industry will slay them in the end. An industrial world—the world of the future, grows more and more an industrial world—is a republican world. And a republican world is one in which the state belongs to all, exists for all, and lives by the help and good will of all—Frederic Harrison's Washington's Birthday address at Chicago.

Ninety-third Birthday.

Few ladies who live to celebrate their 93 birthday are as smart and well informed on topics of the past and present as is Mrs. Malinda E. Flanders of East Milton, who passed this anniversary of her life Feb. 22. Mrs. Flanders always celebrates her birthday, and this year was no exception, although the event was saddened by the death of her daughter a few days previous. Mrs. Flanders received a few callers and many letters of congratulations.

She was born in Dracut, Feb. 22, 1808, her maiden name being Doak. May 6, 1882, she married Mr. Hosea H. Flanders, a New Hampshire boy. Their married life, which was a happy one, was passed in Boston and Quincy. Four children were born to them, three sons who served their country during the civil war, and one daughter who passed away last week. Her husband died April 8, 1846, and for twenty years Mrs. Flanders lived with her daughter at West Quincy. From there she moved to East Milton and lives with her son.

Although having reached a ripe old age Mrs. Flanders is by no means an invalid. Her health and eyesight are good and when not knitting, she is reading the newspapers, having always been a great reader. She is fond of a joke and takes delight in reading the anecdotes in the papers, and repeating them to her callers.

President McKinley has had no firmer supporter than she, and were she permitted to vote one more would have been recorded to his credit.

Prize Winners.

Some time since the Superintendent of Schools offered to the pupils of the drawing class in the High school two prizes for the best original book cover designs.

The following named persons were appointed as a committee to judge of the relative merits of the drawings: Mrs. Charles W. Garey, Miss Lucy M. Hollowell, Miss Charlotte A. Kendall. This committee rendered its decision Thursday afternoon. The first prize of $2.00 was awarded to Miss Frances Sanders; the second prize of $1.00 was awarded to Miss Olive Shuman; honorable mention was made of the work of Miss Helen Barnes.

The designs submitted gave evidence of good ability and careful work on the part of the pupils.

Republican State Committee.

The February meeting and banquet of the Republican State Committee at Young's Thursday evening was an informal and social occasion, where the members of the new committee became acquainted for the work of the year. There were present 32 of the 40. President Soule of the Senate, and Speaker Myers were guests.

THE BIG FOUR

Who are Candidates for County Commissioner.

Messrs. Badger, Ewell,
Wright and Field.

All Born in Quincy and Favorably
Known.

Petitions are already in circulation for endorsement of the different candidates for county commissioner of Norfolk County to fill the vacancy. Sketches are given of four who are now prominently mentioned.

W. W. Ewell, the ex-commissioner of Public Works, is also an ex-councilman. When in the Council in 1890 he was a member of the Committee on Streets, and served as clerk. It was his interest in our streets in this capacity that secured for him the appointment as commissioner. During his administration as commissioner a marked improvement was made in the streets of the city, and the City Council showed appreciation of his services by increasing the salary to $2,000. A political change at City Hall caused his removal, to the regret of many, who have hoped to see him reappointed. He has continued to make street building a study, and has been in the employ of the State Highway Commission.

Mr. Ewell is Quincy born, the date of his birth being Oct. 15, 1849. He is married and the owner of the estate on Foster street where he resides. He is a member of the Granite City Club, a Mason and a Knight Templar.

Ex-Councilman William E. Badger is one of the most popular gentlemen in town, and it is not surprising that he has a large following for County Commissioner, particularly as the board has on hand the building of a $100,000 steel bridge at Quincy Point, which is almost in his line of business. Mr. Badger is probably without an equal in Quincy as a machinist and practical engineer. His three years' service in the City Council, two years on the Committee on Finance, and one year on Sewers, Drains and Water Supply gave him an acquaintance with the transaction of public business which were of value. He was known as one of the most level-headed men in the Council. Mr. Badger is the youngest of the candidates now in the field, being born in Quincy, Nov. 20, 1855. He is married and has one of the prettiest residences in West Quincy. He has done good work on the Republican Ward Committee. He is also a Mason.

Mr. Badger's friends point to his votes when a candidate for the Council as evidence of his popularity. He was not only the leading candidate, but his vote increased each year, and was in excess of the total votes given the Republican candidates for Mayor.

Marshall P. Wright, another candidate, has always stood high for character and business qualifications among the people of Quincy. He also is a native of the city, where he was born in 1847. Since leaving school he has always been identified with the granite business. His father was one of the pioneer granite manufacturers, and was associated with Henry Barker. Young Wright learned the trade of a stone cutter, and later during the construction of the Boston postoffice was foreman of the Cape Ann Granite Co., at Bay View, Gloucester. Returning to Quincy about 1880 he took charge of the O. T. Rogers Granite Co., and until last year was the principal owner and general manager. The quarry was sold in 1900 to the Quincy Granite Quarries Co.

Mr. Wright accepted an appointment under Mayor Adams as Water Commissioner and served two years. This has led many to believe that he was a Democrat in politics, but his Republicanism can be vouched for. When he was placed in nomination for the Council by the Democrats it was entirely without his knowledge or consent. Mr. Wright is as well known in Milton as Quincy, his pretty residence on Adams street being near the Milton line.

J. Q. A. Field is a veteran office holder, and has already served as County Commissioner, being a member of the board at the time when Quincy became a city. Previous to that he was for several years one of the selectmen, assessors, overseers of the poor, and surveyors of highways of the town. He was first elected to these positions in 1872, serving with Hon. William A. Hodges and the late Joseph W. Robertson. He was also on boards with Mr. Hodges and the late Ensign S. Fellows. Under the city government Mr. Field has also served two terms as Councilmen, being elected at large in 1895 and 1896. He was during both years of service a member of the Committee on Finance and Committee on Streets.

In business Mr. Field is a granite quarryman and manufacturer, and has been prominent in the Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association, and also in the New England Association. Mr. Field has for several years been one of the directors of the Quincy Savings Bank, and served on the board of investment, and the institution has prospered greatly. Although born Jan. 4, 1826, he is vigorous and young. Mr. Field has an extensive estate on Independence avenue near the Braintree line.

Colonial Tea.

The Daughters of the Covenant gave an entertainment and Colonial Tea at the Bethany church chapel on Thursday evening. The affair was most successful in every way. The young ladies who had charge were dressed in costumes of yesteryear, as were also many of the ladies in attendance. The program for the entertainment was very pleasing and was as follows:

Piano solo, Miss Alice Hultman.
Devotional, Miss Dorothy Packard.
Original poem, Miss Ida Kingman.
Reading of Mr. Cook's Will who came over in the Mayflower, Mr. Walter E. Blanchard.
Japanese song, Miss Ruth Packard.
Piano duet, Mr. John O. Hall, Jr., and Mrs. Otto Haywood.
Recitation, Miss Ella Packard.
Solo, Mrs. John D. Buckingham.
Violin solo, Master Odiorne.
Reading, Miss Catherine Tinker.
Comic song, Miss Ruth Packard.
War dance, by Indians.

The young ladies who presided were: Tea Room; Miss Lucy Newcomb, Miss Margaret Davidson, Miss Bessie Lang and Miss Josephine Osborne.
Lemonade Table; Miss Jeanette Tanner and Miss Willetta King.
Candy Table; Miss Myra Spear and Miss Maggie Senter.

There was also an antique room in which was exhibited a spinning wheel in operation, and other antique articles.

Dolls Frolic.

The success of the two previous evenings was repeated Thursday evening at the Washington Street Congregational church fair. The excellence of the previous entertainments resulted in the largest audience that has been seen in Quincy Point for some time and the people were not disappointed at the program. It was given mostly by young children who generally please, and included:

The Dolls' Frolic—Silver bells, Clara V. Bushnell; Topsy, Irene R. Bryant; French doll, Phoebe FitzPatrick; Sailor Boy, Roy Sidelinger; Jack, Irving Hayden.
Mother Goose Melodies—King Cole, John Melville; Miss Muffit, Florence Bryant; Jack Spratt, Alfred Brown; Mrs. Spratt, Emma Hayden.
Songs by Miss Isabelle Mitchell, "Little Black Me," and "The How-doo-doo-doo mao."

Found Guilty of Fraud.

George G. Tompkins a young man with many aliases, who was arrested in Fitchburg, Thursday, upon his release from jail, and turned over to Constable Fernald, was arraigned in court this morning for the larceny of $210 from Franklin Jacobs, from whom he obtained the money by representing himself as an Odd Fellow in distress. For this crime he will spend the next four months in jail, and upon his release will probably be rearrested for committing similar frauds in other places. Tompkins home is in Watertown, N. Y., where he has done time for forgery.

Bids for Headstones.

Proposals for furnishing 11,000 headstones for the United States army were opened Thursday at the depot quartermaster's office. Only two bids were received, one from the Vermont Marble Company of Centre Rutland, Vt., offering to furnish 10,000 headstones at $1.84, and one from Renisch Brothers of Brooklyn, N. Y., who bid $3.19 on the same sample.

Ladies' Night.

The ladies are to have the exclusive use of the Granite City club rooms next Tuesday evening. The members of the club have their annual banquet at the United States hotel, Boston, on that evening at 6 o'clock; and after the banquet they go to the Columbia theatre.

March.

Pussy willows are out.

The marble craze is early, and is raging all over the city. John Heuss and family of Willard street are about to move to New York.

Marbles sell 30 for a cent. This is much cheaper than "when we were boys."

Lewis E. Beverly of West Quincy has returned from a trip to Washington and the south.

The Wollaston Unity Club will have as the subject of its meeting tonight the interesting up to date topic "Photography."

Whether March came in as a lamb or a lion there may be a difference of opinion. It came in cold, and it came in pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Doble returned this week from Florida. Mrs. Doble came back in poor health and is now very sick with typhoid fever.

The old folks of the Atlantic M. E. Church are making great preparations for a grand concert to be given in Atlantic Music Hall early this month.

Mrs. Joseph Adams of Franklin street died suddenly Thursday evening, in her 70th year. Miss Mabel E. Adams, the member of the School Committee from Ward Three, is her daughter.

During Lent a service is held every Wednesday at 4 o'clock in the parish room of St. Chrysostom's church. Though primarily for the Woman's Guild these meetings are for the whole parish.

The Guild of St. Perpetua met Tuesday evening. At the close of the meeting Rev. C. P. Mills delivered an address full of interest to the young ladies, entitled "Who was St. Perpetua?"

A Quincy young lady was seriously injured by falling on the ice on Neponset rink one evening last week. She was skating with a party of friends when she fell, striking heavily on her head. She was taken home by friends.

Photography will be the subject of the meeting of the Wollaston Unity club, to be held this evening, March 1st. Papers will be read by Mr. W. G. Cortell, Mr. C. E. Finch and Rev. Frank W. Pratt, who has the program in charge. A number of practical illustrations will add greatly to the interest of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. Follett will sing.

Rev. H. Edgar Brady, Evangelist, conducts special services in Calvary Baptist church, Franklin street, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of each week. God through the Holy Spirit has wonderfully blessed His church in the Salvation of many and the prayer of earnest workers are that the work may continue and many be brought to God through Jesus Christ.

The entertainment and dance at Faxon hall Thursday evening under the auspices of a committee of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge was largely attended and a good time was enjoyed. The entertainment was in charge of Archibald Macleod and consisted of a flag dance by Miss Helen Rhines, songs by John Green; readings by Miss Walker of Brockton, and a duet by Messrs. Craig and Prout. Dancing was in order from 9 to 12. Mrs. Rhines and Edward Marnock furnished music, and Richard Prout had charge of the floor.

Concert at Wollaston.

The concert at the M. E. church, Wollaston Thursday evening attracted an audience that comfortably filled the auditorium. The ushers were Mr. John Kay Miss Methers, Miss Bemis and Miss Caroline Brown. The program consisted of selections by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Follett, Miss Mary L. Durgin, violin, Miss Jessie Royer, reader, and Miss Emily Bjorkman accompanist. The numbers were all well received and many encores were demanded. Mr. and Mrs. Follett are well known in Wollaston, and their work was, as always of a high order. Mrs. Follett's solo "Voices of Spring," by Strauss, being especially brilliant.

Miss Jessie Royer, a young reader of much promise who has been heard before with pleasure in Wollaston, again charmed her hearers by her rendition of several difficult selections.

Miss Mary L. Durgin played the violin in a delightful manner. The concert was arranged by Mrs. Durgin for the benefit of the church.

THE HOAR AMENDMENT

Increases Uncertainty as to an Extra Session

PRESIDENT IS DISPLEASED

With Feature of Army Bill Liable to Encourage Unjustifiable Hopes Among Filipinos—Both Branches of Congress Put In Hard Day of Work

Washington, March 1.—Senator Spooner was in consultation with Secretary Root yesterday on the question of how to treat the Hoar amendment to the Philippine feature of the army bill. The conference was more than half resolved on throwing it out, after they learned of the president's strong disapproval of it.

The ground of the president's objection is that the Hoar amendment, in limiting the operation of franchises to one year after the establishment of a permanent civil government, resembles too closely the Foraker program for Cuba, and is liable to encourage among the Filipinos an unjustifiable hope of ultimate independence. Politically, whether economically or not, he thinks the franchise limitation in Cuba was a good thing, because it seemed to satisfy many suspicious Cubans of the integrity of our purpose in their island. In the Philippines he fears that the political effect may be disastrous. He would rather veto the bill and call an extra session than accept such terms.

Mr. Hoar is a frank man, not given to indirection of method; so it is not believed that his purpose was to do more than smother any plans of exploitation which appeared to be on foot. For this reason it is thought possible that a compromise may be drafted, equally acceptable to the president and to Mr. Hoar and his followers in the senate, forbidding the grant of any franchise in the Philippines without the approval of Washington. This would, it is argued, either prevent exploitation altogether, or concentrate the responsibility for what does occur, through collusion or inadvertence, and yet it would not hold out any delusive expectations for the Filipinos.

The serenity of yesterday's proceedings in the senate was in sharp contrast with the tempestuous discussion of Wednesday. An immense amount of business was disposed of and not a single point raised was sharply controverted. The river and harbor bill, carrying appropriations of more than $50,000,000, was passed without a word of discussion, and the senate adopted the conference report on the war reduction measure without disturbing in the least the mill-pond smoothness of the proceedings.

Final conference reports were made and agreed to on the diplomatic and consular and agricultural appropriation bills, and another conference on the postoffice bill was ordered. Conference reports on several other measures were agreed to, and several bills of a minor character were passed.

The last hour and a half of the session was devoted to consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

The house cleared the decks of a number of important conference reports without much difficulty. The conference report on the war revenue reduction bill proved generally acceptable to both sides, and was adopted without division. Mr. Richardson, the minority leader, acquiesced in it as the best that could be done, although he stated that the minority still believed the war taxes should be reduced $70,000,000. Final reports on the diplomatic and consular and agricultural bills were adopted.

The major part of the day was devoted to the bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service. Although the bill is a house measure, its friends were very persistent, and in the face of many difficulties hung on to it with bulldog tenacity, and finally forced the bill into such a parliamentary situation that it will be voted upon today.

Congress Was Not Recalled

Washington, March 1.—A misunderstanding appears to exist in European capitals as to the conditions under which Mr. Conger was replaced at Pekin by Mr. Rockhill, in charge of the negotiations for the United States. The impression seems to have gained currency that the change was made by the state department, because of dissatisfaction with Mr. Conger's action. It is said at the department that Mr. Conger was relieved at his own request.

Sampson In the Dark

Washington, March 1.—In answer to an inquiry as to how the much-discussed application of Gunner Morgan and the accompanying papers were made public property, Secretary Long has received a reply from Rear Admiral Sampson disclaiming all knowledge concerning the means by which the papers were obtained by the press.

No Response From England

Washington, March 1.—Nothing has been received here from British sources to indicate the character of that government's response to the senate amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote Nicaragua canal treaty. The general belief prevails that the treaty will be permitted to fail.

Business Men Alarmed

Manila, March 1.—The news that the Spooner amendment prohibits the sale of land, timber and mining concessions has alarmed those here who are dependent upon such concessions for their business success. The three chambers of commerce of Manila, the International, the Spanish and the American, are wiring protests.

WILLIAM M. EVARTS DEAD

Eminent Old School Jurist and Statesman Succumbs to Pneumonia

New York, March 1.—William M. Everts died at his home in this city yesterday, aged 83 years. Death was caused by pneumonia. At the bedside were the dying man's wife and all of his surviving eight children. Mr. Everts was the nominal head of the law firm of Everts, Choate & Beaman, although for 10 years he had not been in active practice, latterly being without the use of his eyes, and otherwise feeble.

Mr. Everts was of sturdy New England stock. He was born in Boston Feb. 6, 1818. He was the son of Jeremiah Everts. On his mother's side he was a grandson of Roger Sherman, the signer of the Declaration of Independence and the colonial statesman and jurist. Mr. Everts was thus a cousin of Senator Hoar. His father was a native of Sunderland, Vt., was graduated at Yale in 1841. He gave undivided attention to law, and soon established a reputation for learning and ability.

He argued many cases of national interest, being chief counsel for President Johnson when an attempt was made to impeach him in 1868. The memorable presidential dispute of 1876 was the second great national controversy in which Mr. Everts was a prominent figure. Before the electoral commission he was in charge of the Republican case. It was his argument that the commission could not "go behind the returns" that proved decisive. He also argued the Alabama claims, and won the Geneva award. He had been a member of the cabinets of Johnson and Hayes. In the famous Beecher-Tilton case in 1874-75, Mr. Everts was senior counsel for Mr. Beecher. He spoke for eight days in closing the case for the defense, and at the close appeared as fresh and vigorous as when he began. The acquittal of his client was the result.

Murderer Ferrell Electrocuted

Columbus, O., March 1.—Rosslyn Ferrell, who murdered Charles Lane, died in the electric chair here early this morning. Death was instantaneous. He declined to say anything before the current was turned on. Ferrell was an employee of the Adams Express company, but lost his position a few days before he was to be married to Miss Lillian Costlow. Desperate, and without money, he boarded an express train by permission of Lane, who was in charge. At a time when his back was turned, Ferrell shot and killed him. He then robbed the safe of money amounting to $2400 and escaped. He was arrested at the home of his fiancée some days later, and admitted the crime.

Mayor Exercises Veto Power

Nashua, N. H., March 1.—For the first time during the term of three mayors, a resolution introduced by the board of aldermen, and favorably passed, was vetoed, the instance being the question of the increase in pay of the policemen from $2 to $2.50 a day. Another resolution was introduced, to increase the pay to $2.25, instead of $2.50, as in the first instance, and by a vote of 11 to 7, it was passed, but Mayor Taylor vetoed the measure.

Declarations Handed to Wood

L'Avana, March 1.—Senor Capota president of the Cuban constitutional convention, yesterday afternoon handed over to Governor General Wood the declarations of the convention on the proposed relations between Cuba and the United States, as adopted Wednesday. The presentation was informal and no remarks were made.

Lu Chuan Lin Must Die

Shanghai, March 1.—The native news papers publish a second list of officials whose punishment is demanded by the powers. It includes Lu Chuan Lin, grand councillor and president of the board of rites. Duke Lan has been arrested and awaits punishment. Prince Tuan has not yet been taken.

Explosion Heard For Miles

New York, March 1.—There was an explosion at the Rand Powder mills in Pompton, N. J., yesterday, which killed one man, seriously injured two and slightly hurt three others. The report of the explosion was heard for miles around. The building which was destroyed was the drying room.

Union Men Not Wanted

Chattanooga, March 1.—The Campbell Coal Mining company of Crossville has issued notices announcing that it will at once evict all Union labor from its works. It is stated that the union will resist the order, and bloodshed is feared.

NEWS IN BRIEF

F. W. Parker, employed by a milliner at Brockton, Mass., has received word of the death of his grandfather in England, and his inheritance of property worth some $50,000.

The Old Orchard (Me.) water works and the Old Orchard electric light plant have passed into the hands of George F. Haley. The purchase of these two plants involves nearly $200,000.

The body of George Fisk, 29, single, a farm laborer, was found hanging from a beam in the barn of Samuel P. Parsons at Ludlow, Mass.

Mob Had Rope Ready

Brazil, Ind., March 1.—A negro miner named Brown last night openly denounced the Ward lynching at Terre Haute. When he came out of the mine he found a mob of miners waiting with a rope. Brown ran, followed by the crowd. A trolley car was passing. The mobman pulled Brown aboard and went ahead at full speed. Brown came to this city and put himself in the hands of the police for protection.

Want More Pay For Night Work

Clinton, Mass., March 1.—Out of 60 Italians, who on Wednesday night refused to go to work excavating for the metropolitan water system, 27 started in on the work last night, while the others gathered about and were finally driven away by the police. The men wanted $1.75 for night work, while it was announced that they would be paid $1.35, the same as the day men receive.

COMPLEX GAS SITUATION

May Be Somewhat Relieved by Consolidation of Big Companies

Boston, March 1.—Interest in the Boston gas situation was revived at the statehouse yesterday by the announcement that a bill would be offered in the house providing for the consolidation of the half dozen companies now doing business in the city under one company, and also with authority to purchase the plant of the New England Gas and Coke company. This latter sells gas to the Massachusetts Pipe Line company, which, in turn, delivers it to three or four of the smaller companies. It is understood that the bill is drawn by Robert M. Morse, who has represented the Bay State Gas company of Delaware, controlled by J. E. Addicks. This latter company is also represented in the Boston gas situation through its control of a substantial gas plant, and is engaged in making and selling gas to the Dorchester, South Boston and Boston gas companies. These latter companies, however, are in a measure controlled by Mr. Whitney.

All the companies with the exception of the Bay State of Delaware and the New England Gas and Coke company are organized under the laws of this state, and are under the authority of the gas and electric light commissioners. The new bill for consolidation of all these interests will come from these gas commissioners, and it is hoped will solve the problem of capitalization and diversity of interest which has proved a stumbling block for investigation committees. The announcement made of this compromise gas bill caused a great sensation, and the bill will be eagerly scanned when it is presented.

GUARDS WITH SHOTGUNS

Watch Convicts in Prison Yard While Fire Rages in Nebraska Penitentiary.
Lincoln, Neb., March 1.—A fire is raging in one of the buildings of the state penitentiary, three miles south of this city.

Warden Davis has asked for assistance and the Lincoln fire department with a steamer and men are on the way out. The fire is in the main building, and is burning furiously. All the convicts have been taken from their cells, and marched together to the prison yard. Extra guards with shotguns have been placed on the walls to prevent any attempt at escape.

Mrs. Joseph Adams.

Mrs. Amelia Augusta Adams, who passed away on Thursday, had been a resident of Quincy for forty-six years and a regular subscriber to the Patriot or over forty years, and what is pleasing to publishers, a prompt paying patron. She was born in Horta, Fayal, Azore Islands of French and Spanish ancestry and came to New Bedford at the age of nine, on account of her health. Her father died during her absence and the friends whom she was visiting adopted her.

She married in Milton, in 1846, the late Joseph Adams, and resided in that town until about 1855 when the family removed to Quincy.

Mrs. Adams was a faithful attendant at the Universalist church for many years and much loved by her fellow worshippers there. She was essentially a woman of the home; her family and her friends, filled her life to a degree which this generation, with its broad interest in humanity in general, can scarcely understand.

Simple, kindly, charitable and loving, a gentlewoman by nature and by birth, she made for herself a place in the hearts of her friends better worth the having than any wider renown.

Her husband and son died some years ago and two daughters and a granddaughter survive her.

A swathy youth has been going about town with a letter signed H. A. Kingman, 170 Arlington street, Wollaston, asking patronage as an orphan, selling embroideries and laces made by his sisters with whom he lives. As he was followed almost immediately by a stout middle-aged man carrying the merchandise, it is thought the letter and methods will have to be rearranged
to attract as a genuine article.

SCHOOL DEBATE.

John Hancock Boys Down Lincolns
on Capital Punishment.

If anyone has doubts as to the general smartness of the pupils of the Quincy schools, they should have been present Friday afternoon at the inter-school debate between the boys of the John Hancock and Lincoln schools.
The debate was held at the former building and the general discussion by the pupils after the debate, especially by the girls showed that they were readers and retained what they read.

The subject selected was one that is now before the State Legislature.
"That capital punishment should be abolished." The John Hancock boys supported the affirmative and the Lincoln boys the negative. James M.
Nowland of the Adams and Cranich schools was judge.

Oscar Gustafson, Thomas Boughard
and Matthew Nicoll were the affirmative speakers. They claimed that capital punishment was a relic of barbarism, that the man who hangs or kills another is equally guilty of murder.
With capital punishment, men say, I will only have to suffer half an hour,
but with life imprisonment I will always suffer. Then an innocent man has a chance to prove his innocence.
Several cases were cited to prove this,
notably the Stain and Cromwell case.
Imprisonment was also more humane.
In many cases where murderers are killed they leave children who suffer from shame. Lawyers and judges earn money by sending people to death.
Murderers can be kept in prison as wild animals, who are more dangerous
when kept in cages. Public executions increase crime. States and countries were quoted that had abolished capital punishment. All nations should abolish capital punishment and the United States should take the lead.

The negative speakers were Alex.
Cove, Irving Kemp and Robert Mitchell. They made some startling statements which were a surprise. In England, they said, there was no second trial. Criminals were hung in five weeks after trial. In 1899 there were 12,652 murders in the United States, and but 4 in England. Scotland has one every two years. The reason for this was the prompt trial and execution of murderers in England. If a man is brought up by circumstantial evidence and can not prove an alibi the next day, he is guilty. Leniency of the enforcement of the laws in the United States was one cause for the increased number of murders.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of 1000 escape punishment, 399 out of 5,000 are convicted, 87 per cent. of crimes committed are by American born people.

The police are bribed; a heavier punishment rather than a lighter one should be made. Jurors do not hesitate to give verdict in the second degree when there is the least doubt.
By the time a second trial is held many of the witnesses are scattered or dead. If abolished the country would be full of assassins. People could not go out night or day without fear of being killed. If a person kills another he should go to the gallows.

Mr. Nowland in giving his decision said he had rather umpire a ball game than judge a debate like this. Both sides had made a good showing and arguments were exceptionally good.
He congratulated both sides, but thought the affirmative—the John Hancock boys—made the best choice.

An opportunity was then given any of the pupils to speak. At first there were a little backward, but when Mr.
Nowland had asked some questions
they lost their natural bashfulness and several spoke. One young miss made a good point when she said that in England there were but few foreigners, while in the United States there are very many nationalities and the real criminals were not of American descent.

During the afternoon the two classes
sang several selections and Master John Findlay sang a solo. All of the singing was fine and the afternoon
could not have been other than a source of benefit to all.

Burglary Call.

A telephone call was received at the police station shortly after 10 o'clock
last night from the residence of John C. Randall, to the effect that burglars were trying to break into the house.
Mr. Randall's family are in the south, and the house is in charge of the domestics. Captain Hanson and Officer Murray responded to the call and captured the burglar, which proved to be a mass of ice which had fallen from the eaves of the house to the ground, making considerable noise.

BALLADE OF A STUBBORN LOVER.

Never a kiss she gave him when Swift she vanished from his sight,
Lost as fads in a marshy fen
Phosphor gleams of the wildest light.
Stanch was he and her faithful knight—
That indeed she could not gainsay—
Murmuring not at her sudden flight;
Ah, willow and wealdaday!

Back he turned to the haunts of men,
Mingled in with the latter light,
Caught the thread of the world again,
Never doubting in all despite;
Knew no wrong that was not her right,
Smiling still in the olden way,
Not resenting a fancied slight;
Ah, willow and wealdaday!

Recked she little in passing then Whether on him would sorrow light,
Thus to wander from out his ken,
Fading and disappearing quite;
Though he bent to her beauty's might,
Never a prayer had he to pray;
Curse on him for a stubborn knight,
Ah, willow and wealdaday!

EVIL
Primer, when the land of earth recite,
They strike the chords and instant say,
Some will love, though the loved one smite;
Ah, willow and wealdaday!

The Instructive Case of Jenkins

Jenkins is a bright young lawyer, who has sat before a big empty desk for nearly two years without earning enough to buy a whole suit of clothes. Of course he's busy. It takes him about ten hours a week to study out the diplomatic possibilities of his next encounter with his landlord. Then there is his affair at the restaurant. He has to keep watch of the holes in his meal ticket and look for chance invitations to more sumptuous meals. It took him nearly a year of finance with Chinese laundrymen before he adopted celluloid. What leisure he had was until lately occupied with a sort of credit correspondence with his father, upon whom he is at liberty to draw only in cases of extreme necessity. Jenkins has written home many really able definitions of "extreme necessity."

All this may not prove that Jenkins is willing to work, but he is, and he proved it last week. He "offices" with an eminent lawyer. He means, in his case, that he gets deskroom in exchange for his services as office boy, court messenger and a few more important vicarious duties. In the same office with Jenkins there is Stack, the clerk, whose chief excuse for being there is that he is nephew to the afore-said eminent one. Then there is Harkins, the stenographer, who really works and who is the envy of both Jenkins and Stack because he draws a good salary and is allowed postage on his own mail. Stack's salary is $7.50, but as he lives with his uncle and pays no board he is really the aristocrat of the office. Jenkins gets 2 per cent on the bills he collects.

Two weeks ago, however, somebody bought him a good dinner, and then such an unwanted courage rose up within him that he decided to approach the eminent lawyer with whom he "offices" and ask advice. To the lawyer Jenkins said:

"Mr. Lord, I'm not getting along very well, and I don't know exactly what to do to improve my affairs. Of course I don't want to leave you, but the fact is if I don't commence to take in a little more money I'll have to get a situation, go into some trade—quit this law."

"Now, see here, Jenkins," said Mr. Lord. "I'll tell you what I'd do in your place. I'd start a collection agency. You can do it right here in my office. Take in the other boys; get up a little stock company. It doesn't require any capital, and if it's run right it ought to pay. I'll give Stack all my old accounts, and you can get as many more as you want by advertising."

Jenkins' eyes bulged with joy. Here at last was his chance. He thanked his superior repeatedly, and that very day the Calumet Quick Collection company was formed. Jenkins wrote a long letter to his father, explaining that postage stamps were an "extreme necessity," and then drew for $5. Stack and Harkins each contributed as much, and the new concern began life with a stock of enthusiasm and hope that was not expressed in the amount of paid up capital. Jenkins contributed most of the enthusiasm, but Stack and Harkins hoped for the best. The work was so divided that the young lawyer had to do all the outside work. The stenographer, of course, could not leave the office except for meals, and the clerk argued that it would pay to have some one at headquarters to meet customers and clients; so, with some misgivings, Jenkins agreed to this arrangement.

The young lawyer was determined to do or die in his new venture, and to this end he came down to the office about daybreak on the morning of his first effort. He had a package of statements an inch thick and a long book in which the names and amounts were listed. He began work at 8 o'clock with 65 cents for car fare in his pocket and the anticipation of swift and certain success shining in his eyes. On foot, in street cars and in trains he literally flew about the town till noon. Some of the men he sought were dead. Others talked as if they would like to be. Many had left the city for good—for their own good, Jenkins thought. Some were so poor that he knew they would never pay.

A few laughed at him. Nobody paid him.

He got back to the office about noon broken in finances, but not in spirit. He almost lost his temper, however, when Stack laid down the paper covered novel he was reading, took his feet down from the steam radiator and asked:

"How much did you get?" He even fancied that he could hear Harkins laugh when he answered: "I didn't collect a cent. Hard luck, isn't it? I ran into a gang of tough ones and then ran out of car fare. Any answers to our dunning letters?"

"Not a glimmer," mourned Harkins. Stack looked glad of it. He loaned Jenkins a half dollar for car fare, charged it up on the company's book and resumed his warm place in the corner.

When the young lawyer was gone out, the clerk sidled up to the stenographer and said:

"Say, Hark, I think we're on a dead one, don't you?"

"I hope not, for Jenk's sake. He's so in earnest," said the stenographer.

"Well, it's Jenk's doings. He suggested it, and I guess he needs the money worse than we do."

"But if it fails?"

"Well, if it fails I think Jenkins ought to stand the losses. I'm out fifty already, and it's his fault."

"But he's doing all the work," suggested Harkins.

"Well, so he ought." And Mr. Stack went back to his novel.

The young lawyer worked like a fiend. When car fare was gone, he walked, even ran, after his supposed victims. He quit going back to the office and worked far into the night. He pestered the life out of every debtor who showed the least sign of paying up, and if they offered him a dollar he took it and asked for two. In the meantime, a few answers to advertisements came into the office, but Mr. Lord seized upon them as "too deep for the boys." Nobody called. Stack began and finished three paper covered novels. Harkins plodded away in doors, both wondering how long Jenkins' nerve would stand the hardships of chasing his prey through ice and snow.

At noon on Saturday Jenkins appeared at the office. He looked thinner than ever. His shoes were worn out. He had a piece of red flannel round his neck and his voice was a husky whisper. Harkins didn't have the heart to ask him how he fared, but Stack yelled:

"Hello, old man! We thought you had absconded with the firm's money!"

Jenkins was very silent. He sat down at his desk and began to make out his statement. Stack watched him with curious interest as he piled up the few checks and greenbacks which represented the first week's business of the Calumet Quick Collection company. He had collected $240, and the net earnings of the company at 10 per cent amounted to $24—just $8 for each of the three stockholders.

"Good boy!" said Stack, picking up his share. "You're a wonder. I didn't think you'd make it go."

Harkins, being what Stack calls "a chump," clushed when Jenkins handed him his share of the profits.

"I'll tell you, Mr. Jenkins," he said. "I don't feel as if I was entitled to any of this money. You and Stack here did all the work, and you ought to keep my share for stamps and car fare, eh?"

But Jenkins insisted, and the stenographer yielded.

"All right," he laughed; "I'll take it on condition that you take dinner with me this evening. We'll celebrate the week's success—kind of christen the business. What do you say?"

Jenkins and Stack promised, and at 7 o'clock that evening the three partners were sitting together at a restaurant table christening the collection company.

When they got to the coffee, Jenkins let his bomb fall upon the festive board in this wise:

"Now, Hark and Stack, as to this collection company, I don't know whether it is 'the quick' or 'the dead,' but I want to announce that, so far as I am concerned, it is dissolved, evaporated, vanished. Here are our accounts." He pulled out the package. "They are supposed to represent $8,000 of good accounts. You can have them. I wouldn't give $4 for the bunch."

His partners looked at him in astonishment. "You're joking?" they chorused. "Why, we have just got to work!"

"You mean I've just got to work," said Jenkins. "Well, I'm done too. I'm out $5 for stamps, I've worn out a pair of shoes, I've done $100 worth of the meamest work on earth, and I haven't got anything but $8 and the grip. This is the first square meal I've had for two weeks, and I tell you the quick collection business is all off."

The next day Stack said to Harkins that Jenkins wasn't such a mark after all. As for the young lawyer, he is in doubt whether to go back to the farm or look for a more congenial place to "office," for now Mr. Lord, the eminent attorney, says that Jenkins has "no sand" and will never get along unless he learns to "love work."—Chicago Record.

The Toper's Dinner.

Instead of going to their work one Monday a number of workmen entered a public house determined to spend the day there.

About noon a woman looked in and said, addressing one of the party:

"I supposed you are not coming home to dinner today, so I have brought you your share."

So saying, she placed a dish and plate, carefully tied up, in front of the toper and went away.

"Looks well after you, your wife does," said a mate. "Suppose we taste and see what it's like?"

"Aye, let us have a taste," said the husband as he untied the bundle.

But the plates were empty, and there was a note with them which ran as follows:

"I hope you will enjoy your dinner. It is the same as myself and the children are having at home."—London Answers.

WORKINGMAN'S HOME.

I herewith present a design showing a careful study of economy. It is a very easy matter to design a home where the question of expense does not arise, but when one is limited to an amount less than $1,000 hours of patient study are required to accomplish what has been done here.

The design shows a model up to date workingman's home, a home that nearly every one can afford to build. Say you pay $500 for the ground and $900 to have

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

this building put up. For the sum of $1,400 you will have a perfect little palace. The hall is very nicely ornamented with a platform staircase. The parlor and dining room are both large rooms, connected by sliding doors. The kitchen is provided with a large range. The second floor has two large bedrooms and a small one which could at some future time, with very little extra expense, be made into a bathroom. There is a cellar under the whole house with a concrete floor. The underpinning is of stone, the super structure frame. The house is heated by furnace.

Lime and Charcoal.

"The heat and moisture of the summer months have a tendency to rust metals, mildew fabrics and cover all sorts of substances with mold," writes Maria Parlon in "The Care of the House in Summer" in "The Ladies' Home Journal."

"Fermentation and putrefaction develop rapidly in vegetable and animal substances if they are not carefully watched. Lime and charcoal are two aids toward keeping the house sweet and dry, and the housekeeper should, if possible, provide herself with both of these materials. A barrel each of lime and charcoal in the cellar will tend to keep that part of the house dry and sweet. A bowl of lime in a damp closet will dry and sweeten it. A dish of charcoal in a closet or refrigerator will do much toward making these places sweet. The power of charcoal to absorb odors is much greater directly after it has been burned than when it has been exposed to the air for a length of time. Charcoal may be purified and used again and again by heating it to a red heat. The lime must be kept in a place where there is no chance of its getting wet and not exposed to air."

Good Nursery Box.

Provide a useful box for every nursery easily made out of strong packing cases, planed down smoothly. Put solid hinges on the lid and stain the whole the color of mahogany. Down the entire depth of the inside fasten lathe three-quarters of an inch apart. Thus with the help of two or three pieces of wood the exact width of the box to slide down the grooves good partitions may be made of any size required. One division can be allotted to each child who is responsible for keeping it tidy, and a large number of delicate toys will thus be preserved from the untimely end consequent on their being thrown anyhow into the toy box or cupboard. This toy box, with the divisions removed, can be utilized for packing clothes when the family move to the sea or elsewhere. A loose cover will be found useful to conceal the box when not in use. Children who from early days in the nursery have been made to observe neat habits in the keeping of toys, books, etc., are saved much inconvenience in after life through having no method of tidiness.

The Kitchen Furniture.

All the furniture and fittings of a kitchen should be of a substance which may be readily washed. The all-penetrating steam of cooking and the effluvia arising from the waste of vegetables, fruits and meats, though left standing but a few moments, require that the place in which culinary operations are carried on should be nonabsorbent, and the modern kitchen, with its glazed woodwork, the papered walls and polished oil finished floors, attains this end.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 3.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Toric.—Barrenness.—Luke xiii, 6-9.

The topical reference is the parable of the barren fig tree. This parable was spoken by Christ to teach the Jews that unless they repented and brought forth fruit they would perish. Pilate had slain Galileans at worship and mingled their blood with the blood of their sacrifices. A tower had fallen upon 18 in Siloam and had killed them. The Jews concluded that these things were proofs that these people had sinned. They looked upon these calamities as the judgments of God for sin, and as no special judgments came upon them they falsely concluded that they were righteous and that the absence of calamity and adversity was conclusive proof that they enjoyed God's favor and blessing. To abuse their minds of these errors Christ told them the parable of the barren fig tree. It brought forth no fruit. The master ordered it to be cut down. The vine dresser pleaded that it might have one more trial and then declared that if it bore no fruit he would agree to its destruction.

1. Barrenness is not in accordance with the will of God. God has placed all mankind in this world for a purpose—to glorify Him and to do His will. He has for every nation and for every individual a work. We live that we may bear fruit, and he who fails to bring forth fruit is a lumberer of the ground. He stands in the way of others. He makes it impossible for others to do what he himself fails or refuses to do. Such a life is displeasing to God, and destruction awaits it. The tree that is barren is cut away and destroyed. The branch that abides not in Christ that it may bring forth fruit to the honor and glory of God is likewise cut off and cast into the fire. Barrenness where there should be fruitfulness is not to be tolerated. It was not with the Jews, the chosen people of God, and much less will it be with us. God expects in us the fruits of a Christian character and a Christian life, and a severe punishment awaits us if we fail in producing them.

2. Forbearance in the matter of judgment is not to be misunderstood. It does not mean indifference. A year of grace added to the fig tree's life did not make its destruction less certain if it did not repent, as it were, and bring forth fruit. For Christ's sake God used great forbearance with his people. They misunderstood this forbearance. They took delay for entire postponement. We may often do the same, but we should not. Punishment for barrenness may be delayed. If it is, it is only with the hope that we will correct our mistakes. Punishment will be as certain and even more severe if we remain unfruitful in spite of God's forbearance. By faith let us abide in Christ, that we may bring forth fruit. The lumberer perishes. The fruit bearer casts his crown before the throne of God in heaven.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a voluntary discussion of the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

Math. iii, 10; vii, 15-20; xxi, 18-20; xxv, 31-46; Luke xiii, 7-9; John xv, 1-16; Eph. v, 9-11; Titus iii, 14; II Pet. i, 1-11.

Heroism Better Than Stoicism.

Discouragement is never permitted to the child of God, nor stoical nonresistance. There is a fatalistic as well as a Christian way of facing the ills of life. Shall I allow my will to sleep in the presence of any calamity on the ground that calamity is resistless before man or God? So, we are told, the Hindoos often do before famine or pestilence. They sullenly bow beneath the storm, their efforts paralyzed by a false dogma. So hundreds of a more enlightened race are victimized in the presence of physical ills or business misfortunes by idleness or weakness induced by unmanly fears. The saying, "What can't be cured must be endured," is frequently on our tongues. More profitable the saying, "While there's life, there's hope." Destroy the ant hill a thousand times, and its tiny inhabitants will yet promptly begin its rebuilding. So while a grain of strength remains to us we should labor on toward our betterment, trusting God to cure when our own best remedies fail. —Sunday School Times.

As the Master Did.

Christ's style of preaching was characterized by beauty, strength, sympathy, warmth, boldness, directness, cheerfulness, plainness, love and hopefulness. The same admirable qualities should mark the ministrations of all who stand in His place and proclaim His truth. The gospel is as much needed as ever, and if presented as the Master did it will find its way to human hearts and consciences.—Presbyterian.

The Higher Life.

The much talked about "higher life" is simply living close to God, on the Sabbath in His sanctuary and through the week in our own dwellings and places of business. It is keeping our citizenship in heaven and our eyes above the blinding mists of worldliness and our hearts in close touch with our divine Master.—Rev. T. L. Cuyler in Evangelist.

Repetition.

Over and over and over. These truths I will weave in song, That God's great plan needs you and me, That will be greater than destiny And that love moves the world along.

However mankind may question It shall listen and hear my creed, That God may ever be found within, That the worship of self is the only sin, And the only devil is greed.

Over and over and over. These truths I will say and sing: That love is mightier far than hate, That a man's own thought is a man's own fate And that life is a goodly thing.

EXTRA SESSION AVOIDED

By the Passage Through the House of the Army Bill

PRESIDENT WISHED IT SO

Dissent From Senate Amendments Might Have Furnished Partisan Capital For the Enemy—Cabinet Members Resign as Matter of Form

Washington, March 2.—By a vote of 159 to 134 the house yesterday concurred in the senate amendments to the army appropriation bill, thus removing all possibility of an extra session. It was a strict party vote, with the exception of Messrs. McCall of Massachusetts, Loud of California, Driscoll of New York and Mann of Illinois, who voted with the Democrats. Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin answered present, and was not paired. The bill now goes to the president.

The debate was not especially noteworthy. The Philippine and Cuban amendments were defended by the Republicans and assailed by the Democrats. The only exciting incident occurred at the close of the debate, when Mr. Hull of Iowa, whose name had been connected with a lumber and development company in the Philippines, frankly acknowledged that he had invested money in it.

The final conference report upon the Indian appropriation bill was adopted and a number of minor bills were put through the final stages.

The conference report of the St. Louis exposition bill which agreed to Sunday closing was agreed to and the bill was sent to conference. A motion to concur in the Charleston exposition amendment was defeated—84-132.

The revenue cutter service bill was side tracked early in the day by a vote of the house.

There was a consultation at the White House yesterday between the president, Secretary Root, Senator Proctor, representing the senate committee on military affairs, and Representative Hull, chairman of the corresponding committee of the house.

The whole situation on the army bill and the Hoar proviso regarding franchises in the Philippines was discussed, and the conclusion reached that it would be unsafe to let the house dissent from the senate amendments, as the debate which this would encourage might be rancorous and full of partisan capital for the enemy. The speech of Senator Pettigrew on Wednesday afternoon was considered only the entering wedge for a campaign of scandals in the closing hours of congress.

The president was loath to accept the limitation set upon the franchise power, and had not changed his opinion as to the expediency, but he announced his willingness to let the majority judgment rule, under the circumstances, and that he would not reconvene congress on this account.

The cabinet members all landed in their resignations yesterday, as a matter of form. The president will reappoint all of them, including the attorney general, though Mr. Griggs says positively that he must get out and return to private business soon, for personal reasons. He will not serve longer than April 1, when, it is now believed, Philander C. Knox of Pittsburg will receive the appointment.

During the greater part of a long and tiresome session of the senate, the sundry civil appropriation bill was under discussion. It was passed late last night.

An interesting and at times lively debate was precipitated in the first two hours of the session, on a resolution to discharge the committee on interstate commerce from consideration of the bill requiring railroad companies to make detailed investigations of all accidents involving loss of life on their lines, and report to the interstate commerce commission. No action was taken.

The bills appropriating $500,000 for the Buffalo Pan-American exposition, $5,000,000 for the St. Louis Louisiana purchase exposition, and $250,000 for the Charleston interstate and West Indian exposition were attached to the bill as riders.

Cromwell to Succeed Schley
Washington, March 2.—Rear Admiral Cromwell, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, has been selected to succeed Rear Admiral Schley as commander of the South Atlantic station, Rear Admiral Read, at present unattached, will succeed to the command of the Portsmouth yard. Admiral Schley will return home at his own convenience during the spring or early summer.

Rewards For Gallant Conduct
Washington, March 2.—The house committee on naval affairs yesterday reported favorably on a bill for the reward of enlisted men of the navy or marine corps by their promotion to warrant officers, a gratuity of $100 and a medal of honor. The report states that this will permit ample reward for gallant conduct of our marine corps in China and elsewhere.

FUGITIVE FOR MANY YEARS

Cannibal Whose Life Was In Danger Is Now In the American Navy

Washington, March 2.—Commander Tilley, the naval governor of Tutuila, reports to the navy department that an act of humanity he has added to the annals of the crew of the U. S. S. Albatross. He gives an interesting narrative of how he came to give succor and shelter to the stranger. He is a Solomon island native, and was found in the woods of Tutuila, where he had been a fugitive for more than 12 years. The man is a savage, is very black, and does not speak any language which any person on board the Albatross can understand. Commander Tilley says:

"The Samoan natives assert that this man has killed some of their people, but I hardly believe this, although he may have done so when he was hard pushed by them. At any rate the Samoans were trying to kill him, and I took him on board ship to save his life. His people are cannibals, and he does not wish to return home for fear that after his long absence he has been forgotten and will be killed and eaten. He is very industrious and useful on board ship, doing willingly all kinds of menial work. I have issued a ration to him and recommend that he be allowed to remain on board some vessel of the navy until he can take care of himself."

Balfour Beats About the Bush

London, March 2.—During question time in the house of commons yesterday Mr. Scott asked Mr. Balfour at what time in 1890 the government was informed that, if war ensued between the Transvaal and England the Orange Free State would undoubtedly turn in her lot with the sister republic. Mr. Balfour's reply was as follows: "All the information we have of this subject is necessarily a matter of opinion, and, therefore, conjectural in its character, or else is contained in statements of ex-President Steyn, in which case, unfortunately, it is mendacious."

Commissioner Wants His Pay

Malone, N. Y., March 2.—Twenty-three Chinamen were captured on the Canadian line north of Malone yesterday and are in jail here. The same number is coming Saturday. They probably will be taken to Ogdensburg. Commissioner Woodward of Plattsburg refused to hear the cases until his back pay, and the $5 a head are forthcoming.

Anti-Clerical Strife

Lisbon, March 2.—Anti-clerical feeling is running high in Lisbon. The Liberal journals publish violent articles. The president of the council-general says that the government is determined that religious establishments, which have no legal existence, shall respect the law.

An Inducement For Capitalists

Halifax, March 2.—City council has decided to hang up a subsidy of $200,000 to induce capitalists to establish steel shipbuilding and engine and boiler works at this port. The legislature will probably supplement this offer with an additional subsidy.

Marseilles, March 2.—The strike of longshoremen continues. The wharves are deserted and merchandise is accumulating in the sheds, awaiting shipment, while the dock-laborers are idling in the vicinity.

HOUSE OFFICIAL STAFF

To Be Reorganized to Overcome Certain Abuses

A FEW SPECIMEN CASES

Unearthed by Investigating Committee Show That the Evils of the Spoils System Are Still Persistent—House Library "All Right For a Barnyard"

Washington, March 2.—The conferees on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, which covers all salaries of government officials, reached a complete agreement yesterday.

An entirely new feature agreed on is a reorganization of the official staff of the house of representatives in order to overcome abuses reported by a special committee of investigation. It provides against divisions of salaries, and that each employee shall perform the duty and receive the salary of the place he occupies. The reorganization entails a slight increase in the force, with a small reduction in the aggregate cost.

The report of the special committee of the house of representatives, that of which Mr. Moody of Massachusetts was chairman, deserves more attention than it will get from congress and the public in the crowded hours of the expiring session.

While it tells nothing that surprises anybody at all familiar with Washington practices, it shows that the abuses of the spoils system, of which this is an example, far exceed any of the evils that creep in under the classified service.

While the regular press dispatches report the summarized findings of the Moody committee, one of the instances related in its report is especially illuminating.

Winthrop C. Jones is carried on the roll as a locksmith at $1440 a year. He performs the duties of a messenger, and a man named Hickling, a session folder at $75 a month, does the actual locksmithing. Hickling had been the locksmith, but having lost his "pull," lost the salary, while continuing to do the work.

The committee asked Mr. McDowell, clerk of the house, why he changed from Hickling to Jones, and with cheerful frankness he explained that the Michigan delegation thought they "hadn't their share," and so he appointed Jones, without knowing whether he understood locksmithing or not. The chairman added that in these circumstances it was not surprising to find Jones a persistent absentee, and not attentive to his messenger duties when present. He was absent from the Capitol last year from April till December, while continuing to draw his salary.

The librarian of the house library testified to a deplorable condition, saying that it could not be worse, although it would be all right for a barnyard. The committee recited instances of a number of employees borne on the rolls who have not been seen at the Capitol for a long time.

But one of the particularly amusing cases was in the Turkish bath department where two negroes are employed at $720 per annum. This seemed to some of the strikers too much for a negro, and so a white man was placed on this roll, taking the salary of one negro in August and October, and of the other in September and November. This white man never appeared in the bath room, and so far as the investigating committee was able to learn never performed any service except singing the pay roll. This he did faithfully for four months.

Then another negro was brought here for one of the places, but rather than give it up the two older employees began to pay him a tribute each month to stay away. That they did this is shown by registered letter receipts for a period of eight months.

One hundred pages of testimony of this sort show that the evils of the spoils system are still persistent. This testimony, too, was offered by beneficiaries of the system, and is fully as favorable as popular estimates here current would lead one to expect. A similar senatorial investigation, conducted with any thoroughness, would be highly interesting.

Calls For Sharp Diplomacy

Pekin, March 2.—Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang met yesterday and had a long consultation over the new demands of Russia regarding Manchuria. Ching and Li admit that they fear to refuse these demands, although recognizing that compliance means the loss of a province to China. They also think that compliance might mean trouble with other powers, for Russia announces that only Russians and Chinese will be allowed to trade there except at the greatest disadvantage.

Scanlan Was Outclassed

Hot Springs, Ark., March 2.—Dan Creedon defeated Jim Scanlan here last night. There was no time after Creedon put a left hook to Scanlan's jaw in the beginning of the first round that the latter had a chance to win. Scanlan came up very groggy in the fifth, and was knocked out with a right hook on the jaw.

CUP RACER NAMED

Lawson's Yacht Will Hereafter Be Known as the Independence

Boston, March 2.—"Independence" is the name selected by Mrs. Thomas W. Lawson for her husband's cup defender. Mr. Lawson announced the selection yesterday afternoon in the following statement:

"I have today submitted to the executive committee of the Hull-Massachusetts Yacht club the list of members who I would be pleased to have as a special committee to handle the races for my cups. I have also decided it would be better to leave the naming of the cups to the club. While I had not intended to name my boat until she was in the water, I think it only fair to her, now that there is daily comment on her construction, that she should be known by her own name, instead of mine. Mr. Crowninshield's beautiful creation from now on is the Independence. Although no one can now predict with any degree of certainty how she will race or what her position will be at the finish, whenever she does race I can assure all her well wishers that she will never belie her name."

Democrats Won't Have a Ticket

Augusta, Me., March 2.—The Democrats of Augusta last night adopted a manifesto protesting against the "political system" which has for years controlled the municipal affairs of Augusta in the interests of local Republican politicians, and for the benefit of corporations, while it needlessly oppresses the great mass of our citizens by unjust and excessive taxation." The Democrats decided to refrain from placing candidates in nomination for the coming election.

Three Cheney's Are Out

New Haven, March 2.—Dr. B. H. Cheney, for three years chairman of the board of physicians and surgeons of Grace hospital, and Mrs. Cheney, his wife, chairman of the women's board of the institution, yesterday resigned their positions. Their son, Dr. A. S. Cheney, was recently dismissed on a charge that he accepted fees from ward patients of the hospital in violation of the rules. His request for a hearing on the accusation was not granted.

Passengers Must Assume Risk

Boston, March 2.—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday decided that as street cars are run, it is not negligent to take on passengers when all the seats are occupied, when there is no more standing room in the passageway of the car and the new passengers have to stand on the platforms, and even on the steps, and, furthermore, that a passenger takes the risks incident to the mode of travel he chooses to adopt.

De Oro an Easy Winner

Boston, March 2.—The brilliancy which Alfred De Oro of Cuba, champion pool player of the world, showed last night in his game with William Strubbs of Canada, took the spirit out of the contest and gave it the appearance of an exhibition. De Oro took nearly every chance offered, and ran up a score of 150 to his opponent's 68 in the shortest order thus far seen in the series for the world's championship.

Poor Creatures to Be Pitied

Boston, March 2.—The Post says that two insane women at the Bellingham town farm tried to help Abigail Hayford to die by tying her on a bed and setting the bed on fire. The superintendent of the farm came in time to save the woman. The Hayford woman had moaned, "I am tired of life," and the others in their mental delirium thought they were doing her a friendly act.

Won't Leave His Flock

Newton, Mass., March 2.—Rev. Dr. E. D. Burr of this city has refused a call to the Fifth Avenue Baptist church of New York. Dr. Burr was offered a salary of $10,000, and the call seemed an inviting one, but it is stated that the relations established with his present charge render acceptance impossible.

Robbers Receive Punishment.

Boston, March 2.—Jeremiah Cohan, who robbed a friend, Thomas Cunningham, after getting him drunk, was sentenced to state prison to term six to ten years yesterday. Michael J. Manning, convicted of robbing Edward McCabe of $87, was sentenced to the house of correction for three years.

In Memory of Robert Emmet

Boston, March 2.—Beginning on Sunday afternoon and lasting until midnight the following Sunday the various clubs of the Irish National societies in Boston and vicinity will celebrate the birth of Robert Emmet as it never was celebrated before. Meetings and concerts will occur each night.

Weavers Cause Mill Shutdown

Franklin Falls, N. H., March 2.—The spinners in Walter Aiken's Sons' hosiery mill went out on strike yesterday on account of their wages having been reduced. Work in all departments of the mill, which employs about 150 hands, is suspended pending settlement.

Northampton, Mass., March 2.—Myra Dudley, aged 21, died last night from the shock following burning by the overturning upon her of an oil lamp. She had taught school for two years at Montague.

May Have Killed Himself

Lawrence, Mass., March 2.—Henry Bohne, an eccentric character, is missing from his home in this city, and his relatives fear he has committed suicide. Bohne is 50 years old.

Good Afternoon.

The latest suggestion for the Quincy congressional district is one which will meet with very little opposition. While a majority of the population is within the limits of the City of Boston, enough outside cities and towns are included so that they will constitute a respectable minority. Quincy's connections are more in common with the Norfolk county towns than any of the wards of Boston, especially with our neighbors: Weymouth, Braintree, Randolph, Holliston, Milton and Hyde Park. About 200,000 population is required for the new Congressional districts, and it will be seen that the Quincy district if constituted as below will have 199,368 or only 632 short.

	Population.
Boston, Ward 15,	19,790
Ward 16,	29,017
Ward 17,	25,038
Ward 20,	32,556
Ward 21,	27,616
Quincy,	23,899
Milton,	6,578
Hyde Park,	13,214
Weymouth,	11,321
Braintree,	9,081
Randolph,	3,993
Holliston,	2,229
Avon,	1,741
Stoughton,	5,442
Total,	199,368

It will be seen that the South Boston wards now in the Tenth Congressional district are not in the proposed district.

The Boston wards dropped are Nos. 12, 14, 18 and 19. It is proposed to put ward 14 in the Ninth District, and the other three in the new Boston district which will be made up of Wards 10, 11, 12, 18, 19, 21, 22, 23 and 25.

It is encouraging to the Quincy candidates for county commissioner to be assured by voters of other towns that the choice at this time belongs to Quincy. Milton and Weymouth gentlemen say they will be satisfied if a strong Quincy man is selected.

Lawson's cup defender is named the Independence. The fight for independence should be successful.

Drift of Opinion.

The objection to promoting gunners to be ensigns on the ground that naval officers are in a sense diplomatic representatives of the country is a trifle ridiculous. It is a long ways the station of an ensign to that of a commander—about as far as from that of a railroad section boss to a railroad superintendent.—New Bedford Standard.

Some of our naval heroes are gentlemen, no doubt, but they say and do as foolish things as the common people with no social advantages. Dewey and Sampson have both deposed themselves from the high positions they once held in the estimation of the people. Wonder if Schley will make breaks when he gets ashore again?—Brookton Enterprise.

Marcus C. Cook of Boston has again "lobbed up serenely" with his continuous attempt to have the Legislators create the metropolis of "Greater Boston" by the absorption of outlying towns and cities. His scheme ought to meet its usual "frost" at the hands of the legislators, and a resolution be passed requesting Marcus to go off into the howling wilderness and think up some new plan for sugar-coating his "pill." Boston has a great debt of $80,000,000 and still growing, and Dedham, Hyde Park, Brookline, Quincy and other Norfolk County towns are not anxious to engage in the philanthropic enterprise of helping pay the same. They have enough financial troubles of their own without adding thereto.—Dedham Transcript.

At Dedham Judge Emory Grover has refused to grant naturalization papers to a man who had a court record. The man was one who had been convicted of drunkenness, and who had been accused of killing his mother, but had been acquitted on that charge. The case seems to be one in which the judge has done the proper thing. There are quite enough citizens with bad records in any country without deliberately and willingly adding to that number. The voting power ought not to be bestowed too freely and lightly in improper hands.—Brookton Enterprise.

Kansas presents us with a riddle. There is no appreciable percentage of Latinism in her population. The people of that state are of English strain through the New England filter. In religion they are Puritan, in tradition, roundhead; in blood, English; in inheritance, law observing. Yet the people of this state have developed a mercurialism to which the suns of France never aspired. The John Brown of Kansas is an incendiary, while his cousin, John Brown of Illinois, remains solid. The Jerry Simpson of Kansas is as proud of his socks as his cousin Jerry of Missouri would be ashamed. The history of the state was laid in terror and bloodshed. Individual fanaticism was always higher than law. When Brown went forth to stir up insurrection, when Senator York placed his bribe money on the speaker's desk, when the state voted in one election eighty thousand majority for Hannibal and then somersaulted into Populism, when Peffer displayed his whiskers, Mrs. Lease her voice and Ingalls declared that honesty was but "an iridescent dream" all through there ran a constant stream of mercurialism differentiating the people of this state from their blood-relatives just across the border. Can any one explain this growth?—Atlanta Constitution.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

The Subject of Interesting Papers at the Unity Club.

The Wollaston Unity club met Friday evening in the Unitarian vestry. This meeting should have come Feb. 22, but was postponed a week because of the holiday.

The evening was given up to the study of "photography," and the musical program was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. H. Y. Follett.

The program began with a duet from Schuman, by Mr. and Mrs. Follett after which Rev. Mr. Pratt talked simply but eloquently on "Photography as applied to Science." He spoke of the advantages accruing to medical science through the microscopic pictures of bacteria and germs of disease.

Sub-marine photography is in its infancy, but it will soon be practicable to obtain pictures of the sea caverns. Celestial photography, stellar and lunar has given to the world an indelible record of the heavenly bodies.

One bequest of the 19th century to the 20th is a chart of the heavens made by eighteen European universities at a cost of two millions upon which 50,000,000 stars are recorded.

Mr. Charles E. Finch read a clever paper on the "Origin and Development of Photography" in graphic manner Mr. Finch sketched the wonderful manner in which the camera has been evolved from the old yet simple camera obscura of the early physicists.

The various stages of the growth of the plate were described. For years it was known that chloride of silver spread on paper, exposed to the light and then washed in salt would show a picture, but not until Daguerre was the scheme of practical value. From the daguerreotype with its metal plates to glass plates and the modern film, the progress has been rapid.

Mrs. Follett sang with vivacity and spirit, "The Throstle" by White, responding to a hearty encore.

The usual intermission was taken and then Mr. Follett sang "The Valentine Song" from Faust.

Mr. W. G. Corthell gave a practical demonstration of what modern photography is in the hands of the amateur, showing the pin hole camera with its sensitive plate, the simplest form of the camera, and then the modern Eastman pocket kodak with its finder, lens and roll of films.

Mr. Corthell explained the A B C of photography carefully noting the various points to keep in mind—the exposure, time of day, atmosphere, size of stop, nature of subject and speed of the plate, ending his most interesting talk by a practical demonstration of how quickly a picture can be printed by the improved paper known as "Velox."

The attendance was 71 and the secretary reported 143 paid up memberships. The next meeting will be Friday, March 8, with "The Netherlands," as the subject.

May Robson is having her usual good time with the part she takes in "Lady Huntworth's Experiment." She has only 20 lines to speak, but she looks volumes—a whole comic library, in fact.

Miss Robson is a slavey in the play, and a crisis arrives in her mortal career when she goes to a penny reading in the village. When she appears in the rig with which she proposes to honor the penny reading, she would make angels weep.

Conspicuous among the features of this startling costume are a pair of black gloves which make her hands look like veiled, misshapen fourth cousins of a hand. Miss Robson always buys her gloves in a certain shop in New York and of a certain saleswoman.

When she was accumulating the details of her penny reading costume, she went into the store and found a seat at the counter alongside of the other women who were buying gloves. "Ella," she said to her special saleswoman, "what size gloves do I wear?"

"A 5 1/4 or a 6," said Ella.

"Give me a 5 in black," said Miss Robson firmly.

Ella knows her customer, so she pulled the No. 5 and began to put it on. She tugged and rubbed and rubbed and pulled until she was purple in the face. The glove came about half way up. Miss Robson's hand and squeezed it together until it looked as deformed as a Chinese woman's foot.

Meanwhile the women along the counter were watching the performance, watching it with open scorn and disgust. They said, in looks, that it was the most colossal exhibition of vanity they had ever seen. Those who knew each other said so in words.

After the gloves had been pulled on as far as they would go Miss Robson held her absurd hands up in front of her, regarded them critically and then said:

"Well, I guess they'll do, Ella. Give me half a dozen pairs."

SCALP MASSAGE.

New Treatment For the Hair in Place of Old Fashioned Tonics.

Scalp massage is the latest treatment that lovely woman is undergoing. It is intended to take the place of the old fashioned hair tonic, and the women who undergo the treatment at the fashionable hairdressing shops agree that it is beneficial to the hair and has almost the bracing effect of a Turkish bath in addition.

It takes almost an hour to get a scalp massage, which really includes other things. The theory is that manipulation of the scalp stimulates the roots of the hair better than any amount of liquid tonics applied without such treatment. So an experienced masseuse rubs and kneads the scalp in a thousand ways, moistening her fingers in a tonic solution as she works. Then she straightens out the kinks in the hair, brushes and shampoos it and, last of all, sings it, strand by strand, until every split and bleeding hair is healed.

Dyeing the hair by an electric process after the shampoo is part of the treatment. When it is all over, the subject's head tingles for half a day from the scalp pinching she has undergone. But she usually repeats the process in a week or so.

Spool Mill Eating Up Forests.

At the present rate of the manufacture of spools and other articles the immense white birch forests of Maine cannot last many years. Although the birch forests are extensive the fact that 17 spool mills and a large number of so called novelty mills are eating up the timber at the rate of from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 feet annually excites the apprehension of foresters and manufacturers. The spool mills use about 22,000 cords or 16,000,000 feet of birch annually, turning out 800,000,000 spools each spool large enough to carry 200 yards of thread. The amount of thread that could be wound upon these 800,000,000 spools would reach 3,600 times around the world at the equator and leave a little for mending. About as much spool wood is sent to Europe every year as is manufactured into spools here in Maine. Last year Maine exported about 15,000,000 feet of spool bars, chiefly to Scotland, and of this quantity about one-half was shipped from Bangor. Several million feet of spool bars are also shipped to other parts of the United States where there are spool mills.

A Baby All Her Life.

Miss Ellen Leek, 65 years of age, died recently at Babylon, N. Y. The doctors say the cause of her death was old age. During her life she attracted much attention in medical circles. She never heard a sound, never spoke a word, never walked a step, and the doctors believe she hardly knew any sensation of pain, pleasure or anything else—in fact, that she never realized anything. There appeared to be a total absence of brain activity beyond what was absolutely essential to life. She was never able to feed herself, and the nearest approach to anything normal she is said to have ever attained was when a child she learned to creep. For years she moved about as does an ordinary infant of 8 to 12 months. For many years past, however, she had not been out of bed except when she was lifted out.

CUBANS DISSATISFIED

Do Not Look With Favor Upon Action at Washington

CONVENTION MAY DISSOLVE

Would Mean a Possible Rupture of Friendly Relations With the United States—Amendment Looked Upon as an Attack on Cuban Sovereignty

Havana, March 2.—Several delegates to the Cuban constitutional convention, on hearing last night that congress had adopted the Cuban amendment, said this would not affect the attitude of the convention, as its members would not agree to the scheme of relations with the United States suggested in the amendment.

The action of the United States in adopting the so-called Cuban amendment, defining the relations of Cuba to the United States, has exasperated the delegates and Cubans generally to an extraordinary degree.

It is asserted that the terms of the relations will never be accepted by the Cubans. It was hoped that the house of representatives in Washington would refuse to concur with the senate in adopting the amendment. This hope was killed when it was learned that the house had also adopted the amendment.

The amendment is looked upon as an attack on Cuban sovereignty. The Cubans want complete independence, but are willing to arrange terms afterwards by treaty, as between two independent states.

The so-called Cuban amendment was formulated by the foreign relations committee of the United States senate. It sets forth the terms which the congress of the United States wishes to see embodied in the Cuban constitution as setting forth the relations which should exist between Cuba and the United States. Those relations would give the United States supervision of the treaties made by Cuba with foreign powers. They provide for sites for coaling and naval stations in Cuba, and look toward securing the Isle of Pines for United States territory. They also give the United States the right to intervene in Cuba in certain contingencies.

Senor Capote, president of the convention, called upon Governor General Wood yesterday and informed him that the convention felt itself in an embarrassing position, owing to the vote of the United States senate. He said the delegates had not yet decided whether to continue the sessions or to dissolve.

General Wood advised him to urge the convention not to take any rash action, but to complete its work as originally outlined, drawing up the electoral law.

The delegates later held an informal meeting and, after some discussion, agreed to wait until congress had acted on the Cuban amendment.

The full text of the amendment was received by General Wood Tuesday night, and was given the following morning to Senor Tamayo, chairman of the relations committee. Senor Tamayo said at the time that the committee had reached its conclusions, but he was urged to withhold an announcement of those conclusions until the proposed amendment had been considered in order to avoid the possibility of radical changes of opinion, if the amendment should be adopted.

Eighty British Scouts Captured
London, March 2.—The war office has received the following from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, March 1: "The Wet has been forced north of the Orange river, and is now clear of Cape Colony. Two hundred prisoners have been taken; others who were struggling being captured. Eighty of Kitchener's fighting scouts were attacked by superior numbers, and, after a prolonged fight and sustaining 20 casualties, surrendered."

The Rio de Janeiro Inquiry
San Francisco, March 2.—The federal investigation into the wreck of the steamer Rio de Janeiro was continued yesterday. The questioning brought out the fact that in the boat drills it was customary for the men to go to their positions, but the boats were never taken out of the shoals. Dr. O'Neill, the ship's surgeon, was confident that if the ship had held up five minutes longer all would have been saved, as there was no confusion.

The Nebraska Prison Fire
Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—Nebraska's state penitentiary was almost destroyed by fire, which started at midnight Thursday. The loss will be about $200,000. There was no disorder among the convicts. One convict, George Pfleger, lost his life. The fire originated in a kitchen of the warden's apartments, and spread in all directions through the main building.

Strike Over Pay Time
Shamokin, Pa., March 2.—Twelve hundred men and boys employed at the Shamokin coal company's Natalie colliery went on strike yesterday, because the company, they say, failed to pay them at a specified time Friday afternoon. The colliery is completely tied up.

Carbolic Acid Instead of Oil

American Axes For England
London, March 2.—The war office has made a contract with an American merchant to supply 30,000 felling axes for the British troops in South Africa. English firms being unable to make sufficiently prompt delivery.

Lady Minto and the Nurses.

Canadians who know the facts of the case have been much amused by a story recently published in an eastern paper regarding the movement said to be contemplated by Lady Minto, wife of the governor general, in opposition to the Victorian Order of Nurses. This order was established by Lady Aberdeen when she was in Canada to commemorate the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria, and the facts which prove Lady Minto's interest in the Victorian Order of Nurses are that before coming to Canada the countess expressed to Lady Aberdeen a desire to further the affairs of the order for the relief of the sick and suffering. Since her residence in Canada she has more than kept her word and has never failed to attend the meetings of the board of governors. Lady Minto has also interested herself directly in the work of the local associations and instituted house to house collections for the work in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. The treasurer of the central board recently received a substantial check as a Christmas gift from Lady Minto. At the present time Lady Minto is doing all in her power to promote the erection of cottage hospitals in the unsettled districts of Manitoba, but instead of being in opposition to the Victorian order the nurses for these hospitals are to be supplied entirely from that organization.

What Their Checks Tell.
A cashier who has business dealings with many women says that it is interesting to read the history of the times in the checks which are presented to him. It does not require a knowledge of the people to pick out the checks of the older women from those of the younger. These older women, wives of millionaires and multimillionaires, some of them, were all educated in the same school and in the times when plain, old fashioned names were given to women. There are Mary Ann and Euphemia, Hannah Maria, Sarah Jane, Phoebe Ann, Rebecca, Martha Ann and numerous others seldom to be found now outside old fashioned books. And the checks of the Phoebe Anns and Euphemias it is possible to pick out at a glance from all the others without reading because of the writing. It is as old fashioned as the names. The signatures are written with a fine pen in a delicate, fine hand, small letters, each standing out distinctly and all perfectly legible. It is different with the checks of the daughters of the Mary Anns and Phoebe Anns. Their names cover most of the space on the lower edge of the checks—a big, bold, up and down hand, so sprawling that it is almost impossible to decipher, slashed over the paper, though the names are short in themselves. Saras and Maries who represent another generation.

The Shirt Waist Girl.
The shirt waist girl, like the long horned deer and the little toe of humanity, is perpetually and perennially threatened with extinction. But the shirt waist girl, like the others, just as perpetually and perennially "persists," as the evolutionary scientists have it. One of the most interesting phases of the shirt waist girl question, at least to the uninitiated observer and admirer, man, is that which is evidenced by her perennially changing form. Just at the present time the newspapers and the fashion advertisements have acquainted with the self explanatory phrase, "straight front corset," and every man Jack and gentleman John in all Chicago is smiling and looking wise over the idea. Many of them will smile less and look confounded when the 1901 shirt waist girl breaks upon their sight. Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

And the fashionable form inside of the fashionable shirt waist of the moment is as different from that of last year, from all that have preceded it, as well, as each one of its predecessors was different from all the others which had paved the way for it in other years.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Mrs. Jones Green's Request.
Mrs. Jones Green of Manassas, Va., has bequeathed $100 to the National American Woman Suffrage association. The estate that she left is not large, and $100 is a liberal gift from it. For years Mrs. Green had attended the Washington conventions, and her last appearance in public was at the suffrage convention held there last February. She was an ardent advocate of equal political rights for men and women and was loyal to her principles throughout her life. Miss Anthony feels that Mrs. Green has set a fine example. Other men and women of moderate means would do well to follow it when they can do so without wronging their families.—Woman's Journal.

Modern Woman Retains Her Youth.
Is it that life is easier than it was, or that people refuse to be worried nowadays? A writer in The Outlook says that women keep their good looks much longer than they did. The woman of 40 years is not so old as the woman of 30 was—well, 30 years ago. For this reason, no doubt, and because we are becoming very continental, the married women reign supreme and seem to reign forever. It seems absurd to read in the list of beauties at a ball the names of mothers and daughters included together; but in several instances, if truth were told and justice were done, it might be the daughter's name and not the mother's which would be left out.

The Herb of Grace.
Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema, daughter of the artist, brought out on "the first Sunday of the first month of the first year of the new century" a new periodical called The Herb of Grace. It aims to bring about a return to a simpler life, and its distinctive feature is the absence of advertisements, fashions, personalities and illustrations.

GROWTH OF OUR NAVY.

Interesting Details Regarding Officers and Vessels.

SHIPS THAT ARE NOW BEING BUILT

Counting Vessels Under Construction There Are 293 Ships—Seven First Class Battleships—Resignations and Retirements Last Year. Most Popular Names in Navy.

There is considerable food for reflection in the register of the commissioned and warrant officers of the navy of the United States and of the marine corps which has just come from the printer. It shows a most astonishing growth within the last 15 years. From a handful of officers and ships the navy has increased to 1,838 commissioned officers, 17,500 enlisted men, 2,500 apprentices and, counting the ships under construction, a fleet of 293 vessels.

In the list of first rate commissioned ships are found seven first class battleships, of which the Alabama is the largest; one second class battleship, the Texas; two armored cruisers, the Brooklyn and New York; four protected cruisers, the Columbia, Minneapolis, Chicago and Olympia, and the double turret monitor Puritan. Of second rate ships the converted cruiser Buffalo is the largest and the Boston and Atlanta the smallest. The Yankee heads the list of third raters, with the Annapolis type of composite gunboat at the foot. The navy now owns only six sailing ships and a similar number of receiving vessels. In the unseizable list the New Hampshire, Omaha, Constitution, Ingham, Nipsic, St. Louis, Dale, Minnesota, Marion and Yantic are mentioned.

In the "under construction" class are listed the Georgia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, of 15,000 tons displacement each; the Virginia and Rhode Island, each of 14,000 tons; the Ohio, Maine and Missouri, of 12,500 tons each, and the Wisconsin and Illinois, each of 11,525 tons. These vessels are all battleships of the first class. Also in the "under construction" class are the armored cruisers California, Nebraska and West Virginia, of 14,000 tons; the Maryland, Colorado and South Dakota, of 13,000 tons, and the protected cruisers St. Louis, Milwaukee and Charleston, each of 9,600 tons. There are 4 monitors, 1 gunboat, 16 torpedo boat destroyers, 15 torpedo boats and 7 submarine torpedo boats also on the stocks.

During the year there were 16 resignations, the most important being that of Lieutenant George P. Blow, who was identified with the Maine disaster. In this list were a few naval cadets who were permitted to resign to escape dismissal for inefficiency. The retirements numbered 38 and include two rear admirals, Benjamin F. Day and Alex H. McCormick; six captains, three commanders, seven lieutenant commanders, four medical directors, one pay director and one surgeon. The retirements from the marine corps were two. The death list numbers 33 and includes Rear Admirals Stembel, Sicard, McNair and Philip, Commodore Mayo and three lieutenant commanders. There were two dismissals, and one naval cadet was dropped.

Admiral Dewey is the head of the active list of the navy, and John Adams Howell, president of the retiring board, is the senior officer of the grade of rear admiral. John Joseph Read of the navy yard at Philadelphia is the junior rear admiral. Mortimer Lawrence Johnson, captain of the Boston yard, heads the grade of captain. Captains Crowninshield, Melville, O'Neill and Bradford, who are chiefs of bureaus, have the rank of rear admiral. Altogether there are 70 captains. Of commanders there are 112. The senior officer of that grade is Franklin Hanford, who is the commandant of the naval station at Cavite.

Of the 170 lieutenant commanders Theodore Porter of the naval station at Port Royal is the senior officer. There are 300 lieutenants, with James Henry Glennon of the Vicksburg at the head of the grade. The junior grade lieutenants number 101, the ensigns 111, with the same number of naval cadets.

There are 39 living rear admirals on the retired list, with Thomas Oliver Selfridge at the head; 8 commodores, 6 captains and 24 commanders. The active marine corps includes 1 brigadier general, 10 majors of the general staff, 5 colonels, 5 lieutenant colonels, 10 majors, 50 captains, 58 first lieutenants and 53 second lieutenants. The list shows that the majority of the retired officers live in Washington, but Bancroft Gherardi resides in East Orange, James Entwistle at Paterson, William Campbell Gibson and Charles Stewart Norton in Brooklyn and Joseph Nelson Miller, Alfred Taylor Mahan and Henry Erben in New York city. One, Henry Schuyler Ross, gives his residence as Florence, Italy, but this is a special privilege.

Three rear admirals on the active list were born south of Maryland. They are Silas Wright Terry and John Crittenden Watson of Kentucky and Bartlett Jefferson Cromwell of Georgia. In former years it was unusual to get more than one rear admiral from the south.

The good old name of Smith predominates in the personnel of the navy, with a total of 35. There are 5 Moseses, Reads, Spears, Sawyers, Powells, Phelps, Nelsons and Freemans, 4 Richardsons and Reeds, 3 Wises, Woods, Winslows, Reynolds, Russells, Robinsons and Longs, 9 Hills, 8 Wrights, 17 Browns, 10 Wilsons and Woodses, 18 Williamses, 6 Wellises, Stones and Rogerses, 12 Taylors and Joneses and 13 Millers and Johnsons.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Business in General Appears to Be in a Satisfactory Condition

New York, March 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Jobbing trade in groceries, hardware and iron specialties has further gained in volume in the east since our last report and retail business has been good, except for a slow movement of some descriptions of dry goods, notably clothing. In the west and southwest, however, the season has been satisfactory.

The greatest industrial combination ever arranged, that providing for the union of the leading steel interests, has not directly affected business as yet, and may not do so, otherwise than by removing some of the unnecessary competition from the industry. Meanwhile prices of commodities decline slightly.

Further increase appears in sales of wool at the three chief eastern markets. There is still no reason to believe that the heavy buying results from better conditions at the mills.

Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston were $7,026 cases, against $4,675 in the week preceding, and 100,856 a year ago. Shops have ample work for some time to come.

Curtailed production by southern yarn mills has become general, and at Fall River there is much discussion of the advisability of reducing output or lowering wages. Loss in domestic consumption of raw cotton seems assured, and foreign buying is far from satisfactory. The position of this staple is not made firmer by news that sales of fertilizers surpass all records in many southern states.

Grain markets are firmly maintained. Domestic crop conditions are encouraging.

Prize Fighters Shut Out

San Francisco, March 2.—If Governor Gage signs a bill passed by the assembly, and there is every indication that he will, prize fighting in California will be a thing of the past. The bill makes any sparring contest a felony, punishable by a heavy fine and imprisonment. Provisions of the bill also include those who send or accept challenges, or who carry or deliver such challenges, or accept any, and those who assist pugilists in training for a fight.

Wholesale Theft of Checks

Chicago, March 2.—Checks to an estimated face value of $75,000 have been stolen from various live stock firms with offices in the Exchange building at the stock yards. The thief has so far eluded the police as well as the private detectives employed by the company. Traps have been set for the fellow, but unsuccessfully. The banks have been ordered to stop payment on the checks, which range in amount from $100 to $1000.

The Fight Against Tammany

New York, March 2.—The newly organized city Democracy last night adopted resolutions condemning Tammany leaders for the alleged dispensing of public patronage to the demoralization of legitimate business interests and requesting District Attorney Philbin to ascertain if such action comes within the scope of the criminal law, and if it does to bring the offenders to justice.

Insurgents Got Worst of It

Colon, March 2.—A bloody battle was fought near Maria La Baja between a small force of government troops and 500 insurgents, resulting in a victory for the government troops. The insurgents lost 20 killed and 10 wounded, and the government troops eight officers and seven men killed and many men wounded.

Must Have Been Demented

Deniston, La., March 2.—Henry Warr, a farmer, yesterday killed his son William, cremated the body in the house, which he fired; set fire to his cattle sheds, corn cribs, barn and every building on the place, and then shut himself in the burning barn, where his headless and charred remains were found.

Bank Bookkeeper Arrested

Pittsburg, March 2.—Bank Examiner Shack had C. H. Siedele, individual bookkeeper of the Third National bank of this city, arrested yesterday for an alleged shortage in his accounts of $36,000. Siedele was afterward released on bond pending a more complete examination of the books.

War Veteran Sent to Prison

An Object Lesson For Chinese

Don't Marry.

Almost everybody remembers the celebrated advice of the London Punch, "To those about to marry. Don't." There is in that advice the expression of the feeling of many a mother who says, "I hope my daughter will never marry and suffer as I have."

In ninety-eight cases in every hundred there's no need for this suffering. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause misery. It dries encumbering drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It invigorates the womanly organism, tranquilizes the nerves and gives the mother strength to give her children.

Do not allow an unscrupulous dealer to sell you something in place of "Favorite Prescription," claimed to be "just as good." There is nothing just as good for women as "Favorite Prescription."

"I am so pleased with your instructions, I hardly know what thanks to give you for your kind favors," writes Mrs. Milo Bryant of Lota, St. Thomas Co., Ga. "You can publish my few statements to the world, hoping all suffering women will know and be healed. I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach, and a condition of the heart, that at times I could hardly lie down, and could hardly get up in the morning, but after using three bottles of Favorite Prescription, and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, I feel like a new woman."

A TARGET For 10,000 Eyes.

Of course you do not want to be a target yourself, but not so with your "Ad." You want it seen. An "Ad." in the Ledger will be a daily target for over Ten Thousand Eyes.

If you can attract the eyes of over 5,000 people, day after day; know that you're reaching intelligent, thoughtful people who have money to spend, there is no question but an "Ad." in the Daily Ledger is money well expended and in fact indispensable, especially at the Holiday season.

An "Ad." in Ledger does more than attract, it holds the attention of the shopper

said the most inspiring words ever spoken to him came from a farmer, after his greatest speech: "You never did your best yet!" This didn't mean that Webster was weak; it meant that he had never used the power that was in him. When we criticize your methods we don't mean that they are weak. We mean that you are not getting the most possible out of your business. Experience has proved that advertising pays. Resolve to be a big advertiser in 1901, and increase your business. Better still; begin now and get the Holiday Trade.

While the Warships Are Building

The Daily Ledger hopes to become the Target for 20,000 Eyes. The publishers have improvements constantly in mind, and with the encouragement of Quincy people will print as large and newsy a daily as they are willing to support.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

Comprehensive Plan by Which Millions Will Be Saved.

TO CUT OFF MANY EMPLOYEES.

Recent Consolidations and Affiliations Will Reduce Operating Expenses—Competitive Trains to Be Taken Off—Unnecessary Officials and Agencies to Be Done Away With.

Plans are being worked out by the railroad companies which have been brought together by "community of interest" for making widespread reduction of expenses. Orders have gone forth to dispense with all needless officials in the general offices and soliciting forces, and all unnecessary agencies will be abolished.

This policy is to be vigorously pursued on the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific systems, which have lately been merged; on the Reading and Jersey Central, the Southern railway and Mobile and Ohio, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, Gould and Kansas and Texas systems and the railroads affiliated with the Pennsylvania.

It has further been decided to cut down as far as possible the actual operating expenses of railroads by taking off useless trains and applying the "per ton mile" method so successfully practiced by President James J. Hill of the Great Northern. Still more than this is planned by the financiers who control the leading railroads of the country. Economical methods are to be introduced for handling the anthracite and bituminous coal output, which is mainly owned or controlled by the railroad companies.

Many traffic officials have been summoned to New York during the past few days to give advice in regard to the reduction of prices. Several conferences have been held between the heads of leading railroads with a view to co-operating with one another and adopting uniform methods.

It is generally conceded that the need of associations has largely disappeared since a handful of bankers assumed absolute sway of a few big groups of railroads. It is now an easy matter, says the New York Mail and Express, to give orders for the maintenance of rates, and the establishment of a few joint agencies in the place of a great array of competing staffs will follow.

Only an estimate of the probable economies can be given at present. The community of ownership and absorption of one road by another will result in the dispensing with perhaps 3,000 men in the general offices, including some high salaried officials. At an average of, say, $800 here is a saving of $2,400,000 a year. Probably 5,000 agents and solicitors will be done away with when the full programme is carried out from one end of the country to another. Here is a further saving of $2,500,000.

In operating crews, by reason of cutting off useless competitive trains and regulating the size of trains according to the traffic to be carried, perhaps 12,000 men can be dispensed with, thereby effecting a further saving of $6,000,000 a year. This would result in a total curtailment of 20,000 men in the regular railroad service.

The amount saved by economy of rolling stock and maintenance of stable rates and abolishment of commissions will, it is estimated, be many millions of dollars a year, without any advance in traffic schedules. But community of ownership has in all cases been followed by moderate advances in rates, so that in this item there will be the largest gain in net revenue. The increase to the railroads of the United States from higher rates is estimated by some as high as $50,000,000 a year.

In the proposed rehabilitation of the anthracite trade, providing for the joint handling of the entire output, some have figured out a saving of 50 cents a ton, or about $25,000,000 a year. There will also be a correspondingly large increase in the profits of bituminous coal through a concentration of interests such as is under way.

This, it is claimed, is a comprehensive scheme for the saving of upward of $100,000,000 a year in the operation of the railroads and kindred industries.

Chairmen of all the passenger associations in the United States held a conference at Chicago recently for the purpose of organizing for their own membership a protective association for the prevention of frauds of all kinds upon the passenger departments of the roads. The efforts of the new association will be directed especially against manipulation of tickets by scalpers in such a way as to deprive the roads of a large amount of revenue. All efforts heretofore made to suppress ticket scalping have proved fruitless, and all hopes of preventing the practice to pass an antiticket scalping law have practically been abandoned. It was therefore deemed necessary, to drive ticket scalpers out of the market, to unite all the passenger associations in the work. It is understood the new association of chairmen will undertake the enforcement of the various state laws prohibiting ticket scalping and will investigate all cases of alteration of tickets, forgery of signatures, alteration of destination, etc. It is also proposed that the new association shall use its utmost efforts to have tariff rates strictly maintained by all roads.

The practice, not uncommon among traffic officials, of naming lower than tariff rates for testing the market, or, in other words, getting at a basis from which to judge about what rates are being made by other lines, is to be stopped by the executives of the leading freight associations. The chairmen of these associations have sent to all the roads that are members of the various committees a request that they be given written assurances that they will prohibit agents and employees from continuing the practice, which is productive of demoralization of rates and, instead of being considered merely as an inquiry to find out what, if any, rate less than tariff will take the business, has come to be regarded as a definite proposition to control the route. If this custom of testing the market is stopped, another important step looking toward rate maintenance will then have been taken.

Officials of the Pennsylvania are not anxious over the attempts to oust the company from continuing its relief department. An attorney of the company says: "Our association was attacked on all grounds shortly after it was organized. A scheme of railroad relief fund has repeatedly been the subject of judicial consideration and investigation and has generally been sustained."

THE FIRE ORDEAL.

Americans in Japan and Hawaii Solve the Mystery.

Not long ago the American minister to Japan and some members of his party, visiting a Shinto temple, imitated the priests of the temple by walking barefoot over what was apparently a bed of live coals. It was explained at the time that the surface of the bed of coals was covered by a thin layer of some substance which was a bad conductor of heat, but through which the light of the fire below would show at night, the time when such performances take place.

Now Corporal Murray of the Sixth artillery, stationed in Honolulu, has proved again that Americans can pass unscathed through the ordeal of fire. There came to Honolulu lately a magician who calls himself "Papa Ita," the great Tahitian fire walker. Papa Ita's great feat consists in walking barefooted over lava stones under which fires have been burning for hours. He impressed the native Hawaiians with the fact that he was a wonder among magicians, and their contributions flowed in to him so profusely that one might suppose he need not fear that he would have to work as long as he staid in Honolulu. But the act of Corporal Murray has aroused the suspicions of the natives now as to whether Papa Ita is a real "Kali na." If he is, then Corporal Murray is one also. Meantime the contributions are falling off, and Papa Ita talks of leaving the island.

It was at a big special fire walking performance that the corporal did his "trick." Papa Ita had walked over the presumably white hot stones amid the wonder and awe of the spectators, when suddenly off came Corporal Murray's shoes, and he followed the magician across the stones in his stocking feet, suffering no harm. Immediately there was a row. The manager of Papa Ita "went for" the corporal, and the corporal pummeled the manager, the exhibition breaking up in a free fight, with nothing magical about it.

Papa Ita's performance apparently is different from that given by the Shintoists, but it also is evident that Corporal Murray is an observing man and "caught on" to the secret of the Tahitian's seemingly wonderful feat.

FOOTBALL AND STUDY.

Schoolboy Takes Examination to Refute Statement by Professor.

Thomas J. Cowgill of Chicago, who plays left tackle on the North Division High School team, took a special examination at the Arnold school recently to refute the theory advanced by Professor O. S. Westcott that a member of a football team could not pass an ordinary examination. Professor Westcott is also the discoverer of the "football face" and has repeatedly denounced the game. The members of the football team selected Cowgill, and his examination was on zoology, English literature, Latin and mathematics.

"The questions were fairly easy," said young Cowgill, "and I have no doubt but that I passed. I took the examination on a banter. Professor Westcott stated the other day that if a member of the football team should prove himself sufficiently well versed in his studies to pass the examination he would pay all the expenses of the team next year. The offer was too good to let go by, so the other boys agreed that I should make the test."

Made Deaf by a Sneeze.

Louise Gibbons, a girl of 22 years, who is at the head of the inspection room at the Winsted (Conn.) Hosiery company, was suddenly stricken with deafness a few days ago as the result of a sneeze. She visited Dr. George W. Brown and in writing told him what had happened to her. An examination showed that she had had a hemorrhage in the labyrinth of each ear. Dr. St. John of Hartford says Miss Gibbons will never hear again unless there is a chance for the better in her condition inside of two weeks.

Victoria Foundation For Women.

The National Institute of Philadelphia, an association formed for promoting the higher education of women, has determined to raise a fund for the establishment of university scholarships that shall bear the name Victoria Foundation and which shall serve to keep before young women of the future the high ideal of womanliness and domestic virtues coupled with the studious and progressive spirit exemplified in the life and character of the late queen of England.

Clever and Well Groomed.

George Meredith is reputed to be the best dressed and best groomed literary man in England. He is much in demand socially especially at dinner tables, where his clever extempore oratory distinguishes him.

VIOLET CULTURE.

By a Phenomenally Successful Grower—Prevention of "Spot."

"From the middle of February to the middle of March we select young plants, those having white roots, from good, healthy crowns. These will be found in abundance on good clumps, especially Campbell. These we put in boxes filled with soil. No manure is used. Our object is to get plenty of good working roots. This will pay for the extra labor if only to combat the red spider alone, the great scourge of the violet grower.

"Here we have a large lot of plants in a small space, easily syringed and cared for. Use boxes in preference to setting the plants in beds, as the soil dries out sooner in boxes, allowing us to syringe them oftener. This is impossible with plants left on the crowns until after the blooming season, as so much water would spoil the flower for Easter. These plants are shaded from strong sunlight and handled as cuttings until they have become thoroughly established in the boxes. Give them plenty of fresh air, but avoid a strong draft. In ventilating our houses during the winter months we always open the ventilators on the opposite side from which the wind is blowing. Never neglect these young plants, for upon them largely depends your future failure or success." This advice is that of a phenomenally successful eastern grower given before a convention of horticulturists. Condensing his further remarks, we arrive at the following facts:

About the middle of May he begins taking out the old plants and all soil put in the previous year. After all decayed lumber has been replaced with new he closes all ventilators, making the house as tight as possible, allowing the temperature to run as high as the bright sun of this season of the year will make it. After a day or two of this, when the house cools down at night, there is a fine incubator for insects and fungus.

He leaves the house in this condition for two or three bright days, then in the evening takes in a liberal amount of sulphur and sets it on fire, making a thorough fumigation; in the morning opens the ventilators, giving the house plenty of fresh air, and then has a house as fresh and clean as when new.

The new beds are made of sod about an inch thick, grass side down, covered with two inches of quite coarse cornstalk manure brought from the cow yard in early spring and turned twice, with four inches of good soil on this. No fertilizer or manure of any kind is mixed with this. Before setting plants the house is shaded with thin white-wash with a little salt in it, followed by a coat of light colored clay mixed with water.

Boxes of young plants are now brought in. These plants are set 12 inches apart each way in order to grow them large, with good, long stems. As soon as the plants are in the beds receive a good wetting and are carefully syringed late in the afternoon or early evening notwithstanding good authority to the contrary. No tobacco, soap, nothing but clear water, is used to keep them clean through the summer.

About Aug. 1 water is withheld at night, spraying them in early morning. Every effort is made to keep plants in best condition, for the "spot" season is approaching. About the middle of August they receive a top dressing from the same heap used in filling the beds. "We make special mention of cornstalk manure, as we find this to contain little or no fungus and is never too strong to hurt anything. To our minds overfertilization is one of the great stumbling blocks of violet growing."

About Sept. 1 plants and houses are cleaned up ready for the blooming season, beginning about the middle of September. The object is to get a good crop about the 1st of October, before they become very plentiful, and to supply the retail dealer every day thereafter till after Easter. This mode of culture is for the Lady Campbell variety. Marie Louise needs different treatment.

A Popular House Plant.

Oonshin, the Japanese seedless or Satsuma variety of orange, of which Vick gives the accompanying illustration, appears likely to rival the pretty and popular Oranthe as a house plant. Such good authority as Pomologist H. E. Van Deman has stated in Gardening that it "is one of the finest of all the citrus fruits for house culture and one of the hardiest as well. If budded on trifoliata stock, which is now a very common practice, it dwarfs the tree in some measure and also makes it more able to resist cold. The fruit is small, but delicious and attractive."

The Japanese Plums.

Every variety of Japanese plum has a tendency to overproduction, which frequently kills the young tree. Both as a protection to the young tree and for securing good, large, marketable fruit at least one-half of the crop should be removed soon after the fruit is set, says one authority.

RESTROOMS FOR WOMEN.

Latest Innovation in New York's Big Office Buildings.

A restroom for women employees is the latest thing in New York skyscrapers. There are girls by the score in these big buildings. Most of them are stenographers, bookkeepers and typewriters. It is not at all common for 100 of them to be employed in a single office building. Given 100 girls, and there's no end to the things that might, could or would happen to them. The restroom, says the New York Sun, is for the purpose of meeting these possible emergencies.

The best example of one of these rooms is in a building in William street. There are 130 girls employed in the offices in this building. On the seventh floor are two large rooms and an alcove which are set apart for the comfort and convenience of these girls. In one of them are marble basins, soap, towels, mirrors and, although the reporter did not see any silver backed hairbrushes or chased and engraved manicure instruments, they may have been there notwithstanding.

The other room is large, light and high, with an alcove at one side. This apartment is carpeted. There are easy chairs and a desk, a leather couch and a closet full of shelves. Last, but by no means least, there is a matron. She is a buxom dame, neat and rosy and ample. Her eyes and her smile and her little brass buttons vie with one another for brightness, and her white apron could stand alone without half trying.

This restroom represents a good deal of cold cash. Offices and large buildings in that neighborhood rent for from $1.50 to $2.50 a square foot. Excluding the washroom and including the alcove there is certainly 300 square feet of floor space in this restroom. Anybody can see that this is therefore no empty courtesy.

TAGGED FISH.

Thousands at Large Bearing Uncle Sam's Ownership Brand.

It seems rather an odd idea to fasten metal tags to marine fishes and then let them loose in the ocean with the idea of identifying them as individuals in case they happen to be caught at a future time, but this is what the United States fish commission is doing just now with cod, 1,500 of which have been duly tagged and released this year.

No two tags are alike, the markings on them being stamped in a series of letters and numbers, a record of which is kept in a book in such a manner that if a tagged codfish turns up a moment's reference to the memoranda will furnish the history of that particular specimen, with date of liberation, weight, etc. For example, a cod wearing a tag with the raised inscription "S 109" has a complete identification card, so that she cannot be mixed up with any other fish entered in the commission's ledger.

Only "brood fish"—that is, spawning females—are tagged. They are bought from fishermen, stripped of their eggs at Wood's Holl, Mass., and liberated in the waters of Vineyard sound after having the tags attached to them. The tag, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, is a small piece of copper securely fastened by a wire placed through a fin near its juncture with the body. It does not matter which fin is chosen, though a back or tail fin is the best. The tag is very light, and its attachment in the manner described does no harm whatever to the fish.

Jack Rabbit Outruns Greyhound.

A jack rabbit-greyhound chase, with a carload of coal as an inducement, resulted in much interesting sport for a party of gentlemen who assembled at the jack rabbit park of General W. H. Gentry on the Russell Cave road, near Lexington, Ky., recently, says The Herald of that place. General Gentry has a rabbit which he has named "Teddy Roosevelt" and which the general considers as good a racer as one can find on the rabbit turf. Mr. A. B. Hutchcraft of Barbourville, Ky., general manager of the Knox-Gem coal company, has an imported greyhound which he thought could outrun "Teddy Roosevelt." He was willing to back his judgment by an offer of a carload of Knox-Gem coal. General Gentry accepted the match, and the two, with Colonel H. M. Camp of Knoxville, went out to General Gentry's place, where the chase was had in a 12 acre field. "Teddy Roosevelt" was started off, but with the greyhound after him, but "Teddy" always remained in the lead, and after fully exhausting himself in his efforts to land upon the rabbit the greyhound abandoned the chase, and the general won the carload of coal. At all stages the race was beautiful, and the watchers could scarcely suppress their enthusiasm.

Laws For Lawyers.

The State Bar association of Wisconsin has adopted a code of ethics as a basis for future disbarment proceedings. Attorneys are urged to refrain from criticising the acts of judges. Excessive hospitality toward judges by lawyers is condemned. All lawyers are urged to refrain from attributing legal defeats to the incapacity or the prejudice of the judge. Newspaper advertisements, circulars and business cards by attorneys are declared to be legitimate.

New Use For Aluminum.

Aluminum is to be put to new uses. In France it will be made into paper, as sheets one four-thousandth of an inch have been rolled, which will not oxidize and are practically fire and water proof and indestructible by worms. A fresh impulse to its use for cooking utensils has been given—that aluminum vessels heat more rapidly than others and retain heat longer, causing a saving of 45 per cent in fuel as well as economy in time.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Tale of a Tipper.
 He tipped the porter on the train.
 He tipped the waiter when he ate;
 He tipped the able-bodied man
 Who tossed his satchel through the gate.
 He had to tip the chambermaid;
 The buttoned bellboy, too, he tipped
 For bringing water that was tepid
 To thoughtless fools who freely sipped.
 He had to tip for sleeping, and
 He had to tip for things to eat;
 He had to tip to get a chance
 To occupy a decent seat.

They made him tip to get the things
 He paid enough to get to start,
 And every tip was like a nip
 Of some sharp fanged thing at his heart.
 And while he tipped they fanned on him
 And stood in smiling groups about,
 But when his change was gone, at last
 They turned and coldly tipped him out.
 —Chicago Times-Herald.

A New Experience.
 "Where's the servant?" asked Mr. Caloway.
 "I discharged her," answered his wife apprehensively.
 "What did she do?"
 "She took her wages and went away without a word!"
 "I'm a wonder if we hadn't better try to get her back. Anybody as gentle and obedient as that ought to prove a jewel!"—Washington Star.

A Word to the Wise, Etc.
 "I wish," said the heathen king, "that our foreign friends would not put so many suspender buttons in their collections."
 "So do I," responded the chief of the commissary department. "A few cork screws would be an excellent substitute occasionally."—Baltimore American.

The Reason.
 Little George (to debt collector)—Father isn't in, but he told me to ask you to call tomorrow.
 Collector—He will be at home then, will he?
 George—No, sir; he'll be out. That's why he told me to tell you to call then.—New York World.

Similar, but Different.
 Miles—Do you believe that history really repeats itself?
 Giles—Yes, with the exception of a man's personal history.
 Miles—Why the exception?
 Giles—In the latter case it is repeated by the man's neighbors.—Chicago Daily News.

Her Choice.
 "He need not come with wealth," she sighed.
 "He need not come with fame;
 All that I ask him to provide
 Is an untainted name."
 She kept her word; although he dares
 Not challenge, or invite Attention to his past, he bears
 The spotless name of White.
 —Chicago Times-Herald.

Looking Forward.
 Daughter—Yes, he proposed to me and made me just shudder.
 Mother—Why, he has a fair income and is quite respectable.
 "Ah, but, mamma, how could I trust my whole future to a man so reckless and impudent as to want to marry?"—Life.

He Had to Leave.
 "That clerk in the book department didn't keep his job a week."
 "What was the trouble?"
 "He was too stupid. One day an old gentleman came in and said, 'Have you a Chance?' and he replied, 'No, sir; I don't chew.'"
 —Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Only Real Danger.
 "Do you think," inquired the strict Sabbatharian, "that a man may go fishing on Sunday and still be a good Christian?"
 "Certainly," replied the man who was given to that sort of thing, "provided his luck isn't bad enough to make him too profane."—Catholic Standard.

A Pessimist.
 The man who's born a kicker never learns to mend his ways;
 No matter what may happen, he finds naught to earn his praise.
 If you praise the golden weather, he will simply howl and hum
 And say, "Till mail the cold waves feel more chilly when they come."
 —Washington Star.

Convenient Memory.
 "Old Grabb says he always remembers the poor," remarked Mrs. Goodart.
 "Yes," replied Mr. Goodart, "but he can't remember more than one thing at once. When he remembers the poor, he forgets his pocketbook, and vice versa."—Philadelphia Press.

Her Carelessness.
 "Why did that young man leave so suddenly?" asked Maude.
 "It was my fault," answered Mamie.
 "I thoughtlessly got to talking about the beautiful autumn haze by the river. I forgot he was a West Point cadet."—Washington Star.

Intellectual Ability.
 The evidences of intellectual ability affect different people in different ways.
 "How long," said the surly contractor to the son he was sending to college, "will you have to study before you can wear spectacles?"—Philadelphia Times.

The Longbow.
 The sportsman may brag of the glory
 He's found in the chase, but, forsooth,
 The fellow who tells a bear story
 Completely ignores the bare truth.
 —Philadelphia Press.

Couldn't Beat Her.
 Mrs. Newbush—Just see the new diamond sunburst my husband has given me!
 Mrs. Go-one-better—Humph! My husband has just given me a solar system sunburst.—New York Evening Sun.

As Usual.
 "What are you folks in the country preparing to do this year?" inquired the business man.
 "The summer boarder, as usual," replied the candid farmer.—Philadelphia Record.

His Only Chance.
 "Your son has a very robust appetite."
 "Yes, I'm so ashamed of him. He always overeats when we have company."
 "That's the only chance I ever got," said the terrible infant.—New York World.

A Simple Formula.
 Who has his collar button lost
 The chase need never give o'er,
 Barefooted, let him close his eyes,
 And pronounce the floor.
 —Chicago Record.

M'KINLEY'S SECOND INAUGURATION.

He Reviews the Past and Looks Into the Future, Reiterates Promises Regarding Cuba and the Philippines. Thirty-One Thousand Men in Inaugural Parade.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

HON. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Washington, March 4.—The second inauguration of William McKinley as President of the United States was the most artistic and elaborate ever known in American history. A considerable number of its features were unique and unprecedented.

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER.

President McKinley took the oath of office in the presence of an assembled multitude at 12 noon. His inaugural address follows:

My Fellow Citizens: When we assembled here on the fourth of March, 1897, there was great anxiety with regard to our currency and credit. None exists now. Then our treasury receipts were inadequate to meet the current obligations of the government. Now they are sufficient for all public needs and we have a surplus instead of a deficit. Then I felt constrained to convene the congress in extraordinary session to devise revenues to pay the ordinary expenses of the government. Now I have the satisfaction to announce that the congress just closed has reduced taxation in the sum of $41,000,000. Then there was a deep solitude because of the long depression in our manufacturing, mining, agricultural and mercantile industries and the consequent distress of our laboring population. Now every avenue of production is crowded with activity, labor is well employed, and American products find good markets at home and abroad.

JOHN JOY EDSON.

Our diversified productions, however, are increasing in such unprecedented volume as to admonish us of the necessity of still further enlarging our foreign markets by broader commercial relations. For this purpose reciprocal trade arrangements with other nations should in liberal spirit be carefully cultivated and promoted. The national verdict of 1896 has for the most part been executed. Whatever remains unfulfilled is a continuing obligation resting with undiminished force upon the executive and congress. But fortunate as our condition is, its permanence can only be assured by sound business methods and strict economy in national administration and legislation. We should not permit our great prosperity to lead us to reckless ventures in business or profligacy in public expenditures. While the congress determines the objects and the sum of appropriations, the officials of the executive departments are responsible for honest and faithful disbursement, and it should be their constant care to avoid waste and extravagance.

Honesty, capacity and industry are no where more indispensable than in public employment. These should be fundamental requisites to original appointment, and the surest guarantees against removal.

Four years ago we stood on the brink of war without the people knowing it, and without any preparation or effort at preparation for the impending peril. I did all that in honor could be done to avert the war, but without avail. It became inevitable, and the congress, at its first regular session, without party division, provided money in anticipation of the crisis and in preparation to meet it. It came. The result was signally favorable to American arms, and in the highest degree honorable to the government. It imposed upon us obligations from which we cannot escape and from which it would be dishonorable to seek to escape. We are now at peace with the world, and it is my fervent prayer that, if differences arise between us and other powers, they may be settled by peaceful arbitration, and that hereafter we may be spared the horrors of war.

TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

Our Country Is United
Entrusted by the people for a second time with the office of president, I enter upon its administration appreciating the great responsibilities which attach to this honor and commission, promising unreserved devotion to my part to their faithful discharge, and reverently invoking for my guidance the direction of Almighty God. I take them on our flags nor facilitate their adjustment. Distrust of the capacity, integrity and high purpose of the American people will not be an inspiring theme for future political contests. Dark pictures and gloomy forebodings are worse than useless. These only becloud; they do not help to point the way of safety and honor. "Hope maketh not ashamed." The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crisis have they saved it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation, and the faith of their descendants has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders.

The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by seeing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension, and our sense of justice will not abate under tropical suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God will "take oc-castion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet."

If there are those among us who would make our way more difficult, we must not be disheartened, but the more earnestly dedicate ourselves to the task upon which we have rightly entered. We will be consoled with the fact that opposition has confronted every onward movement of the republic from its opening hour with now, but without success. Surely after 125 years of achievement for mankind we will not now surrender our equality with other powers on matters fundamental and essential to nationality. With no such purpose was the nation created. In no such spirit has it developed its full and independent sovereignty. We adhere to the principle of equality among ourselves, and by no act of ours will we assign to ourselves a subordinate rank in the family of nations.

My fellow citizens, the public events of the past four years have gone into history. They the two near to justify recital. Some of them were unforeseen; many of them momentous and far-reaching in their consequences to ourselves and our relations with the rest of the world. The part which the United States bore so honorably in the thrilling scenes in China, while new to American life, has been in harmony with its true spirit and best traditions, and in dealing with the results its policy will be that of moderation and fairness.

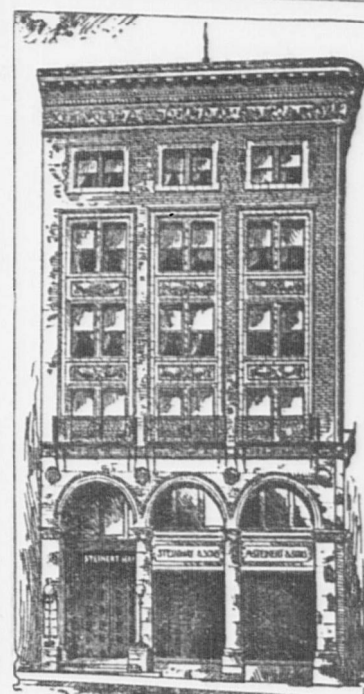

"Free Cuba" Will Be a Reality
We face at this moment a most important question—that of the future relations of the United States and Cuba.

GENERAL FRANCIS V. GREENE.

With our near neighbors we must remain close friends. The declaration of the purpose of this government, in the resolution of April 20, 1898, must be made good. Ever since the evacuation of the island by the army of Spain the executive, with all practicable

speed, has been assisting its people in the successive steps necessary to the establishment of a free and independent government, prepared to assume and perform the obligations of international law which now rests upon the United States under the treaty of Paris. The convention elected by the people to frame a constitution is approaching the completion of its labors.

The transfer of American control to the new government is of such great importance, involving an obligation resulting from our intervention and the treaty of peace, that I am glad to be advised by the recent act of congress of the policy which the legislative branch of the government deems essential to the best interests of Cuba and the United States. The principles which led to our intervention require that the fundamental law upon which the new government should rest should be adapted to secure government capable of performing the duties and discharging the functions of a separate nation, of observing its international obligations, of protecting life and property, insuring order, safety and liberty, and conforming to the established and historical policy of the United States in its relations with Cuba.

The peace which we are pledged to leave to the Cuban people must carry with it the guarantee of permanence. We became sponsors for the pacification of the island, and we remain accountable to the Cubans, no less than to our own country and people, for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth on abiding foundations of right, justice, liberty and assured order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall be a reality, not a name; a perfect entity; not a hasty experiment, bearing within itself the elements of failure.

Self-Government For Filipinos
While the treaty of peace with Spain was ratified on Feb. 6, 1899, and ratifications were exchanged nearly two years ago, the congress has indicated no form of government for the Philippine Islands. It has, however, provided an army to enable the executive to suppress insurrection, restore peace, give security to the inhabitants and establish the authority of the United States throughout the archipelago. It has authorized the organization of native troops as auxiliary to the regular force. It has been advised from time to time of the acts of the military and naval officers in the islands of my action in appointing civil commissions, of the instructions with which they were charged, of their duties and powers, of their recommendations and of their several acts under executive commission, together with the very complete general information they have submitted. These reports fully set forth the conditions, past and present, in the islands, and the instructions clearly show the principles which will guide the executive until the congress shall, as it is required to do so by the treaty, determine "the civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants."

The congress having added the sanction of its authority to the powers already possessed and exercised by the executive under the constitution, thereby leaving the executive the responsibility for the government of the Philippines, I shall continue the efforts already begun until order shall be restored throughout the islands, and as fast as conditions permit will establish local governments, in the formation of which the full co-operation of the people has been already invited, and when established will encourage the people to administer them.

The settled purpose, long ago proclaimed, to afford the inhabitants of the islands self government as fast as they were ready for it, will be pursued with earnestness and fidelity. Already something has been accomplished in this direction. The government representatives, civil and military, are doing faithful and noble work in their mission of emancipation, and merit the approval and support of their countrymen. The most liberal terms of amnesty have already been communicated to the insurgents, and the way is still open for those who have rested their arms against the government, for honorable submission to its authority.

Our countrymen should not be deceived. We are not waging war against the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands. A portion of them are making war against the United States. By far the greater part of the inhabitants recognize American sovereignty and welcome it as a guarantee of order and security to life, property, liberty, freedom of conscience and the pursuit of happiness. To them full protection will be given. They shall not be abandoned. We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions in the islands to the disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States. Order under civil institutions will come as soon as those who now break the peace shall keep it. Force will not be needed or used when those who make war against us shall make it no more. May it end without further bloodshed and there be ushered in the reign of peace to be made permanent by a government of liberty under law.

THE PAST AND FUTURE

Roosevelt Has Faith In Our Ability To Bear Our Share of Burden

At 11:50 occurred the inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt as vice president. The ceremony in the senate chamber was attended by the president and a distinguished company. Vice President Roosevelt said:

The history of free government is in large part the history of those representative legislative bodies in which, from the earliest times, free government has found its loftiest expression. They must ever hold a peculiar and exalted position in the record which tells how the great nations of the world have endeavored to achieve and preserve orderly freedom. No man can render to his fellows greater service than is rendered by him who, with fearlessness and honesty, with sanity and disinterestedness, does his life work as a member of such a body.

WAITING MARCHING ORDERS.

Especially is this the case when the legislature in which the service is rendered is a vital part in the governmental machinery of one of those world powers to whose hands, in the course of the ages, is entrusted a leading part in shaping the destinies of mankind.

For weal or for woe, for good or for evil, this is true of our own mighty nation. Great privileges and great powers are ours, and heavy are the responsibilities that go with these privileges and these powers. Accordingly as we do well or ill, so shall mankind in the future be raised or cast down. We belong to a young nation, already of giant strength, yet whose present strength is but a forecast of the power that is to come. We stand supreme in a continent, in a hemisphere. East and west we look across the two great oceans toward the larger world life, in which, whether we will or not, we must take an ever increasing share.

And, as, keen eyed, we gaze into the coming years, duties, new and old, rise thick and fast to confront us from within and from without. There is every reason why we should face these duties with a sober appreciation alike of their importance and of their difficulty. But there is also every reason for facing them with high hearted resolution and eager and confident faith in our capacity to do them aright. A great work lies ready to the hand of this generation; it should count itself happy indeed that to it is given the privilege of doing such a work. A leading part therein must be taken by this, the august and powerful legislative body over which I have been called to preside. Most deeply I appreciate the privilege of my position; for high indeed is the honor of presiding over the American senate at the outset of the 20th century.

THE PARADE

New Features of Decoration an Improvement Over Previous Displays
The parade, both military and civic, is a large one. An unusual number of veterans of the Civil war are marching under the command of General Sickles. For the first time since the inauguration of Grant, the military and naval cadets are in line. There are more corporations than there were in 1897, and a greater variety of societies and clubs of various kinds.

One particularly pleasant feature of this inauguration is that it is in no

sense a partisan one—members of both political parties being on all committees. There are not nearly as many political clubs in the parade as there were four years ago.

Another conspicuous improvement is the absence of bunting and drapery. The committee from the first took a decided stand against over-decoration. It created a sentiment against the use of the flag for merely decorative purposes. The American flag should be held too sacredly to wrap about posts or trim store windows. There are only a few flags, and these are properly placed. They wave from poles and are clustered in groups at the top of the pylons.

A thin strip of orange bunting is tacked behind the framework on the railing of the stands to improve their appearance by a slight uniform line of color. In the presidential reviewing stand there are a few decorations made from burling of a peculiar weave and secured especially for that purpose. No other color is used except vermilion on the eaves and exposed rafters. Carloads of snail, brought from Florida, are used for this purpose.

At every previous inauguration the White House has been obscured by unsightly stands. On this occasion the stands are artistic, and erected across the entrance to side streets instead of in front of the president's mansion.

A specially chosen committee of artists and architects designed an entire new feature for the approach to the White House. It is called "the court of honor" and is formed by the erection of two parallel rows of pylons, 47 feet in height. These are very similar to the tall pillars used in New York on either side of the Dewey arch.

The Civil war veterans' organization, the Grand Army, the Union Veterans' Union and the Union Veterans' Legion, which, by special request of the president, acted as his escort from the White House to the Capitol, did not return with the grand parade after the ceremonies at the Capitol had been concluded.

The veterans in question were dismissed after performing escort duty to the Capitol, and will reassemble on the west side of the White House grounds at 5 o'clock, after which they will march past the president in review.

First in line in the parade came a platoon of policemen, followed by the Governor's Island band.

Next came the grand marshal, Major General Greene, U. S. V. His staff consisted of A. N. Blakeman, chief of staff; Lieutenant Colonel Johnston, U. S. A.; Lieutenant Colonel Chamberlain, U. S. A.; Major Thompson, U. S. A.; Brigadier General Day, U. S. A.; Lieutenant Overton, U. S. A.; and a corps of mounted aides.

Troop A of Ohio came next, forming the personal escort of the president.

Then came President McKinley's carriage, followed by the remainder of the presidential party in carriages. The military grand division came next, including infantry, artillery, marines, cadets, militia, etc.

The Massachusetts provisional regiment is placed near the head of the third division, which is commanded by Major General Joseph Wheeler.

The order of the leading organizations in this third division is as follows: First brigade, Brigadier General King, U. S. V. marshal.

Governor Voorhies of New Jersey, A. C. Oliphant, adjutant, and staff.

Provisional regiment of New Jersey national guard, Colonel Gilmore commanding.

Battery of light artillery, Captain Lee commanding.

Essex troop, Captain Parker commanding.

Georgia artillery of Savannah, Captain Simmons commanding.

Governor McLean of Connecticut, Colonel Sanders, assistant adjutant general, and his staff.

Provisional regiment First Heavy artillery, Massachusetts National guard, Major Nutter commanding.

The West Point cadets created a fine impression by their magnificent bearing.

The Porto Rican battalion of native troops attracted considerable attention. Their evolutions evoked much enthusiasm from the large crowd of visitors. A native band accompanied the battalion.

A Greenback Harvest

It is likely that there are 175,000 visitors in the city. The streets are full and the railway stations jammed with incomers.

Everybody seems to have money. Although the restaurants have raised the prices to everybody except their regular patrons, and a 5-cent cigar, for example, costs 10 cents, there is no complaint.

Nine lean months, until congress meets again, are coming in Washington, and the visitors to the inaugurations are legitimate prey. The hotels have trebled their rates. The hotel men admit it and ask: "What are you going to do about it?"

Every hotel is crowded to the roof. At one hotel a $5-a-day room costs $20 a day, and others in proportion. The inn keepers in addition make the guest take his room for five days. Boarding house keepers, of whom there are thousands in this city, have not made such a great advance.

Wagon loads of cots have been going through the streets. Each cot means at least $2 a night to the person who lets it. The inauguration committee has a rooming agency, where visitors can get good rooms at fair prices, but if the visitor wants to be in a hotel or in the centre of the city he must pay for the privilege.

The saloon men will profit less than the others, for Sunday they did very little business. They are not discouraged, however, and have put in extended bars and hired extra bartenders.

The same sort of preparations for reaping the greenback harvest are noticeable everywhere. If any visitor gets away with money in his pocket it will not be because there has not been a united and powerful effort to induce him to leave it there.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution. It is a simple, safe, and sure cure. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ESCAPED BY SWIMMING

De Wet and His Invaders Have Wiggled Out of Cape Colony

London, March 4.—General De Wet lost heavily in men and stores by his invasion into Cape Colony, but seems to have made a clever escape with the bulk of his commando. Apparently Commandant Hertzog crossed the Orange river with him. General Hamilton, who was pursuing, heard that General De Wet was surrounded at Philippstown, northwest of Colesberg. On arriving there he found that the Boers had not been at Philippstown at all, but had doubled back and were struggling across the river at Colesberg. Apparently this is another instance of defective intelligence regarding the doings of the Boers.

A Peculiar Blunder

London, March 4.—An almost unexampled case of official blundering is reported from Liverpool. The war office was under the impression that the Liverpool volunteers were still in South Africa, and kept a new special service corps on waiting orders until it could be ascertained whether the Liverpool volunteers required strengthening. The Liverpool volunteers returned to Liverpool four months ago.

Winding Up of Snake Trouble
Muskegon, I. T., March 4.—Clitto Harjo and his band of Snake Indians, as agreed, have all pleaded guilty to conspiracy. They were sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary and a fine of $250 each, but the court agreed to suspend sentence if they would go to their homes and not commit any such acts again.

Went Through the Ice
Pawtucket, R. I., March 4.—Two sons of Harry Proctor of Montvale New Village, Clarence, aged 11, and Garfield, aged 8, lost their lives yesterday afternoon as the result of breaking through the ice on the Blackstone river. Garfield was drowned and Clarence died from cold and exposure, after he had been taken from the water.

Jealousy Resulted in Murder
Baltimore, March 4.—William G. Taylor of Washington shot and killed his stepmother, Mrs. Marion P. S. Taylor, in a lodging house here yesterday. Jealousy of his stepmother, because of her influence over his father and dissatisfaction about money matters is thought to have caused the killing.

Spanked by Hypnotized Subjects
Kingston, N. Y., March 4.—J. Santanelli, a hypnotist, is under arrest, charged with assault committed through three hypnotized subjects, who imagined their victim a baby, and spanked him. Many women ridiculed the victim, and he sought revenge.

Five Deaths From Plague
Cape Town, March 4.—The bubonic plague is spreading here. Five corpses, all of colored persons, have been found since Saturday morning. Ten colored persons and one European woman believed to be affected by the disease have been removed to hospitals.

Found Dead in Doorway
Boston, March 4.—In the doorway of a Salvation Army barracks, in the West End, this morning, was found the body of a man, later identified as a mechanic, Charles W. Lowrie, 74 years of age. He had evidently been in poor circumstances of late.

Worst Snowstorm of the Season
Syracuse, N. Y., March 4.—The worst snowstorm of the winter is now raging over northern New York. Richland, where the snowstorm is at its height, is but 40 miles from Syracuse. Here it is warm and almost spring-like, despite the gale.

Killed in Runaway Accident
Pittsfield, Mass., March 4.—Joseph White's horse, becoming frightened at an electric car, got beyond the control of White, throwing him with such violence as to cause death. White was 18 years old.

NEWS IN BRIEF
A passenger train passing through Concord, Mass., struck and instantly killed Maurice Shea, 45 years old.

Robert C. Ingraham, librarian of the first free library in America since its founding, in 1852, died at New Bedford, Mass., aged 74.

W. C. Clark, former secretary of state of Colorado, met accidental death at Denver, aged 62. He tripped while coming down stairs and fell to the bottom, breaking his neck.

Isabelle Dawson, aged 14, while attempting, in company with her brother and another lad, to cross the Concord river at Lowell, Mass., broke through the ice and was drowned.

The body of Henry A. Bohne was found near the Kenzoa driving park at Haverhill, Mass. Bohne had evidently committed suicide by shooting.

An important brewery deal has been consummated at Boston, the management of the A. J. Houghton company and Reuter & Co., incorporated, having been placed under one head.

Sammy Harris, a well known feather-weight boxer, died suddenly of pneumonia at his home in Chicago. He was a twin brother of Harry Harris, the feather-weight fighter, who is now in England.

Three men, Syrians, were found asphyxiated in the basement of the house at Albany which they occupied.

Seldom have conditions in the woods and lumber camps in the great forests north of Bangor, Me., been much worse than they are now. The snow is five feet deep, and it is practically impossible for horses to move through it.

The American preparations for departure from Pekin are going actively forward. All supplies, except enough for two companies, have been packed and marked for Manila.

Loring Thompson of Stratham, N. H., fell from a heavy team while on his way home, and the wheels passed over his neck, which was broken. He was about 50 years old.

Seventy-fifth Birthday.

Mrs. R. Elmer Morrison and Mrs. Abigail L. Gregg received their friends Monday afternoon from four to six, at their home on Middlestreet, Braintree, the occasion being Mrs. Gregg's seventy-fifth birthday. Their spacious home was filled throughout the afternoon with friends, not only from Braintree but from Quincy, and neighboring towns.

Mrs. Gregg and Mrs. Morrison were assisted in receiving by their grand daughter and daughter, Mrs. James Ellsworth of Savin Hill. Mrs. Gregg was presented with beautiful bouquets, violets being particularly abundant, their fragrance filling the room.

Delicious frappe was served by Miss Sarah Shaw and Miss Holbrook, and in the dining room, Miss Louise Prey and Miss Florence Perry poured, assisted by Miss Alice Morrison, Miss Fanny Hayden and Miss Elizabeth Prey.

The table was beautifully decorated with candelabra, with red candles and shades; red and white cut flowers and beautiful china.

The occasion was brightened by the presence of the great grand daughters, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Quincy, a grand daughter, was unable to be present until late in the afternoon owing to the death of Mr. Faxon's uncle.

Mrs. Gregg was complimented on looking so young and feeling so young. If she had not announced that it was her seventy-fifth birthday her friends would have been inclined to doubt its being possible. Mrs. Morrison hardly looks old enough to be a grandmother, although she has several grandchildren who fully appreciate how good a thing it is for them to be able to call their grandmother.

Mrs. Gregg is well known in Quincy where she has a wide circle of friends. She is a constant attendant at Christ church and is interested in all things connected with the church work. She has the love and esteem of a host of friends who wish her at least twenty five more birthday anniversaries.

Whist Party.

One of the pleasant features of the week was an evening whist party, given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Kolseth at their beautiful home on Walker street.

The usual two hours' play was followed by an elaborate collation. With such a genial host and hostess as Mr. and Mrs. Kolseth, it "goes without saying" that the evening passed all too quickly.

The prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bassett, Mrs. Charles Safford and Mrs. Kendall.

Dinner Party.

Mrs. Wm. H. Warren of Billings street entertained at dinner a party of ladies on Thursday evening. The decorations were of pink and white and dainty menus painted by the hostess and boutonnieres at each plate formed pretty souvenirs of the occasion. Games and cards helped to pass away a pleasant evening. At a late hour the guests separated all agreeing that a delightful evening had been spent.

Mrs. Collins will soon be able to show the ladies of Quincy all the New Spring Styles. Miss Pratt has gone to New York to the millinery openings, and will soon return with the Spring Fashions.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Investigation Order Taken from Committee.

To be Heard in Committee of Whole.

Annual Budgets of the Mayor and School Committee.

Certain parts of Monday night's meeting of the City Council resembled a farce in which certain members of the Council were the chief actors. The trouble started when the special committee appointed to investigate the Board of Health asked for more time. This was refused. Later the matter came up again and after some sharp sparring the Council resolved itself into a committee as a whole to investigate the Board of Health, and then adjourned for a week.

Councilmen Newcomb and Smith were absent.

ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

The Mayor called attention to the need of assistant assessors. Referred to the joint committee of Legislative Matters and Ordinances.

SEWER CONNECTIONS.

The Mayor asked for an appropriation of $6,000 for sewer connections with the sewer. Laid on the table until later when an order for that amount was offered.

SCHOOL BUDGET.

The School Committee sent in its estimates of the amount needed for that department for the year. The amount asked for was $108,365. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

INSPECTOR OF ANIMALS.

The Mayor sent in for confirmation the name of Francis Abele, Jr., as Inspector of Animals for the year 1901-1902. Laid on the table until later when it was sent back to the executive department as the appointment should be for one year.

The auctioneer's bond of George A. Brown was approved.

MAYOR'S BUDGET.

The Mayor forwarded the annual budget of amounts needed for the current year. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

A VETO.

The Mayor returned without his signature the order for $300 to employ Henry E. Piper to examine the system of bookkeeping in use in the city. His reason was that the order was a violation of the charter as it called for the expenditure of money by the Auditor. He also thought a citizen should have been employed. The expenditure was unnecessary as the method in use was correct. The work can be accomplished without the expenditure of money.

It was voted to reconsider the vote passing the order.

The question was then on passing the order over the Mayor's veto.

Councilman Bass thought in view of the hasty manner in which the order was passed the matter should be carefully considered, to see if we had not been wrong. The Mayor is an expert accountant of large experience. He would like to ask Councilman Freeman why Mr. Piper was mentioned; whether he satisfied himself of the need of the order, and of whose solicitation it was introduced.

Councilman Freeman hoped the order would pass. He did not consider any one in the Council to have sufficient knowledge to examine the books. Mr. Piper stood at the head of his profession.

Councilman DeNormandie moved the matter be recommitted to the Finance Committee.

The President ruled the motion out of order.

Councilman DeNormandie then moved and it was voted to lay the matter on the table.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were received as follows:

For four incandescent lights on Cranch street.

From Mrs. A. A. Boyden for appropriation of sidewalk assessment. Laid on the table until later when an order was offered.

That Newbury avenue between Glover avenue and Charles street be laid out as a public way.

That Rogers street between the residence of J. O'Neil and Hall place be laid out as a public way.

THE INVESTIGATION.

The special committee appointed to investigate the Board of Health asked for further time.

Councilman DeNormandie hoped it would not be granted. The evidence should be heard by every member of the Council.

The President stated that the order called for the hearing to be public.

Councilman Nichols called for the years and nays.

The Council refused to grant further time by the following vote.

Yeas—Alden, Callahan, Craig, Elocok, Freeman, Hadlock, Hughes, Langelier and Thompson—9.

Nays—Adams, Bass, DeNormandie, Faxon, Gassett, Hultman, McLennan, Nichol, Nicol, Sherman and Sargo—11.

Upon motion of Councilman Freeman the vote was reconsidered by a vote of 11 to 10 the President voting in the affirmative.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

At this point a public hearing was held on the Warren avenue bridge.

George F. Pinkham appeared in favor. This bridge he said had been in the air for many years. The time has now come when we think it should be accomplished. A highway bridge was first proposed, but as it would be very expensive all we ask is a foot bridge, so that we can go to the Park and the shore. We have bridges at Beale and Adams streets, but people will cross the tracks rather than walk that distance. It is for you to arrange it so that we can cross without danger.

President Bryant asked if any one appeared in opposition, and as no one seemed desirous to speak the hearing was closed just as Henry H. Faxon arose to speak. He attempted to speak but was brought to a round turn by the President, who informed him that the hearing was closed. The order was then recommitted.

Hearings were also held on raising the grade of Sea street near Darrow street at Houghs Neck, and the discontinuance of Forrest street in the Blue Hills reservation. The only person to appear at either of the hearings was Mr. Rogers, representing the Metropolitan Park Commission, who said the Commission approved of the discontinuance of Forrest street.

The orders were recommitted.

OUT OF ORDER.

Councilman DeNormandie asked what state the investigation order was in.

The only reply President Bryant made was to rule the question out of order.

Councilman DeNormandie pressed his question but the only reply he received was that he was out of order.

The Committee on Finance reported favorable on the order transferring $111.18 from removal of snow to water maintenance. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The same committee reported favorable on the order transferring certain sums to stationery, advertising and printing. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

NEW ORDINANCE.

The Committee on Ordinances reported correctly engrossed the ordinance relating to purchase of material. Passed to be ordained.

ALBERTINA STREET.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 18, on the laying out of Albertina street.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on petition to the New England Telephone Co. for locations on Saville and Beach streets. Accepted.

NOT APPROVED.

The Committee on Finance reported ought not to pass on the order instructing the City Auditor to approve bill of $75 for examining title of the Washington school lot. Report accepted.

BILLS FAVORED.

The Committee on Legislative Matters reported an order requesting the Mayor and Committee on Legislative Matters to appear at the Legislature and favor the passage of the street railway bill, and the bill relative to underground conduits.

Upon request of Councilman Nichols these bills were read. Report adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. locations for poles on Standish avenue and Norfolk street. Ordered to second reading.

The Committee on Licenses reported order granting a license to run pool tables to Angelo Malnati and George E. Hosmer. Adopted.

KENLEY CHARGES.

All But One Have Been Dropped.

Board of Health Close

---Defence Open.

Many of the Charges Were for "Ancient" Work.

The Board of Health and J. J. Kenley, the inspector of plumbing, are probably breathing easier today, as considerable progress was made Monday evening on the much advertised charges preferred against the inspector, and the solution is near at hand.

When the hearing was called to order shortly after 8 o'clock, all members of the board were present, also Inspector Kenley and his counsel, Messrs. McAnarney and Blackmur, and several plumbers and interested citizens.

Chairman Gay announced at the outset that the board had no further evidence to offer, but desired tomorrow to make a view of the buildings where it was alleged there was defective plumbing, and invited Inspector Kenley and counsel to accompany them.

Lawyer McAnarney before calling any of his witnesses desired to understand the situation fully. He said he understood the inspection of the premises was simply to secure a view, and not for additional evidence.

It was assured that no additional evidence would be offered.

The board also announced that it had withdrawn charges Nos. 6 and 8.

Relative to the first charge, in the house of Peter Morton, Lawyer McAnarney claimed the evidence submitted was not sufficient to prove; that no evidence had been offered as to when the job was done, or whether at the time there was any ordinance of the city violated. The board appealed to City Solicitor Sears for an opinion on the points raised. After a conference, Mr. Sears said in courts of law the points were well taken, but as the Board of Health was a lay board it would not be expected to conduct a hearing strictly according to law.

Mr. McAnarney expressed surprise at such an opinion, and waxed warm over it. He said he was there to protect his client to fullest extent. He should raise all the technical points possible. The board should deal with his client in an honorable manner. It had not been shown that Inspector Kenley had any connection with the job in question; even that it had been done under the city government. If done the Board of Health should have a record of it. He asked a ruling on charge No. 1.

After a conference the board decided to drop charge No. 1.

Relative to charge No. 2, the drain pipe at the Quincy Adams station, Lawyer McAnarney raised similar objections, that there was no evidence as to when the plumbing was done, or whether there was any ordinance requiring at that time a running trap. He claimed work was done before Mr. Kenley became inspector.

The board voted to drop charge No. 2 and also No. 3.

Under charge No. 4, Lawyer McAnarney raised a question as to the duties of the inspector. He had in this case condemned the work, had not allowed or passed it, and had refused to issue a certificate.

With this knowledge the board dismissed the charge.

Relative to No. 7, the Music hall annex, Lawyer McAnarney claimed that Inspector Kenley had in no way been connected with the job. That in fact he was ignorant of the situation, having never been called to inspect it. It was not shown that any permit had been issued.

Charge No. 7 was dropped. This left the only charge against the inspector, No. 5, that he passed a light soil pipe at the house of Stephen B. Wiley, Jr., on Highland avenue, Wollaston, which was laid below the bottom of the cellar.

Lawyer McAnarney said the evidence was that the pipe was laid in a trench which was uncovered. He claimed this not under the cellar, and therefore allowable, and so considered by plumbers in other cities as well as Quincy. He queried if the board with such a trivial charge remaining would care to press the charges further.

The board decided to hear the evidence.

Lawyer Blackmur called Inspector Kenley to the stand, who testified that application for connection with the sewer was made April 14, 1900. That previously the pipe ran toward the rear of the house, and that instead it was changed to run toward the street and the same pipe was used. That the distance was short, and probably only two and one-half feet of light pipe was used. This was put in an uncovered trench not over 12 inches deep and not being covered he regarded it as permissible.

Mr. Wiley, the owner of the house, said he was perfectly satisfied with the job. His instructions were to comply with the ordinances.

T. J. Perry, the plumber, said the work was done under his direction, and he expected it was in compliance with the ordinances. Thought it permissible to use light pipe where exposed to view, and that the job was all right from a sanitary view.

Michael F. Corbett, a plumber for 18 years, 4 years in Quincy, thought light pipe was allowable under the ordinances. That Lynn and Lowell permitted it in like cases.

The hearing was adjourned without date at 10.40.

The balustrades and archways presented a brilliant scene. No less than 76 stars, formed each of 11 frosted electric globes, were set between the arches on the ground floor, and shone radiant through a network of green against the background glistening with powdered glass. Suspended beneath each star and below draped festoons of smiles were shimmering trailers of green and electric bulbs, tipped with a yellow globe. The gilt pillars were encased in vines and green and above the bright circles of light that crowned them were placed invisible boxes of growing tulips, daffodils, azaleas and jonquils. In the second balcony the same scheme of decoration was carried out, excepting that, in lieu of the stars were hung electric lights in clusters of three, covered with soft yellow transparent paper, and producing a beautiful effect. Back under the balconies, on the ground and second floors, wreaths of green were hung at regular intervals, linked by loops of vines and smiles.

Seventy-six additional posts had been placed on the top balcony, each surmounted by a glowing bulb of light. Between them, and bordering the railing of the balcony, all the way round, were boxes of cut and growing flowers in a great profusion of color.

Two endless chains of light studded green below the balconies looped and swung completely around the immense hall, and a hive of brilliant yellow globes, each trailing a streamer alive with tiny glow lights.

Off to the side, on the second balcony were the president's and vice president's room, the diplomats' room and 40 other rooms, appropriately embellished for the reception and promenade. The president's room was draped entirely in white and was made beautiful with pink ribbons, white orchids and greens. The other rooms held to the all-prevailing yellow, decorated with flags, flowers and smiles.

In the diplomatic reception room the flags of all nations were clustered and intertwined, and lent a brilliant background for the gorgeous uniforms and regalia of the diplomatic officials. Alongside the main building had been built a large dining hall, decorated in red, white and blue, and hung with greens.

The expense of the decorations entire is set down at about $45,000. The floral and electric decorations alone came to nearly $20,000, there being no less than 15,000 electric lights involved in the illumination.

A very elaborate display of fireworks, chiefly of an aerial character, but including also set pieces of President McKinley and Vice President Roosevelt, was on the program of inauguration festivities for last night. Owing, however, to the inclement weather the decision was reached to postpone the display until another evening, when the conditions are more favorable.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the Grippe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease! Get a bottle today and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the lungs loose, lungs free from inflammation. All druggists sell KEMP'S BALSAM at 25c. and 50c.

TALKED IT TO DEATH

Carter Knocked Out the River and Harbor Bill

SENATE'S TIME WASTED

By Occupying Practically Thirteen Hours to Carry Out His Purpose—President Frye and Speaker Henderson Receive Thanks of Congress

Washington, March 5.—One of the most notable occurrences in the history of congressional legislation marked the closing hours of the last session of the senate of the Fifty-sixth congress. Senator Carter of Montana signalled his retirement from the senate by talking the river and harbor bill to death. He occupied the floor for nearly 13 consecutive hours, although in the aggregate about three hours—that time were devoted to other business.

THOMAS E. CARTER.

At 11:40 Sunday night, after the senate conference on the river and harbor bill had reported a disagreement, Senator Carter began his speech. Apparently in a facetious vein he began his attack upon the measure, denouncing it as a vicious and pernicious legislation, unwarranted by conditions and unsound in principle.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Mr. Allison submitted a further disagreement on the sundry civil bill, the item in contention being the appropriation for the three expositions.

From this the senate recessed, and then passed the St. Louis exposition bill. Mr. Tillman, who has championed the appropriation for Charleston throughout the session, made a final appeal to the senate to save the Charleston item, but he realized that the Mississippi senators were more powerful than he. By a vote of 38 to 10 the senate recessed from the Charleston appropriation, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Carter resumed his speech, finally announcing at 6:35 that it was his intention not to permit the river and harbor bill to become a law, if his strength should hold out. With the exception of a brief intermission while a quorum was being secured and a recess of half an hour between 10:30 and 11 o'clock yesterday, Mr. Carter spoke practically continuously. He yielded the floor only after the ceremony of the induction of Vice President Roosevelt into office had begun.

In retiring as president pro tem of the senate, Mr. Frye, in response to a resolution of thanks for his courtesy and impartiality, delivered a brief but telling address to the senate.

At the conclusion of the session of the Fifty-sixth congress Vice President Roosevelt was sworn in and immediately called the senate of the Fifty-seventh congress to order. The new senators were sworn in in groups of four. At the conclusion of this proceeding the senate attended the inauguration of the president on the east front of the Capitol. At 1:45 the senate returned to its chamber and adjourned immediately until today.

The house closed its session at 11:45 yesterday and a demonstration from its members following the delivery of an impressive valedictory by Speaker Henderson. The galleries were almost empty, for there were too many sights and scenes without the building, and too many restrictions on admission, to permit an overflowing assemblage.

Here and there on the desks of members were great clusters of flowers, paying farewell tribute to their services.

Shortly before the closing hour, Mr. Richardson of Tennessee, the minority leader, presented resolutions testifying the high regard of the house for the able, impartial and dignified manner in which Speaker Henderson had administered the duties of presiding officer. The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. Then the speaker, in slow and impressive tones, delivered his closing words to the house, thanking the members for their cooperation through a busy and eventful congress.

He concluded at 11:45, and announced the sessions of the house for the Fifty-sixth congress adjourned.

ELECTION DAY IN MAINE

City Governments Chosen by Voters of Thirteen Cities

Portland, Me., March 5.—Elections were held in 13 Maine cities yesterday and a full vote was cast in nearly every city. In several cities the regular nominees were opposed by a so-called Citizens' party, and the contests between the opponents were exceedingly spirited. The most conspicuous victory of the Citizens' movement was in Saco. Particularly in this city, Eastport and Bath was the result unusually close. Here the Republican candidate, F. E. Boothby, won over his Democratic opponent, John F. A. Merrill, by less than 300 votes.

The election at Westbrook resulted in a victory for the Republicans. Jacob L. Horr was elected mayor by 33 plurality.

The Republicans of Bath succeeded in electing their candidate for mayor, Samuel R. Percy, and electing their entire ward ticket.

C. N. Trefethen (Rep.) was elected mayor of South Portland.

The Citizens' party elected in four wards at Waterville. The other three are Republicans. Mr. Blaisdell was the solitary candidate for mayor.

Charles H. Buxton (Rep.) for mayor defeated William O. Grady (Cit.) by only 24 votes at Eastport.

The Republicans made a clean sweep in Rockland, electing their entire ticket. Edward K. Gould was elected mayor.

George W. Furbush (Rep.) was re-elected mayor of Lewiston by a majority of 194. There was little cutting. The election in Ellsworth resulted in the re-election of Arthur W. Grady (Dem.) by a majority of 52.

Frederick Danforth (Rep.) had 654 votes, and was elected mayor of Gardiner.

The Democrats of Hallowell failed to put a ticket in the field, and the regular Republican nominees were elected in every case.

Mayor Maybury was defeated at Saco by George L. Crossman (Cit.). Edson Allen was arrested on a charge of attempting to bribe.

The election in Auburn was the hottest one ever held in that city. Owing to the size of the prohibition vote, another election for mayor and for several aldermen will have to be held.

NO-LICENSE GAINS

Citizens of Over a Hundred Towns in Massachusetts Exercise Franchise

Boston, March 5.—Over a hundred of the little town communities in Massachusetts held their annual meetings yesterday, selecting citizens to carry on the local governments for the coming year, voting appropriations and what has recently proved the most interesting feature, deciding the question as to the sale of intoxicating liquors.

In a number of towns there were spirited contests for local officers, notably in Lexington, where the result is questioned and the courts will be asked to adjudicate. A Social Democrat was elected in Amesbury, and the same party polled 200 votes in Whitman.

On the liquor question, the honors of the day rested with the temperance advocates, who succeeded in capturing seven of the towns in the eastern part of the state, which last year voted for license, Medfield, Medway, Ashland, Orange, Natick, Athol and Dracut, while six towns, Wrentham, Shrewsbury, Ashburnham, Sandwich, Cohasset and Rockland, changed from no license to license. The sensational election of a "parson sheriff" in Portland, Me., last fall had an echo in Abington, where a minister was made constable, who declares his intention of stamping out every vestige of the liquor traffic, the town being a no-license community. Abington also voted to pay a bill incurred last fall in raiding liquor joints. The little town of Dracut, which has had a checkered career on the license question for many years, went back into the no-license column yesterday, although by a margin of only 18 votes.

Subway Plans Knocked Out

Boston, March 5.—The proposed new subway under Washington street received a serious setback, as far as the city of Boston is concerned, yesterday, when the board of aldermen, after adopting a number of amendments and two different motions, defeated each motion in turn, and the question was thereby taken off the calendar.

To Prevent Spread of Smallpox

Somerset, N. H., March 5.—Owing to the continued increase in the smallpox in this city all public and parochial schools have been ordered to close. All school children who have not been vaccinated within the past six months must do so at once, as well as all employees of the Great Falls Manufacturing company.

Accidentally Shot a Playmate

Walham, Mass., March 5.—While Arthur Eastman, 15 years old, was playing with Joseph Peterson yesterday Peterson pointed a rifle, which he believed to be empty, at young Eastman and pulled the trigger. The gun was loaded and the bullet entered Eastman's body. It is feared that the wound will prove fatal.

Nelson Wants a New Trial

Worcester, Mass., March 5.—Counsel for Oscar W. Nelson, convicted Saturday of murder in the second degree for killing Gustaf A. Erickson, yesterday filed a motion for a new trial on the ground that the verdict is against the law and the evidence.

Saved by His Cell-Mate

Kansas City, March 5.—"Bud" Taylor, the baseball player, who on Saturday killed Ruth Noland, attempted to hang himself in his cell in the county jail yesterday. He was saved by his cell-mate. The jury recommended that Taylor be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder in the first degree.

THE GREAT MIDWAY.

AMUSEMENT PALACES AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

The Pick of Many Hundreds of Attractions Offered Will Be Seen at Buffalo Next Summer—Concessionaires Picking Up Novelties.

From the character of the exhibitions chosen it can safely be promised for the Pan-American Midway that there will be more fun—good, clean, wholesome fun, too—on this street than any similar adjunct of an exposition ever occasioned before. But though a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men it must not be supposed that these Midway exhibitions will be all nonsense. Far from it. Many of them will be eminently educational, without at all detracting from their entertaining character. This will be especially true of such exhibitions as the Streets of Mexico, the Hawaiian Volcano and Village, the Philippine Village, the Japanese Village, Old Nuremberg, the Beautiful Orient, the Indian Congress, the unique concession called Venice in America and several others representing life in different quarters of the globe and curious native customs and institutions. The same kind of education as is to be obtained through foreign travel will be imparted by such exhibitions as these. For instance, there is infinite instruction in contemplation of the wonders of nature, and when they are reproduced so well as the Hawaiian Volcano, which began its eruptions on the Pan-American Midway some time ago, there is no better way one could spend time than in seeing such sights.

The great volcano of Kiluaea has inspired eloquent description by some of the most brilliant of writers in both prose and verse, and the lamented Robert Louis Stevenson was powerfully moved by its strange phenomena and weird but oftentimes beautiful aspect. Hawaii, though now a part of the United States, is still a long way off for most of us, and it is very fortunate the Pan-American management has provided a way for us to see just how this volcano appears without taking the long trip half way across the Pacific, for otherwise the great majority of us would never enjoy seeing a volcano.

The Pan-American concessionaires are resorting to every possible device that can be conceived in order to carry out their illusions and surprise and mystify the visitor. For instance, one is searching the globe to find queer animals to put in his city of the moon, which Exposition visitors will have an opportunity to see by taking his Trip to the Moon by the airship Luna.

One of the educational features of the Pan-American Midway, and a feature which is also highly artistic, is Cleopatra's Temple, which is being prepared by Mr. Alonzo Lincoln, owner of the famous painting called Trilby. This concession is entirely a new idea and is sure to be regarded as a very high class feature of this part of the Pan-American. The building itself, which is now nearly completed, is one of the most artistic structures on the grounds and is destined to earn the title of Gem of the Midway. In this building will be the great paintings of Ashley D. M. Cooper illustrating the principal events in the life of Egypt's great queen. Mr. Cooper receives $15,000 for painting Cleopatra, which is less than he would have asked were it not for the fact that he was anxious to have a great picture at the all-American Exposition at Buffalo. He believes that his latest work will surpass anything which has yet come from his brush.

The Indian Congress will occupy more space than any other Midway concession, as there will be some 500 persons, including chiefs, squaws and papooses, in the Village. It has a frontage of 440 feet on the Midway.

The assemblage of Indians will include many noted chiefs, and the programme of entertainments will be varied and exceptionally exciting. There will be sham battles between the Sioux and their allies on one side and the Blackfeet and their allies on the other. Before the hours of the battles bands of mounted Indians, in all the glory of war paint and feathers, will be seen passing and repassing the spectators' seats, chanting their war songs. The drama that ensues will be a lifelike representation of Indian fighting, the methods and customs of the Indians when going forth to do battle against their enemies. Later on in the programme will come the various Indian dances. The San Carlos Apaches will be seen in their Medicine Dance, in which they wear their peculiar head-dresses. Corn dances, ghost dances and dog feasts and all typical Indian customs will be carried out just as they are performed by the Indians of the plains of the west today.

Mr. Gaines, who is now gathering material for this great exhibition has had 17 years' experience with the Indians and was at the famous battle of Wounded Knee.

Another western feature at the Pan-American which will be presented on the Midway will be a facsimile of a Colorado gold mine. This will picture the busy scenes in and around one of the gold mines typical of the great mining state of Colorado.

EDWARD HALE BRUSH.

European Excursions to Pan-American.

The most important foreign excursion agencies in Europe are organizing excursions to the Pan-American Exposition. Their programmes are being reviewed at the Bureau of Publicity.

The leading features of the Exposition are cleverly displayed for the benefit of continental readers. The great electrical features and Niagara Falls are prominently mentioned in their literature.

Recently there have been several cases of prominent men suddenly falling in collapse just after eating a hearty meal. These men have all been under treatment for gastric "trouble," and yet the result shows that the treatment they had received had smothered the symptoms but had not retarded the progress of the disease.

There is a real danger in the use of palliatives when there is disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. The disease in such cases goes on, while the distressing symptoms alone are stopped. Presently, like a smothered fire, the disease breaks out in new places, involving heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, or some other organ.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery results in a radical cure of all the distressing symptoms alone are stopped. Presently, like a smothered fire, the disease breaks out in new places, involving heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, or some other organ.

"I will tell you what myself and family think of your medicine," writes Mr. M. Wardwell, of Linwood, Leavenworth Co., Kansas. "It will do all you say, and more. I was taken sick nine years ago. I got so weak I couldn't lie down, nor hardly sit up, was that way two or three months. I picked up one of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house that was got for my mother. You recommend it for catarrh of the stomach, so I went to taking it. The one bottle nearly cured me. I got two bottles next time and took one and one-half and was well. Your medicine cost me three dollars and the doctor cost me fourteen dollars."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE FIGHT IN COMMONS

The Police Were Called In to Remove Irishmen

DOZEN CARRIED OUT BODILY

Upon Their Refusal to Withdraw After Having Been Suspended — A Lively
Shindy With Police In Which Fists
Were Freely Used

London, March 6.—The most sensational scene witnessed in the house of commons for years occurred this morning, just after midnight. Twelve members of the Irish party were forcibly removed from the house, after a free fight on the floor. Two policemen were injured in the struggle. It took six of them to carry out each of the recalcitrant members. The speaker suspended for a week the Irish members who defied his authority.

The trouble arose through Mr. Balfour applying the closure on the whole educational estimates without giving an opportunity to discuss the Irish votes.

The Nationalists shouted "gag, gag,"
and refused to leave the house when the division was taken. The chairman twice asked them to retire to the division lobby, but they shouted "certainly not." Mr. Flavin cried: "I protest against the way all Irish votes are closed."

The chairman then intimated that he must report the matter to the speaker.
In the meantime the other members had returned from the lobbies amid some uproar, 30 or 40 Irishmen remaining in their seats.

The speaker having returned to the house, the chairman reported the matter to him, and the speaker asked if the Irish members still refused to obey the order, and there were cries of "Yes, yes." The speaker then named 16 recalcitrants, and Mr. Balfour moved their suspension. This was agreed to without a division.

The speaker ordered them to withdraw, but they refused and great uproar. The speaker called upon the sergeant-at-arms to remove them. They shouted defiance. The deputy sergentat-arms advanced and asked them to leave; still they refused. At this a number of officers and policemen entered to enforce removal.

Eugene Crean struggled desperately against removal and there was a free fight on the floor lasting for five minutes, other Irishmen assisting him.
Eventually he was carried out bodily
by six policemen amid yells and cheers.

Never before had such a scene occurred in the house as accompanied the removal of Crean. He struggled fiercely with the attendants, who summoned
the police, a dozen constables entering the house. The Nationalists jeered at them. Four or five stalwart policemen proceeded to seize Crean, who stuck his legs under the seat and could not be moved for some minutes.

Meanwhile other policemen were struggling with other Irishmen, who stood up and obstructed the passage of the police to Crean's seat. The Irish shouted, "Don't kill him" and "Don't kill the man."

The Nationalists fought and struggled frantically, but at length a superior force of police succeeded in dragging Crean out by the legs and arms, and carrying him down the floor of the house. The Irishmen standing and shouting, "Shame," "Murderers" and "South African brutality."

The speaker then called upon Mr.
McHugh to retire, but he defiantly refused, his companions shouting approval. A strong body of 20 policemen again stormed the Irish benches. Mc-Hugh fought and struggled and impeded them in every way. Angry shouts rent the air. The benches below the gangway on the opposite side were a mass of mad and struggling humanity.
Several policemen were struck with fists. Free fights between the police and the members were fairly general.

As McHugh was being carried out—
his underclothing showing where the outer garments had been torn away.
In the struggle Flavin shouted from the back benches, "Nineteen policemen to remove one Irishman," and cries of "Shame" were heard from the opposite benches.

The speaker again earnestly appealed to the members named to obey the ruling of the house, whether they agreed to the course taken or not, and to leave the house peaceably and decently. The response to this was cries of "No, No"
from the Nationalists.

The speaker then ordered the removal of the others. Amid renewed howls of execration the police grappled with them and carried them by arms and legs over the benches and out of the house. While Mr. Donelan was being removed the Nationalists rose and sang
"God Save Ireland." Mr. Flavin
shouted against the Unionists who sat silent in their seats during the scene.
"You will be carried out of South Africa in the same way."

Mr. Flavin's turn then came. The police were handling him roughly amid renewed cries of "murderers," when he exclaimed: "All right, I don't intend to hurt anybody." Six policemen succeeded for each member, with the exception of Flavin, who is a big man, and required eight.

There were still about 50 Irishmen
when the committee resumed, but they refused to appoint any teller for a division. The Nationalists jeered Mr.
Balfour and the other ministers as they left the building.

Those who were removed besides Crean and Flavin included John Oullan, Patrick White, Patrick McHugh, William London, William Abraham, Patrick Dugan, Anthony Donelan, James Gilhooly, Thomas McGovern and Jeremiah Jordan.

Used Sugar For Fuel

Boston, March 6.—The officers and crew of the British steamer Collingham have arrived at quarantine, after a thrilling voyage. So serious was their predicament at one stage that it became necessary to "broach" the cargo of sugar in order to provide fuel for the fires. The Collingham's misfortunes came so persistently and often that 50 days were consumed in the voyage from Plymouth, Austria. Ordinarily a 30 days' trip from that port is considered leisurely.

Wanted in New Hampshire

Boston, March 6.—Julia Hill, who, it is said, has been a source of constant trouble because of her persistency in dispensing liquor in the town of Hudson, N. H., was arrested at Tyngsboro yesterday by the federal authorities in Boston, and was removed to the jail at Concord, N. H. It appears that after her arrest and indictment by the grand jury of New Hampshire, she became a fugitive from justice.

Mayors Are All Republicans

Burlington, Vt., March 6.—The annual "March meeting" to elect municipal officers was held yesterday in every town and city of the state. Elections in the cities of Vermont resulted as follows: Burlington, D. C. Hawkey (Rep.); Rutland, J. B. Hollister (Rep.);
St. Albans, O. L. Hinds (Rep.); Vergennes,
E. G. Norton (Rep.); Montpelier, J.
G. Brown (Rep.); Barre, N. D. Phelps (Rep.).

Bay State Legislature

Boston, March 6.—The legislative committee on fisheries and game yesterday reported unanimously on the bill reducing the length of lobsters which may be caught in the waters of this state from 10 1/2 to 9 inches. The committee, however, reported another bill providing that lobsters which have been mutilated shall be evidence that they were under the required length.

An Important Business Deal

Rockland, Me., March 6.—The Rockland and Rockport line company yesterday purchased all the line interests of Perry Bros. and John J. Perry. The whole purchase price was $500,000. This deal gives the purchasing corporation control of the entire line industry in Knox county.

Clinton Man Shoots Himself

Clinton, Mass., March 6.—James Craig, aged 40, a street railway conductor, shot himself yesterday, and there are no hopes of his recovery. He had made preparations for taking his life, having left several letters to friends. Craig was despondent.

An Unusual Occurrence

Manchester, N. H., March 6.—Two sharp earthquake shocks were experienced in this city shortly after 6 o'clock last night. There was an interval of 10 seconds between the two shocks. No damage was done.

Poisoned by Wood Alcohol

Providence, March 6.—John A. Thomas, 49 years old, was sent to the Rhode Island hospital from Olneyville last night, and died in 15 minutes after arriving there of poisoning from wood alcohol which he had drunk.

Cigaret Bill Wins

Concord, N. H., March 6.—In the house of representatives yesterday the cigarette bill, absolutely prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes, was passed.

NOT HEREDITARY

In the main, consumption
is not hereditary; it is infectious.
People are too afraid of hereditary; better not think of the subject at all. Infection occurs continually.

Low vital force is hereditary;
which gives consumption its chance. And infection plants it.

Between the two, the crop
is a big one: about one-sixth of the human race, so far as is known.

We suppose it needn't be 5 per cent, if people would take fair care and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

The care saves life in all ways; the emulsion is specially aimed at the lungs, beside its general food-effect.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

ROOSEVELT A MAGNET

The Senate Galleries Thronged
With Interested Observers

EFFORT TO CHANGE RULES

Precipitates a Debate Which Even Sticklers For Orderly Course of Procedure Did Not Attempt to Check—
Roosevelt Unfamiliar With Forms

Washington, March 6.—Interest in the proceedings in the senate yesterday was little less than intense. The session was practically the first of the Fifty-seventh congress, that of Monday
being brief and routine in character.
An immense throng crowded the galleries, all anxious to witness the proceedings. Vice President Roosevelt was the particular magnet which attracted the crowds to the galleries, although the desire to see the opening exercises of the new senate was also a special attraction, particularly to the visitors from out of the city.

Quite unexpectedly a lively debate was precipitated. Mr. Platt of Connecticut offered an amendment to the rules to limit debate in the senate. Several senators expressed their views in no uncertain terms. Senators Wellington of Maryland and Bacon of Georgia denounced the effort to change the rules
as unseemly, the former challenging the right of the senate to consider the proposition at this session.

The floor pieces presented to the various senators were not many, but were beautiful in design. As the hands of the clock opposite to the president's desk indicated the hour of noon, Vice President Roosevelt stepped briskly
from the lobby to his desk. Recognized instantly by the assembled crowds, he was greeted with a wave of applause.

The venerable blond chaplain pronounced a brief, but feeling invocation.
As the vice president ascended to his desk another great wave of applause swept over the galleries. Then with a single sharp rap of the gavel he called the senate to order.

The amiability with which the older senators, including some who are sticklers for an orderly course of procedure, permitted a debate to go on wholly out of order on the closure resolution, is a sufficient indication that the rule will not be adopted. If these senators had felt that there was the slightest real danger of a closure rule, they would have cut off its discussion till the time, when, under the rules, it would have been in order, so as to husband all the ammunition on both sides till it could be used as a means of talking the resolution to death.

The resolution, however, will go the way of all its predecessors. If it cannot be got rid of in any other way, it will be killed by the very long-talk process, against which it is itself aimed.
The vice president is understood to favor it.

Mr. Roosevelt, by the bye, in his first hour's experience as a presiding officer showed that he had been led astray by the general assumption that the senate transacts all its business by unanimous consent. When Mr. Hoar moved an executive session, Mr. Roosevelt said:
"The senator from Massachusetts moves that the senate now proceed to the consideration of executive business. If there is no objection it will be so ordered."

The elder senators were agitated at this new departure. Mr. Hoar found his voice before anyone else to remind the new presiding officer that this was a motion to be put to vote. Mr. Roosevelt then put the question in the usual form, and as there was a loud chorus
of "ayes" and no "noes" the motion was declared carried and the galleries were cleared. The chief business to be brought before the executive session was the confirmation of the nominations of the old cabinet officers, which were sent in about 1 o'clock. They were: John Hay of the District of Columbia, to be secretary of state; Lyman J. Gage of Illinois, to be secretary of the treasury; Elihu Root of New York, to be secretary of war; John W.
Griggs of New Jersey, to be attorney general; Charles E. Smith of Pennsylvania, to be postmaster general;
John D. Long of Massachusetts, to be secretary of the navy; Ethan A. Hitchcock of Missouri, to be secretary of the interior; James Wilson of Iowa, to be secretary of agriculture. The nominations were all confirmed.

Ashes to Be Consigned to Ocean

New York, March 6.—The will of Louis Becker, who, after accumulating a fortune in the chemical business
in Philadelphia, died in Brooklyn, requests that his body be cremated, and that his ashes be strewn upon the waves of the Atlantic ocean. The first request has been complied with, and his twin brother, Alexander Becker, is now making preparations for carrying out the other provision.

Baby Played With Revolver

Bethlehem, Pa., March 6.—Maud
Bitting, the 2-year-old daughter of Edward Bitting, proprietor of the Brodhead House, was playing with a loaded revolver last night when it was discharged and a bullet pierced the child's heart. She died instantly.

Accused of Murder Charge

Syracuse, March 6.—Ernest Hecht, accused of murdering Mrs. Louisa Foster, was last night acquitted by the jury.
The case has been on trial for eight days. The defense was that Mrs. Foster committed suicide. Hecht was found in the room with the body.

Good Afternoon.

Representative Badger is taking an active part in the deliberations of the Legislature, speaking Tuesday in the House on at least two measures. He favored the bill to prohibit the sale of native wines in no-license cities and towns, which was passed to be engrossed; and also favored the rejection of the bill for the repeal of the Dubuque law for the collection of judgments by instalments.

The estimate of the Mayor, City Treasurer and School Committee of the appropriations needed for the city of Quincy for 1901 are now at hand, and it is time to give some consideration to the possible tax rate. These estimates aggregate $414,654, and do not include $53,155 to be paid from water receipts
and $31,065 from sewer assessments, which would make the grand total but $1,226 short of half a million dollars.
Aside from water and sewers, the estimates of 1901 are $20,562 in excess of last year, and $20,847 in excess of the actual appropriations under the annual appropriation order of last year. Without an increase in valuation it would require an additional dollar on the tax rate, as the valuation of 1900 was $20,183,836, and one dollar per $1,000 would raise $20,183.84. The tax levy order of last year was made up as follows and will be handy for reference at this time:

State tax,	$10,005.00
Norfolk County tax,	16,377.23
City appropriations for current expenses,	270,808.00
City appropriations for debt and interest,	122,998.73
Metropolitan water,	11,271.59
Metropolitan sewer,	11,917.40
Total,	$443,377.95
Deduct estimated city receipts,	67,335.13
	$376,042.82
Deduct $2 per poll,	12,674.00
	$363,368.82
Add overpayments,	4,036.79
Levy on estates,	$367,345.61
Levy on polls,	$12,674.00
Total levy,	$379,919.61

This year the amount required for debt and interest is practically the same as last year, being $123,157.73
this year, and $122,998.73 last year.
The city appropriations if the estimates remain unchanged would amount to $201,487.00.

Rudder Cast at Braintree.

A Braintree industry is contributing important parts for the cup defender,
"Independence." Tuesday the main rudder was successfully cast at the foundry of the Victor Metal Works. It is a perfect casting and will be smoothed up and sent over to the Atlantic works some day this week. Much care was taken in casting this very important piece of the yacht's construction. The managers of the Victor Metal Works gave their personal attention to the details and were also in attendance
while the metal was being run.

Two Alarms.

The alarm from Box 171 at 9:15
Tuesday night was for a fire on a electric light pole.
The alarm from Box 63, at 8:30 this morning was for a fire in the house of T. G. Hamm, shoemaker on Hancock street Atlantic near the railroad station. Two aged ladies Mrs. F. A.
Massey and Mrs. Spaulding occupied rooms up stairs. Mrs. Massey who is quite feeble was carried to a place of safety. The fire was slight but much damage was done by smoke and water.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Of the Granite City Club
of Quincy.

Large Party at United States Hotel.

The Burgomaster Enjoyed at Columbia Theatre.

Tuesday night was one of the red letter nights in the annals of the Granite City club. It was the occasion of its annual banquet. Added to this was a theatre party. The affair was very largely attended, and one and all united in the verdict that the committee, headed by President James H.
Penniman, had outdone itself, and was deserving of a vote of thanks. The committee had left nothing undone that would add to the comfort and pleasure of the occasion. It was certainly a happy thought his providing a special electric car to convey the party from the hotel to the theatre and from the theatre to terminal station after the entertainment, as was arranging for a private car on the 11.28 train for Quincy.

The banquet was served at the United States Hotel. The hour set was 6 o'clock. A large part of the members left Quincy on the 5.12 train. Others however, took earlier trains in order that nothing should prevent their being on time. The only guests were Mayor Hall and General Superintendent Reynolds of this division of the Old Colony Street railway.

It was but a few minutes past the appointed hour when the doors of a large private dining room were thrown open. Seats were soon taken about the pretty arranged tables, and for the next hour and a half the men from Quincy demonstrated to the colored waiters that people from Quincy know how to do other things than eat granite blocks. Mayor Hall offered a brief prayer.

The bill of fare opened up with oysters on the half shell and closed with water wafers, Edam cheese and coffee. Between these two terminals was ox tail soup, boiled shad, turkey, fillet of beef, with the side dishes of cucumbers, Parisienne potatoes, green peas and olives, sweetbread cutlets,
with mushrooms, and other things pleasing to the taste, the whole going to make up a fine dinner, well cooked and served.

At the conclusion of the banquet,
and while cigars were being lighted,
President Penniman rapped for order,
and said he would make the only speech of the evening, and that was to introduce Secretary Bass who read an original poem. Nobody would ever accuse "Uncle Henry" of writing a poem, and perhaps he did not. He might have been like the Burgomaster, had it written for him. The point in the poem was well taken and loud applause followed its reading.

The special car for the theatre left
the hotel at 7.45 and fifteen minutes later, they were comfortably seated in the first two rows of the balcony, which had been reserved for their use. While on the car, several vocal selections were rendered, and while they did not quite come up to the singing they listened to later in the Burgomaster, it showed that with a little training some of them might secure positions on the comic opera stage.

There is little to be said of the club
while at the theatre other than they gave the stage their undivided attention, enjoyed the music and laughed at the witty sayings. The music was very catchy, and it will be a wonder if in the near future the walls of the club rooms do not resound with some of the tuneful music of the Burgomaster.

Unfortunately the opera is a long one, and having been lengthened out by frequent encores it was necessary to leave before the curtain fell. Some, however, risked losing their train to witness the cake walk that closed the performance, and they were well repaid. To sum it all up, it was a grand good time, as one remarked, still vigorous at seventy-four.

Those in the party were:
Mayor Hall, H. W. Reynolds, James H. Pen-niman, W. W. Ewell, Geo. P. Meade, J. Q.

THE ATLANTIC CLUB

Listen to Papers and Some Excellent Music.

The Monday Evening club had an attendance of two hundred and one at its meeting held Monday evening.

There was disappointment that Mr.
Parlin, superintendent of schools was unable to be present and give his paper on "Community Ideals." There was sympathy, too, expressed that he should be in the hands of the grip,
the same foe that attacked the speaker
for the previous meeting and prevented
the presentation of the address on
"Our duty to nature."

The club was happy, however, in listening to an exceedingly interesting thoughtful and earnest paper by Mr. James Churchill of Atlantic on
"The deficiencies of Atlantic." While admitting some of the deficiencies he characterized them as usually to be found in outlying suburban districts,
and some that he spoke of, as blessings in disguise, preventing social, class distinctions. The deficiency which he dwelt upon at the greatest length was the overcrowded condition of the schools at Atlantic which was now a menace to the health of teachers and pupils. The concentration of effort on the part of the citizens of Atlantic could greatly aid in ridding the village of its deficiencies was the honest belief expressed by Mr. Churchill.

In the discussion which followed there was prevalent a desire to have the meetings of the Atlantic Village Improvement society resumed.

In connection with the subject of the evening, mention was made of the negligence of the authorities whose business it is to attend to such matters, to guard against liability of contagion. A case was cited wherein a family at Atlantic, five of its members were ill with diphtheria, the father and four children and one of the children died from a malignant type of it. Now, though a law requires that the burial shall be immediate, the body was kept in the house from half past six Sunday morning until half past two on Monday, when a prayer was made outside the house,
with the door open, by a minister.

After the service the casket was placed in the hearse and the father and mother followed in a hack though the father had been sick but four days and according to the laws of the Board of Health that inmates of the house must have been in quarantine.

It is evident that the next people who patronized the hack were exposed to diphtheria and that the responsibility rested somewhere. The physicians and undertaker it is understood were neither of them from Quincy.

Rev. A. A. Webb of Everett entertained the club with the recitations,
"Ben Hur," "When the frost is on the pumpkin," "Butter making" and
"The race." His wit and pleasing manner immediately captured the audience and he was listened to and applauded with delight.

Miss Ethel Gilmore of Chelsea executed finely at the piano in "The clouds," by Chamanade, "Under bright skies" by Whelpley, "Waltz" by Chopin and "The butterfly" by Lavallee.

Miss Alice Coe sang "The love light in your eyes," Julian Edwards, "At parting," Clayton Johns, "For what thou art," A. H. Rosewig, and "Tell me beautiful maiden" by Gounod, and was most enthusiastically applauded.

Dr. Dawes of Neponset touched the hearts of his hearers with his sweet and pathetic rendering of "The little shoes." He also sang "Mora" by Stephen Adams and "The two Mar-ionettes" by Edith Cook, which were equally pleasing to the club.

Miss Mary Hinkley and Dr. G. H.
Littlefield were the literary committee; Mrs. L. H. Turner and Mrs.
Sanford Small the music committee,
and Mr. W. F. Cummings and Mr.
Charles E. Cherrington the Introduction committee, beside the chairman
Mrs. Edward Crocker.

Woodward—Bullock.

Miss Mabel Bullock of Dorchester and Mr. W. George Woodward of Quincy were married Monday evening by Rev.
Charles C. Earle at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. John P. Wittet, Dorchester.
The bride wore white tulle and silk veil fastened with pearls and lilies of the valley, and carried bride roses. Miss Blanche McLean and Miss Mabel Leavitt were bridesmaids, and Mr. Edgar Shaw
the best man. The ushers were Mr.
Arthur Dodge and Mr. Walter Cousins.
The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Allen Roberts. An informal reception was given the bride and groom immediately after the ceremony. After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will reside at their new home in Atlantic.

Songs and Song Writers.

The first of four informal evenings
with "Songs and song writers," arranged by Miss C. Follett Spear was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cortbell, Grand View avenue, Wollaston. Miss Spear showed pictures of the composers
whom she introduced with brief well chosen remarks. The program included an Esquimo Indian song, Swedish folk songs and several German songs concluding with "America."

The artists were Mrs. Richard Tappenden, Mr. H. Y. Follett and Master Findlay, from Christ church, Quincy. Mr. Rowland Hughes interpreted a few Welsh songs. Mr. Follett sang with expression a song by Bach
and "Mondnacht" by Gluck. Master
Findlay sang in a clear sweet soprano, Handel's "Angels ever bright and fair." Mrs. Tappenden charmed all by her rendering of Swedish songs.
Mrs. Chandler W. Smith was at the piano. The musical program took up an hour and a quarter, after which a social time was enjoyed. The second meeting will be March 11, at Mrs.
Chandler W. Smith's, Arlington street.

Trial of the Lawrence.

Another builders' trial of the torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence, built by the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, was given Tuesday, when she attained maximum speed equal to 21 1-2 knots per hour. It was one of the many trials necessary to smooth up the machinery and no effort was made to show great speed. Naval Constructor Daniel C. Nutting, Jr., and Lieut.
Gustav Kaemmerling representing the Government. All four boilers were used under natural draught, and the steaming was with ordinary coal. The highest steam pressure attained was 220 pounds, with the average at 15.
The revolutions of the screws were between the range of 225 and 234.

A newspaper criticism made after the last entertainment in the Quincy Teachers' course was that each evening had proved more enjoyable and better than its predecessor. It is intended to maintain this reputation. Thursday evening of this week, Charles T.
Copeland of Harvard will give a series of readings from Kipling and Stevenson. He is without doubt the most popular reader appearing before the public today. The people of Quincy are fortunate to have such an opportunity to hear Mr. Copeland.

The funeral of Mr. Amos Churchill was held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence on Hancock street. The services, which were conducted by Rev.
F. W. Pratt of Wollaston, were very largely attended. Rural lodge of Masons was represented by a delegation, as was also the other Masonic bodies of which he was a member. The Granite Manufacturers' Association was also represented. The burial, which was private,
was at Mt. Wollaston.

Mrs. Collins will soon be able to show the ladies of Quincy all the New Spring Styles. Miss Pratt has gone to New York to the millinery openings,

Eightieth Birthday.

Mrs. James Mears, who is making her home with her daughter, Mrs.
George Nash, reached her eightieth milestone on Tuesday. That evening about fifty of her relatives and friends gave her a surprise by calling upon her to help celebrate the event. Mrs.
Mears was very much surprised and pleased to see so many of her friends.
The evening was passed in a pleasant manner. There was vocal and instrumental music, whist and refreshments.

There was a profusion of flowers presented to her, coming not only from those present but from many who were unable to be present. Mrs. Mears was also the recipient of a number of remembrances. Although having reached a ripe old age, Mrs. Mears enjoys remarkably good health.

Granite City Ladies.

While the members of the Granite
City club were enjoying themselves
Tuesday evening at their annual ban-

ing themselves at the club rooms,
which were reserved for their exclusive

ture, for which pretty souvenirs were offered.
The fortunate ones to secure these were Mrs. George T. Magee, who was awarded a cut glass dish; Mrs. Charles C. Hearn, a medalion tray; Miss Nightingale, a cut glass cruet; Mrs. James Nightingale, a fancy candlestick. The consolation prize, a vase, went to Mrs.
Charles F. Pettengill. A lunch was

HOW HE GOT RICH.

"Increment" Staggers Mr. Faxon But He Got It Just the Same.

"Ninety-nine out of every hundred men who won't pay a poll tax are bums and beats," said Henry Faxon of Quincy yesterday, most emphatically, to the committee on Taxation. Continuing, the Journal reports him as follows:

"I find that the man who doesn't pay his poll tax," continued Mr. Faxon, "won't pay his rent. The greatest trouble I have to get my rent is from just such a man."

"I don't wonder Fall River comes here and wants the poll tax taken off and wants the penalty reduced."

"Take 13 days off their imprisonment! I'd put 13 days more to it, Mr. Chairman," Fall River said Mr. Faxon, scornfully.

"Why, Fall River and South Boston are the two hell-holes of Massachusetts, I own property in South Boston, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, and I know."

"How about Charlestown?" asked an interested city member.

"Oh, Charlestown's pious compared to the other two, and East Boston is heaven in comparison," (Great laughter.)

Mr. Faxon appeared in opposition to the bill of Mr. Donahue of Fall River or removal of the poll tax, making the assessment optional with each city and town by vote of the people at the annual election, as is now the case in liquor licenses.

"Also to a bill to reduce the length of imprisonment for non-payment of the poll tax."

"If I hadn't had so much experience in letting houses," said Mr. Faxon, "I might think differently, but where ever you find trouble with the poll tax you will find ruin."

"Those who don't pay their $2 poll tax will spend $5 for $9 for rum and tobacco."

"They're crowding everything on to real estate every year, and especially in Fall River," (Laughter.)

In answer to a question, Mr. Faxon was pleased to say that Quincy was a prohibition city.

"Are you a real estate owner?" was asked.

"I am a large one, and it doesn't pay me 2 per cent."

Asked if there wasn't a considerable "increment" in real valuation in Quincy, Mr. Faxon said: "I don't quite get that big word."

"Increase?" then said Representative Dean.

"Oh, yes at times a big increase, and then again there isn't."

"I bought an estate in the middle of the town for $4,500, and I believe now that they tax me on a valuation of $82,500 for it," (Laughter.)

"But that's my luck; that's the way I got rich," said Mr. Faxon. (Great laughter.) Then again, he said, he had a lot and wharf down at Quincy Point, where the big warships are going to be built, and he could get nothing for it.

"I offered to let it for nothing to a man if he would turn it over to me after so many years and put everything back as good as he found it."

Mr. Henry Cook of Leominster asked, "Did you not, Mr. Faxon, fight me on my $500 drugist-license bill the other day?"

"Certainly I did," said Mr. Faxon.

"Now, I want seven days imprisonment only instead of 20 and you oppose it?"

"Of course I do. I'd give 'em a good deal longer than that," said Mr. Faxon.

He continued that in Quincy 75 to 80 per cent of the poll taxes were collected, while in Boston it was less than 50 per cent, "and that the other 50 per cent was spent in rum," said Mr. Faxon.

Officer Hanson who came on duty at 7 o'clock made this report in the morning: About 7:30 my attention was called to Lynch by groans, and I telephoned immediately for Dr. Welch.

The doctor arrived at 8:30 and said Lynch was dying. He died at 8:45.

Dr. Welch remained with him until he died.

Continuing Chief Hayden says that the next day he made an investigation and learned from the landlord at the Greenleaf that on Saturday night Lynch had a gallon can of wood alcohol, and that he drank all but about half a pint of this between Saturday night and Sunday night Mr. Remick took the can away from Lynch once and hid it but Lynch found it again. The second time he took it away the liquid was nearly all gone.

Chief Hayden further said that had he any intimation that Lynch had been drinking wood alcohol he should have called a physician immediately.

Wood Alcohol and Ginger.

In the Middlesex superior criminal court, East Cambridge, yesterday afternoon, Daniel McIntosh, a Cambridge grocer, was fined $75 for maintaining a liquor nuisance in selling "Jamaica ginger" containing an over percentage of alcohol.

A despatch from Providence to the Herald also reports that last evening John A. Thomas, 49 years old, a weaver, who has been temporarily employed at the American enamel works, was sent to the Rhode Island hospital from Olneyville, and died 15 minutes after arriving there. He had been ill since Sunday, and he told his family that he and other men employed at the enamel works on that day drank diluted wood alcohol. He leaves a widow and seven children.

Measures of the great meteorite that fell in Porto Alegre, Brazil, have lately come to hand and show that its dimensions were 17 meters (56 feet) at the base by 26 meters (85 feet) in height. This is the largest meteorite known.

By reason of the close and often continuous contact between animals and mankind, dogs, sometimes affected by contagious diseases, such as tuberculosis, hydrophobia, mange, eczema, etc., are frequently the objects of such affection on the part of their master that he will take them in his arms, caress them in various ways and allow them to jump upon his knees and lick not only his hands, but his face or even his lips. Sometimes also the dogs in a house live like veritable boarders, side by side with the children, whose feet they often follow. They even eat off the plates used by the family.

Generally speaking, though frequently in large cities than in the country, dogs continually live beside their masters, whom they scarcely ever leave, breathing the same atmosphere and contributing to some extent to render it mephitic by diffusing into it malaria and perhaps also specific agents of malaria that are transmissible to mankind. This being so, it is not surprising that men should be at times wet with the saliva of a dog that has gone mad or that a dog should become tuberculous through living beside a consumptive master and consequently cause contagion in the opposite sense.

The cat as well as the dog may transmit certain diseases to mankind. It is, in fact, liable to tuberculosis, eczema and other analogous affections that rage in mankind. From its mode of life, attached as it is to the fireside, it readily accepts the caresses of its owners and lives beside them. It likes to sleep in soft places, and if it carries upon it certain germs or parasites it leaves them behind it.

Birds in the poultry yard, cage or dovecot are also a source from which the human race may catch the germs of specific and even mortal diseases. Although the question of transmission of avian diphtheria to children in the form of human diphtheria has never been solved and is by many persons considered an extremely dubious one, it is none the less established by numerous observations on the part of the most conscientious physicians that when there is an epidemic of diphtheria in a poultry yard there is also a prevalence of angina with false membrane among the children. This is sufficient to warrant measures of precaution in that respect.

Birds diphtheria and pseudo membranous angina, birds have other diseases as to which there can be no doubt of the possibility of their transmission to mankind. It is sufficient to cite avian tuberculosis and psittacosis. The latter is a common disease with parakeets, birds whose kisses certain persons receive with satisfaction.

The rabbit and the hare are capable of communicating parasites. Although the pathology of fish and mollusks is at present almost unknown, it should be remembered that fish are capable of contracting tuberculosis.

USE FOR OLD WHEELS.

One use for the frames of bicycles that are out of date is shown in the engraving herewith, which is a method of mounting a grindstone described in The Blacksmith and Wheelwright. Mr. J. Arrowood says: I had the frame of an old bicycle and utilized it in connection with the stone. I cut out the middle brace and then ran a 2 by 4 timber and made the frame and stapled it to a stout post. Then I made the frame for the grindstone and braced it underneath, as shown. I removed the hind wheel of a bicycle that had a little sprocket wheel on and cut out the spokes. Then I took a piece of soft wood, trimmed it to fit square in stone and then bored a hole the size of cycle hub, sawed open at center and fitted it on hub and drove it in grindstone. I then took a thin piece of iron and cut a notch for the axle to rest in. After finding the proper height for stone I nailed it to the frame. I had to get two chains to make stone high enough. This is now a handy ball bearing grindstone. It runs at lightning speed and costs but little to make.

Possible Plague of Hares.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Illinois Central railroad and the National Good Roads association will join hands in a scheme to educate the farmers along the line of the Illinois Central between New Orleans and Chicago in the building of good roads. The plan provides for the running of a "good roads special" between the Louisiana metropolis and Chicago and practical demonstrations by expert road builders. There will be men sent out in advance, who will arrange mass meetings, interesting the farmers in the coming of the train. The train will stop at 20 or more points, at each of which the expert roadmen will build about a mile of roadway.

No Lack of Attention.

A communication in Monday's Ledger took the Police department to task for the death of a prisoner at the Police station. The prisoner referred to was Michael Lynch.

Chief of Police Hayden disclaims any lack of attendance to the man. When interviewed he said that Lynch, when brought to the station, was apparently drunk, but seemingly in no worse condition than he had been on a number of occasions. At no time during Monday did he complain of illness or ask for a physician. Several times, however, during the day I asked him if there was anything he wanted, if I should not call a doctor or if he did not want a cup of coffee or something to eat. At each of these times he replied no, and the only thing he asked for was water, and a piece of tobacco.

Officer Hanson who came on duty at 7 o'clock made this report in the morning: About 7:30 my attention was called to Lynch by groans, and I telephoned immediately for Dr. Welch.

The doctor arrived at 8:30 and said Lynch was dying. He died at 8:45.

Dr. Welch remained with him until he died.

Continuing Chief Hayden says that the next day he made an investigation and learned from the landlord at the Greenleaf that on Saturday night Lynch had a gallon can of wood alcohol, and that he drank all but about half a pint of this between Saturday night and Sunday night Mr. Remick took the can away from Lynch once and hid it but Lynch found it again. The second time he took it away the liquid was nearly all gone.

Chief Hayden further said that had he any intimation that Lynch had been drinking wood alcohol he should have called a physician immediately.

SPREADERS OF DISEASE.

Domestic Animals May Be the Source of Much Danger.

There are many diseases to which small animals are liable and which they are capable of transmitting, says the New York Herald. This subject, to which too little attention has been directed, has been regarded by the Royal Society of Public Medicine in Belgium as worthy of its attention.

By reason of the close and often continuous contact between animals and mankind, dogs, sometimes affected by contagious diseases, such as tuberculosis, hydrophobia, mange, eczema, etc., are frequently the objects of such affection on the part of their master that he will take them in his arms, caress them in various ways and allow them to jump upon his knees and lick not only his hands, but his face or even his lips. Sometimes also the dogs in a house live like veritable boarders, side by side with the children, whose feet they often follow. They even eat off the plates used by the family.

Generally speaking, though frequently in large cities than in the country, dogs continually live beside their masters, whom they scarcely ever leave, breathing the same atmosphere and contributing to some extent to render it mephitic by diffusing into it malaria and perhaps also specific agents of malaria that are transmissible to mankind. This being so, it is not surprising that men should be at times wet with the saliva of a dog that has gone mad or that a dog should become tuberculous through living beside a consumptive master and consequently cause contagion in the opposite sense.

The cat as well as the dog may transmit certain diseases to mankind. It is, in fact, liable to tuberculosis, eczema and other analogous affections that rage in mankind. From its mode of life, attached as it is to the fireside, it readily accepts the caresses of its owners and lives beside them. It likes to sleep in soft places, and if it carries upon it certain germs or parasites it leaves them behind it.

Birds in the poultry yard, cage or dovecot are also a source from which the human race may catch the germs of specific and even mortal diseases. Although the question of transmission of avian diphtheria to children in the form of human diphtheria has never been solved and is by many persons considered an extremely dubious one, it is none the less established by numerous observations on the part of the most conscientious physicians that when there is an epidemic of diphtheria in a poultry yard there is also a prevalence of angina with false membrane among the children. This is sufficient to warrant measures of precaution in that respect.

Birds diphtheria and pseudo membranous angina, birds have other diseases as to which there can be no doubt of the possibility of their transmission to mankind. It is sufficient to cite avian tuberculosis and psittacosis. The latter is a common disease with parakeets, birds whose kisses certain persons receive with satisfaction.

The rabbit and the hare are capable of communicating parasites. Although the pathology of fish and mollusks is at present almost unknown, it should be remembered that fish are capable of contracting tuberculosis.

USE FOR OLD WHEELS.

One use for the frames of bicycles that are out of date is shown in the engraving herewith, which is a method of mounting a grindstone described in The Blacksmith and Wheelwright. Mr. J. Arrowood says: I had the frame of an old bicycle and utilized it in connection with the stone. I cut out the middle brace and then ran a 2 by 4 timber and made the frame and stapled it to a stout post. Then I made the frame for the grindstone and braced it underneath, as shown. I removed the hind wheel of a bicycle that had a little sprocket wheel on and cut out the spokes. Then I took a piece of soft wood, trimmed it to fit square in stone and then bored a hole the size of cycle hub, sawed open at center and fitted it on hub and drove it in grindstone. I then took a thin piece of iron and cut a notch for the axle to rest in. After finding the proper height for stone I nailed it to the frame. I had to get two chains to make stone high enough. This is now a handy ball bearing grindstone. It runs at lightning speed and costs but little to make.

Possible Plague of Hares.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Illinois Central railroad and the National Good Roads association will join hands in a scheme to educate the farmers along the line of the Illinois Central between New Orleans and Chicago in the building of good roads. The plan provides for the running of a "good roads special" between the Louisiana metropolis and Chicago and practical demonstrations by expert road builders. There will be men sent out in advance, who will arrange mass meetings, interesting the farmers in the coming of the train. The train will stop at 20 or more points, at each of which the expert roadmen will build about a mile of roadway.

AWILDERNESSRAILROAD

The Algoma Central Will Penetrate Canada's Wilds.

A WONDERFULLY RICH COUNTRY.

Plan Talked of For Decades Will Soon Be Accomplished—Splendid Hotel Will Be Built on Hudson Bay to Make That Neighborhood a Great Resort.

The talk and plans of decades have finally taken form, and a railway connecting the great lakes with Hudson bay is now actually under construction. The railway plunges hundreds of miles through an unbroken wilderness, with no cities, towns or even villages to afford traffic. In fact, only Indian guides and hunters have ever attempted to penetrate the great wilderness to the north. Nevertheless the railroad, which is known as the Algoma Central, is being built in the most thorough manner possible, with the best equipment available, able to stand almost any strain put upon it and capable of good service for years to come. Eighty-five pound steel rails are used, and the locomotives are of enormous size, weighing 135 tons when equipped for traffic. The engines are so massive that railway companies were afraid of the strain on bridges, and they were delivered from Chicago to Sault Ste. Marie by the lake route on steam ferries.

The new railway, says the New York Times, starts at Sault Ste. Marie. Ground was broken less than five months ago, but already 35 miles of road are completed and in use, and the railway is pushing forward at the rate of half a mile a day. It is expected that it will require three years to complete the road.

The millions of capital involved come mostly from the United States, but the builders have made careful computations as to traffic and are confident that the road will realize all that is promised as an investment. It had its origin in the necessity of bringing supplies of pulp wood from the far north to the Sault mills, but it opens up as well a region that is fabulously rich in minerals and timber. The mineral wealth is said to be practically inexhaustible, consisting of mountains of iron, copper and other valuable ores. Among other discoveries is that of a solid bed of gypsum eight miles in length.

In timber the supplies are equally valuable. For hundreds of miles, it is claimed, the railway will run through dense forests of big trees, including birch, maple, hard elm, tamarack, spruce, balsam, poplar and white pine. Curly birch, which can now be bought along the railway for 40 cents a cord, commands $40 per 1,000 feet in the United States. Elm wood, that can be cut at 10 cents a cord, sells for $25 per 1,000 feet at Minneapolis and other points in the northwest that are within easy shipping distance.

The Ontario government is greatly interested in the opening up of this rich territory and has aided in the construction of the railway by a big grant of land. At the end of the first 15 miles the railway commenced to haul heavy consignments of timber, and traffic is following closely upon construction.

It is announced that particular attention will be given to transit traffic, and at every stopping place a first class hotel will be built by the railway. At Hudson bay it is proposed to establish a modern seaside hotel. Game is plentiful, and scores of lakes and rivers that are teeming with fish will be reached by the railway. The scenery, bracing climate, hunting and fishing are expected to attract thousands of tourists. The railway also intends to handle Hudson bay fish products on a large scale.

If the plans of the officials are all carried out, the new railway to the north, reaching as it does to the very slopes of the Arctic ocean, will be one of the most daring and picturesque attempts to subjugate a wilderness known to railway annals.

Beautiful Fan From Italy.

A fan that is notable for its cost and beauty has just been given by Mrs. Joseph Drexel to the Museum of Arts and Sciences of Philadelphia. By special permission of Queen Margherita of Italy the fan was made for Mrs. Drexel by the royal artisans. The workmen were instructed to employ their greatest skill without limit of cost to make a unique article. The sticks are of tortoise shell held together with gold clasps. They are exquisitely carved and richly inlaid with diamonds and pearls, and bear the queen's crown, set with rubies and diamonds, below which the cross of Savoy is wrought in small diamonds. The lace was made at the school which the queen established for the encouragement of the lace industry. On a panel at one side the queen's autograph, "Margherita," appears. The fan cost Mrs. Drexel more than $1,000.

The plan provides for the running of a "good roads special" between the Louisiana metropolis and Chicago and practical demonstrations by expert road builders. Man Thought to Be a Swindler Tried to "Work" President of Yale

New Haven, March 6.—An alleged swindler, of whom President Hadley of Yale was the intended victim, was arrested here in the person of Alfred Parsons, who called himself Lord Rosse of Ireland.

The stranger presented himself at President Hadley's office with a letter purporting to be written by Andrew D. White, United States ambassador to Germany, which requested that the courtesy of the university be extended to Parsons. After a few minutes' general conversation, Parsons turned to personal matters and asked President Hadley to cash a check for $100 on a New York bank. This Mr. Hadley declined to do, and accompanied his visitor to a local bank, where it was learned that Mr. Parsons was not among the depositors of the New York institution. Parsons started to leave the bank, and was arrested.

It is thought that Parsons may be a man about whom the Yale authorities received a letter from Columbia university, stating that a similar swindler had been attempted there. He is an portly build, middle aged, fairly well dressed, and a fluent conversationalist.

Schoolteacher Held Up

Fall River, March 6.—Miss Violet G. Sewell, an evening teacher connected with the local schools, was followed last night by a man, and when she reached a dark section he grabbed the teacher, threw her violently to the ground and seized a package she carried in her hand, but, after finding it was school books, he took her gold-bowed spectacles and made his escape.

Lawson's Ultimatum

Boston, March 6.—The Post says: Thomas W. Lawson has given the following statement to The Post regarding the story that he would race the Independence under the name of Mr. Foster of the New York Yacht club: "Under no circumstances will my boat ever race or sail in my name, and mine alone, because—well, because I own her."

Investigation Would Not Be Amiss

Lowell, Mass., March 5.—During the unauthorized absence of Joseph Keefe from the main insane ward at the city farm, Frank Robinson, one of the inmates of the ward, attempted to give James De Lorne, another inmate, aged about 60, a bath. He filled a bath tub with scalding hot water, and told De Lorne to jump in. De Lorne did so, and was so frightfully burned that he died of his injuries. De Lorne had been discharged. This is the second time that the management of this department of the institution has been placed in an unenviable light.

Will Probably Be a Total Loss

General Henry, Va., March 5.—Schooner Captain S. E. Merwin of New Haven, Captain Rutledge, from Boston, with a cargo of 500 tons of rice, sailed for Norfolk, stranded half a mile south of the Gull Island (N. C.) life saving station. The crew of seven men were rescued. It is feared that the vessel and cargo will become a total loss.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. MEAN ACTS OF SOLDIERS

In Return For Hospitality Shown at Washington

A MIXUP WITH THE POLICE

In Which Two Persons Are Wounded—Part of Court of Honor Damaged—President Busy In Receiving Notables and Visiting Delegations

Washington, March 6.—Washington is getting over its orgy of rejoicing, and reaping its aftermath of headache and repentance. The repentance is not for anything it has done itself, but for having been so lavish in its hospitality as to invite the abuses always suffered at the hands of a visiting multitude.

The Pennsylvania militiamen have made themselves a specially active nuisance. Their brawling and riotous conduct made it dangerous for a negro to show himself in certain quarters, while over and their goods ruined, and the brave soldiers never offered to pay a penny toward balancing accounts with their animal spirits till they got into the police station. A shot from a soldier's firearm in the midst of a fight between Pennsylvanians and police wounded two innocent persons.

Some parties, unknown, suspected of being visiting militiamen, stole all the flags from a trophy mounted on the side of one of the white pillars of the court of honor in front of the White House. The loss may be repaired at a cost of $50 or so, but one of the most attractive features of the street decoration has been spoiled for a time.

Tuesday was a day of much hand-shaking and little business at the White House. Members of congress and the supreme court, visiting governors and their staffs, clubs and other organizations gave the president a very busy day.

He began at 10 o'clock by giving a reception to troop A of Cleveland, the organization that acted as his personal escort Monday. A great crowd of strangers waited outside for the doors to be opened, but owing to the large number of people having appointments with the president, it was decided not to complicate matters by opening the doors to the general public.

The Hamilton club of Chicago called and were received by the president. After the introduction William A. Lamson, a member of the club, but now a bank examiner under Comptroller Davies, sang the famous poem, "Illinois," set to a familiar tune, the last line being changed to "True to Yale and McKinley, Illinois," the club joining in the chorus. The song was received with much applause.

Eight members of the National Fremont association met the president. The members of this association took part in the convention of June, 1896, in Philadelphia, which nominated John C. Fremont for President of the United States, and so assisted in the formation of the Republican party.

There was no formal meeting of the cabinet, owing to the crush of visitors, but several members called. The members of the United States supreme court, as is their custom at the beginning of a new administration, called in a body to pay their respects to the president.

About 12:45, Senators Allison and Cockrell, accompanied by Sergeant-at-Arms Randall of the senate, waited on the president to inform him that the senate was in extraordinary session and was ready to receive any message from him. When the committee started back to the senate, Assistant Secretary Prudden left for the Capitol with the nominations of the cabinet officers.

Washington, March 6.—The inaugural display of fireworks, postponed from Monday night on account of the inclement weather took place last night. The display was made from the grounds surrounding the Washington monument and was one of the finest pyrotechnic features ever attempted in the capital city. The program included fire portraits of President McKinley and Vice President Roosevelt.

Everything indicates the total loss of the vessel, unless the weather changes and assistance reaches her soon.

A FAIR WARNING

Given to Naturalized Citizens Who Wish to Return to Native Land

Washington, March 6.—In order to reduce the chances of naturalized citizens involving themselves in returning to their native land, the state department has prepared a series of circulars telling naturalized citizens exactly what they may expect if they attempt to return to their former homes. The circular is different in the case of each European country which has shown a disposition to hold its citizens to account when they emigrate to the United States and become naturalized.

The Russian circular, which is a fair sample of the general outline of each, notifies the recipient that, under the Russian law, if he returns to Russia after having become a naturalized citizen of another country without imperial consent, he is liable to deportation to Siberia, the loss of all civil rights and perpetual banishment. Even if he left Russia in infancy he is liable to this punishment upon his return, unless he obtains the emperor's consent to his expatriation upon attaining the age of 21 years.

Russians are liable to military service between the ages of 21 and 43 years, and no Russian above 15 years of age can ask permission to expatriate himself unless he has acquired his military obligations. Russian Jews from America are not allowed to enter Russia without special permission, and the state department cannot act as intermediary in obtaining this. There is said to be a Russian circular which is said to be the status of American citizens of Russian birth upon their return to Russia.

As Newspapers View It

London, March 6.—The Times declares that parliament cannot pass over the "Hooligan" conduct of the Irish members in the house of commons this morning, unless it is to be degraded in character below the level of the Austrian Reichsrath. "Drastic punishment must be meted out to this offense," it says, "which is all the more unpardonable because clearly deliberate."

The Daily Chronicle, commenting on the scene in the house, says: "The Irishmen surprised even their old worst records. The scene carried us back to the worst days of Parnell's home rule struggle, and must still further lessen, for the Irish party the sympathy that has long been wanting."

Catholics Improving an Opportunity

Rome, March 6.—The recent revival of Catholic sentiment in Latin America is being taken advantage of by pontifical statesmen forming a union of the Catholic countries of the new world, based on community of faith, but destined possibly to have political significance also. A symbol of this union is about to be erected in Rome in a church to contain altars to the patron saint of each Central and South American state.

Strikers Wouldn't Accept Compromise

New York, March 6.—The strike of the silk mill operatives in Paterson, N. J., still continues, and four of the mills are practically shut down. The strikers were yesterday offered 15 cents a day more than they were getting, but refused. Herebefore they have been paid $2.85 for cutting 200 yards of velvet, and have been obliged to pay for goods damaged. They demand $3.50 for 200 yards, and no "damage money."

WHITNEY IS SUED

Property Attached by Representative McPherson For Alleged Slander

Boston, March 6.—The property of Henry M. Whitney, president of the New England Gas and Coke company, was attached yesterday in the sum of $50,000 by Representative Charles J. McPherson of Framingham. Mr. Whitney is summoned to appear in the superior court in Boston on the first Monday in April.

Mr. Whitney learned of the fact of the filing of the attachment from a reporter. Under the circumstances, he said that he did not care to make any statement, preferring to leave such matters in the hands of his attorney.

Representative McPherson said: "My suit is based upon the utterances of Mr. Whitney made at the first hearing of the committee on rules on my order for a gas investigation. I do not recollect exactly the words, but the suit refers to Mr. Whitney's statement in which he declares me to be a blackmailing. He said, as I recollect it, that 'this was a part of the blackmailing scheme which has followed me for years.' He also said that in this matter I did not represent my constituents, but Thomas W. Lawson. I resent being called a blackmailing and a tool, and I instructed my attorneys to sue accordingly."

Making It Unlawful to "Treat"

Topeka, March 6.—An ordinance has been adopted by the city council which makes it unlawful to treat a friend to a drink of liquor in a private house. A man is declared to be guilty of violating the ordinance if he is found in a place where liquor is sold. The ordinance does not require that an actual sale shall be proved. Heavy fines and imprisonment of from 30 to 100 days in jail are the penalties for violations of the ordinance.

They then scaled the walls, lowering themselves to the outside in the same manner.

Fire at Grand Haven, Mich., totally destroyed the public library building, including 5000 volumes. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

John McLaughlin, 35 years old, was struck and instantly killed by a train at Boston.

Ernest K. Hadley, former speaker of the New York assembly, died at Mount Vernon, N. Y., aged 90 years. He was born in Vermont.

Manuel De Costa Friar, 5 years old, was run over by a drag at New Bedford, Mass., and instantly killed.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the Grippe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease! Get a bottle today and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. GREAT PROGRESS MADE

Toward the Pacification of the Filipinos

MANY SWEAR ALLEGIANCE

To American Sovereignty, Largely Due to Active Work of Federal Party - Conditions Never Before So Favorable to Establishment of Complete Peace

Washington, March 7.—Judge Taft, president of the Philippine commission, has cabled Secretary Root, under date of March 3, saying that on the eve of the president's second administration he wishes to convey to him assurances of great progress toward peace. Since Jan. 1, 1,127 insurgents have been captured and 1368 surrendered. Since November, 5000 bolomen surrendered in Ilocos, 1000 in Albay and Camarines.

Sixty thousand residents of Panay have taken the oath of allegiance, and offensive attacks by the insurgents are now at rarest occurrence. Delgado, the insurgent leader of Panay; Angeles and Teoban have surrendered. Five other leaders have made overtures of surrender, but the conditions of immunity from prosecution for alleged complicity in assassination not being conceded, has delayed consummation.

The Federal party, an avowed and direct outgrowth of the election, has spread with wonderful rapidity through all parts of the archipelago, and is active and urgent in the advocacy of peace and presenting the advantages of civil liberty under American sovereignty. It has assisted in securing surrenders in Panay. The party's banquet on Washington's birthday and the gathering of 7000 members of the party to hear lectures and earnest addresses by leading Filipinos were most convincing of its power and purpose.

A commission has within the last three weeks organized five provincial governments, two in Tagalog provinces. It attended each provincial capital in a body, and met by appointment the presidents, councillors and principal men of the town. The conventions thus held were very satisfactory. Amendments were suggested and considered, special bills were enacted and appointments followed. The explanation of the purpose of the president and the people of the United States to secure civil liberty was received with enthusiasm. Anxiety for provincial government is everywhere apparent and satisfaction with the form adopted is manifest. The reception from the people at large along the way and in capitals was most encouraging.

Enthusiastic meetings of the Federal party were held in every capital visited. In three large provinces the natives appointed provisional governors. The expression of loyalty by all natives in the conventions was emphatic and sincere.

Fragmentary cable dispatches detailing small engagements, which are only the result of increased activity of the army after a close winter season, and efficient policing of the country, made possible by active native co-operation, create a wrong impression on the mind of the public as to a probable continuance of the war and as to conditions, which have, in fact, never been so favorable to restoration of complete peace and the accomplishment of the declared purposes of the president.

"Fair Harvard" Not Forgotten

Cambridge, Mass., March 7.—Trinity Hall, a four-story wooden structure, one of the Harvard dormitories, was gutted by fire last night, causing a loss of $15,000. During the most exciting period of the fire a student sat down in front of a piano, with water three inches deep around his ankles and smoke filling the room almost to suffocation, and played "Fair Harvard" without a break.

Another Attachment Filed

Boston, March 7.—Representative Charles McPherson of Framingham has filed in the Norfolk registry of deeds at Dedham an attachment on the goods or estate of Henry M. Whitney of Boston, to the value of $50,000, pending an action of tort. Still another attachment was filed in Suffolk county for the sum of $50,000.

Reward For Conviction of Lynchers

Terre Haute, March 7.—Sheriff Fasig has received notice that the International Council of the World has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of every person implicated in the lynching of the negro Ward. The council is a Seattle association of men and women of African descendants for mutual benefit.

Passed Unnoticed

London, March 7.—Not one of the morning papers contain a word upon the speech of Mr. Morgan in the United States senate yesterday when discussing his resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated.

For New Zealanders to Decide

Wellington, N. Z., March 7.—The colonial government has decided to submit to referendum the question whether New Zealand shall join the commonwealth of Australia.

THE COMMONS MIXUP

Redmond Says Irish Opposition Will Be Stronger Than Ever

London, March 7.—John Redmond said to a representative of the Associated Press: "The scene last night in the house of commons was a direct result of a trick on the part of the government. A vote on account for $85,000,000 had been brought up for discussion. It covered a multitude of items, and included over $10,000,000 for Irish purposes. The discussion was initiated by English members on the English educational question, and it was universally understood that the whole night would be devoted to this English question, and then the debate on the remaining items would stand adjourned. On this understanding a large number of Irish members, including some of the most experienced members of the party, left the house.

"Suddenly, at the close of the sitting, at midnight, Mr. Balfour proposed to close the discussion on the entire vote of $85,000,000. This, naturally, provoked an outburst on the part of the Irish members who were in the house. The scene was one of the most disgraceful to the English parliament. We intend to raise the matter as a question of privilege. As a matter of fact, some of the members were turned out of the house, who took no part in the scene, and the most brutal violence was exhibited in the removing of some of our members. The action of the government is likely to defeat its object, and will make the Irish more determined than ever to resist the government's plans to choke the discussion of Irish affairs."

Sagasta at the Head

Madrid, March 7.—Captain General Weyler has issued a decree raising the state of siege. The new ministry, organized yesterday by Senor Sagasta, has taken the oath of office. Senor Sagasta, for the seventh time, and at the age of 74, is again at the head of affairs in Spain. For more than a quarter of a century he has been one of the ablest ministers of Spain in its frequently changing administrations. He is the Spanish statesman best known to Americans, because it was under his premiership that the war with Spain was fought, and he retired from office as a result of an adverse vote from parliament on the treaty of peace, which Spain was obliged to negotiate.

Chicago Labor Squabble Settled

Chicago, March 7.—Chicago carpenters and contractors yesterday signed the documents which guarantee peace for two years to come. In signing the carpenters affixed their names to a statement that their various unions had withdrawn from the Building Trades council, and would not affiliate with any central body under that name.

Platt Amendment Not Agreeable

Havana, March 7.—Delegates to the Cuban constitutional convention held no meeting yesterday, but the general opinion seems to be that the convention will not accept the Platt amendment. There is considerable political excitement throughout the country, but no disposition to resent the action of congress except by moral force.

Benaco Case in Court

Montpelier, Vt., March 7.—The work of polling a jury to try the case of Arturo Benaco, charged with assault with intent to kill upon Chief of Police Brown, was commenced yesterday. The jury is not completed. Ten other Italians, implicated in the assault, are awaiting trial.

Attempted Murder and Suicide

New York, March 7.—James Campbell, 27 years old, shot Miss Dorothy Treubel, and then shot himself on a street at Mount Vernon last night. Campbell's wound is almost certain to be fatal. The girl has a bare chance of recovery. It is believed the young man was jealous.

Bulgaria Would Stand Poor Show

London, March 7.—In view of the overwhelming Turkish force concentrated near the Bulgarian frontier, numbering altogether 150,000, says the Sofia correspondent of The Times, it is evident that any attempt to provoke an insurrection must prove a failure.

No Hope For the General Merwin

Norfolk, March 7.—Captain Rutledge of the schooner General S. E. Merwin, which stranded off Gull Shoal life saving station, while on her way to this port from Boston, reports that the vessel is going to pieces.

NEWS IN BRIEF

An anti-lynching bill passed the Indiana house. It provides that the office of sheriff shall be vacated whenever a prisoner in his charge is lynched. Frank Quennell, one of the proprietors of the Hampton House, Boston, died at his home in Somerville, Mass., aged 47. Both as a restaurant keeper and a hotel man he was well known in the Boston business world.

Influenced by American experience with large freight cars, the Prussian railway authorities have decided to experiment with cars of 25 tons capacity. The battleship Wisconsin has been selected to replace the Oregon in Asiatic waters when that vessel is relieved in the near future.

Governor Crane of Massachusetts has signed the bill extending for two years the time for building the Boston, Quincy and Fall River bicycle railroad. The factory of the National India Rubber company, at Bristol, R. I., will close down for two weeks, beginning March 25, for the purpose of taking an inventory and repairing the machinery.

MANCHESTER IS SUED

Young Duke Is Charged With Breach of Promise

APPEARS TO BE WORRIED

And Says He Has Not Been Served With a Writ—Plaintiff Met the Duke First About a Year Ago—American Girl Who Has Been on the Stage

London, March 7.—The Manchester sensation promises to rival the Westminster scandal. Although the Duke of Manchester asserts that the writ has not been served upon him in the suit for alleged breach of promise, this is quite immaterial, as the writ has been issued, and proceedings have commenced.

On the arrival at Liverpool yesterday of the steamer Oceanic, from New York, Feb. 27, the Duke of Manchester, who, with his bride, was a passenger on board, was served with a writ for an alleged breach of promise, at the instance of Portia Knight of London.

Good Afternoon.

The Bridgman bill relative to nominations for elections has considerable merit in it and in many ways is preferable to the present caucus act.
Briefly this bill provides that whenever 5 per cent of the registered voters of any city shall present a written petition to the Clerk of said city more than one month before a State election, that the voters at said election shall be permitted to vote on the substitution of primary elections for caucuses, the City Clerk shall inform the Secretary of the Commonwealth who shall place the question on the ballot, and if the majority vote is "Yes" the provisions of this bill shall prevail until such time as by similar petitions and vote
the Primary Election law shall be rescinded. Provision is also made that nomination papers must be signed by registered voters equal to at least 5 per cent of votes cast at last general election, and 3 per cent. shall be sufficient to constitute a party.

Under the present law the Republican voters of a ward are often allowed to express their preference for but one nominee although two or more are to be nominated as for Representatives to general court. If the Republican voters of each ward of the city could at a primary election make direct choice of two candidates from a list of three,
four, five or more it would go far toward abolishing "trades" and at the same time secure the strongest candidates, at least candidates who were the choice of the Republican voters.

As we understand the proposed law,
the voters of all wards would, without the intervention of delegates or conventions, make direct choice from a list of nominations by papers for mayor, councilmen at large and other candidates at large. The only difference between the caucus and the election being, that at a caucus only those could vote who belonged to the party,
while on election days all vote as now.
For example, if the Quincy Republicans are to nominate a candidate for mayor next fall, if the proposed law was in force, nominations for the caucuses would be made by papers, and if Charles M. Bryant, Eugene F. De-Normandie, Roger H. Wilde, William E. Badger and Elisha Packard were the candidates, the Republican voters
in each ward would express their preferences, and the one receiving a plurality
would be the party nominee.

But for the fact that the City Council had resolved itself into a "mock session," one would be inclined to say that it had taken a sober second thought relative to investigating the Board of Health. Now, it would appear that the Council is in a worse muddle
than the Board of Health, and that it will not come out of it with as clean hands. Councilman Nichols struck the key note when he said, "At best, it was bad taste to introduce the investigation order at the time it was."

Whether the Board of Health was on the right track or not, it certainly should seek to improve the service of its department, and if there were numerous complaints against the Inspector of Plumbing, investigate the same. There should be no intimation on the part of the City Council to serve the Board of Health from its duty.

The Board of Health decided in January that the good of the service
required a change in the Inspector, and demanded his resignation. Not expecting a fight they were not prepared to present and prove charges,

which it seems the civil rules relative to this office require, or to battle against two of the leading lawyers
of the city who raised technicalities
after technicalities. In justice to City Solicitor Sears, it might be said that he did not appear as the prosecuting lawyer, but was present by request to advise the board legally, as desired
from time to time, as he would at a meeting of the City Council.

When the Board of Health found that it had not proved the charges preferred, it promptly withdrew the same.
The fact remains, however, that the good of the service seems to require a change. Almost from the date of his appointment Mr. Kenley has been under fire, and property holders are adverse to being mixed up in these petty quarrels between rival plumbers. The plumbing laws in some cases require some things that are absolutely unnecessary, yet no discretion is allowed the inspector when so many critical eyes are upon him. The mistake of previous Boards of Health is, that they did not remove Inspector Kenley when opportunity was offered.

What the City Council can do in the premises is not apparent. Before the meeting of the committee of the whole on investigation next Monday,
the charges will probably be dismissed
and the attempt to remove Inspector Kenley dropped. In justice to the members of the City Council we give the division on the question to give the special committee further time for an investigation.

The anguish of Brockton is something awful. The Enterprise lets go as follows:

"So the main office of the Old Colony Street Railway Company is to be in Taunton, and some of the local help are to be transferred there. It was hard to have the name 'Brockton' taken away, but to have the main office in a place like Taunton is well, insufferable."

Drift of Opinion.

If everybody's private opinion
gained the publicity that Sampson's private letter did, this country would be in a state of seething turmoil. We wonder what the private opinion of some of our statesmen is of some of the measures they champion for political effect.—Lowell Mail.

Editor Swift of the Yarmouth
Register brings forth an argument against Sunday gunning that has merits.
It is that people at church who hear the discharge of the guns feel very much disturbed for fear all the birds will be shot before they will be able to get any and this thought will put them
in an unhappy frame of mind and greatly interfere with their devotions.
No true sportsman can cultivate a christian temper under such circumstances.—Middleboro News.

The Rev. F. G. Peabody says
this is a solemn time for the nation. He thinks a great fight is on between the spirit of commercialism and the spirit of idealism. If the battle is really between these two systems in life we fear for the idealistic life. We know of no time when the people of any land have forgotten their comfort and their stomachs in the desire to follow the ideal theories of this existence.
The real necessities of the hour:
the wish to care for the comfort of one's self and those dependent on him—
have always been pre-eminent in the people's thoughts. The ideal has always had its share in the minds and conduct of the people of civilized lands, but it has had to take second place in the fight against the actual and the sorrowfully real need of being commercial and businesslike in order to live.—Brockton Enterprise.

What concerns Americans in the new vogue of the Hohenzollern moustache is that it will likely be cultivated by their fashionable young men—just as their fashionable young women celebrated the pact between Alexander and Carnot by wearing Russian capes and mantles. Not so long ago the Prince of Wales set the style for us; now there is no prince,
and even Englishmen are copying the imperial nephew of Germany. It is a legitimate subject of gratification that the Hohenzollern whisker is a comely object, imparting an eagle-like dignity and a certain proper fierceness to the masculine visage. While it may be weakly contended that it snatches of militarism, it is at least militarism of a comprehensive and disciplined sort,
rather than the contentious and bush-whacking species inherent in the tangled beard of Populism.—New York

THE BATTLESHIPS.

Rhode Island and New Jersey to be Built Here.

Bath Works Not to Build a Cruiser.

New Battleship Illinois to be Tried
Next Week.

Secretary Long of the Navy decided on Wednesday that the names of the two new battleships now building at the Fore River Ship and Engine Works in Quincy should be the Rhode Island and the New Jersey.

It is possible that the Quincy company may if it wishes secure the contract for a cruiser, for a Washington
dispatch of Wednesday says:

The Bath iron works has declined finally to accept the contract for the construction of one of three protected cruisers which the navy department has undertaken to contract for under authority conferred by last year's naval appropriation bill. The company offered to build this ship for $2,750,000
and the department awarded the contract to it, but it was found that the bidders had cut out of the specifications many articles of equipment and structural features which the department regarded as absolutely necessary to be included in the contract work.
The navy department will immediately readvertise, calling proposals
for building this one vessel.

A dispatch to the Globe from Newport News says:

The new battleship Illinois, building
at the shipyard here for the government, and sister to the Alabama and Wisconsin, will go out on her builders trial trip Tuesday, March 12. Final preparations for the trip are now under way. The coal bunkers are being filled with picked New River steam coal; supplies are being put aboard and the machinery is being gone over thoroughly. The Illinois will remain at sea.

Col. Parker at Head.

The formal notice of consolidation of Mrs. Emmons Blaine's institute with Chicago university has been issued.

The Chicago institute is to become a professional school of the university of Chicago and will include a school of pedagogy and an elementary school and kindergarten. Associated with it will be a secondary or high school for the present under the leadership of Dr.
John Dewey of the university. Ultimately, however, to become part of the Chicago institute.

Col. Francis W. Parker, formerly of Quincy, Mass., is to be the head of the institute and his successors are to be appointed by the university trustees
upon the nomination of the Chicago institute trustees.

With the institute the university receives $1,000,000. Part of this is to be used in furnishing a home and equipment for the institute, and the rest is to be devoted, chiefly as an endowment fund to the maintenance of the institute. The university expects to expend from its own funds between $10,000 and $20,000 a year for the support of the work.

Quarrymen Blown to Atoms.

A Philadelphia dispatch of Wednesday to the Journal says: Giuseppe Confano and Angello Abatto, Italian laborers, were blown to atoms today
by an explosion of dynamite in a quarry at the suburb of West Manayunk.
The two men and a companion were preparing to blast rock, and proceeded to thaw out the frozen stick of dynamite.
There was a terrific explosion,
and Confano and Abatto were lifted
many feet above the top of the pit.
Portions of their bodies were scattered in all directions. The other man was stunned, but escaped serious injury.

SLASHED HER THROAT

Boston Man Kills His Wife Without Warning

HE HAD BEEN OUT OF WORK

His Victim Was Living With Her Mother, Who Receives Bad Cuts While Endeavoring to Protect Her Daughter From Furious Assault

Boston, March 7.—The Boston police are investigating one of the most brutal crimes which has demanded their attention in years. Thomas J. Burns, despondent, he says, over his failure to obtain steady employment, killed his young wife Hannah, to whom he had been married less than two months, by cutting her throat with a razor at her mother's home, 2 Washington place, South Boston, late yesterday afternoon. Twenty minutes later Burns was in custody.

Burns is 24 years of age, and his wife was one year younger. Burns was married Jan. 20 to Miss Hannah Dooley, an employee in the marketing room of one of the large department stores, where Burns himself had been employed until he lost his position something over a year ago. Since that time he has been employed as a waiter in different places, but his income was small and irregular.

When first married the couple went to live on Harrison avenue, but on Feb. 22 Mrs. Burns went to her mother's home to keep her sister company while her mother was in a hospital. Last Monday Burns, who was then working in a South Boston restaurant, left his place, sold a violin, and with the proceeds went to New York to look for work. After reaching there, he says the thought came over him that if he remained there he might be arrested for non-support, and so he came back to Boston, arriving yesterday morning.

He went to a pawnbroker's shop where he purchased a razor, and about 11 o'clock he called at his wife's home. He talked with his wife and her mother, and at the latter's invitation stayed to dinner, and remained during the afternoon. About 5 o'clock, while they were in the entry way of the tenement, Burns asked his wife to return with him to the Harrison avenue house, which she refused to do. Then, pulling the razor from his pocket, he made a vicious slash at her, cutting her throat in a horrible manner. Mrs. Dooley, hearing her daughter's cries, sought to protect her, when Burns attacked her, inflicting bad cuts on the elder woman's cheek and forehead. Meanwhile Mrs. Burns had run down stairs and fallen exhausted in the lower hallway, expiring in a few minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watts, who occupied the lower tenement, were powerless to restrain Burns, who rushed from the house as soon as he fully realized the result of his attack. He was, however, quickly intercepted by two officers, and locked up. Burns did not seem to be under the influence of liquor at the time, but had the appearance of a man who was recovering from a protracted spree. The body of the murdered woman was taken to the morgue, while Mrs. Dooley's wounds were dressed by a physician at her home.

The arrest of Burns so quickly was an accident, almost. An officer saw Burns coming along with blood on his hand. He remarked to a brother officer that he guessed he had been fighting and it was best to speak to him. The officer did so, and Burns said, "I've done it; I cut my wife's throat." The officers then locked the man up.

Boston, March 7.—An adverse report was received in the house yesterday on the yearly plea of woman suffrage advocates for the right to vote. There were three dissenters to the report. Leave to withdraw was also reported on the petition for the repeal of the compulsory vaccination law.

Sensational testimony was brought out on the liquor traffic in this city. A prominent clergyman made a personal tour of a number of small hotels last Sunday, and gave his experiences to the committee. He claimed that the law was being openly violated by these small hotels.

Sinking Schooner Abandoned

Boston, March 7.—Particulars have been received regarding the loss of the four-masted schooner George Bailey. Captain Peckworth and his crew were taken from the sinking vessel off Sable island by the German tank steamer Bremerhaven, which landed them at Philadelphia. The men suffered greatly from cold and exposure. When the Bailey was abandoned she was sinking rapidly.

Heavy Raid at Portland

Portland, Me., March 7.—Liquor Deputy Plummer and Leach visited the Boston and Maine freight shed yesterday and made their first seizure of liquor, under the recent opinion of Chief Justice Winslow, allowing the seizure of liquor which lies at its destination awaiting final delivery. Two heavy jigger loads were seized and deposited in the county liquor room.

Gets Three Years For Assault

Boston, March 7.—Frederick Brown, a pedler, got a three-years' sentence to the house of correction yesterday, for assault upon a woman whose home he had entered to show his wares. It was shown that Brown was intoxicated.

MILNER TAKES A HAND

In Negotiations Looking Toward the Surrender of Botha's Forces

London, March 7.—Private dispatches received in London this morning confirm the rumors of negotiations between Lord Kitchener, Sir Alfred Milner and Commandant General Botha. Nothing is known as to the actual presence of the Boer commander-in-chief at Pretoria, and no London paper publishes a statement that he is there, but it is reasonably certain that General Botha is in either personal or very close touch with General Kitchener.

The Associated Press is informed that Sir Alfred Milner has gone to Pretoria with the object of assisting Lord Kitchener in these negotiations, the length of which appears to be due to General Botha's desire to consult with Acting President Schalk-Burger at Pieterburg, and to make terms applying to the whole Boer forces, but, militating against this, is Lord Kitchener's doubt as to General Botha's ability to control De Wet, Delarey and other leaders, as well as the internal opposition General Botha is encountering.

Verdict Against Mrs. Nation

Topeka, March 7.—Several months ago Mrs. Carrie Nation, in a speech delivered at Medicine Lodge, stated that County Attorney Griffin was granting the saloon keepers of Kiowa immunity from prosecution for a money consideration. "They are giving $15 a month," she is quoted as saying, "and I have witnesses to prove it." Griffin sued Mrs. Nation for damages, and the jury yesterday gave him a verdict of $1 and costs of suit. Mrs. Nation, by her attorney, David Nation, who is also her husband, has taken the case to the supreme court on an error.

British Won Against Great Odds

London, March 7.—Intelligence just received from northern Nigeria, bringing events there up to Jan. 31, describe the operations of the British expedition of 300 against the marauding Imirs of Bida and Kontagora. Both capital towns were burned by the British. Two hundred slave women, belonging to the King of Bida, were released by 36 men under command of two officers, who successfully engaged 1000 armed natives.

Chinese Sympathy For Russia

Shanghai, March 7.—The Chinese government has circulated among the provisional authorities a Russian dispatch setting forth the long friendship of Russia and China, between whom no religious troubles have ever arisen, and pointing out that "the present war is due to missionary excess" and that no missionaries have been sent from Russia. Russia promises to aid China and to restore Manchuria before long.

Father's Search For Child Ended

Boston, March 7.—Ethel M. Marsh, the 17-year-old girl who left her home in Portland on Feb. 19, and since that time has been lost to her friends, was found by her father yesterday at a lodging house. She said she had been with friends, and the landlady confirmed this. Her father found a home for her with friends in this city, with whom she will reside.

The Trainmen Were Drunk

London, March 7.—The Moscow correspondent of The Daily Mail says: During the recent heavy snowstorms 50 men were cleaning the snow out of a railway cut near Wolovo when a train came down at full speed and crushed about 30 men into shapeless masses. Inquiry shows that the engine driver and all the guards were drunk.

People Had a Narrow Escape

Dubois, Ia., March 7.—The major portion of Sherwood, a small mining town, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire burned so rapidly that the inmates barely escaped with their lives.

Nicaraguan Judge Murdered

Managua, March 7.—Judge Meza of the Nicaraguan supreme court was killed yesterday at Guanada by Senor Lacayo, whose father has been well known in Nicaraguan affairs.

Training Ship Stranded

Washington, March 7.—The latest reports concerning the training ship Dixie indicate that the vessel is still fast aground down at Maryland point. A court of inquiry will be appointed to ascertain the extent of damage done and place the responsibility for the occurrence.

Population Almost Doubled

Washington, March 7.—The total population of Alaska in 1900, as shown by the returns of the 12th census, is 63,592, as against 32,052 for 1890. This is an increase in 10 years of 31,540, or 98.4 percent.

Duel Sure to Come Off

Paris, March 7.—The seconds of Paul Deroulede and Andre Buffet met yesterday to discuss the question of the proposed duel. Buffet's representatives declared that he had not insulted Deroulede and that there was no ground for a duel. This decision was telegraphed to Deroulede in Madrid, and he immediately wired Buffet that he was "a royal liar." This insulting message renders a duel inevitable.

Alleged Kidnapper Held

Omaha, March 7.—James Callahan, charged with being connected with the Cuddey kidnapping, waived preliminary hearing yesterday, and was held to the district court in $7000 bonds.

Hanged Himself In Cell

Lawrence, Pa., March 7.—William M. Mott, aged 29, awaiting trial for the murder of two women last October, committed suicide last evening in his cell in the county jail by hanging.

IN CONGRESS

Morgan Warns England Not to Enforce Clayton-Bulwer Treaty

Washington, March 7.—Again yesterday Vice President Roosevelt was the central figure of the opening proceedings of the senate. When he appeared at his desk to call the senate to order, a wave of applause swept over the thronged galleries. He evidently was impatient at the demonstration, and sharply tapping his desk with the gavel, warned the spectators that a repetition of the applause would result in an order to clear the galleries.

After a brief debate, the amendment to the rules of the senate, placing a limit upon debate, offered Tuesday by Senator Platt (Conn.), was referred to the committee on rules. The debate developed the fact that no intention exists on the part of the proponents of the amendment to urge its discussion at the present extraordinary session.

Mr. Morgan, who on Tuesday offered a resolution declaring the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between the United States and Great Britain, addressed the senate for nearly two hours upon his proposition. He declared that if Great Britain should endeavor to force the terms of the treaty the effort would result in a war which the great empire, which had controlled for scores of years the commerce of the world, would be swept from power, and her new king would be left with only sovereignty over his own island.

CHANDLER AT THE HEAD

Spanish Claims Committee Has a Difficult Task to Perform

Washington, March 7.—Ex-Senator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire has been selected to be president of the Spanish claims commission. The other appointments will soon follow, and it is intended that the commission shall get to work as soon as possible, in view of the vast amount of work to be done.

In form and method of doing business, this commission will approximate the Alabama claims commission, rather than any of the international commissions that have sat in recent years. Unless hereafter authorized by congress, this commission will not consider any of the claims of citizens of other nations than the United States for damages sustained during the war, so that the vast aggregate of the claims of foreign bondholders and of foreign corporations, such as cable companies, steamship companies, etc., will have to be otherwise adjusted if they are admitted to treatment at all. The French claims alone, on account of losses sustained through French citizens in Cuba by the insurrection and the Spanish-American war, aggregate 13,700,000 francs, and the German claims probably are in excess of this sum.

Appropriations of $1,440,062,545

Washington, March 7.—Representative Cannon, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, and Representative Livingston, the senior Democratic member of the committee, have prepared statements of the appropriations of the Fifty-sixth congress. Both place the total appropriations for the congress at $1,440,062,545, those for the first session at $710,150,862, and for the second at $729,911,683. Mr. Cannon publishes a table showing the expenditures of the previous congress to be $1,568,212,637, and Mr. Livingston makes a comparison with the Fifty-fourth congress, which appropriated $1,044,580,273.

Hay Signs His Own Commission

Washington, March 7.—Secretary Hay has been obliged to testify to his own ability and fidelity. Yesterday he signed his own commission, as he is required to sign all the commissions of cabinet officers, and he thereby declared that he imposed implicit confidence in himself and in his own fidelity and ability.

Training Ship Stranded

Washington, March 7.—The latest reports concerning the training ship Dixie indicate that the vessel is still fast aground down at Maryland point. A court of inquiry will be appointed to ascertain the extent of damage done and place the responsibility for the occurrence.

Population Almost Doubled

Washington, March 7.—The total population of Alaska in 1900, as shown by the returns of the 12th census, is 63,592, as against 32,052 for 1890. This is an increase in 10 years of 31,540, or 98.4 percent.

Duel Sure to Come Off

Paris, March 7.—The seconds of Paul Deroulede and Andre Buffet met yesterday to discuss the question of the proposed duel. Buffet's representatives declared that he had not insulted Deroulede and that there was no ground for a duel. This decision was telegraphed to Deroulede in Madrid, and he immediately wired Buffet that he was "a royal liar." This insulting message renders a duel inevitable.

Alleged Kidnapper Held

Omaha, March 7.—James Callahan, charged with being connected with the Cuddey kidnapping, waived preliminary hearing yesterday, and was held to the district court in $7000 bonds.

Hanged Himself In Cell

Lawrence, Pa., March 7.—William M. Mott, aged 29, awaiting trial for the murder of two women last October, committed suicide last evening in his cell in the county jail by hanging.

Good Afternoon.

Rhode Island and New Jersey are small states, but the battleships to be named after them will be among the most powerful on the seas. They will also be Quincy's pride.

As it would be impossible for three assessors to equitably assess the property of the city during the month of May, collect the poll list and the personal property, the need of assistant assessors is apparent, but where is the saving to the city coming in?

Perhaps the sidewalks of Quincy will average as well as elsewhere in the State. In a nearby city, which professes to be up-to-date and a little in advance, the newspaper comments thus:
"There are sidewalks and sidewalks in the city that the citizens who have to traverse them would like to see the street department at work on. In many instances the streets are the best places to walk and the pedestrians use them."

It would not do for Quincy to apportion its annual appropriation as does the rich town of Milton. For instance, Milton appropriates nearly as much for general repairs of streets as for schools.
Either the Quincy appropriation for schools would have to be curtailed or that for streets increased. Then, Milton appropriates more for its police department than for its fire department, while Quincy appropriates twice as much for the latter as the former. Milton appropriates less for salaries of town officials than for the poor department, but this is also reversed in Quincy.

It is probable that any expert accountant would recommend changes in the system of bookkeeping of a city if he was employed to make a investigation, and quite likely the change would involve extra help and increased expenses. The Mayor says some of the departments are handicapped by appropriations and clerical assistance, which is probably a fact, but he also says the method in use is correct. It would seem as if the City Council was a little outside of its province. If the request for an investigation had come from the City Auditor, it would have been in good standing, for the City Auditor is elected by the City Council for just this purpose. Now an investigation would be a reflection on the City Auditor and the Mayor.

Drift of Opinion.

An assemblage of sensible Boston women, who had come together to discuss psychological conditions, decided that "there is no better evidence of soundness of mind than the ability to enjoy a joke at one's own expense."
—Waterbury American.

Those river and harbor appropriations would have been appreciated
wherever they were to be applied, but,
after all, it must be admitted that the legitimate items were carrying pretty near the limit of dead weight and that the defeat of the measure is about as creditable as would have been its passage. Haverhill and the Merrimack valley appreciate the crumbs of comfort that are thrown this way in these measures, but the fact has to be acknowledged, just the same, that the whole scheme is but little more than a raid on the public treasury by cite

and sections looking for their own benefit.—Haverhill Gazette.

President McKinley signalized
his induction into office for the second time by reappointing the members of his Cabinet. There have been rumors that this one and that one would retire
after the inauguration and some prophets were bold enough to say that certain members of the official family would be dropped at the expiration of their terms but the President has expressed his confidence in each one of them and they will remain at the heads of their departments if they choose to do so. It need cause no surprise, however, if during the summer, there may occur changes, for it is seldom that a Cabinet remains intact, through two administrations.—Lynn Item.

It is a growing conviction
among students of vital statistics that issue waste, however effected, is not repaired by a further waste of the same kind, which means that the man who consumes tissue in close and constant mental activity has none to spare for the maintenance of a higher degree of physical energy than the quiet and leisurely pursuit of his daily avocations demands; at least, this is probably true after the period of youth and early manhood. The disinclination to take exercise is not an evidence of indolence or of feebleness. It is nature's silent protest against overtaxing the powers of the body, which is described as burning the candle at both ends.—
New York Tribune.

It is said that the poet, William Morris, who was a very hard worker, said to a friend not long before his death: "I have enjoyed my life—few men more so." When a friend remonstrated with him against the peril of such a life of intellectual tension as his, he laughed at the warning. "Look at Gladstone," he would say; "look at those wise owls, your chancellor and judges! Don't they live all the longer for work? It is rust that kills men, not work." To rest he might have added worry, which kills not less surely and even more quickly, than rust.—William Matthews—in Success.

The value of manual training is so generally recognized here in Massachusetts, where thirty-nine cities make it a part of the regular school work,
that it is deplorable to note the view of the whole subject which is taken by some members of the New York board of education and other citizens of Manhattan, who have been outspoken in their attack upon the system.—New Bedford Standard.

Runaway Boys.

A dispatch of Thursday from Portland, Me., to the Journal reports:— Two 10-year-old boys who gave their names as Ambrose J. Lane and Michael Griffin of West Street West Quincy Mass., were arrested in the Grand Trunk freight yard here today. The boys were attempting to board a freight when caught. They said they ran away from their homes in search of adventure,
and admitted that they had found it
while beating their way to this city.
They will be held by the police and the Massachusetts authorities notified.

Personal.

The "Observant Citizen" of the Post says: I want to congratulate Drs.
Roland W. Brayton and Everett V.
Hardwick of Dorchester, who have gone to Springfield to take charge of the Springfield Emergency Hospital. Both are graduates of the Harvard Medical School and give promise of soon making a name for themselves in the medical profession. Their appointments are a source of much gratification to their numerous friends throughout the city, particularly in Dorchester and Quincy.

Ladies' Night.

Thursday evening was ladies' night
with Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., and the post had as guests the members of the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies' Aid of the Sons of Veterans. The program of the evening's entertainment included remarks
by Mayor Hall and Commander Warner; readings by Miss Boyd, and Miss Smith, solos by Mrs. Leonard Hewson, and music by the Wollaston orchestra. Ice cream and cake was served and a social time enjoyed.

Co-operative Banks.

The co-operative banks or building
and loan associations of Massachusetts matured 5,079 shares last year, the par value of which was $200 each. Dues paid in on these shares was $1 per month, and the time required to reach maturity, as shown by the returns, was from 135 months, the shortest, to 150,
the longest, the average being 140 6-10
months, against an average of 138 8-10 months in 1899. The amount of loans on real estate which were cancelled by the maturity of shares was $245,074—
an excess of $32,649 over 1899.

The total number of shares in force
in these banks throughout the state on October 31, 1900, was 555,980; the number of shares in the aggregate holdings of 71,965 members—an average of 7.7 shares to each. Out of the whole number of members 15,601 are borrowers on real estate and 4,213 are borrowers on shares.

During the twelve months ending
October 31, 1900, the banks received $6,579,265 in monthly dues; this was $279,565 more than the amount received the previous year. In the same period
there was returned to shareholders $2,- 006,450 for dues on shares, withdrawn,
$55,933 for dues on shares forfeited,
$1,080,432 for dues on shares retired,
and $712,213 on shares matured—an aggregate of $5,755,029 or $200,560 more than the amount disbursed for the same purposes in the year previous.
The aggregate amount of profits credited on shares during the year was $1,361,000.

Bad Year for Parkways.

It becomes more and more evident
every day that the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Legislature
did not discriminate against Quincy.
Thursday the committee reported reference to the next General Court on the following petitions: Of Lester A. New-comb for a boulevard from Boyden square in Dedham to Hyde Park; of E. N. Foss and others for a boundary road from the Cambridge Hospital to the United States arsenal in Watertown; of the Oak Island Grove Company for completion of the boulevard
in the Revere Beach reservation; of C.
Minot Weld for a parkway from Paul's bridge in the town of Hyde Park to the Blue Hills reservation in Milton.

Wedding presents originated in a feo-dal tribute from the Vassals, to their lord; when feudalism ceased the peasants became voluntary. In the days of Queen Elizabeth a pair of knives or scissors were a common gift and symbolized the cutting of unfaithful love.

Every lady who sends her name and address will receive by mail free a trial package of a celebrated beauty's remedies for beautifying the complexion. It is not a face powder, cream, cosmetic or bleach, contains no oil, grease, paste or chemicals and is absolutely the only successful beauty maker known.

Fannie B. Ralston, 628 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y., sister of the famous Kentucky Beauty Helen Ralston, who also used these beautifiers, says:—"When I began using Mrs. Ralston's complexion beautifiers I did not think it possible to clear my skin, my face was in a horrible condition literally covered with red spots, pimples, blackheads, moth patches and freckles. And whenever the weather changed, eczema, chup and salt rheum added to my misery. I suffered a thousand deaths, and when I sent for a trial of Mrs. Ralston's beautifiers just as I had done before time and again with other advertised remedies, I did not expect any results, imagine my surprise when the next day all redness and soreness were gone. At the end of a week my skin began to clear, the freckles and moth patches disappeared and the eczema and salt rheum were completely cured. I improved so wonderfully that my friends did not recognize me, so quickly had the change taken place. My skin is now perfectly lovely, and there is not a blemish or wrinkle anywhere.

I hope all ladies will at least try these marvelous beautifiers.

Do not delay but write immediately. The treatment is harmless, a natural beauty maker and will permanently remove all tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, blackheads, flesh worms, sunburn, chaps, roughness and any and all skin imperfections no matter what they may be.

Write to-day without fail and the free treatment will be mailed prepaid with full directions and all particulars absolutely free. Address, MME. M. RIBAUDT, 2207 Kiss Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LATEST! SOME OBJECTIONS

To Raising Limit for Quincy Point Bridge.

No Reliable Estimate of the Cost.

Selectmen of Weymouth the Biggest Objectors.

The Legislative Committee on Roads and Bridges gave a hearing this morning at the State House in the matter of an increased appropriation for the new bridge between Quincy and Weymouth. Among those present were: Mayor Hall, City Solicitor Sears, Tobias H. Burke, F. F. Crane, Representative Sheppard of Quincy, Selectmen N. O. Gardner, John Dwyer, George Newton, Bradford W. Hawes and George C. Torrey of Weymouth. Selectmen DeWitt C. Bates and Walter Hersey of Hingham, A. W. Worthen, Capt. Sheppard, Gordon Willis, Representative Hunt and others.

Representative Sheppard said that as some questions had been raised as to who introduced the bill, he desired to say that he did after a conference with the Norfolk County Commissioners, when it was found $100,000 would not be sufficient to build a satisfactory bridge.

Mayor Hall said the bill provided the cost should not exceed $100,000, the pay of the Commission to be appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the cost, the expense of the County Commissioners, and incidentals to be included. As these amounts were hard to estimate the County Commission desired that these expenses should not be included in the $100,000, and at their suggestion he had prepared an amendment to the bill which provided that these expenses should not come from the $100,000. They find that they can build a bridge for $100,000 thirty feet wide which will be a substantial structure.

Selectman Dwyer of Weymouth asked Mayor Hall when he had reached the conclusion a bridge could be built for $100,000.

Mayor Hall replied that he had not reached any conclusion. That he called upon the County Commissioners last Tuesday and the amendment is the result of conference.

Selectman Gardner of Weymouth—Was that before you introduced this bill?

Mayor Hall—No.

Selectman Gardner—What would you say if the chairman of the County Commission repudiated your statements?

Mayor Hall—I do not know what I should say. Commissioner Hewins suggested the amendment.

Mr. Gardner—Do you think the County Commission have any idea what these costs will be?

Mayor Hall—No. The inference seems to be thrown out that I am one of a party with the County Commissioners. I am not, I simply called upon them to ascertain the situation. The matter is entirely in their hands. The draft of the amendment is as presented to me.

A. P. Worthen, Esq., appeared in behalf of the Fore River Engine Co., not to oppose the bill. The only thing he desired was that the advantages provided for in last year's bill shall not be lessened. We reached the conclusion last year that $100,000 would be sufficient, but if not we would be glad to have the bill rendered more effective. It was now certain that the draw must be 100 feet wide.

Selectman Bradford Hawes of Weymouth asked about estimates submitted at hearings last year.

Mr. Worthen replied that they were left with the Committee on Ways and Means, and he had been unable to find them this year.

Mr. Gardner—Was there not an estimate of $75,000?

Mr. Worthen—I think there was one of $75,000. It was perhaps only fair to say that the County Commissioner may find a different bridge is now necessary.

Minstrel at Braintree.

A very successful minstrel show was given by the Braintree club at the Braintree Town hall Thursday evening. The attendance was large, and the program replete with fun. Mr. P. C. Spring was interlocutor, and the end men were Dan Haley, Charlie Gilligan, Johnnie Slattery, W. A. Sampson, H. L. Austin, C. L. Hollis, H. S. Snow and Harry Richmond.

THE BIG SEWER.

Greenleaf Street to be Blocked Nearly All Summer.

It is probable that the larger part of Greenleaf street will be closed for travel the greater part of this year, as work is to be commenced immediately building a section of the Metropolitan sewer. Material for the work is already being landed on the street by the contractors, who expect to commence work in a few days.

Work will begin at the easterly end of the street near Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The inside dimensions of the sewer to be built are 10 feet by 12 6 inches and it is to be built at a depth of about 26 feet.

It will readily be seen that in order to go to this depth it will be necessary to open up the street nearly its entire width.

Pool Champion.

Edgar Hayden, Jr., won the pool championship Thursday evening at the Quincy Point Cribbage club. Considerable interest has been taken in this contest for the reason that the club has a larger percentage of good players than usually falls to the lot of similar organizations. Mr. Hayden has fully earned the honors of the position, having defeated all of his opponents, despite the fact that he has just recovered from a severe illness and in many matches had desperate up-hill work to contend with. The game Thursday evening was by far the best attended of the series, a very fine game being promised, as Mr. Frank Burrell received a handicap of twenty points. Hayden secured a comfortable lead in the mid frame and grew venturesome toward the end and regaled the on-lookers with many fine conceptions in the solution of the many difficult problems left him, eventually winning the game by the score of 70 to 38 and consequently the championship.

CIGAR MAKING BY MUSIC.

These Manufacturers Have a New Plan to Make Girls Work.

A cigar manufacturing firm in Trenton is attracting the attention of the labor world by certain innovations for maintaining order, holding the attention and increasing the efficiency of the 200 young women cigar makers employed in its factory.

A piano has been placed in the large workroom, and a young woman is employed to play it for two hours each day. To keep the girls off the streets at noon a teacher has been hired to give free singing lessons at the factory during the noon hour.

These innovations in New Jersey and elsewhere in the northern states, assert those well acquainted with the cigar manufacturing industry, have been adopted generally in Cuba. Nearly every large factory there has its reader or musician.

Cigarette factories in Spain, it is said, are similarly equipped. The reader, either a man or a woman, is employed to read aloud to employees from the latest Spanish novels or from the daily newspapers. The musician fills the same role as that of the performer engaged in the New Jersey factory.

The experience of the Cuban cigar manufacturer has been that this method of chaining the mind of a worker while his or her fingers are employed is not only productive of more and better work, but adds immeasurably to the good order of the factory and the good temper and cheerfulness of the operatives.

A RECRUITOGRAPH.

Moving Pictures of a Soldier's Life to Induce Men to Join the Army.

George Meredith, the novelist, has protested in verse against the use of Tommy Atkins as a sobriquet for the British soldier, stigmatizing it as "a naming base to the ear as an ass' bray." Tommy Atkins is really only the military counterpart for the legal John Doe. Apart from that, it is asked, how about "Bobs," Jack Tar, John Bull and Uncle Sam? The chief point, however, is that Tommy himself does not object.

The British war office authorities have given much encouragement to a scheme which, it is hoped, will tempt many to join the ranks of Tommy Atkins. This has been christened the recruitograph. A lecturer describes the progress of the soldier from the time of his enrollment, illustrating it with lantern slides and moving pictures and naturally dilating on the advantages of such a career. The lecturer is assisted by music, and a charming woman singer renders patriotic songs.

Claim to Make Glass Fireproof.

For some years the Pilkington Glass works in Lancashire, England, have been conducting a series of experiments designed to produce fireproof and burglar proof glass, and for the first time these experiments have been crowned with success. To the molten glass a powerful wire was added, and this composition resisted all inroads of fire or other violent agencies. Doors of this material proved unbreakable and when subjected to 2,500 degrees F. remained unaffected, while ordinary doors grew red-hot. The new composition is expected to be a commercial success.

Governor Nash of Ohio defines a prize fight as follows:—"The moment that a prize is offered to the winner it becomes a prize fight." The pigs are naturally very much annoyed to find the matter thus a simple one.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

[Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.]

Word reached town the other day that John Gilmarin, a former resident of the Gulch, had been lynched in Colorado. We knew the deceased fairly well, and we know of no reason why he shouldn't have been.

The Lone Jack Recorder says that we shoot the business men of Givendand Gulch into the belief that advertising pays. Well, we have shot a few, and all are advertisers, and, so far as we know, each one is getting a good return for his investment. Some merchants can be argued with, and some must be shot, and an editor must be equal to the occasion.

The Sand Hill Blazer in an article three weeks ago spoke of "a funeral procession half a mile long." Last week it corrected itself by using the word "precession," and this week it changes to "possession." The latest report from Sand Hill was that a committee of citizens was making the editor eat up a spelling book.

We were invited to deliver an address on "The Men of Our Times" at Elk Creek last Saturday evening, and

PURSUED FOR THREE MILES.

We began it in the presence of 500 intelligent and enthusiastic people. When 450 of the crowd began whooping and throwing cats, we saw our mistake and left by way of the rear window. Although pursued for three miles, we got safely away.

In the last five years we have received at least 250 anonymous letters threatening us with death if we didn't do so and so, and yet we are still living and enjoying life to the uttermost. If any one has anything against us, don't waste postage stamps, but call and shoot all around us. No cards are necessary, and no explanations need be entered into. Just call and begin to pop.

Next week, at our personal expense, we shall put a public clock in the post-office, and the first blamed critter who pulls a gun on that timepiece wants to dodge at the same instant, for we shall be there to pop him. We are a conservative man and respect the idiom of the people, but in this case we are determined to enforce civilization.

We have no idea who threw the stone through the editorial window of the Kicker Tuesday night and missed our head by an inch, but if he will call around in the daytime we will break a leg to make things pleasant for him. We can be charming company when we feel like it.

How He Cured Him.

Fogg—I suppose you know Harris is out and about again? He ought to pay me something for his recovery.

Bass—I never knew you were a doctor.

Fogg—No; but I'm something better. I'm a philosopher. I told Harris that his doctor was an enthusiast upon post mortem examinations and never let an opportunity slip where it was possible to provide for one. The result was that he was out of bed in a jiffy, and now he is as well as ever.—Boston Transcript.

Of men and empires--'tis to be forgiven,
That in our aspirations to be great
Our destinies o'erleap their mortal state,
And claim a kindred with you; for ye are
A beauty and a mystery, and create
In us such love and reverence from afar,
That fortune, fame, power, life, have named themselves a star.

read a very good paper on the life of Ruskin; Mr. Charles Seavey spoke of Ruskin's writing and Mr. W. E.
Simmons talked of the charitable and philanthropic work to which Ruskin devoted much time and money. An informal talk by all present followed the papers. The book reviewed was "Unleavened Bread." Rev. Mr. Pratt gave a careful criticism of the book and owing to the absence of several who were to speak on the subject the members discussed the book in an informal way.

ladies on February 28. The decorations were of pink and white and dainty menus painted by the hostess and cards helped to pass away a pleasant evening. At a late hour the guests separated all agreeing that a delightful evening had been spent.

BRIDGE HEARING.

Mayor Hall's Bill May Go Over
One Year.

Continuing the report of the bridge
hearing at the State House yesterday:

Mr. Gardner said he opposed both the proposed bill and the amendment. The County Commissioners do not know the cost and have had no estimates. They went to New York and had a man make a picture of a bridge. That is all he did and all they have got is a picture. We do not want to expend one cent more than necessary. The Berlin Bridge Co. is a reliable firm. Their figures were $73,000. With the proposed amendment $50,000 may be added. The man who drew the picture wants a big commission. There was no need of its costing over $80,000. Remember that there is an overtaxed town that has got to pay a large part of the expense. He was surprised after the attitude of Quincy last year that they should now be hobnobbing with the County Commissioners.

Selectman Dwyer said he was apposed to both the bill and amendment.

Selectman Hawes thought the bridge
could be built within the amount.

Selectman DeWitt C. Bates of Hingham said the bill and amendment call for an indefinite sum, and for that reason he objected. He thought $100, 000 should build a good bridge.

Mayor Hall--The bridge can be built for a small sum, but a bridge that will accommodate business for years is proposed. The $73,000 was the very lowest limit. The County Commissioners after a reasonable examination decided the expense should be limited. Quincy is not hobnobbing with the County Commissioners, but simply trying to have the work successfully done for the smallest sum.

The Chairman asked Representative Hunt what he thought of referring the bill to the next Legislature, and in the meantime let the work go on.

Mr. Hunt replied that this might be a good idea. He tried last year to have the bridge trustees included with the County Commissioners but they killed it.

Representative Sheppard when asked
the same question said that he was afraid the County Commissioners would procrastinate. The Fore River Co.
want to get the cruiser they are building out next fall.

Mr. Dwyer--The hinge comes that Quincy wants a bridge from 40 to 70 feet wide, and he hoped the committee would report leave to withdraw.

Mr. Gardner said a 30-foot bridge with an 8-foot walk outside was wide enough. They should come here with some figures. He hoped the Committee would report leave to withdraw.

Selectman Hersey of Hingham said he was against any increase in the amount.
The amendment leaves a wide opening.

Selectman Torrey of Weymouth thought $100,000 was amply sufficient. There was no evidence more would be needed.

Selectman Newton of Weymouth did not want to have fifty per cent of the expense saddled onto Weymouth.

The hearing was then adjourned.

Tufts College Glee Club.

Last evening at Braintree under the auspices of Thayer Academy Athletic Association, Tufts College Glee and Mandolin Club gave their fifth annual concert. There was a large audience and well there might be for the young men did not come as strangers!

The following program was given:
"Sweetheart, Awake," Glee and Mandolin club
"Down the Pike," Mandolin club
"Raast Mit Ihm," Mr. Williams and Glee club
Reading, Mr. Foster
Vocal Waltz, "Life of Youth," Glee club
"The Jumbo Cartepie," Mr. Foster and Glee club Charlie Tufts, His College.

Glee and Mandolin clubs
Reading, "Singing Girl," Mandolin club
Reading, Mr. Foster
"The Monk of the Mountains," Mr. Foster
Mr. Watkins and Glee club
Concert Waltz, "Lullaby," Mandolin club
Hodge-Podge, "What it's all about," Glee club Campus Song, Glee and Mandolin club, and Mr. Morse

Mr. Foster in his readings brought forth great applause, his selections
being delivered with noticeable ease.

The singing by the glee club was a musical feast surpassing the concert of last year.

A Maid to Order.

A Story Touching on the Servant Question.

The table was charming. The pearls of damask that infolded it were one of the Misses Dormond's most treasured possessions, saved out of a general wreck of family fortunes.

The old fashioned silver, of those inimitable patterns which no modern shop can supply, gleamed like irregularly shaped planets at intervals across the cloth.

Moreover, a daffodil bulb cherished in window sill warmth had obligingly thrown out a handful of blossoms. This pot, sheathed in yellow tissue paper, made a thoroughly attractive centerpiece.

"It is simply lovely," said Winifred, with a little sigh of relief and satisfaction. "I shan't be in the least afraid to have Mrs. Caulkington's eagle eye turned upon it, even though you are a candidate for her secretaryship, Isabel, and so much does depend upon making a good impression."

"The house couldn't fail to make a good impression," Isabel broke in. "It is clean and sweet and old fashioned from top to toe. One can't say that a house has a toe. There's just one thing lacking. I do wish we had a good maid to wait on the table. I hate those embarrassing breaks in a home luncheon where the hostess is obliged to cut in the middle of a sentence and bolt into the kitchen to bring the broiled squab course to table."

"Yes. That's always wretchedly embarrassing," Isabel agreed. "It's harder on the guests than the hostess too. However, there's no help for it. We don't keep a maid, and this suburb isn't a place where you can find a girl to call in for a day at a time. It's a pity, but it can't be helped."

"What is a pity, but can't be helped?" demanded the youngest Miss Dormond, who promissed into the room just in time to hear the last half of the sentence.

"Isabel and I were lamenting that we didn't have a maid to serve the luncheon, Gertrude. We were saying how desperately embarrassing it is for a hostess to jump up to remove the plates after a course and to bring the next course to table."

"I never thought of that," Gertrude acquiesced in a disappointed tone. "Our entertaining has always been so informal we're likely to make the guests change the plates and bring in the courses from the kitchen themselves. But it's true, as you say, that kind of thing won't do when we're entertaining Mrs. Caulkington. She's so critical that her eyes burn holes in anything they fall on. We wouldn't mind her little peculiarities if she were merely an acquaintance, but if Isabel is going to demand a big, fat salary she must make a big, fat impression. I'm sure Mrs. Caulkington would cut her down half if she knew how poor we are and how badly we need that secretaryship. Something must be done."

"Gertrude, dear, you know perfectly well that nothing can be done. There are only two hours left, and in any case you can't secure a girl here in the country to come in for just one day."

"I know that, but what, my dear? An idea dawns in my brain! Let it mature!"

"An idea for what? For getting us a maid?"

"Yes, my dear—a ready maid, so to speak."

"Silly! Do you think Isabel and I have time to waste upon your vapors?"

"A ready maid—no, a maid to order! Don't talk to me for three minutes. I feel the idea grow in my cerebrum, and it really is a good one."

The young lady sat down in the little oaken window seat and buried her face in her hands.

Three minutes later she sprang up and promissed triumphantly around the charming table.

"Huzzah! I've solved the problem," she cried. "And I'll stand for it that you shall have a maid to serve Mrs. Caulkington's luncheon. A stunning maid, well trained, light footed, soft voiced; a maid who will not send so much as one plate of raw oysters down the back of your guest; who will do things without diagrams and will not cause the downfall and destruction of precious willow pattern china. In fact, the maid I propose to offer you will be an explanatory key with copious illustrations to the entire servant question."

Gertrude's sisters were very far from despising the girl's ready imagination. It had often helped to solve an economic problem which they themselves had abandoned in despair. But this crisis of the maid to order seemed considerably beyond Gertrude even, and they frankly announced themselves skeptics.

"Do you mean to look for your remarkable maid here in the suburb or elsewhere?" they demanded.

"I shall procure her in the city, or rather, I shall go on a trip to the city, and I will send the maid to you in my absence."

"But, Gertrude! If you leave now for the city you won't have time, child, to get back for Mrs. Caulkington's luncheon."

"I'm not afraid, but I'm glad of an excuse to absolve myself. I'm in awe of Mrs. Caulkington, and I tremble before the glare of her forgetties. You can make my excuses to Mrs. Caulkington and tell her that I was obliged to go into the city on pressing business."

It seemed an injustice that Gertrude should not be there to witness the success of the occasion for which they had all worked so hard.

The older girls reasoned, pleaded, represented, but Gertrude stood firm.

Mrs. Caulkington's critical eyes were already boring holes in the drawing room furniture, and the luncheon hour was but three minutes in the future.

Isabel, in her prettiest silk waist, was arranging the oyster plates upon the table preliminary to ushering their guest into the dining room.

Suddenly a purling of gingham skirts brushed the silence of the place, and a soft voice sounded in Isabel's ear.

"If you please, miss," said the voice, "Miss Gertrude done send me. I am de maid to ordah."

"Good gracious!" shrieked Isabel under her breath. She started back, the oyster plate in her hand narrowly escaping calamity.

She said "Good gracious" once more, and very fervently, when she turned, for there, not a yard from her side, waiting to be assigned to her duties, stood the most desirable of colored waitresses.

She was tall, well poised and, barring her skin, a strikingly handsome young woman. Her pink gingham gown fitted to perfection and closely resembled one worn by Gertrude for mornings on the porch. Her dainty ruffled apron was strikingly like one which Isabel herself wore while sewing. Perched saucily in her black, ripply hair she wore a bit of a cap, which, when examined at close range, seemed to be nothing more than a tuft of white lace cleverly pinned.

Isabel took a second look at her new acquisition and dropped into a chair, laughing weakly.

"Miss Gertrude done send me, miss," the maid repeated softly, "an she said fo' yo' to jest go set in de pariah an leave all de servin to me."

"Oh, Gertrude, Gertrude!" gurgled Isabel. "What nonsense won't that child attempt?"

The luncheon was faultlessly served. Never was waitress quicker, lighter, softer, more all seeing, more graceful.

Even the critical Mrs. Caulkington was impressed.

Afterward, when the luncheon party had adjourned to the drawing room, the guest deliberately led around to the subject of domestics.

"Do you find it as hard to get good girls in the suburbs as we do in the city?" she asked. "I imagine not, for that young waitress of yours is perfection itself."

"Well, good girls are very scarce here," answered Isabel, "and I've no doubt we'd have endless trouble if we had to change. But, you see, we have raised Anna ourselves. She knows our own ways and suits us perfectly. We've had her for more than ten years. I know she'll never leave us—unless, of course, she marries and has a home of her own."

"My dear girl, you simply have a treasure," cried the visitor, with warmth. "If I were in your place, I would shiver at the very thought of losing her. And, do you know, since I've seen how perfectly your little table is arranged and served I'm really afraid of what Miss Isabel will think when she comes to me in the city. I hope you will close your eyes to a number of things in my housekeeping, Miss Isabel."

"Oh, I am not critical, Mrs. Caulkington," laughed Isabel. "And every one knows how hard it is to get maids like Anna nowadays."—What to Eat.

Neglected Dryden.

Notwithstanding Lowell's high praise of Dryden's prose works and the accusation he brings against literary plunderers of this magazine of letters 200 years ago, few people except scholars now ever open Dryden's essays, though they are well worth careful perusal and study, in spite of Swift's malicious and witty lines:

Read all the prefaces of Dryden,
For these our critics much confide in,
Though they merely writ at first for selling,
To raise the volume's price a shilling.

There is truth as well as wit in this characterization, for Dryden was in some respects but a literary hack, although a man of genius. But, being a genius, it was impossible for him to write anything, however carelessly and slipshod, without something finding its way in that will arrest the reader's attention even yet, after the lapse of two centuries. Unlike the other and smaller literary hacks of his time, whatever Dryden wrote he wrote freely, and there is an absence of cramped formulas and of pedantic utterances, as a rule, which is interesting. Even in his shilling prefaces to which Swift alludes the reader will have no difficulty in discovering a man of genius, one of many lovable traits and great characteristics, and at least Dryden's own likings and judgments are set forth pleasantly and frequently in a convincing manner. He is one of the old writers that weary moderns given up to novel reading could profitably turn back to and peruse to their own great advantage.—Exchange.

Painting Furniture.

In the beginning the piece to be painted should be thoroughly cleaned with soap and water. It should then be rubbed all over with a piece of sandpaper not too coarse. This will take off the varnish, and the first coat of paint will adhere better in consequence.

One of the gravest errors and one most frequently made is to use the enamel paints for both coats. These are especially prepared for furniture and, having a hard enamel finish, dry quickly. Besides being expensive, where two coats are used the second coat does not adhere well over the hard enamel.

The proper way, so say those experienced in the matter, is to buy for the first coat ordinary indoor paint of the same shade as the enamel. After the furniture has been thoroughly washed and sandpapered, dusted off and dried the first coat is put on carefully. At least two brushes are required, one 3 inch flat brush for the larger surface and a small brush for the intricate places.

In 24 hours, when this coat is thoroughly dry, it is often advisable to go over it lightly with fine sandpaper. This removes any chance hair left by the brush and smooths down any little lumps of paint which may have hardened from the first coat.

Before beginning the second coat the brushes should be thoroughly cleaned. If the paint at any time is found to be too stiff, the pot may be set in hot water. The second coat should be added quickly with a fine brush and the piece of furniture left to dry in a place where there is no dust.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—A castaway.—I Cor. ix, 24-27. (A temperance meeting.)

In these verses Paul likens the Christian life to a race and to a boxing contest. To the residents of Corinth these allusions would have particular force. They were prominent features in the isthmian games which were celebrated near Corinth and which were of the greatest interest to all its inhabitants. The isthmian games were the chief glory of Corinth and at the time when Paul wrote had even thrown the Olympic games into the shade.

These illustrations gave the apostles a splendid text upon which to preach a sermon on the subject of temperance, not sobriety (temperance in drink), but temperance in all things. One of the chief requisites of success in these athletic contests was temperance in all things. "Every man that strives for the mastery (that strives to win in a contest) is temperate in all things." The contestants in these Grecian games were required to be temperate. They had to develop great powers of endurance, and this could only be done by long training and self denial. They had to be "pure, sober and enduring; to obey orders, to eat sparingly and simply and to bear effort and fatigue for ten months in advance." Temperance is also required in the Christian race and in the fight of faith, and if the athlete was willing to endure so much, to practice such self denial for the fading crown of isthmian pine, how much more willing we should be to deny ourselves, to be temperate in all things, that we may win an incorruptible crown—a crown of righteousness, a crown of eternal life.

Temperance in all things requires that the body must be in subjection to the mind and that the mind must be in subjection to Christ. The body was never intended to be the master of the mind, but its servant—the instrument by which the desires of the mind were to be carried into effect. In intemperance the body is master and not servant; its desires and appetites are supreme. But for spiritual discipline the mind must be in subjection to Christ. If the mind be governed by Christ, and the body by the mind, we have true Christian temperance and self control. It requires a serious and continuous effort upon our part to bring about such a blessed and desirable condition. Paul's self denial was a real one and not a shadow. He had a definite goal before him and not an uncertainty and that he might win it he put forth a serious effort. It was no "shadow fight" in which he engaged. It was not a beating of the air, but a bruising of himself. By great self denial he kept his body under and brought it into subjection. And thus only can we become temperate in all things.

The disastrous results of intemperance should inspire us to temperance. By intemperance the contestant lost a fading crown; by it the Christian would lose an immortal crown! "I keep under my body and bring it into subjection, lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway." It was only by fulfilling certain requirements that an applicant could enter the games. If he failed, he was rejected; he was a castaway. Paul displays here an anxiety lest having trained others to meet these requirements he should fail in them and be rejected. Such a thought is sufficient to cause anxiety. "Hell after preaching" is an awful thought. And the possibility of losing such a crown should inspire all men to any endeavor, to any self denial, that it may not be lost.

Let the temperance committee arrange a temperance programme.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. i, 1-6; Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 1-3; 29-32; Dan. i, 1-17; Math. xvi, 24-27; I Cor. vi, 9-10; Gal. v, 19-26; Titus i, 7-9; ii, 1, 2; I Pet. v, 1-9.

Trust in the Universal Power.

The equality of existence, the trust in the everlasting goodness of the universal life movement, breathes at all time unqualified thanksgiving to the Power that moves the spheres and appoints His time for the exaltation of those He chooses for that end and the downfall of those He would bring low. It is immaterial to the religious man whether in the material world there is exaltation or downfall. The evenness of his trust when his spirit is at peace with himself is sufficient cause for continuous thanksgiving. His way is the way of the Lord, and though death be in its path, that death is exaltation and that path is the path that induces thanksgiving.—American Hebrew.

Truth.

The intellectual apprehension of truths is comparatively easy and comparative profitless. Satan doubtless knows more of them than any of us. The spiritual apprehension of them is a hard thing. That cannot be taught by man. It belongs to the inner individuality and to the grace of God. It is intellectual still, but it is intellect interpenetrated with spirit, and unless it is interpenetrated with spirit it is but a dead thing.—Churchman.

A Cure For Worry.

The best cure for worry is a belief in God's decrees. If we are God's workmanship and were created for a purpose, why permit every little mishap to imbitter our lives? Our disappointments are his realizations.—Presbyterian Journal.

Duty Well Done.

This is the preparation for a good old age: Duty well done, for its own sake, for God's sake and for the sake of the commonwealth of man. When a man works only for himself, he gets neither rest here nor reward hereafter.—Robert Collyer.

POWERS ARE WAKING UP

To the Fact That Russia Is Playing a Grab Game

MUST LEAVE MANCHURIA

Will Be Given to Understand That She Must Give Up All Designs Upon
That Rich Country—The Matter
Assuming a Serious Phase

London, March 9.—Secret negotiations are going on between the United States and Great Britain with a view to thwarting what both governments appear to consider a determined attempt on the part of Russia to plant herself permanently in one of the richest tracts of the Chinese empire, thus creating a crisis in far eastern affairs, which, in the opinion of the British government, is graver almost than the troubles which originally turned the eyes of the world toward the Orient.

The conference held Wednesday between United States Ambassador Choate and Lord Lansdowne, the foreign secretary, had nothing to do with the Nicaraguan canal affair. To quote a British official, "the Nicaraguan controversy is a minor matter compared with the present situation." What Mr. Choate did was to receive from Lord Lansdowne an important message, declaring that Great Britain was not satisfied with Russia's declaration regarding Manchuria, as delivered to Mr. Scott, British ambassador at St. Petersburg, by Count Lansdowne, and asking the United States if they were prepared to take joint action of such a decisive nature that Russia would have no alternative but to recede from her position.

Almost simultaneously, the Associated Press understands, the United States government instructed the various ambassadors to take similar steps.

The answer of Secretary Hay has apparently not yet been received in London, although the fact that almost concurrent instructions were issued from Washington is taken here to be a sufficient guarantee that Russia's action in Manchuria will not be tolerated in the United States.

Japan is relied upon to take a line in harmony with the United States and Great Britain.

Germany, in spite of the Anglo-German compact, is regarded as rather doubtful, owing to Emperor William's friendship for the czar. France, of course, will side with her ally.

The significance of the present phase can only be appreciated by those cognizant of the hitherto lethargic attitude of the British government regarding Russian action in China. Within the last few days all this has changed. What a week or two ago was pronounced only in line with Russia's usual policy is now termed a "grave and serious state of affairs."

Lord Lansdowne is using every effort to bring the powers into line, in order to present to Russia such a menacing front that, without any ambiguity regarding temporary or other occupation, she may give up all designs upon Manchuria.

What prompts the British foreign office to take such an alarmist view of circumstances, usually looked upon as fatalistic sequences, is the apprehension that Russia, having held her own in spite of the protests of the ministers of the powers to the Chinese government, and having put herself on record in the reply to Ambassador Scott as determined on, at least, a temporary occupation of Manchuria, will refuse to back down.

That she must do so Lord Lansdowne considers vital both for the future of China and for the continued existence of the concert of powers.

No News at Washington

Washington, March 9.—Just to what extent our government has expressed itself to the other powers regarding the attitude of Russia in respect to the occupation of Manchuria, and what, if anything, has been received from the British foreign office, would not be divulged by the officials here. Our government deems it inexpedient for the Chinese to make any independent arrangement with any foreign power while peace negotiations are in progress at Peking. An incidental note conveying these sentiments has been sent by the United States to each of the powers interested in the settlement of the conditions growing out of the Boxer movement. The Chinese Imperial government also has been acquainted with these sentiments.

No Faith in "Assurances"

Berlin, March 9.—The German press believes that Russia's assurances regarding Manchuria are insincere and intended to blind the world. The National Zeitung frankly asserts that this is their object.

Schieber's Tracks Well Covered
New York, March 9.—William Schieber, who plundered the Elizabethport, N. J., bank last August of $109,000, has been traced to Los Angeles, Cal., where he cashed three United States 4 percent bonds for $1000 each. Except that he cashed the bonds in Los Angeles nothing further has been learned of the missing clerk. Feb. 26-1y

PNEUMONIA FEARED

Otherwise Mr. Harrison's Sickness Is Not of an Alarming Character

Indianapolis, March 9.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison is a very sick man, and his closest friends are alarmed. His condition is more serious than is generally believed. However, Dr. Jameson, the family physician, who has sole charge of the case, says there is no immediate danger. Asked if the age of General Harrison would not weigh very much against his recovery, the doctor said such would naturally be the case to a certain extent, but he declined to discuss the matter further than to say that he was not at all alarmed over the condition of his patient.

General Harrison is troubled with a complication of grip and intercostal neuralgia and there is some fear that this will develop into pneumonia. The disease in itself is not necessarily of an alarming character, but when the age of General Harrison is taken into consideration with the diminution of his recuperative powers his present illness is being viewed with much anxiety.

Mr. Harrison has suffered much pain. The large muscles of the chest are much affected, and the patient is confined to his bed. The most favorable symptom is the absence of fever, and still another circumstance in favor of the general is that his sleep as yet has not been impaired.

Acted on Husband's Advice

Wichita, Kan., March 9.—In the trial of his absent wife yesterday, David Nation took the stand and said that she began her "smashing" crusade against saloons upon the advice of himself and Ed Sample, as lawyers. They told her that saloons were outside the pale of the law, and could be abated in any manner any individual might choose. Since Mr. Nation's voluntary admission that he advised his wife it was no crime to wreck saloons, there is some talk of proceeding against him as an accessory before the fact, and he may be arrested.

Abrogation of Tobacco Duties

Washington, March 9.—The president yesterday issued an executive order abolishing the Cuban export duty on tobacco from April 1 next. The abolition of duty affects cigars and cigarettes as well as tobacco in leaf, filler and cut. It is estimated by the war department officials that the abrogation of the tobacco duties will cause a loss of revenue of about $800,000 or $1,000,000 a year.

Senate Ready to Adjourn

Washington, March 9.—Final adjournment of the extraordinary session of the senate would have been taken yesterday had the new senator from Oregon, Mr. Mitchell, been present to take the oath of office. He could not reach Washington until today, however, and adjournment was postponed until that time. No business of importance was transacted in open session.

Anglo-American Hospital in Cairo

Cairo, March 9.—Lord Cromer, British diplomatic agent in Egypt, and John G. Long, United States consul general in Cairo, jointly presided yesterday at an Anglo-American meeting to consider a memorial to Queen Victoria. The founding of an Anglo-American hospital was approved by the meeting, and the subscriptions altogether aggregated $20,000.

End of Havana Strike

Havana, March 9.—The striking stevedores, lightermen and cartmen returned to work yesterday afternoon. The stevedores agreed to compromise on $2.50, American money, for day work and $4 for night work. The Ward Line agreed to send home the American longshoremen and discharge the non-union lists.

Duke in a Scrampy Mood

Rome, March 9.—The Duke of Orleans has declared that he will himself provoke M. Beroulette, as he considers the epithet "royal liar" a personal insult. The duke telegraphed M. Buffet asking to replace him in the encounter, and notwithstanding M. Buffet's refusal, he intends to persist in this resolution.

Chicago, March 9.—Chicago is threatened with a telephone war. The United Telegraph Telephone and Electric company offers a reduction of half the present rates and a 5-cent charge for public 'phones. The granting of a franchise has been recommended by the council committee.

Lawrence Made Twenty-Two Knots

Quincy, Mass., March 9.—The torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence made a maximum speed of 22 knots at her third builders' trial, in a run from Point Allerton out and around Boston lightship. The figure is half a knot faster than she has made on previous trials, and was a successful test in every respect.

INTERESTING LETTERS

Concerning Agoncillo and the Paris Commission

SIXTO LOPEZ'S STATEMENTS

Submitted to Whitelaw Reid With a Request For Explicit Information—
Reply Indicates That the Filipino's Memory Is at Fault

New York, March 9.—Light is thrown upon the failure of the Philippine representative to be heard before the American treaty commissioners in Paris by the following correspondence between L. K. Fuller, secretary of the Philippine Information society (Boston) and Whitelaw Reid, one of the American members of the commission. Mr. Fuller's letter is dated Boston, Feb. 26, 1901, and says:

"On page 171 of 'Problems of Expansion' I find 'every time Mr. Agoncillo approached any member of the commission on the subject he was courteously invited to send the commissioners a written request for a hearing, which would, at any rate, receive immediate consideration. No such request ever came, and any Filipino who wrote for a hearing in Paris was heard.'"

"The statement of Mr. Sixto Lopez, secretary of the Philippine commission, as to its efforts to obtain a hearing from the treaty commission, is to the effect that Senator Agoncillo called repeatedly upon Senator Davis, to whom he had received a letter of introduction, asking the senator to assure him a hearing before the treaty commissioners. Mr. Lopez says that the senator made no suggestion that a written request be made to the commission, but stated that he himself would present Mr. Agoncillo's request for a hearing."

"May I now enquire whether Senator Davis did ever present the request of Senator Agoncillo, and whether, to your knowledge, any member of the commission advised either him or Mr. Lopez to present such a written request?"

"Mr. Lopez further states that the Philippine representatives called upon and left cards for each American member of the commission, which courtesy, he says, was in no way noticed. Can you inform me, in your own case, whether this card was received, and, if so, if the advances of Senator Agoncillo were in any way reciprocated?"

"In regard to your statement that 'any Filipino who wrote for a hearing in Paris was heard,' might I inquire, whether, as a matter of fact, any Filipino was so heard? If so, the mention senate document 62."

"An inquiry which has been made of the Philippine Information society as to this matter is my excuse for appealing to you for a more specific statement."

To the above Mr. Reid replied:

"Owing to my absence your letter of Feb. 26 has only now reached me, referring to my statement about Mr. Agoncillo's reported efforts to get a hearing before the peace commissioners in Paris, and propounding certain questions on the subject, which I take pleasure in answering at once."

"I—Senator Davis, on at least two occasions, reported to the peace commissioners the request Mr. Agoncillo had made orally to him for a hearing. Each time Senator Davis was authorized by the commissioners to request Mr. Agoncillo to present the application in writing, and to assure him that it would have early attention. Senator Davis reported to the commission each time that he had communicated to Mr. Agoncillo its answer. Perhaps I ought to add that on more than one occasion I brought the subject up in the commission, and inquired of Senator Davis whether any such written application had yet come from Mr. Agoncillo. I was told that none had come, and that, instead, Mr. Agoncillo was reported to be frequenting the headquarters of the Spanish commissioners and the Spanish embassy."

"2.—In my own case, Mr. Agoncillo's card was received, and my card was duly left upon him within 24 hours."

"3.—As a matter of fact 'any Filipino was so heard.' One was heard at considerable length and more than once. But the hearing was, at his own request, kept secret. He was a man of standing in the community in Luzon."

"You say you ask the questions in order to furnish information. It might be well, then, to let it be furnished generally, and I suggest giving it to the Associated Press. I am therefore taking the liberty of handing your letter and his reply to Melville E. Stone, the general manager. I shall be out of reach myself, being on a railway train for the next five days, but Mr. Stone will make no use of your letter if you telegraph him direct at the New York office."

The secretary of the Philippine Information society requested of the Associated Press brief delay in the publication of the above, and then sent a long letter from Sixto Lopez, expanding and adding to his statements already quoted in Secretary Fuller's letter. This was telegraphed to Whitelaw Reid in California. He answered, thanking the agent of the Associated Press for the courtesy, but saying that his own letter was exact, and that he had no reason for making any additional statement.

Plague Spreads at Cape Town
Cape Town, March 9.—Three fresh cases of bubonic plague were officially reported yesterday. Two of the victims are Europeans.

HEAVILY OVERSTOCKED

Fall River Print Cloth Market Is In a Demoralized Condition

Fall River, Mass., March 9.—The sales in the print cloth market during the week amounted to a scant 50,000 pieces, all odds. No regulars were disposed of during that time. This is the poorest week's business done in many months past, which have been marked by poor business throughout, and makes it even more certain that before long some step must be taken by manufacturers to relieve the unpromising condition of the print cloth market.

As a result of the reduction made in New York and Philadelphia in the price of printed finished goods, the cloth market here during the week became demoralized and buyers refused to pay the figures asked by manufacturers for their production. The drop in cotton was also a factor in the situation and caused the loss of orders which might have made this week's sales amount to a respectable total.

The stock on hand is increasing weekly, and in the opinion of manufacturers its reduction is a most vital point under existing conditions, even though it be again necessary to shade the selling price.

Neither in the selling committee, nor outside it has there been started any definite movement having in view either a curtailment, a reduction in wages or a cut in price to meet competition or create a demand for print cloth. The market is dull at 3 cents for regulars and on that basis for odds.

Battle With an Enraged Cat

Asheville, Me., March 9.—John Small heard a disturbance in his woodshed, and, with a lamp in his hand, started to investigate. As he opened the door a large cat sprang at him. The lamp was knocked from his hand, but was extinguished in falling. Small gradually backed his way to the kitchen, fighting off the cat as best he could. He finally reached his gun and shot the feline. Small's hands and face were terribly scratched. The cat weighed 11 pounds, but was evidently a common house cat which had roamed wild in the woods.

Valuable Property Destroyed

Medford, Mass., March 9.—A large two-story ell, 150 by 50 feet, connected with the plant of the Boston Steel and Iron works, was burned last night. The fire was caused by a hot box on a shaft that transmitted power from the main building. The loss will reach $20,000. Between 150 and 200 men are employed at the works, and some of them will be temporarily idle, but the severest loss will be the destruction of plans and patterns, which it will take some time to replace.

Was Widely Known by Golfers

Lawrence, Mass., March 9.—James Campbell, known among the golfing fraternity as a green keeper and instructor, died at his home this morning of dropsy. It is claimed for him that he introduced golf in this country, and it is a fact that he laid out a great many courses and did much for the game in places where golf was practically unknown. He was 63 years old, and he leaves a family here. He was a native of Edinburgh.

Wolf Had Good Hiding Place

Boston, March 9.—A police officer in Franklin park yesterday killed a common gray wolf weighing about 55 pounds. A year ago the same officer shot a wolf in the park. At that time it was said that two wolves escaped from the deck of a vessel on the water front, and presumably both made their way to the park, which is five miles distant. The second wolf had not been seen during the past year.

Coroner Is Investigating

Skowhegan, Me., March 9.—Acting upon an order from Coroner Addison, an autopsy was performed yesterday on the body of Rosie Pomeroy, aged 23, who died very suddenly Thursday under peculiar circumstances. The result of the autopsy was not made known, but an inquest has been ordered and interesting developments are expected.

Pool Tournery Not Yet Ended

Boston, March 9.—The longest pool game of the tournament here that has played last night between Frank Sherman and W. H. Clearwater, in which Sherman was winner, 150 to 126. The players used so much caution that the game was prolonged until midnight. It was a beautiful exhibition throughout.

Jury Secluded in Bernaco Case

Montpelier, Vt., March 9.—After nearly three days spent in securing a jury, the trial of Arturo Bernaco, charged with assault with intent to kill upon Chief of Police Brown of Barre, was begun yesterday afternoon. Chief Brown identified the prisoner as the man who fired three shots at him.

Clothing Caught in Shaft

Worcester, Mass., March 9.—Harrel A. Sherman, aged 21, was carried twice over a revolving shaft in the Washburn practice shops of the Worcester polytechnic institute and had his left arm broken and received bad cuts about the head. His blouse caught in the shaft.

Good Afternoon.

The annexation of all the cities
about Boston to that city might push Boston ahead of St. Louis in population, but who thinks that would amount to anything. New York, Chicago and Philadelphia would continue to lead in population.

With the Granite industry, which promises to be good this year, the thousands of men to be employed at the new Fore River ship plant, the construction of the Metropolitan sewer on Greenleaf street and the new bridge
at Quincy Point, it looks as though everything in the business line would boom in Quincy.

A non-resident might well apply that Lincoln story in the "Children's Corner" of yesterday's Ledger to the Town of Weymouth and City of Quincy, who are at logger-heads over the cost of the new bridge between North Weymouth and Quincy Point, for "the bog may be on both sides of the creek."

The Brockton representatives in the Legislature last year were against assessing that city for putting an expensive draw in the bridge over the Weymouth Fore River, that warships pass through, but now they want a canal built from a point on this river above the bridge through Brockton, and hint that the canal may be of
"military and naval strategic value."
The canal will require more than one wide draw to pass the warships built in Quincy.

Drift of Opinion.

The redistricting matter still hangs fire at the state house and no one seems entirely ready to have it make its appearance. There is quite a difference of opinion as to what ought to be done, it is said, and even those who think they know are a little doubtful as to the way to bring about the desired results without stepping on some corns and causing a "holer."
That extra district is giving a lot of trouble, and is indeed an unlucky
thirteen.—Haverhill Gazette

Abington's kitchen bar rooms
have flourished, despite the no-license vote of the town meetings; but a change is promised. A minister who has been outspoken against the liquor traffic has been elected constable and with him on the liquor law enforcement committee are another minister and a bank cashier. It will be good times for any city or town when the men of education and moral training
take a hand in the government.—New Bedford Standard.

A contemporary calls attention to the penalties for kidnapping that have recently been provided by the Legislature now in session in the various States, in that so far as heard from, no two of them are alike, and they range all the way from five years' imprisonment to death. There should be some way devised, as we have before remarked, to provide uniform laws applying to labor, divorce, incorporation and other matters in which the conditions are practically alike throughout the Union, and, as has been suggested by the Herald in the matter of kidnapping, still further improvement
might be effected in providing uniform penalties for various offences differing in no visible degree in their enormity.

HOW QUINCY'S WON.

Hand Engine Contests at Weymouth
Fifty Years Ago.

Edmund S. Hunt in an interesting column letter in the current issue of the Weymouth Gazette writes of some of the hand engine contests of fifty years ago which will be recalled by a few Quincy people today. In part he says:

"In the year 1845 the village of Weymouth was troubled by many incendiary fire, the burning of barns about the neighborhood. As I recollect the fires always occurred at 9 o'clock in the evening, so we were always on the watch at that time and the people became much alarmed.
There being no fire engine in the village, so borrowed one from Quincy (the Adams.) This was one of the first suction tubs.

"This engine came in use when the barn on the old Asa Hunt place, on Essex street, was burned. At this time a committee was chosen to buy a suitable engine for the place and decided on a Thayer tub, I think the last one ever built. I never could understand why this engine was bought, as the Hunne-man engine was so much superior in principle, also in its workmanship, the Thayer engine having cast iron works,
while the Hunne-man was of composition. However, the engine came and the writer and my old cousin, E. G.
Hunt, always blamed for the Amazon
and each of us had many an argument
in favor of the Amazon, knowing all the time it was inferior to the other more modern machines. We learned to love the old tub and were always ready to uphold its prowess.

"On the engine's arrival in town we played in the square. I recollect the Quincy folks came over and manned
the little Adams, trying hard to beat the Amazon.

"A company was organized and Mr.
Gilman Thompson chosen foreman, and no better looking foreman could be seen the world over, but the foreman and company were entirely devoid of engine guile, from which lack the Amazon was much handicapped, and at trials usually beaten, in fact, the Tigers (our great competitor) usually deceived us. Our company was of the best people in the village and wanted
all fair and honorable. Our opponent were the opposite, and the writer thinks the Amazons were handicapped
from lack of profanity in the foreman,
for the men to be called everything vile seemed to put life into them, in fact, an engine trial was anything other than a prayer meeting, although the saint and sinner worked in harmony
together for victory.

One great fault was our lack of judgment in going into the enemy's country (Quincy) for help and I am inclined to think they played us false.

"When the Amazon came there were no steam fire engines and we had challenges from other "tubs" mostly located in Quincy. Now these Quincy men were of those who worked out-of-doors, stone cutter, and others, hard and tough men, while on the Amazon were mostly men of the shops. This always gave the Quincy tub a great advantage. Then again, there being three engines in Quincy (all rivals) every fire
was an engine trial.

Now in contests with these engines
the old Amazon was greatly handicapped and nearly always beaten, and for this reason the company was always at work to improve the tub.

"As I recollect, the wooden brakes
were removed, replaced by iron ones and also lengthened. Larger cylinders were put in but the engine was never improved. The men who built her built the best Thayer tub possible. Our trouble was always with the company.
They talked more than they practiced
on the brakes, never working together,
while our opponent worked the brakes to perfection. So in summing up, the old Amazon was usually defeated, until the new Union came in town and then there was a change, for the Amazon
was a larger tub and when playing tub
and tub was sure to win, and on distances did certainly as well, as our famous trial shows."

Adams Chapter.

Owing to the postponement of the annual meeting of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, only about twenty were present at Mrs.
Henry M. Faxon's on Thursday afternoon, many having made previous engagements. After the business meeting Mrs. Wilson Marsh entertained the ladies, reading, by request, an interesting paper on the "Hancock Street Burial Ground of Quincy," a paper which she prepared and read at a meeting of the Pickwick club several years ago and read again before the Quincy Historical society. It was well worth repeating and was enjoyed by Adams chapter.

The next meeting will be at the John Adams' birthplace on April first and will be the fifty anniversary of the first business meeting of the chapter.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Regent, Mrs.
Nelson V. Titus; Vice Regent, Mrs.
William F. Cummings of Atlantic; Secretary, Miss Harriet B. Pierce of ingale and Miss Annie L. Prescott of Cosmopolitan Quincy.

Quincy is getting to be cosmopolitan,
when a rainy morning like this one sees a number of men and boys with long sticks poking over the big heaps of rubbish collected at the public dump, on Valley street. These city ways seem odd to old citizens of Quincy, but are part of the machinery that runs cities.

Another sign of a new Quincy was seen this morning by our rambling reporter. In one corner of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, near Greenleaf street, is a beautiful light colored granite monument, erected to the memory of an Italian woman who died here at an advanced age. This stone reads,
"Erected by her Son Angelo." Later a Quincy resident recalls the death of this woman and the presence of an Italian band at the burial.

$10,000 FOR CANAL

Brockton Would Have Legislature Expend That Sum

To Investigate Taur River Route.

Would Have State Build at
of Millions.

Among the arguments in favor of ship canal from Quincy to Taunton
before the Committee on Harbors
the Legislature yesterday were the Representative Garfield of Brockton contended that if the Erie canal improved and the proposed waterway was opened, there would be a route from the west to Boston,
thought there was danger that it should be at the mercy of the roads and he hoped that such a of affairs would not exist.
money has been spent for park
but the state has devoted compar-
little to commercial interests.

In answer to a question from man Post of Lenox, Mr. Garfield that he understood one or two

Hobbs.

Mr. Garfield also mentioned the dangers to shipping of passing a Cape Cod and spoke of certain ch-
for a canal across Cape Cod, re-that the proposed canal to Taunton river was more feasible.

The cities of Taunton and Fall
he declared, are growing more tion was also called by him to the

that such a proposed river canal
suggested in 1808.

In a letter from Senator L. E. Cberlain of Brockton he mentioned military and naval strategic val-
the canal, as well as the immense mercial value to Boston and all
and towns along its route.

Congressman W. C. Lovering set letter in which he said that he believed the canal was the most feasible
proposed to the legislature.

Chairman Post asked if it was posed to have the state or a private corporation build the canal. The by Mr. Garfield was that he thought such a canal ought to be built by state alone, or aided by the Uni-States. The benefits of the canal he felt by the all seacoast states in vicinity of New England, he declared.
"If the canal should cost $12,000,
as the Cape Cod canal was estimto cost," said Mr. Garfield, "probably no private corporation would care to build the work."

Parker C. Chandler of Boston that he believed it would be worth $10,000 to find out whether it is desirable to put a canal through Taunton river. "The legislature spends lots of time and some money in talking about gas," said Mr. Chandler, "and learns very little, but if you investigate this canal you will find something of value to the state."

"This canal isn't through dunes, it is through a part of the which is thickly populated. We information. If you will give me chapter I won't ask for any apportion for a survey. The Suez canal
a wonderful thing, and I believe canal is feasible."

"The state is tied up by railroads and behind us are the hills.
time may come when we shall want this canal through the Taunton river. It's worth the gamble of $10,000 to find out any way whether canal is of any value." "We ought keep pace with New York, the Roosevelt, in his strenuous and modest way, favors improving the canal. Modern canal construction wonderful. In 1808 and in 1825 were investigations made of this and they reported against it. No dynamite, derricks and improved paratus made possible what was possible a century ago."

"I have withdrawn a bill which presented in order that the public have a chance and the state find once for all whether our propowaterway is a dream or something that can be realized."

Chairman Post, after consultating the committee, announced that the committee would take a field
survey of the canal route next Thursday, devoting the entire day to the work.

THE MOVE FOR PEACE

De Wet and Steyn Excluded From General Amnesty

CAPE DUTCH UNDER BAN

So Far as Those Who Fomented Boer Resistance Is Concerned—Botha Is Satisfied With Conditions Imposed—Big Army For Defense of England

London, March 9.—Delayed dispatches just coming from Pretoria show that there really was a meeting between Kitchener and Botha at Middleburg on Feb. 27. The London Sun says that the surrender of Botha would have taken place by this time had it not been for the fact that Kitchener was not empowered to make the terms of capitulation. The paper adds that when the surrender does take place it will either include De Wet or provide for his complete suppression.

Dispatches from Amsterdam and Brussels say that Mr. Kruger's entourage continues to profess ignorance of the existence of negotiations, declaring that General Botha cannot act for the Orange Free State and that in any case no terms are possible unless Lord Kitchener is prepared to discuss independence.

The negotiations between Lord Kitchener and General Botha are in abeyance, says the Pretoria correspondent of The Times, writing Wednesday, pending an answer from the British government.

The daily Chronicle, referring to the armistice at Pretoria, says: "We learn that the uniting agent in bringing about the negotiations was Mrs. Botha, who was deeply affected by the hopeless plight of the Boers and did her utmost to induce her husband to accept the British terms."

The meeting of Feb. 27 was limited to General Botha's request to know Lord Kitchener's terms. Lord Kitchener replied that a general amnesty would be granted to all who surrendered, as well as to all prisoners, except those of the Cape Dutch, who, being British subjects, had actively fomented Boer resistance. General De Wet and Mr. Steyn were, however, expressly excluded from the amnesty.

Lord Kitchener further promised that, if peace were concluded, the government would assist in rebuilding the farm houses and other buildings destroyed under military exigencies, would reinstate the lawful owners and would help them stock their farms. Those guilty of acts of treachery would be excluded from these benefits.

General Botha appeared satisfied with the conditions and, the armistice being arranged, he proceeded to consult his officers, a vast majority of whom accepted the terms.

De Wet and Steyn both remained irreconcilable. They declined any terms. De Wet declaring that on his part the war had come to one of revenge, and he intended to do all the mischief he could.

It is probable that the original armistice of a week has been extended. It is believed that the remainder of General Botha's officers have now been rounded and that he is likely to make formal submission to Lord Kitchener March 11, when his force will surrender to General French.

According to our information, Lord Kitchener's dispositions made the speedy capture of General Botha's forces quite certain. General Botha frankly accepted the situation and was treated by Lord Kitchener at both interviews with the greatest consideration.

Mr. Broderick proposes to arm the volunteer militia artillery with field and position guns of modern pattern, to raise five more Indian battalions for garrison duty, and to transfer the garrison of coastal stations to the admiralty. He will not increase the pay of the soldiers, but will devote more time to maneuvers and less time to barrack square drills. Under the new scheme the army for home defense will consist of 155,000 regulars, 100,000 reserves, 150,000 militia, 25,000 yeomanry, and 250,000 volunteers.

On the advice of Lord Roberts, commanders of army corps will be appointed for three years only instead of five, so that he may be able to replace them if they prove inefficient. Mr. Broderick has emphasized the determination of the war office that only officers proved to be fit to command in war time should have these appointments.

Judging from the editorials this morning, the country will view the reforms with the greatest satisfaction. The general belief is that they are so thorough and far reaching as to betray the hand of Lord Roberts rather than Mr. Broderick. Some of the papers are disappointed that there is no increase in the pay of the soldiers.

Turk Quickly Disposed Of

St. Louis, March 9.—Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, champion heavyweight wrestler of the United States, defeated Hal Ali, the "terrible Turk," in quick time here last night, winning two falls in 16 minutes. The big Moslem seemed a child in the hands of the brawny Clevelander, whose dexterity filled the spectators with amazement.

Miners and Operators in Conference

Altoona, Pa., March 9.—Two secret sessions on the part of the miners, two joint conferences, and a meeting of the joint scale committee last night briefly sums up the day's doings between the miners and operators. The deadlock on the scale is still on.

Opal Worth a Quarter of a Million

London, March 9.—Maurice Lyons, a lawyer of Queensland, intends to give King Edward what is believed to be the largest and finest opal in the world. It is oval in shape and weighs 250 carats. It is estimated to be worth upwards of $250,000.

Noteworthy Progress in Mechanical Lines—Cotton Still Unsatisfactory

New York, March 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Little change was developed this week in the condition of general business. Ground recently gained seemed to be held without difficulty, with a good distribution of merchandise by jobbers in most directions, and with entire absence of speculative activity. There has been a further decline in cotton, which does not help the goods market, still the most backward and disappointing of all the great industries; but in mechanical lines the progress being made is noteworthy. Building materials are in especially urgent demand, and dealers who can deliver stock have no difficulty in securing advanced prices. In this unlike most other lines of business, the east leads the country, and just at this season it is of particular significance. Collections are reported good all through the west, and are better than usual at the south.

Footwear is steady at former prices, while sales have decreased somewhat. There is a good demand for low-priced heavy goods from southern jobbers, but many western buyers have not placed their usual contracts as yet. The local jobbing trade has improved, and city wholesalers have liberal orders from country dealers.

Textile fabrics exhibit a little animation, although the markets are still far from a satisfactory position. Knit goods receive more attention for fall lines, and hosiery and articles for summer outing are taken freely. Some lines of silks find buyers without further cut, and labor troubles at the mills are less disturbing. Cotton weavers in Germany have received a reduction of 25 percent in wages, reflecting the condition of the industry there.

Two large failures in wool occurred abroad, and three Vermont concerns were forced to suspend. Sales of wool at the three chief eastern markets decreased nearly 3,000,000 pounds, compared with the previous week's business, but this is a favorable symptom, as excessive operations of late were due to forced sales at lower prices.

Cotton declined still further, with option business active. Fable mills, estimates of liberal receipts, and indications that planters will cultivate an enormous acreage this season, resulted in the lowest price of the season.

Death of Chris Magee

Harrisburg, March 9.—Senator Christopher L. Magee of Pittsburg died last evening after an illness of more than two years. Mr. Magee was elected state senator in 1892, and was twice re-elected. He was a director in numerous Pittsburg banks, trust companies and insurance companies, and at the time of his death was the principal owner of the Pittsburg Times.

Kaiser Receiving Congratulations

Berlin, March 9.—Emperor William has received congratulations on his escape from more serious injury from nearly every European potentate. A message from President McKinley was worded in cordial terms. All the papers agree that the attempt was quite devoid of political animus. The emperor does not allow any one to see him except his physicians. The whole right side of his face and neck is bandaged, leaving free only the left eye and cheek.

Trouble Ahead For Bulgaria

Sofia, March 9.—Increasing apprehension is felt in Bulgaria at the concentration of Turkish troops on the Macedonian frontier. The Bulgarian government has received sharp reminders from three of the great powers that it will be held responsible for the preservation of order in the border districts. Great anxiety exists in Albania, which is in a state of unusual ferment.

An Alleged Blackmailer

Omaha, March 9.—Ernest J. Wolter, a prominent merchant of Schuyler, who was arrested in that city on a charge of attempting to blackmail United States Senator Kearns of Utah by threats of death against the senator and his family, was arraigned here yesterday. He waived preliminary hearing and was held to the federal grand jury under $2000 bonds.

One Was Hanged Twice

Opelousas, La., March 9.—Nathan Simpson, Willie Payne and Stanley Gordon, negroes, were hanged here yesterday. The rope around Payne's neck broke in the fall. When he was brought to the gallows for the second time he was so weak he could not stand, and had to be held up to the trap.

hop out of bed and trot down here! Here the blamed thing is, and if it doesn't say cough sirup on the label then I'm a—"

But it didn't. As he held the bottle up to the light a picture of a skull and crossbones greeted his eyes, and across the label ran the word "Laudanum." Mrs. Bowser heard a whoop and a rush, and next minute Mr. Bowser dashed into the room with the cat at his heels.

"What on earth is it?" she asked as he began to gather up and pull on his socks and shoes.

"I—I've taken poison—Laudanum!" he gasped as his teeth chattered and his eyes bulged out.

"Then go at once to the drug store for a remedy. How careless of you! Here is your vest. Here's your coat. If you have taken Laudanum, you must throw it off at once and then drink a lot of strong coffee."

"Do you—you think I'm a dead man?" he stammered as he got into his coat.

"Don't stop to ask a single question, but fly for your life, and I'll go down and get the coffee ready."

It was half past 10 o'clock. Mr. Bowser hadn't waited to tie his shoes, put on a collar or button his coat and vest. As he went up the street at a gallop several people asked him where the fire was, and a policeman jumped out from behind a tree and tried to head him off. The drug store had just closed, but he set the bell to ringing

BOWSER IN A PANIC.

HE THOUGHT HE HAD TAKEN POISON BY MISTAKE.

The Old Man Gets a Bad Scare, but When He Finds Himself Out of Danger He Evens Up Things in His Own Way.

[Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.]

The evening had been a pleasant one with the Bowsers, but just as they were ready to go to bed Mr. Bowser felt a touch of sore throat and announced:

"I got my feet wet yesterday and probably took cold. I think I'll take a pretty big dose of that cough sirup of mine and head it off. I suppose it's in the medicine chest on the shelf?"

"Yes; I saw it there the other day," replied Mrs. Bowser, "but you've got

such a lot of bottles there that you must be careful. Better bring it up stairs when he had gone up stairs, Mr. Bowser brought the chest down from the top shelf of the closet and looked it over. It was not long before he lighted on the celebrated "Cure a Cold in Ten Seconds," recommended to him six months before by a traveling druggist, and put up by his family druggist, and, elevating the bottle, he took a hearty swig of the contents. He carried up stairs with him a pleasant feeling that his cold had been knocked into the middle of last week, and nothing interrupted that feeling until he was in bed and sleep stealing over him and Mrs. Bowser said:

"I hope you made no mistake about that bottle."

"How could I make a mistake?" he asked in a dreamy way.

"Easy enough. You are very absent-minded. Don't you remember once taking a tablespoonful of sewing machine oil in place of a tonic?"

A doubt entered his mind, and he sat up. Two more doubts followed the first, and he got out of bed.

"What is it?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"I've got to go down and see about that infernal oil bottle. I know it isn't possible that I got hold of the wrong stuff, but you've had to mix in and make me wonder about it. I can almost imagine that I feel a strange taste in my mouth."

He growled to himself as he pulled on his trousers and started down stairs. The chest was on the stand as he had left it, and as he lighted the gas the cat rolled off the lounge and stared at him in surprise.

"It was the right bottle, of course," he mused, "and what a fool I was to and accompanied it with kicks on the door, and after seven or eight minutes the druggist appeared and indignantly demanded:

"What in thunder do you mean by trying to kick my door in?"

"I've—I've taken poison!" replied Mr. Bowser as he staggered in and sat down.

"Oh, you have! Couldn't upset things any other way, and so you took poison! What was it?"

"Laudanum! I—I made a mistake. I thought I was taking cough sirup. Don't delay or I'm a dead man!"

"Probably grabbed up a bottle in the dark and guzzled away. That's the way with most men. I'll give you a strong emetic, but I'm afraid it's going to be a close shave."

The idea, of course, was to get the patient to throw the Laudanum off his stomach, and for the next half hour Mr. Bowser was dosed after heroic measures. The druggist finally announced that the moment of peril had passed, but sent him home to drink a quart of strong coffee and advised that he walk up and down for a couple of hours. Mrs. Bowser had the coffee ready, and it was almost a human wreck she gazed at as he entered the house. She hadn't the heart to reproach him for his carelessness, and when he had disposed of the coffee she helped him on with his overcoat and saw him out on the street. He hadn't paced the length of the block before he fell in with an old tramp who was looking for lodgings in some doorway and who was soon informed of what had happened. He was a rough looking man, but he had a kind heart, and he took Mr. Bowser's arm and said:

"All right, enly. I see how it is. Tired with the turmoil of life, you started out to commit suicide, but thought better of it after swallowing a dose. Just my case exactly. I've tried it six different times. Easy now, old rosbud! Lean on me, and we'll walk up and down and damn the eyes of the world in general together."

"G'way—g'way from me!" Mr. Bowser got up the strength to exclaim.

"Never, my conscience stricken friend. I shall walk with you, and as we promenade you can pour your tale of sorrow into my ear and be sure of my sympathy."

They had been walking for an hour and Mrs. Bowser had been dividing her time between making more coffee in the kitchen and looking out of the front door when the thought struck her to take a look at the bottles. There was the cough sirup, and there was the Laudanum, but the latter bottle had no contents. In fact, it was as dry as a bone. As there had been nothing in it to drink, Mr. Bowser could have made no mistake. She ran out at once to inform him of the fact. The tramp was still soliloquizing leading him up and down and encouraging him to live on. Mr. Bowser heard the news, took a moment to digest it, and with a wild whoop of exultation he slammed the old man up against a shade tree, picked up the cat which had followed Mrs. Bowser and made a run for the house. She followed him, and as the door was closed behind her and several other whoops came to his ears the kind hearted tourist leaned over the gate and muttered:

"Why, I was about to strike the old coon for a quarter, and here he's gone and got over it and given me the cold throw down! Hang a man who don't know when he's got a good thing!"

"I feel it my duty to write to you of the wonderful curative powers of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' writes George S. Henderson, Esq., of Denaut, Lee Co., Florida. 'I had a bad bruise on my right ear and my blood was badly out of order. I tried local doctors, but with no good results. Finally I wrote you the particulars in my case and you advised your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I began to take. From the first bottle I began to feel better, and when I had taken eight bottles the sore was healed up. I wish you success."

NAVIES OF THE FUTURE

Hiram Maxim Says Big Battleships Must Go.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES TO DO WORK.

Sea Power in Coming Days Will Be Invested in Comparatively Small Vessels—Torpedo Craft to Run Automatically—The Wonders of Maximite and Motorite.

That the present great navies are destined to be abolished is the view of Hiram Maxim. Before the Manhattan Single Tax club of New York the other night the inventor explained how, by the use of high explosives, the present methods of warfare were to be changed completely.

"With due knowledge which now is possessed by inventors and our present abundant means," he said, "the United States in one year could prepare an equipment which would be sufficient to wipe out all the navies on the earth. Some time within the next six months the government will undertake experiments at Sandy Hook for the purpose of testing the new high explosive known as maximite. A structure built of the strongest Kruppized plate, 12 inches thick and as large as a modern battleship, will be set up as a target.

"If, as I predict, this plate should be destroyed at one shot, there will be wrought as complete a revolution in naval architecture as resulted from the building of the Monitor.

"Maximite is the first high explosive, satisfactory in other respects, which could be fired through armor plate of such thickness as to make it available for armor piercing shells. When a projectile filled with maximite is exploded in flight it will be hurled at a velocity of 3,000 feet a second.

"The war vessel of the future will be a small maneuvered gunboat, capable of traveling at a high rate of speed. Such a craft will come into use as the natural result of the success of the aerial torpedo and will afford far more protection than the most powerful battleship.

"This new style vessel will have its enemies, like any other. The most important of these now projected is the automobile torpedo, which will travel under water at the rate of three-quarters of a mile a minute. The torpedo craft will run automatically and will be almost wholly under water. Its operation will require only two men.

"For its propulsion I have invented a substance which I call motorite. This is more powerful than compressed air and requires only two seconds to get up speed.

"A torpedo boat of this description can be built for $100,000, and one of these would sink a battleship.

"To land the changes in warfare must be as great as on sea. It will be no longer possible for troops to fight in the open. As soon as they appeared on the line of the horizon they would be wiped out by the new engines of destruction as quickly and as surely as dust is reduced by the use of a garden hose."

Mr. Maxim made various demonstrations to prove his assertions.

WEDS HIS NURSE.

Pretty Romance of the Civil War Ends in a Marriage.

In the marriage of George W. Hulet and Mrs. Flora Wiggins in Chattanooga is the conclusion of a romance which had its beginning in the civil war.

Hulet was a member of the One Hundred and Fourth Ohio V. I. and while in camp near Cleveland, Tenn., during the civil war became dangerously ill. He was taken to the home of Isaac Lowe, who had two daughters, aged 20 and 11. The younger, Flora, evidenced great compassion for the sick Yankee and waited on him with the tenderness of a mother.

An affection stronger than child love developed in her young heart, and when the separation came following the soldier's return to health she was heartbroken. The memory of his sweet faced little nurse never struck the bluecoat as being of a serious nature until long years after his return to Kent and his marriage to an Ohio girl.

Mrs. Hulet died a year ago on the eve of preparations for a trip to Tennessee. Hulet made the trip alone. The parents of the girls had died, and they had married. Flora was a widow, living in Chattanooga. Hulet located her after a long search.

Corsets Tabooed. There is consternation among the schoolgirls of Hungary. Secretary Vlassics, minister of education, has decided that they must not wear corsets and has ordered them to wear loose blouses instead. The minister is a firm believer in physical culture, and when he heard recently that the minister of education in Saxony had forbidden corsets he determined to follow his example. Of course there was an outcry against his edict, but he remained steadfast, and to those who criticized his action he simply replied that a similar edict had been in force in Russia for several years, and that it had been of much benefit was clearly shown by the excellent health of the schoolgirls in that country. Many leading Hungarians side with Minister Vlassics on this point, and some even maintain that the edict ought to apply to teachers as well as to pupils. The minister, however, has not ventured to forbid the teachers.

FRUIT & FLOWERS

GRAFTING STONE FRUITS.

A Jersey Grower's New Method and the Instrument Used.

At a meeting of the New Jersey State Horticultural society Mr. Martin Ernst, a very successful fruit grower, introduced a method of grafting which was new to most of those present. He said: When you cut a twig from a tree (holding up a cut portion 1 1/2 inches through), if it does not heal over in one season, it causes the root to rot. The damage done to a tree by cleft grafting seldom heals perfectly the first season and results often in decay setting in.

In my method I use this little instrument, which has its cutting portion of V shape attached to a shank with a wooden handle. I then take a twig, cut the top off, leaving the stock about an inch through, then on the side of the stock I cut out with my instrument a place for the insertion of the scion, which is shaped on the lower end with a very sharp knife to fit closely the place of insertion. You will notice I place the lower end of the scion directly over the stock. Insert the scion, which will fit closely and requires some strength to remove. Now paint the cut end of stock and scion with a liquid grafting preparation composed of one pound of rosin to one pint of alcohol. I prefer a liquid preparation, as it simply coats the cut surface over, keeping water and air from it and does not crack and fall off. When the sun shines, this liquid melts and runs almost all off, so I put on a rag which keeps it cool and prevents it running off. To keep the rag in place and also to assist in keeping the scion in place wind a string around it, which is cut away when the bud of scion has made two or three inches of growth. (Bast would rot away and save the cutting of string.)

This method of planting is mostly used for stone fruits, cherries, plums and peaches. You must graft stone fruit very early, and the season to do so is of short duration, say about the last of March, and with care in setting them about 75 per cent of grafts will live.

Starting Plants in Spring. Dahlias, tuberose, gladiolus and tuberous begonias should be started into growth this month. Unless the two first named plants get an early start they almost always fail to come into bloom before frosty weather is here. Put them into pots or boxes of earth and let them get well rooted before warm weather comes. In this way one can lengthen the season at least a month or six weeks for them. It is not so important in the case of the two other plants, as they are summer bloomers and should be kept in pots, but the earlier they are got to growing the better it will be for them, writes E. E. Rexford in Ledger Monthly.

Early Blooming Shrubs.

The Japan Judas (Cercis japonica), bush compact, leaves dark green, flowers very early in great abundance. The English laburnum (cytusus), long stems of very handsome golden flowers, with the green wood and pea vine foliage, look delicate and attractive. The Viburnum plicatum, peculiar in its leaf, when in flower is an attractive bush, and being of easy culture, is desirable. The flowering thorn and flowering crab have a peculiar fragrance all their own that is charming.

Early Spray For Peach Leaf Curl.

In regions where peach leaf curl is injurious, Professor Quintance of Georgia recommends that the Bordeaux for the first application—i. e., before the bloom opens—should be made up of six pounds of copper sulphate, six pounds of lime to 50 gallons of water.

Floral Notes.

Wistaria will not cling to a flat wall. It needs some other support. It will clamber very high with the aid of a single wire.

Goldenrods are now becoming favorites for garden culture, and the sweet goldenrod is one of the most desirable for the purpose.

Ruga rugosa makes a fair hedge and will bear shearing. The leaves are glossy, but the flowers are single and worthless for cutting.

An occasional vine of golden honeysuckle may be tastefully disposed among the green leaved sorts upon a veranda with pleasing effect.

Professor Galloway estimates that not less than $1,000,000 worth of violets are sold every year and that were it not for the violet spot the production would increase 20 per cent.

Thirty Billions' Worth of Shining Metal in America's Gravel.

SO SAYS PROFESSOR N. S. SHALER.

Eminent Harvard Geologist Predicts Greatest Influx of the Metal World Has Ever Known—Earth's Surface, He Declares, Is Charged With It, and Improved Machinery Will Work Wonders.

Professor N. S. Shaler, Harvard's eminent geologist, in a recent lecture to 600 students of that university predicted that within the next 30 years there would be an influx of gold such as the world has never known. Professor Shaler bases his statement on geological conditions, combined with recent improvements in mining apparatus. He said in part:

"If the price of gold goes down, another metal must be looked for as a token of international value. I think this metal will be silver, because silver is not found in alluvial plains and because, owing to the difficulty in mining, it will never change in value.

"Within the past few years men have come to realize that a large portion of the earth's surface is charged with gold. Gold is indissoluble, and when gravel banks are cut away it is not easily carried off by streams to the sea as is the case with other metals. Instead it is carried along, broken up into finer and finer fragments and gradually deposited over alluvial plains.

"The new systems of mining which have recently been discovered will have produced by the middle of the present century an almost intolerable supply of gold. I cannot say definitely what the increase will be, but I should think at the least that the present supply will be quadrupled. On the continent of America alone I have estimated that the amount of gold to be won from gravel within the next 100 years will be worth $30,000,000,000.

"Up to the present time men have been greatly handicapped in searching for gold by the fact that it was scattered so thinly through the earth. They have been able to find any amount of gravel paying from 10 to 30 cents to the cubic yard, but the expense of dredging has always been so great that they have been unable to extract it with profit.

"Now, however, the machinery of the dredgers has been greatly improved. Within the past three years dredges have been operated in Russia and in the United States, especially in Leadville, Colo., which have proved beyond question that alluvial soil can be profitably worked for gold.

"In the United States there are from 6,000 to 8,000 square miles which will give miners employment and which can be accurately depended upon for producing gold. Similar areas in Russia, India, Africa and Australia will flood the market, and if the value of gold remains the same the quantity will increase tenfold by the middle of the century.

"The production may be limited, however, by a simultaneous rise in the price of labor and by the fact that the mines in South Africa and in other places where the solid rock bed is worked cannot be operated by reason of the increased expense. Still, there will be a vast influx, and what its effect will be cannot be estimated. It may play havoc with commerce, but to my mind it is more likely to bring about the long looked for golden age, an age of peace, prosperity and hope."

A New Nasturtium.

Some weeks ago experiments were begun in the greenhouses of the University of Nebraska to develop a new species of nasturtium, and at last the new flower is in full bloom. Its chief quality of excellence is that it is continuously and profusely in bloom. Slave of the tire of rubber, what to him Are rules of parks and swings of coppers' clink? What the long reaches of the law's strong arm, The broken ice, the redning now? Through this dread shape the scorching age looks down: Fast time's tragedy is in that steersman's stoop, Through this dread shape, humanity betrayed, Twisted, bent over and all humped, Cries protest to makers of the motor, A protest that is also prophecy. Oh, manufacturers, dealers in all lands, Is this the chrome that you give the world, This monstrous thing, distorted and awry? How will you ever straighten up this shape, Give back the proud and upward looking head, Make right the awful sinuosity, The parabolic incurvation, deflection serpentine? How will the future reckon with this man? How answer this brute question in that hour When he is bent just like a boomerang? How will it be with makers of the motored car, With those who turned him to the thing he is, When this bent terror tries to straighten up After he has reeled off all his centuries?—Motor World.

PRINTING BY ELECTRICITY.

Newly Invented Process That Does Away With the Use of Ink.

A London photographer, according to The Scientific American, has succeeded in producing electrographic paper which promises to revolutionize the art preservative of all arts. Using the new patent paper, a syndicate has recently perfected a process of printing without ink. Instead of saturating the paper with the sensitizing materials, as has hitherto been done, it has been found best to mix them with the pulp in the process of manufacture, and so a radical departure has been made and a new machine made paper has been invented that has rare properties.

As the chemicals used are abundant and cheap, the new medium can be produced as cheaply as common paper. The prepared paper is stable and colorless, is unaffected by any other agent than the electric current, may be kept indefinitely and sent to the press directly from the roll as manufactured, with no preliminary treatment whatever; yields instantly a dense black, permanent print; requires no subsequent "fixing" or developing—indeed, is ready for distribution immediately, as there is nothing like ink to smudge or require drying—in short, meets all the requirements of a perfect medium for electric printing. Given such a suitable paper, and the mechanical problems incident to a practical system of electric printing are comparatively simple. The syndicate, having satisfactorily completed the experimental part of its undertaking, is now engaged in demonstrating the workings of the new process and overcoming the objections of printers.

The machine for electric printing is simply an ordinary press divested of all its inking mechanism and having the cylinder or paper bearing surface covered with a suitable conducting metal. The work of "make ready" is the same as for ordinary printing, and line blocks, electrotypes, woodcuts, half tones, engravings, all kinds of designs in relief, may be used at will.

The "form" is connected with one pole of the dynamo or battery. For most purposes the current may be taken from an ordinary incandescent light wire. The paper carrying cylinder or surface is connected with the opposite pole. Thus the metal surfaces of both cylinders are the electrodes, while the paper is in reality a very thin cell in which the pulp is an inert medium and the contained chemicals are the electrolyte. As the cylinders approach each other to press the paper as it is fed between them the current is switched on automatically and flows from one cylinder through the paper at the points of contact to the other cylinder, the impression being produced instantly by electro chemical action. A governor, or variable "resist," permits an operator to control the quantity and intensity of the current, which must be continuous. The paper possesses magnetic electric properties, and consequently the amount of current required is surprisingly small. The voltage used may be from 10 to 100, and four amperes are ample for the largest machines. All inking mechanism being dispensed with, the power necessary to drive the press is greatly diminished. For a given piece of work the cost of current for the actual printing is said to be only one-half that of ink, while a saving of at least one-third in the original cost of presses is assured. The new process lends itself to all speeds, even to the fastest web presses.

Some Results of the Recent Census. The 45 states of the Union had a population of 62,116,811 in 1890, which increased to 74,627,907 in 1900. The total population increased during the same years (including Hawaii, but excluding Porto Rico and the Philippines) from 63,063,756 to 76,295,220. The percentage of increase (1890-1900) was a little less than 21 per cent. It was 24.9-10 per cent from 1880 to 1890 and more than 30 per cent from 1870 to 1880. Nearly all of the diminution of percentage noted is accounted for by the falling off of immigration. In Oklahoma the population has increased sixfold, and in Indian Territory and Arizona it has doubled.

Nevada has decreased in population by about 3,000, and Kansas and Nebraska have barely held their own. The great manufacturing states of the east have on the whole grown proportionally as much as the most prosperous states of the middle west. New England increased very slowly and the "new south" rapidly. The last census represents a very different state of affairs from that of 1890 and prefigures a new distribution of power and population in the next decade.—New York Sun.

Blasting With Liquid Air.

The experiments made with a view to using liquid air as one of the constituents of an explosive are described by A. Larsen in a paper received from the Institution of Mining Engineers. The cartridges used for blasting trials in the Simplot tunnel consisted of a wrapper filled with a carbonaceous material, such, for instance, as a mixture of equal parts of paraffin and of charcoal and dipped bodily in liquid air until completely soaked. The cartridges were kept in liquid air at the working face of the rock until required for use, when they were put quickly in the shot holes and detonated with a small gun cotton primer and detonator. The life of such a cartridge is, unfortunately, very short after the cartridge has been removed from the liquid air. A cartridge 8 inches in length and 3 inches in diameter has to be fired within 15 minutes after being taken out of the liquid to avoid a missile. On this account the Simplot trials were discontinued.—Nature.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget With the News in a Nut Shell.

The regular monthly meeting of the Granite City Club will be held tonight.

There will be a vespers service at the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday at 4 P. M. Rev. Mr. Chase will speak on "The beauty of goodness."

The funeral services of Mr. Jonathan S. Johnson, who died last Wednesday of consumption, were held at his late home Norfolk street, Wollaston, this afternoon.

Interest in the Kenley case seems to have died out, and the general impression is that the Board of Health will dismiss the one remaining charge against him.

Had it been more generally known that the bridge hearing was to have been held Friday there would have been a much larger attendance of Quincy people.

Anyone interested in singing will do well to write Mr. A. U. Brander, whose card appears in another column of the paper, for his "special ten lesson" rates to singers.

The next regular meeting of the Gleaners circle of Wollaston will be held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Sayward corner of Winthrop and Warren avenues, Monday, March 11, at 2.30 o'clock.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. checker team played the Boston Y. M. C. A. checker team on Thursday evening, the score being 9 to 3 in favor of Quincy. The Boston team had previous to this game played the Harvard team, winning by a big score.

People who went south this winter are not enjoying themselves as well as usual, for at many of the popular winter resorts typhoid fever is prevalent, and this is not pleasant. As a result many are coming home earlier than they otherwise would.

The rain during the night was just what was needed. There has been but very little rain during the past winter and comparatively little snow, and as a result the ground is very dry. Perhaps those who feel the dry spell the most are the water supplies which have been severely taxed.

For the Children's Sake.

Frauds in medicine often take the form of murder. In other words, time-honored remedies of specific curative powers are basely imitated, made to look and taste like the genuine prescription, but entirely lacking in those ingredients necessary to save precious lives, for which the real article was discovered and prescribed by a physician of world-wide eminence in the field of therapeutics. One of the most gigantic frauds of this character perpetrated in this country is the imitation of "Castoria," which imitation is absolutely valueless for medicinal purposes and exceedingly dangerous in other respects since it fails to accomplish what it was purchased for, and at the same time it prevents the use of other remedies owing to the absolute confidence of the users in the real "Castoria," which they believe they are using. The principal victims are poor little children, and the crime of making money fraudulently is increased a thousand fold since innocent lives are the price of the gain.

Anyone capable of taking a great household remedy like "Castoria" and fraudulently substituting under its name a spurious compound is deserving of drastic punishment. Such an act inflicts an injury on the public at large and imperils lives that would otherwise have the safeguard of the legitimate prescription. It is almost impossible for proprietors of standard medicines to prevent spurious imitations from getting into the market. The law on this subject, however, has become so strict that henceforth the facsimile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on "Castoria" wrappers and labels will, fortunately for the public, be sufficient guarantee that the contents are genuine.

Keith's Theatre.

One simply cannot crowd into a brief notice the various good things that are to be offered for the entertainment of the thousands of patrons of Keith's popular playhouse the week commencing Monday, March 11. It will be the last for spectacular production and the Girl with the Auburn Hair, two of the most notable attractions ever offered in the varieties, and among the new comers will be; Press Edridge, the noted commander-in-chief of the army of fun; Chas. Ascott and Mille Eddie, novelty acrobatic comedians; Nellie V. Nichols, contralto soloist; Falk and Semon, musical comedians; Chas. and Minnie Sa Van, clever comic acrobats; Master Lores Grimm, juvenile comedians; Fogarty and Lavigne, singers and dancers; Frank and Lillian Smith, champion rifle shots; the Baileys, "real coon" comedians, singers and dancers, and the Burto-Lowando Wilson Bijou circus, which will be a great attraction for the juveniles.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square Theatre management offers another dramatic novelty the coming week in the production of Edward Elmer's stage version of the novel "Under Two Flags," written by Ouida at the beginning of her remarkable literary career over thirty years ago. The author gives, as a subtitle to her novel, "A story of the household and the desert," and thus suggests the striking contrasts in the scenes incidental to the development of the plot. The story of "Under Two Flags" lends itself easily to dramatic treatment and offers opportunities in its action for most effective work by such a company of players as are included in the Castle Square company. Elaborate scenic surroundings for all the scenes are promised in this production, with original and selected incidental music. The cast of leading characters is as follows: Bertie Cecil Royellien, John Craig; Berkeley Royellien, Stanley Kent; Hon. Lord Royellien, J. L. Seely; Lord Rockingham, Charles Mackay; Marshal of France, Lindsey Morrison; Cigarette, Lillian Lawrence; Princess Venetia Corona, Corona Riccardo; Lady Beatrice Guinevere, Maria A. Chapman.

Columbia Theatre.

All the week the Columbia Theatre was crowded by delighted audiences, to which "The Burgomaster" evidently supplied the most gratifying sort of entertainment, for so often have some of the people been there that their faces have become familiar to the attendants. From surrounding towns, also, numerous orders for seats are being received, and it is no uncommon occurrence to see a half dozen theatre parties of an evening thoroughly enjoying the melodious comedy. This begins the third week of the engagement with every indication that its popularity is sufficiently strong to continue it indefinitely. Rarely has a score become more suddenly popular than that supplied by Gustav Laders for "The Burgomaster." The twenty-fifth performance in Boston will occur on March 11, and valuable souvenirs will be presented to the ladies attending.

Colonial Theatre.

A play which can score an uninterrupted run of 100 performances in a critical city like Boston, as will "Ben Hur" on March 14, must certainly possess merits of an extraordinary character. Such a record as this means more than is apparent at first thought, for it must be evident to all that managers of a theatrical enterprise would not keep it in one city for several months, paying large salaries, paying for all sorts of advertising and the one thousand and one things which enter nowadays into stage production, were the play not receiving the most generous patronage from the public. This is the case to an extraordinary degree with the magnificent Klaw & Erlanger production of Wm. Young's dramatization of Gen. Lew Wallace's famous historical romance "Ben Hur," now running to a constant succession of immense audiences at the beautiful new Colonial theatre. The future with which this wonderful play is being received is something phenomenal and rarely, if ever before, equalled in the history of Boston's many playhouses. Yet it is most deserved for "Ben Hur" is the greatest production the English speaking stage has ever witnessed. Not only as a sumptuous spectacular drama does it overlap all others, but it introduces several new and marvelous mechanical and artistic triumphs to the vast world of the play and the player.

A TALK TO STRIKERS

Asked to Save the Industrial Life of a Town

BIG FACTORY MAY CLOSE

If Shoe Workers of North Brookfield
Refuse to Accept a Horizontal Cut
of Ten Percent—Employers Asked to Hold Off

North Brookfield, Mass., March 11.—
Rev. J. L. Sewell of the First Congregational church preached a sermon last night bearing upon the strike, taking as his subject "The Life and Death of a Town."

The town, he said, lives through the aid of this shoe factory. There are two sides to any question, and if the people choose to go to work tomorrow the industrial life of the town will live, while if they refuse to return the industrial life of the town will die. The people employed in the factory are not the only ones to consider.
They in turn support the merchants and business men of the town.

The board of trade held a meeting last night to which the committees from the different departments of the E. & A. Batchelder Co.'s shoe factory were invited, to hear an address by Hon. T.
C. Bates of Worcester upon the pending strike at that factory.

Mr. Bates entreated the strikers to return to work at once. He stated that he had been informed that orders are on the company's desk waiting to be signed by the company, which would keep the factory running four months.
He said he knew of a new business that is coming to North Brookfield, which would make the hearts of merchants and other citizens happy. He referred to the debt on the water works and said
if the shoe shop should be removed it would leave the town in a very bad shape.

The committees took no part in the meeting, but were attentive listeners to all that was said. After the meeting the members of the committees said
they were unshaken in their decision and that the strikers would not return
until their grievances were righted.

A horizontal cut of 10 percent, they said, would not be necessary if the company would reduce some of the salaries of the foremen, abolish the contract system, and also look after the great amount of stock wasted.

As the result of last night's meeting,
the following letter was forwarded to Boston to the president and directors of the E. & A. Batchelder Co.:

"At a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trade this evening, it was unanimously voted that you be requested to postpone any definite action regarding the closing of your factory until Wednesday, giving more time for the consideration of the proposition
now being considered by the employees,
as we confidently believe that this extra time will result in many employees accepting the proposition of your board of directors."

Many of the operatives who were intending to seek employment elsewhere
left town yesterday.

Disatisfied With Present Conditions
New York, March 11.—The telegraphers in the service of the Central railroad of New Jersey, through their grievance committee, met General Superintendent Olhausen today and demanded a minimum scale of wages of $50 per month. Their wages now range from $40 to $65. They also ask for annual passes and the customary trip passes, as well as shorter hours for the tower men.

Brighter Aspects For Marselles
Marselles, March 11.—The dockers' strike is now assuming a more hopeful aspect. A number of the strikers voted yesterday for a cessation of the strike
in consequence of the damage to the interests of the port. They reserved
the right, however, to renew the present demands at some future time.

Anti-Jesuit Manifestations Lisbon, March 11.—As a result of a manifestation against the Jesuits by students of the polytechnic school, the police entered the institution and struck many with swords. The affair has caused lively indignation, and the assembled students have passed resolutions denouncing the brutality of the police.

Madrid, March 11.—El Heraldo says:
There have been further anti-Jesuit manifestations in Lisbon, necessitating
the calling out of the municipal guard.

Railroad Property Burned
New York, March 11.—A building
owned and occupied by the New York,
New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, New York division, for the general offices of several departments,
was badly damaged by fire last evening.
Thirty clerks employed in the building
at the time of the fire escaped with difficulty. Loss, about $250,000.

Death Rather Than Suffering
Berlin, March 11.—Prince Albrecht Zu Solms-Braunfels has committed suicide at Weisbaden, having learned that the disease from which he was suffering was incurable.

FURY OF THE ELEMENTS

Heavy Damage by Wind and Rain in Western and Southern States

Chicago, March 11.—One of the worst windstorms of the season struck Chicago early Sunday and during the two hours that it was at its height, damaged property throughout the city to the extent of $175,000. Many heavy plate glass windows were blown in.
Telegraph and telephone companies were the worst sufferers, and it will be some time before order can be restored.
Thousands of poles were blown down,
and Chicago was practically isolated from the west and northwest by telephone and telegraph last night and all day Sunday.

The storm is believed to have been most severe in southern Wisconsin.
Along a short stretch of the Milwaukee road in southern Wisconsin, 500 telegraph poles are down.

Reports from many points in Indiana and Kentucky also indicate heavy damage from the storm. The Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies suffered severely by falling poles. It was estimated that there were not fewer than 5,000 poles in the city thrown down by the fury of the wind and storm.

Service almost as far west as Omaha
was stopped until late last evening.

Wind Causes Heavy Loss
Fulton, Ky., March 11.—In a terrific storm that swept this section Saturday night, 20 negro cabins at Clinton were demolished, two negroes being mortally hurt and many others badly bruised.
Part of Marvin college was unroofed
and the water works plant was destroyed. Eight freight cars at the depot at Clinton were blown from the track. The Baptist church at Hickman was destroyed by wind. A large number of tenement houses and barns were blown down in Fulton and Hickman counties, and the loss of property is large.

Five Lives Lost
Dallas, March 11.—Late reports of a tornado at Wills Point show that there were five deaths. The property loss is $50,000. East of Wills Point the country is dotted with evidences of the storm's fury, and by the little mounds of wreckage its course can be followed to the Arkansas line. At New Boston and Texarkana it seems to have left the state. At New Boston two negroes were badly injured.

Arkansas Gets It
Little Rock, March 11.—A heavy rain, wind and thunder storm swept over Arkansas. At Conway, 15 business houses were unroofed, three others were blown down and many stores flooded.
Reports from Pine Bluff say that a tornado struck there, wrecking everything in its path. A boy named Turner was killed.

Tornado in Indiana
Princeton, Ind., March 11.—This city was struck by a tornado last Saturday night. One building was wrecked, several others were moved from the foundations and hundreds of outbuildings were demolished. No lives were lost.

Mrs. Nation's New Paper
Topeka, March 11.—The initial edition of Mrs. Carrie Nation's new paper, The Smasher's Mail, is interesting.
"I have no apologies to make in having Nick Chiles for the publisher of The Smasher's Mail. Our Saviour ate with publicans and sinners to do them good.
The servant is not above his lord. This paper shall be as its name, The Smash-er's Mail. I shall put into the columns the letters I get from all over." On the 11th page is found a picture of Nick Chiles, the negro publisher. Underneath are the lines: Business manager of The Smasher's Mail and the Plain Dealer, who went to the relief of Mrs.
Nation when deserted by the law and order people."

Radicals Raise Cry of "Trusts"
Havana, March 11.—Although the political demonstrations have ended, the Radical element of the Cuban constitutional convention has not given up hope that the United States will recede from the position taken regarding the Platt amendment. The Radical press is doing everything in its power to keep this view before the public. It attributes the action of the United States congress to the influence of the trusts, declaring that the American people "are in favor of giving Cuba absolute independence, and of rebuking the action of the administration."

Twelve Alleged Mutineers
New York, March 11.—Sunday plum duff abated the Camperdown for dinner and station house tea and rye bread for supper were the rations served to 12
members of the crew of the British tramp steamship Camperdown yesterday. They were brought here in irons, charged with mutiny. They will be taken before a commissioner today.

Peds In a Six-Day Race
Philadelphia, March 11.—A six-day go-as-you-please walking match was begun this morning at Industrial hall,
under the auspices of the Penn Art Athletic club. Twenty-four pedestrians started in the race, and will attempt to equal the world's record of 625 miles in 142 hours.

BRITISH STILL HOPEFUL

That the End of War in South Africa Is In Sight

LIBERAL TERMS OFFERED

For the Laying Down of Arms by Burgers—Delarey, De Wet and Steyn Remain Uncaptured, and Are Important Factors to Be Considered

London, March 11.—Advices from two great South African financial houses confirm the press intelligence that Lord Kitchener and General Botha have been in negotiation for six days. Peace, or at least a long step towards the end of the war, is looked for this week.

The war office declines to contribute anything to the great expectations, which include, according to some, the making of a formal submission by Botha today, when his force will surrender to French.

Among the versions as to what is going on there is one, with some official countenance, that the government is offering Botha far more liberal terms
than the parliamentary declarations have given any idea of. The only thing limiting these cheerful speculations is the fact that Delarey, De Wet and Steyn, regardless of what happens on Gun hill, will continue to wage guerilla warfare.

It is asserted that Mr. Kruger, through
Dr. Leyds, has sent a long telegram to Mr. Schalk-Burger, acting president of the South African republic, asking for details regarding the negotiations.

The Times publishes the following dispatch from Amstelveen, March 9:
"General De Wet has escaped northward with a force of 400 men. His objective is believed to be the vicinity of Kroonstad. Four other Boer leaders are still in the southwestern part of the Orange River Colony. Now that De Wet is back in his own country it will be almost impossible to operate against him. Just so soon as he is pressed his commando dissolves, to meet again a few days later. Only a few bands of Boers are now left in Cape Colony."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Lorenzo Marquez says that a Mr. Mar-tinisen, who resigned a post in the United States army to join the Boer forces, was shipped for Lisbon Saturday
on the Portuguese transport Zaira, which carried 100 Boer families, after he had made an ineffectual attempt to obtain consular protection.

Malays Object to Removal
Cape Town, March 11.—The Malays gathered yesterday to oppose the removal of a Malay who had been attacked by a white man and of several persons who had come into contact with the victim. The police were overpowered and the persons who had come into contact with the Malay made their escape. In the event of a repetition of this experience, it will be necessary to employ an armed force, so that trouble is anticipated.

Raymond Held in Heavy Bonds
New York, March 11.—President Low
of Columbia university, President
James of the Lincoln National bank,
President Gilman of Johns Hopkins university and Secretary Beebe of Columbia university were in police court yesterday to prosecute Rosso Raymond for swindling. Low, James and Beebe told how Raymond had played a confidence game on them, by which he obtained $200 from the bank. The technical charge on which Raymond was held was the forging of the check and the Gilman letter, and was held in $3000 bond on each of these charges. Raymond was arrested in New Haven last week for trying to swindle President Hadley of Yale college.

Senate Business Wound Up
Washington, March 11.—After proceedings lasting only six days, the extraordinary session of the senate was declared adjourned sine die at 1:55 p.
m. Saturday. During the session practically no business except that of an executive character was transacted. The session was called by the president in order that the senate might have opportunity to confirm appointments made at the beginning of the new administration. That business accomplished there was nothing further for the senate to do.

Not a Victim of White Caps
Trenton, March 11.—Thomas Applegate, a farmer, living at Extonville,
was found dead in his barn yesterday with his head crushed in. Owing to threats that had been made by white caps to punish Applegate for ill-treating his family, it was at first thought that he had been murdered. A thorough investigation was made, and it was decided that Applegate was kicked to death by a horse. Applegate had been drinking a great deal of late.

Miners' Strike Unlikely Hazleton, Pa., March 11.—Danger of another general strike in the anthracite coal fields seems to have vanished. The miners of the three anthracite districts
at the convention to be held here this week will doubtless accept the offer made Saturday by many of the coal companies to continue the present wage scale for the ensuing year.

Good Afternoon.

Would that the rules for the Metropolitan park reservations might be general, that prohibit a book agent
from soliciting subscriptions.

Many are inclined to think that the order of the City Council for an investigation of the Board of Health has found its proper place and that it should be allowed to rest there. It is in the hands of the "Committee of the Whole," who have adjourned, and who cannot meet again either to act or to frame a report. "If the City Council can take it from the committee, there may be a question whether it can do so within the four weeks' limit, and then only upon a majority vote. The majority are against an investigation and therefore may decide to allow the order to slumber where it is for the remainder of the year.

There is a grand opportunity before Quincy young men if they will only embrace it. The new Fore River Ship Company must have young men with advanced training; young men with knowledge and with push. As they advance in the employ of the company
they may obtain national renown. It would seem as though the trustees of the Thomas Crane public library realized this when they added the new books published Saturday. The books are for the most part ones that are likely to be called for and needed for consultation by students in naval architecture or employees of such establishments as the Fore River Company. This is the opportunity for ambitious young men who may in time become valued employees.

There is a bill now before the General Court asking for an appropriation of $10,000, to pursue investigations
as to the advisability of connecting the Taunton and Weymouth Fore Rivers by means of a canal, roughly estimated to cost not less than $12,000,000. The bill might be properly titled to read: A bill to enable Brockton to obtain low freight rates on coal at the expense of the state.

Outside of the city of Brockton the attempt to use the State's credit for the aforementioned purpose seems to be wholly uncalled for.

Besides endeavoring to involve the State in an immense expenditure of money for the purpose of building this canal there are a few material points which should be looked at before a preliminary appropriation is made.

The canal would be closed to navigation during the season of the year when sailing vessels wish to avoid rounding Cape Cod, from December to March. This, as all who live on the coast know, is the season of year during which the most violent storms occur, and when every vessel ventures with timidity through the Vineyard and Nantucket Sounds, and along the back side of the cape. A canal to be of practical use must be built in a locality where its length will not be a bar to its use by the larger, as well as the smaller coasters.

Outside of rounding the cape, the average skipper dreads nothing more than running the gauntlet of numerous draw bridges, such as he would have to encounter if using the proposed canal.

As the canal would only be open during the milder weather of the year there would be no incentive for the matter of a vessel to make Boston by the canal route.

The use of the canal would be practically narrowed down to canal boats loaded with coal for Brockton consumption.

Drift of Opinion.

The testimony of Mr. Schwab, manager of the billion dollar steel trust,
with a salary of several hundred thousand dollars a year, who says in order to get rich you must have a tremendous capacity for work and be willing to take many hard knocks, will undoubtedly receive the indorsement of the doughty Mr. Bob Fitzsimmons and other champions of the fistie arena.— Mansfield News.

The irreverent usage to which an ex-governor and vice-president elect has been subjected by the press of all parties is, after all a good sign. The very serious way in which Mr. Roosevelt takes himself, extending to his minutest movements and pastimes, is too much for the American sense of humor. Every one knows that it is not the extreme importance of the man
nor the overweening desire of the public to know where he is and what he is doing every hour of the day, that explains the dispatches and the newspaper pictures of his daring deeds.
Teddy is vain. He loves to write and read about himself. And when he goes afield he sounds a trumpet before him and lets all the world know what is to be the next thrilling chapter in his strenuous life. The cartoonists have caught him in the act. The piquant humors should have a salutary effect on his foibles. But the likelihood is that he mistakes that sort of thing for fame and is grinning with satisfaction
over the gibes.—Universalist Leader.

A bill before the Indiana legislature provides for a board of two doctors, two mothers and an attorney,
who are to form rules for the "physical examination of both parties to every application for a wedding license." The attempts to make Cupid trot along certain straight lines and in accordance with medical theories or religious ideas is an attempt that has never succeeded yet. It may succeed in Indiana, but from what we know of the west we should doubt it. However lovely it may be to have only the physically, mentally and morally strong allowed to wed, it must be admitted that there have been marriages among the comparatively sickly and infirm in mentality that have been very happy. Moreover, imagine the joy of going before an examining board and then being discredited with black marks and pointed out and whispered at in the streets as being the fellow or the girl that can't get married because of physical unsoundness. Where do they dig up all the freak legislators, anyway? Where may the incubator be located?—Brockton Enterprise.

Perhaps it is just as well to say that Andrew Carnegie has retired from the steel industry but the figures that have been given out would indicate that he has only loosened his hold upon it for a moment in order that he can have another grab and get a little more. Under the terms of the deal as they have been given out [Mr. Carnegie receives for his interests in the business $200,000,000 of the new company's bonds, the remaining interests in the Carnegie company getting the balance of the bonds and $126,934,000 of the stock. Thus Mr. Carnegie, although he has retired from business, holds a first mortgage on his old plant and all of the others to the extent of $200,000,- 000, which comes mighty near representing the actual investment in the whole bunch of plants. When it is considered that every one of the corporations which are being absorbed represents in its capital stock as much water as it does actual value and that in the present scheme another large dose of water is being poured in, there seems to be good reason for the verdict of many responsible and shrewd investors in crediting Andrew Carnegie with being the master of finance in this deal, after all. There are good and bad properties in the combination, the worthless along with the valuable and there is no guarantee that even the valuable properties will continue to enjoy such profits as they have reaped in the past few years. If there should come a slump it certainly will not be a man by the name of Carnegie who will suffer.—Haverhill Gazette.

Accident at Terminal.

At the South Terminal station, Boston, about 4.30 Sunday afternoon a train of three cars to constitute the 5.16
train for Quincy was "kicked" onto track 21, but owing to some misunderstanding about stopping, crashed through into the midway stopping about half way. No one was hurt, but the damage will cost several hundred dollars, and for some time the accident shut off the electric light.

Letters unclaimed for week ending Saturday
March 9:

The next international convention of the Epworth League will be held in San Francisco, July 29, 1901.

WHERE ARE WE AT?

That's What the City Council Want to Know.

The Committee of the Whole Ship-Wrecked.

Could Not Adjourn—Cannot Hold Another Meeting.

The question that many are asking today is, Will there be an investigation of the Board of Health tonight, by the "Committee of the Whole" of the City Council?

If the committee governs itself by parliamentary rules there can be no hearing. However, the City Council for the past few years, has done some queer things.

There have been many inquiries since the last meeting of the City Council as to where the "Committee of a Whole" is at? If the rules of the City Council are to govern, then the Committee of a Whole can not adjourn, and therefore can not meet tonight.

Those who attended last Monday night's meeting of the City Council will remember the Council resolved itself into a Committee of a Whole for an investigation. It then adjourned until tonight at 7.30. When this vote had been passed someone suggested that the proper thing was for the Committee to rise and report to the Council.

Although the Committee had no right to adjourn, the suggestion to rise and report was the proper course to pursue. It did not do so, however, for as Chairman Alden was about to put the motion to rise, President Bryant left his seat and walking to the President's chair, almost forced Councilman Alden out, and immediately took up the regular business of the Council.

Rule 34 of the City Council reads:
"The Council shall be governed by Cushing's Law and Practice of Legislative Assemblies in all questions of parliamentary practice not provided for by special rules of order."

There is no special rule of the Council governing Committees of a Whole, and therefore Cushing's Law
and Practice or Cushing's Parliamentary Law governs.

Here is what Cushing's Parliamentary laws has to say about Committees
of the Whole:

"Such committees can not adjourn,
as others, to another time, to consider
what was referred to it but, the business being unfinished at the regular
time for adjournment of the assembly,
or at a time when the assembly must
consider another matter, the committee
will, if it is desired to consider the question further, make a motion to
rise, report progress, and ask leave to sit again. If this motion is passed in the affirmative, the chairman rises, and, after the presiding officer has resumed the chair of the assembly, informs him that the Committee of the Whole have been considering, agreeably to order, the matter referred, have made progress, but, not completing the business, have directed him to ask permission for the committee to sit again. A vote is then taken on granting such permission. If decided in the affirmative, the time is set when the assembly shall again resolve itself into a committee. If the vote on permission be negative, the committee is dissolved."

This apparently disposes of any possibility of an investigation tonight.
However, in response to a request of President Bryant of the City Council,
the clerk, Mr. Spear, sent out notices to the members of the City Council, last night, notifying them of a meeting
tonight. A notice was also sent to Mr.
Gay, chairman of the Board of Health.

The notice sent to Mr. Gay was not a summons to appear before the City Council, but simply a notice that the Council would meet.

It should be remembered that it was not the City Council which adjourned until tonight, but the Committee of the Whole. The Council adjourned until March 18, so that no business of the City Council would be in order tonight.

Sudden Death at Braintree.

The death of Mrs. Benjamin F. Dyer of Braintree on Saturday came as a shock to many, as her sickness was of but a week's duration. She underwent a surgical operation the Sunday before,
and pneumonia developed. Mrs. Dyer was the wife of the town treasurer of Braintree, a member of the South Congregational church, and of Adams
chapter, Daughters of the Revolution of Quincy. She leaves a son and two daughters. The funeral will be held from her late home Washington street, South Braintree, on Tuesday afternoon
at half-past two.

Party Enrollment.

One of the plans before the Legislature to prevent Democrats voting in Republican caucuses, which did not however originate with the Republican State Committee as reported is the ward committees of each party to make up a party enrollment of persons regarded as entitled to vote in the party caucus. These lists are to be submitted to the board of election commissioners in Boston, or the registrars of voters in other cities.

The commissioners on the 1st of September are then to notify every registered voter of the fact, and to inquire, if his name has been returned as an enrolled Republican or Democrat whether he desires such enrollment to stand for caucus purposes if his name appears as enrolled by both the Democrat and the Republicans, which, if either, enrollment he desires to stand for caucus purposes; if his name has not been enrolled by either the Democratic or the Republican ward committee, whether he desires to be enrolled at all, and if so with which party, for caucus purposes.

The commissioners are then to make up the check lists for use at the caucuses,
in accordance with the replies received, but where no replies are received the enrollment by the ward committee is to stand as being acquiesced in by the voter. Names enrolled by both parties, however, if the voter expresses no choice, are to be crossed on both lists, and such a voter not allowed to participate in the caucus of either party. After the 1st of September the enrollment is to be conducted by the election commissioners entirely.

It is submitted in behalf of this plan that it will accomplish better than any other yet brought forward the reform desired by the leaders in both parties of preventing caucus pecking by members of the opposition party.

In Her Ninetieth Year.

Mrs. Mary, widow of Patrick Mc-Grath, died at her home on Pleasant street, Sunday, in her 90th year. Mrs.
McGrath was a native of Ireland and with her husband came to St. John's, N. B., in 1848, and from there to Boston in 1851. Three years later they settled in Quincy, where they resided the remainder of their lives. Her husband passed away about three years ago at an advanced age. He was a well known granite manufacturer of Quincy and one of its most respected and prosperous citizens. She leaves
five children: Mrs. Mary E. Blake, the well known writer of Boston, wife of Dr. John G. Blake, Henry of Quincy, who conducts the granite business established by his father, James,
and John who are engaged in mining operations in Mexico, and Mrs.
Timothy Cronin of St. John's, N. B.
Mrs. McGrath was a woman of most estimable character, and of a retiring disposition and very charitable.

Death of a Rebekah.

Mrs. Lydia C., wife of Mr. Henry A.
Willey, of Pepperhill, formerly of Quincy, died Sunday night at the residence of J. P. Sylvester on Centre street of pneumonia, after an illness of two weeks' duration. Mrs. Willey came to Quincy on a visit and was taken ill. Her illness developed into pneumonia. Everything possible was done to restore her health
but without avail. She leaves a husband well known among the granite workers and local Odd Fellows. Mrs.
Willey was a member of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, who will conduct the funeral services tomorrow.

Miss Harriet V. Bates entertained a

was a reunion of former classmates
who are now at college or in business.
The evening was happily passed in the playing of games, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Morse returned Sunday from their southern and western trip. As noted in the Ledger at the time, Mr. Morse had his fingers quite badly jammed. It seemed that he was passing from the parlor to a dining car just as the train rounded a sharp curve, and his hand was caught between the two cars.

The vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by a large audience,
including many strangers. Rev. Mr.
Chase preached on the theme "The Beauty of Goodness." The singing by the quartette was very good. At the morning service Mr. Chase delivered a strong sermon on "The Bible as literature: IV History."

Boat House Raided.

Inspector McKay accompanied by Officers Barry and McCarthy visited a boat house on Town river, near Johnson's lumber wharf, about 7 o'clock Sunday night, armed with a search warrant. The boat house is said to be owned by Eugene Prouty. The officers found a gang of fifteen present, some of whom were drinking beer. The officers seized a keg containing about two gallons of beer. They also arrested Maurice I. Gatecomb, who is alleged to be running the place.

Rain Resembles Blood

SITUATION IN MANCHURIA

Viewed in a Serious Light by Japanese Government, Which Has Ordered a New Battleship to Chinese Waters—Russia's Action May Be a Bluff

London, March 11.—Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang seem to think that by spreading rumors of the court's unwillingness to return to Peking, unless this or that is done, they can influence the deliberations of the ministers of the powers.

As a matter of fact, according to reliable reports from Sian-Fu, the imperial personages are extremely uncomfortable at Sian-Fu, where they live in the house of the governor, which is only a small structure. French missionaries who have just returned here from Sian-Fu believe the emperor would bring the court back to Peking on the first offer of the allies having as a basis the removal of the troops, except the legation guards.

"The Japanese battleship Hatsuse, just completed in England, has been ordered to proceed hither with all possible speed," says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. "Other orders given to the Japanese navy indicate the seriousness with which the Japanese government views the situation in the far east."

"Well informed Japanese regard Russia's action in Manchuria as a gigantic bluff, inspired by the notion that England's hands are tied in South Africa; but, as Germany is only half-hearted in the maintenance of Chinese integrity, a coalition with Japan is improbable, and Japan is too much embarrassed in her finances to do more than to protest and to endeavor to secure compensating advantages in Korea."

The United States signal corps will be ready to leave in a week, according to instructions. No transport has been announced, however.

It is not likely that the powers will oppose the schemes of Russia, says the Peking correspondent of The Morning Post. The situation is regarded as very gloomy. Even the Chinese plenipotentiaries declare openly that intervention by the powers is not desirable, unless they are prepared to back up their protests.

Commenting editorially upon the attitude of the United States government toward the Manchurian convention, The Times says: "Apparently the Washington government rely upon the moving force of their exhortations to induce Russia to abandon the convention or China will refuse to sign it."

Li Hung Chang is again seriously ill, and his physicians say that his life hangs by a thread.

An Eye on the Balkans

London, March 11.—It is reported that Russia is seeking the support of the powers in a scheme to prevent a sudden outbreak in the Balkans, says the Vienna correspondent of The Morning Post. She proposes that Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece should greatly reduce their armies, on condition that the powers give a pledge to protect their independence. It is asserted that the assent of Great Britain and Austria has already been obtained.

Bobs Returned Decoration

Berlin, March 11.—It is rumored in court circles that Earl Roberts "thankfully returned" to Emperor William the insignia of the Order of the Black Eagle, conferred at the time of the kaiser's visit to England, after noting the unfavorable comment in the German press upon the bestowal of the honor. This would explain the omission of the customary announcement of the conferring of such a distinction.

Lawson Broke the Rules

Fresno, Cal., March 11.—Gus Lawson of California and John Lake of New York rode yesterday in a 10-mile motor-paced bicycle race on the Velodrome track. Lake's motor broke in the second mile, and Lawson continued, in violation of the rules, finishing in 18:45. At the finish several of the riders got into a quarrel over the race and a free-for-all fight was the result.

Murderer Killed Himself

Berlin, March 11.—A non-commissioned officer named Oliver, who committed suicide at Gumbinnen, left a letter confessing that he was the murderer of Cavalry Captain Von Kroschke, who was killed at Gumbinnen last January by a shot through a window while he was drilling his men in a riding school.

HOMEWARD BOUND

Twenty-Sixth Regiment, Mainly New Englanders, Aboard a Transport
Washington, March 11.—General MacArthur has notified the war department that the transport Garonne sailed from Manila Saturday for San Francisco with 41 officers and 849 enlisted men of the Twenty-sixth volunteer infantry, and that 3 officers and 82 men of company F of the same regiment will follow on the transport Grant.

The Twenty-sixth regiment was recruited mainly from New England in the summer of 1899, and was mustered into service at Plattsburg, N. Y. On Sept. 6 it started for Manila by way of Boston.

Manila was reached Oct. 24, but the regiment, without disembarking, was ordered to Holo, on the island of Panay. There its activities have been confined for the past 18 months.

The war department states that the homeward trip will occupy about a month, bringing the troops early in April to San Francisco, where the regiment will be mustered out.

THE RESULT UNCERTAIN

Portion of One of General Harrison's Lungs Has Become Inflamed

Indianapolis, March 11.—The condition of Benjamin Harrison is serious. Dr. Jameson states that the upper part of General Harrison's left lung is inflamed. There is some danger of the congestion extending to the rest of the lung and to the right lung. Until 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon General Harrison was resting easily, but at that time he became slightly worse, and Dr. Jameson was called. He said that he was certain nothing was to be apprehended for the next 48 hours, but the age of the patient renders all calculations uncertain.

Mayor Daly's Argument

New York, March 11.—The 123rd anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet was celebrated under the auspices of the Clan Na-Gael last night by a concert and mass meeting in the Academy of Music. The oration was delivered by Mayor John Daly of Limerick, Ire.

Mayor Daly said in part: "Good men tell us that the only hope for Ireland is the burning of London. I am not taking that job, because it is too big a one, but if there is a man who thinks he can go over and do in London what Kitchener is doing in the Transvaal, I will not stop him. I believe that there is still hope for Ireland, because I know that the French government has during the last five months stowed away more coal than it has used in four years. If the French are storing up coal in that fashion, one would naturally believe that they are going to make it hot for somebody."

Verdict Not Hurriedly Reached

Wichita, Kan., March 11.—A sealed verdict was returned yesterday in the case of the state vs. Mrs. Carrie Nation. Lucy Wilhoite, Julia Evans and Lydia Muniz, charged with wrecking a saloon here on Jan. 21. Eleven of the jurors are said to have favored conviction. The jury deliberated 24 hours.

Not a Dollar Missing

Niles, Mich., March 11.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Cashier Johnson of the First National bank has been cleared up. Mrs. Johnson returned last night from Chicago, where, she says, her husband is ill at the home of her brother-in-law. The officers of the bank, which has closed, are satisfied that her story is true. They say that a search of the bank's books shows that not a dollar is missing.

Preparations for a Duel

Paris, March 11.—The Buffet-De-roulede duel will probably be fought with pistols. It is announced that the four seconds of the principals will leave for Italy today. The Brussels correspondent of Le Matin asserts that it is quite correct that the Duke of Orleans has forbidden M. Buffet to fight with M. Deronelle, but that M. Buffet has decided to disobey. The quarrel, however, is no longer political.

Coercive Measures Must Cease

Kingston, March 11.—The government of Jamaica, acting on behalf of the British government, has sent a strong protest to the president of Ecuador against the employment of soldiers to compel thousands of laborers from Jamaica to work under the McDonald syndicate in the construction of a railroad. The protest is almost an ultimatum, as it calls for an immediate discontinuance of the coercive measure.

I., March 11.—The police of East Providence have been engaged in investigating a reported fight to a finish at Seeconk, Mass., yesterday, between two young men from Providence, who had agreed to decide by a fistie encounter who should pay company to a young lady in East Providence. The police at Central Falls and Pawtucket were notified of the proposed fight, but before they reached the scene the bout had come to a finish, and as the fight took place in Massachusetts, the Rhode Island officers were unable to act. Sergeant Adams of the East Providence police has asked Taunton constables if any assistance is desired toward prosecuting the parties who were engaged in the fight. It is said that about 100 persons were present, and that one of the principals was badly injured.

Strong Defender of Anarchy

Boston, March 11.—Prince Peter Kropotkin was the guest last evening at Paine Memorial hall of the Boston anarchists. He poured volleys of hot shot into the capitalist ranks, decried in vigorous language what he deems the present disgraceful traffic in human souls, told how anarchism is to improve the economic and intellectual conditions of the masses, ridiculed the socialistic idea of governmental control of the means of production, and excused violent and criminal methods of individual anarchists on the ground that others who are not anarchists have been guilty of like transgressions.

Pistol Figured in the Row

Millville, Mass., March 11.—Conway's restaurant and its immediate vicinity was the scene of a lively fracas Saturday night, due principally to Conway's refusal to serve food to moneyless guests. He was hurled to the ground and died almost instantly. McCraven was 50 years old. It was necessary to shut off the circuit before the body of McCraven was removed.

A Terrible Experience

New Britain, Conn., March 11.—Howard Frost, a mechanical engineer, was working inside one of the large boilers at the Stanley works yesterday when a steam gauge blew out and turned on the full pressure of steam and hot water. He was dragged out by workmen, but not until the entire upper part of his body had been practically parboiled. He is not expected to live.

Fourteen Men Probably Lost

Gloucester, Mass., March 11.—The fishing schooner Commonwealth of this port with a crew of 14 fishermen, which sailed on Jan. 22 on a haddock trip to the Georges, has been given up as lost by her owners. He had undoubtedly been dead for several days, but his absence from home had not been noticed by neighbors. It is supposed he perished from the cold.

FACTORY DOORS CLOSED

Crisis In Shoe Troubles at North Brookfield

A REDUCTION IS RESISTED

By Over Eleven Hundred Operatives,
Who Declare Their Intention of Remaining Out—Collapse of the Shoe Industry in the Town May Result

North Brookfield, Mass., March 12.—
There was begun yesterday in the shoe factory of E. & A. Batchelder an almost unanimous strike of the 1150 operatives employed, because of the announcement of a reduction of 10 percent in their pay. The report that only 34 operatives returned to work was telegraphed to the owners in Boston, and response was immediately received to the effect that the mill should at once be closed. The whistle did not sound at noon, and all efforts to keep the factory in operation have been abandoned.

The strikers are determined to resist
the reduction of 10 percent, and refuse to listen to any proposals in that direction; the owners of the factory are believed to be equally obstinate as to the granting of any concession in their decision to reduce the pay. There has not been any disturbance, and the police do not anticipate any trouble.

One of the firm who has to deal with the strikers cannot come here before tomorrow, so it is probable the matter will have to stand as it is until that time, although he is quoted as saying that the factory will not be opened until a majority of the operatives signify their intention to return to work at the new schedule of wages.

Messrs. Palmer and Barry of the state board of arbitration met the committee of the employees, and afterwards saw Superintendent Wood of the Batchelder factory. They have made arrangements for a conference with President Batchelder. Mr. Palmer is looking up the manufacturers' side of the case. He ascertained the wages paid in the Brockton factories, and the comparison, it is said, revealed the fact that lower wages were paid here than elsewhere.

President Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union is here in the interests of the body he represents, although he has made no effort to organize a union.

In announcing the reduction, last week, the firm said that it was necessary for them to take the step in order to be able to meet their competitors,
but that a system of profit sharing
would be introduced in a few months.
The employees were not satisfied at the time and maintained that by economy in certain directions a reduction of wages would be unnecessary.

There is some fear that if the trouble is of long duration it may lead to the withdrawal from this town of the shoe factories.

Spread of Silk Weavers' Strike

Paterson, N. J., March 12.—All the weavers at Frank & Dugan's and Dexter & Lambert's silk mills remained away from work yesterday, except one girl. At a meeting held yesterday strikes were officially declared on at both factories. There is no change in the strike situation at the Levy Bros' mill. The girl weavers at Frank & Dugan's mill had been offered an advance of $2 a week, but they rejected
it and joined in the demands of the men.

Good News For Miners

Pittsburg, March 12.—Notices were posted late last evening by the Berwind-White Coal Mining company at several points in the central Pennsylvania mining fields, as follows: "The average advance of 20 percent in wages given our employees April 1, 1900, will be continued until April 1, 1902." This notice affects about 10,000 men. The action of the company continues in effect
the highest rate of wages ever paid in the central Pennsylvania fields.

Thirty-Seven Girls Out

Derby, Conn., March 12.—Thirty-seven girl employees of the A. H. & C.
B. Alling woolen mills went on strike yesterday, owing to a reduction of wages, said to amount to from 10 to 15 percent. The company states that it has simply removed an increase given the employees a year ago when business was better.

Eighteen Thousand Locked Out

Barcelona, March 12.—In consequence of a dispute with operatives who oppose the erection of new spinning machinery,
the local manufacturers have closed the mills, locking out 18,000 employees. Serious riots have occurred. The strikers have set fire to houses and assaulted employers.

Incorporation of White Mice

New York, March 12.—The Benevolent Order of White Mice of America was duly incorporated here yesterday. The objects of the organization are said to be charitable and benevolent, and it is to aid and assist "ladies of the theatrical profession, playing minor parts, in case of sickness and distress or in any other emergency."

BUILDINGS WRECKED

By the Bursting of Two Dams at Wanskuck, R. I.

Providence, March 12.—Two dams at Wanskuck, on the northern boundary line, burst yesterday afternoon, carrying away two wooden buildings containing nine persons, all of whom have been accounted for excepting Miss Emily Whimpey, who was drowned. The upper dam burst first and the flood of water came down with a rush and swept away the lower dam within a few minutes. Located over the dam were two wooden buildings, each 60 feet square, three stories in height, run as a cotton mill by George Weedon.

These buildings were crushed by the flood. The nine persons were caught by the flood and eight were rescued by firemen. The victims clung to pieces of the debris, and were rescued by the firemen, who, with ropes tied around their bodies, waded out to the persons.
Miss Whimpey and a man were carried down the stream on a raft. They caught in a wire fence, which crashed
the raft, and only the man was rescued.
The firemen tried to Miss Whimpey to cling to the wire, but she could not be reached. A heavy timber coming in the flood struck her in the back and neck, and she was carried under and was not seen afterwards.

Several bridges have been carried away, and the whole country below the ruined dam presents a scene of devastation.
Every part of the flooded section is submerged to depths varying from one to several feet, the water being filled with floating debris brought down by the flood.

Webster Gets More Than Enough

Webster, Mass., March 12.—Following directly in the wake of a long drought, an excessive rain has so filled the streams hereabouts as to cause much damage and inconvenience. The fires were put out in the factory of A. J.
Bates & Co. by the rapid rise in the French river, and 400 hands are for a time unable to continue work. Much small stock, such as pigs, hens and the like, along the streams have been drowned. The water is rapidly rising.

Rain and Fog at Boston

Boston, March 12.—A driving rainstorm and later a blanket of fog made navigation in the harbor difficult yesterday, and in reason thereof no craft sailed. Many incoming steamers announced, probably due to heavy weather
out at sea.

MAINE GETS IT

Heavy Wind Accompanied Rain and Kept Vessels In Port

Eastport, Me., March 12.—A heavy rain, accompanied by very high wind, continued throughout yesterday. The line steamer for the provinces which left at the regular time yesterday afternoon
was obliged to put back for shelter.
The wind had attained a velocity of 50
miles an hour.

Belfast, Me., March 12.—This section was visited yesterday by one of the most severe storms in a number of years. Last night the streets were almost impassable for pedestrians. A high wind kicked up a dangerous sea,
and no craft ventured out of the harbor.

In the Nutmeg State

New Haven, March 12.—Reports from various parts of the state indicate that the storm, while it had loosened the ice in many of the rivers and caused some incidental damage to railways
and trolley roads in the shape of washouts, will not start serious floods.

Storm Reaches Nova Scotia

Halifax, March 12.—A severe sleet storm visited Nova Scotia yesterday, causing disaster to overhead wires in several towns. A gale of wind is blowing. At Yarmouth the electric lights have been extinguished, and the trolley car system suspended.

Stock Drowned in a Cellar

Waverly, N. Y., March 12.—Cattle valued at $1000 were drowned in the basement of a barn at Smithboro on account of a quick rise in the Susquehanna river. The storm was general in this section.

An Unsatisfactory Contest

Newcastle, Eng., March 12.—Sammy Kelly, the New York featherweight, met Will Curley of England in a 20-round bout here last evening, for a purse of $1000 and a side wager of the same amount. Both men were very fit. Both fought fouly, and Kelly, hopelessly beaten, went down thrice
without a blow in the seventh round.
He was disqualified and the fight awarded to Curley.

Carried Out amid War

Manila, March 12.—The coasting
steamer Carmen and the schooner Orient have been seized on the charge of illicit transshipment of cargo between Sorsogon and Balan in the province of Albay. Contraband of war was found on board the vessels, both of which will be held, pending investigation.

Weather Conditions and Forecast

Almanac, Wednesday, March 13.
Sun rises—6:01; sets, 5:48.
Moon rises—12:57 a. m.
High water—4:30 a. m.; 5 p. m.
The storm conditions have moved northward with diminishing energy, still with two centres of disturbance, one off New England and the other northeast of the lower lake region. High winds and gales have occurred on the Atlantic coast from North Carolina northward. Rains or snow have fallen in New England,
where the weather will be fair and somewhat colder. Brisk northwesterly winds are indicated for the coast.

FOUND DYING IN FIELD

Big Blacksmith Shortly Afterward Expired

A HAND NEARLY SEVERED

Possibility of Suicide, but Failure to Find Weapon or a Trail of Blood Leading to Scene of Tragedy Leads Police to Suspect Murder

Boston, March 12.—With his left hand almost completely severed from the arm, and his life blood welling out from the arteries into a pool by his side, Michael J. Keenan, 33, a big, strapping blacksmith, was found bleeding to death yesterday afternoon, four miles from his home in Jamaica Plain, in a field on the outskirts of Brookline.

The man was alive when first discovered, but died soon after, whether a victim of foul play or as the result of self-inflicted injuries the police have not as yet been able to determine. For some hours after the discovery the mu-der theory held full sway, until the police learned that Keenan had been seen earlier in the day with a hatchet in his hand, and this, coupled with the fact that he was known to have been slightly unbalanced, seemed to point to suicide. Still, a careful search of the vicinity failed to reveal the hatchet,
and there was apparently no trail of blood, showing that Keenan bled to death nearly on the spot where his hand
was cut off.

A little dog led his master, James
Toomey, to the scene of the tragedy.
Toomey was walking along the road,
with his dog running through the adjacent fields, when he noticed that the animal stopped at some object and then commenced to howl. The man climbed the fence and crossed the field, coming upon the blood-soaked man. Keenan was lying in a great pool of blood.
Toomey was horrified to find that his hand was almost cut off, while he seemed to be suffering from other wounds. Just as Toomey arrived, Keenan gave a great heave and expired.

The nearest house was some distance off, while the police station was four miles away, so that it was some time before the local authorities arrived on the scene. The medical examiner arrived not long after. He decided that death was due to a hemorrhage from the arteries of the arm. He gave an opinion that the hand had been cut off by an axe. Nothing of the kind was found, while there seemed to be no trail of blood leading into the field, only the pool in which Keenan fairly wallowed in his death struggle.

Everything seemed to point to the murder theory until word was received that Keenan had been seen in the morning with an axe in his hand.
Gradually more information came in as to Keenan's peculiarities, his unsound mental condition, as well as a court record of some length, but the Brookline authorities are still working on the murder theory. It was pointed out that a man could not have lived more than 10 minutes with the arteries of his arm fully opened, and that there are no convenient logs which he could have used for a chopping block. The failure to find the hatchet, however,
and an unfortunate dispute with a Jamaica Plain man, leading to his arrest, gave the Brookline authorities the incentive to investigate further into the tragedy.

General Harrison's Condition

Indianapolis, March 12.—Dr. Jameson has been in constant attendance on General Harrison, and, with Dr. Hadley, has alternated in a close watch on the slightest sign of improvement or re-lapse. The inflammation of his lung has not spread any, and there is no danger to be apprehended unless the inflammation does spread. He will either gradually grow better or he will grow gradually worse, and will, in the same way, grow weaker. He was perfectly conscious early this morning, and was resting easily.

No Conclusion Yet Reached

Pretoria, March 12.—The result of the negotiations between Lord Kitchener and General Louis Botha is anxiously but hopefully awaited. The presence of Sir Alfred Milner in Pretoria to consult with Lord Kitchener is expected to hasten the change from the military to the civil administration.

For Protection of the Kaiser

Berlin, March 12.—It is asserted that much stricter precautions will be taken hereafter to insure the safety of Emperor William and that detectives from Berlin will always accompany him to co-operate with the local authorities.

Big Crops Garnered

Washington, March 12.—The amount of wheat in farmers' hands on March

Drift of Opinion.

A modern war is immensely expensive, requiring the best of credit or large sums of money. Russia has neither. France has already loaned her more than was prudent. She will find it impossible to obtain the sinews of war from other foreign loans. If all the powers unite against her she will be bankrupt in less than two years.—Portland Press.

We have not sufficiently examined the bill for a system of state supervision and control of the accounts of the various institutions for the insane to be able to express an opinion concerning its merits. But we observe that two trustees have threatened to resign in case the bill should become a law. Such a threat as this, it may be remarked, ought not to count for anything. These trustees may have good ground for objecting to the measure, and if so, their objections ought to be candidly heard and judiciously examined. But individual trustees of any institution, however useful they may be,
are not indispensable. Legislation can go on without regard to whether they will stay in office or not.—New Bedford Standard.

The men who have written their names on the scroll of fame, as the school readers put it, deserve to hold a place in the regard of the world.
This country has produced many such men and will produce many more. But to identify success with fame would be a fatal mistake. The pillars of the state are not always or altogether the men whose names are on every lip because it has happened to them to work in the sight of the public. The real strength of the country lies in the uncounted multitude of its good, upright
and conscientious men and women,
few of whom can ever hope for wealth or fame, and the great majority of whom must be content to live lives of unheroic drudgery and toil.—New York Tribune.

Guardianship Hearing.

A hearing was held in Boston on Saturday last, before Judge James H.
Flint of the Norfolk Probate court, on the petition of Robert E. Belcher et als., praying for the appointment of a guardian of Charles A. Belcher, of Brantree, an alleged insane person,
Lewis Bass, Jr., Esq., of Quincy and Messrs. Mellen and Wilson of Brantree in the interests of their respective clients, creditors of Charles A. Belcher, opposed the granting of the petition.
Judge Flint, upon the request of Mr.
Bass, granted a continuance of the hearing to March 30.

MANY POINTS OF ORDER

Raised at Hearing by Committee of the Whole of the City Council

Relative to the Investigation of the Board of Health and Inspector of Plumbing.

Chairman of Board of Health Objects to Testi- fying at This Time and the Committee Rise.

The City Council was over an hour Monday evening getting up steam for the investigation in a committee of the whole of the Board of Health and the Inspector of Plumbing, and when there were no more points of order or technicalities to raise and the committee were ready to investigate, it was voted to rise, report progress, and ask the City Council for further time.

The investigation is supposed to involve so many people that apparently all the city officials were present from Mayor Hall down, and citizens crowded all the available seats reserved for them and there was a large overflow in the gallery. There were also present a large number of witnesses who had been regularly summoned by a justice of the peace and constable, and who had been paid in advance a fee of eighty cents.

Directly after Councilman Charles
Alden, the chairman of the committee,
called the meeting to order, Councilman DeNormandie asked by what authority
the meeting was held.

The chair—By adjournment.
Councilman DeNormandie—I object
to proceeding with the investigation,
as the committee of the whole could not legally adjourn.

The chair—I cannot entertain your objection.

DeNormandie—I appeal from the decision of chair.

Councilman Bryant raised the point that the gentleman was not in order.

The chair sustained the point.

DeNormandie asked permission to read from Cushing, but the chair entertained a motion of Councilman Bryant to proceed with the investigation, and the order introduced into the Council was read.

DeNormandie raised the point of order that said order had never been referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Bryant claimed that it had been and that the committee of the whole could make its own rules, as did the Committee on Streets and other committees. It looked as if the gentleman wanted to apply whitewash and prevent an investigation.

DeNormandie was surprised at stand of last gentleman, and said his law was as far off as many other rulings the gentleman had made. The rules of the Council say Cushing's manual shall rule. He asked that this body give no further consideration to the order.

Bryant moved to proceed with hearing, and the chair put the question.

DeNormandie appealed, and the chair
was sustained 11 to 9.

DeNormandie entered a formal protest.

DeNormandie asked whether order had been referred to a committee of the whole.

The chair ruled that it had.

DeNormandie asked that the records of the clerk of the Council be read.

Bryant wondered at the dilatory practice. The subject matter had been referred to the committee if the order had not. He asked the last gentleman if he claimed the subject matter was not before committee.

DeNormandie—That's what I claim.

Bryant—There can be no question on that.

DeNormandie—I admit it. The committee has absolutely no right to convene.

Councilman Freeman said the Council went into a committee of the whole to investigate the Board of Health, and therefore claimed order was before committee.

DeNormandie wanted records read,
and question was put.

Bryant objected and raised point of order.

Chair ruled point was well taken, and
on appeal was sustained.

Bryant was allowed to state the situation of the Board of Health as he saw it. He said that for several years there had been an annual disturbance—
the inspector of plumbing—and that it had become notorious and not for the good of Quincy. Charges had been published and relished. All kinds of rumors were heard as to why this order was introduced. It was said it was at an inopportune time; perhaps six years ago would have been the proper time.

Many believe that the charges are preferred without expectation that they will be sustained. If they were true, all well and good. Someone in 1900 made the charges upon which the Board of Health were acting. If by the board, they were carrying out their duties. We learn that all but one of the charges have been dismissed. The citizens are entitled to know who preferred the charges. Did they come from a higher official? Perhaps not. Now we should investigate. He moved that the Chairman of the Board of Health be requested to appear before the committee, and it was so voted.

John W. McAnarney, Esq., announced at this time that Lawyer Blackmur and himself appeared as counsel for Inspector Kenley.

City Solicitor Sears objected, and warned the members of the committee that they be not deluded and led into a trap. Stand by your Board of Health, who now have before them charges
upon which they have not adjudicated.
Beware of lawyers who want to assist purely from goodness of heart. You should not intimidate the Board of Health who are now sitting as judges.
Don't carry this farce any further.

Councilman Nichols called for reading of the investigation order.

The order was read.

DeNormandie asked that City Solicitor be requested to render an opinion on the legality of this hearing, and the chair put the motion.

Bryant asked how many times the chair would be called upon to put this question, and raised point of order.

DeNormandie did not intend to indulge in intemperate remarks, but claimed the motion in order, as it had been entertained.

Freeman claimed no committee had a right to ask opinion of City Solicitor.

Chair ruled the point well taken.
On appeal the chair was sustained 11 to 7.

The chair invited counsel for Mr.
Kenley to enter.

Nichols asked by what authority
counsel appeared.

Lawyer McAnarney explained.

Nichols considered it was an investigation of the Board of Health and not of the Inspector. He knew nothing of the merits of the case. Believed committee able to investigate without counsel, and objected to counsel appearing. I have no prejudice, and am ready to investigate if investigation is necessary. He moved that counsel be not admitted.

Freeman quoted from order, that it included the Inspector and therefore he was entitled to be represented by counsel.

The chair so ruled, and an appeal
was sustained.

Chairman Gay of the Board of Health
then took the stand.

Lawyer Blackmur called attention to the fact that witnesses at hearings like these should be sworn, and that the chairman was authorized to administer
the oath.

Mr. Gay was sworn.

Bryant was about to question witness, when Mr. Gay said that, while the board was sitting on the charges he did not feel that it would be right for him to testify as to the charges, and he should refuse to answer questions.

Bryant appreciated position, and said it had not been his desire to press the hearing at this time.

Mr. Gay said that but for the illness of Mr. Badger of the board, the decision would have been reached last week. He expected it would this week. Then he would be willing to answer all questions.

Councilman Faxon moved to adjourn.
The chair was not inclined to put the motion, but DeNormandie called many times for the question, and claimed debate was out of order.

Bryant asked for question of privilege
and after a while was allowed to proceed. He thought the committee had a right to adjourn to some date, or to rise, report to the Council and ask further time.

DeNormandie also rose to question of privilege. The chair attempted to shut him off, but finally allowed him to reply. He quoted from the order "to investigate the present charges," and maintained there was no question but it was the intention of those behind the order to intimidate the Board of Health. He hoped the motion to adjourn would be defeated as the committee could not legally adjourn. The committee could vote to rise and ask
further time.

The motion to adjourn was carried.
Upon motion of Councilman Bryant,
it was voted that the committee rise,
report progress and ask for further time.

The meeting dissolved at 8.43, and will probably be continued at the close of the Council meeting next Monday evening.

Among the many witnesses who were summoned to appear and give their evidence in the investigation of the Board of Health were: John S. Gay and Dr.
T. J. Dion of the Board of Health, Dr.
Charles W. Garey, an ex-member of the board; Mayor Hall, City Clerk Cleaves, Commissioner of Public Works Charles
F. Knowlton, Inspector of Plumbing
Kenley and T. J. Collins of the Boston Globe.

All the members of the City Council were present except Messrs. Gassett and Nicol.

Cranford Tonight.

The play of "Cranford" which has been presented with great success by the ladies of Brockton and elsewhere,
will be given this evening by pupils
of the Woodward Institute who always have something novel and entertaining
on the annual occurrences of Founder's day. The play is laid in an English village, Cranford, the place where economy was always "elegant," and where "though some might be poor, we were all aristocratic." Many changes have been made in the play as outlined in the Ladies' Home Journal.
A dress rehearsal was given at the school hall last evening, and the few who were fortunate to witness it say a grand treat is in store for Quincy people. The people in the play are Elizabeth B. Merrill, Mary L. Rodgers,
Lola A. West, Rachel M. Doble,
Maggie Shirley, Helen C. Durgin,
Bertha W. Josselyn, Edna B. Miller,
Florence F. Newcomb and Gertrude King.

Singing by the school will be usual

Protestantism." Mrs. H. J. Gurney gave an interesting paper on "Delft

Corthell described "Picturesque Holland."

The musical program was of especial excellence. Mrs. Moulton and Miss Arnold played an arrangement from Seubert's Rosamond on the pianoforte.

Miss Helen Bean sang two songs by Sullivan, one by Chadwick and one by Mrs. Rogers, responding to hearty encores. Miss Bean pleased her many friends by her singing.

The next meeting will be March 22,

nonsense verses, puns and parody epigrams, anagrams, etc.

Miss Spear spoke of these writers in a highly appreciative manner, interpreting the songs in a finished style.

Mrs. X. S. Hunting sang Schubert's
"The Trout," and "Impatiens" in German, and the "Serenade" with her own English translation, with violin obligato by Miss Thomas. Schubert's

STOP THE WASTE.

Metropolitan Water Basins
Only Half Full.*Serious Condition Arising from Drought.*Commission Requests Cooperation of Quincy Takers.The Metropolitan Water Board has called the attention of the cities and towns in the district to the serious condition of the water supply. In a letter to Commissioner Knowlton the board asks his earnest cooperation in the endeavor to decrease the present unnecessary and, in view of the possibilities, almost alarming consumption of water in the Metropolitan Water District. Unlike this situation in many other districts, there will be in this district sufficient water for all necessary and reasonable purposes, provided the supply is properly husbanded.The board earnestly requests that all regulations regarding the use of water shall be strictly enforced, that a rigid inspection shall be made, and that the attention of your people shall be called to the present situation individually and through your local press.The Metropolitan Water Board furnishes the following information as to the serious condition of the water supply of the Metropolitan District and the necessity of restricting the excessive use and waste of water in order that the supply may hold out during the latter part of the year:The storage reservoirs were drained to a low point by the severe drought of last summer and autumn. The drought was temporarily broken by heavy rains
at the end of November which raised the level of the reservoirs to a considerable extent, but the short period of rains has been succeeded by a winter drought extending far into the period when according to all precedent, the reservoirs should be filling rapidly.Measurements of the flow of the Sud-bury River have been made for 26 years, and the flow for January and February of this year has been only 1-4 of the average flow, and but little more than 1-2 of the lowest flow for the same period during the 26 years. Although as a rule the reservoirs generally rise in January, there are some exceptions, but they have in the past always risen in February, March and April, and these three months have been depended upon to fill the reservoirs and provide the supply for the summer season. Nearly half of the usual wet period is past and the reservoirs have still been falling since the beginning of the year. They are now less than half full, and it seems probable that they will not fill this spring and that the district will begin the season with a short supply of water.
Even if they do not fill there will be a sufficient supply of water for all reasonable requirements, but not to supply
the excessive use and waste of water indicated by the greatly increased amount consumed during the past years.The time has come to stop this excessive and wasteful use of water, so as to diminish the consumption of water and avoid a shortage at the end of the year, and the Metropolitan Water Board urgently requests water takers to repair leaky fixtures, to be prudent in the use of water, and not to permit water to run to an unnecessary extent to prevent pipes from freezing.The amount of water wasted to prevent pipes from freezing is enormous.
The consumption of water in November was 90,000,000 gallons per day,
equal to 100 gallons per inhabitant,
while in the cold month of February
the consumption was 114,000,000 gallons per day, equal to 137 gallons per inhabitant. The difference of 24,- 000,000 gallons per day, equal to 28 gallons per inhabitant, represents the water wasted to prevent freezing. The daily average consumption of water
during the entire past year, amounting to 115.5 per inhabitant in the district supplied, was, in the opinion of the board, far beyond the necessary or reasonable requirements.

Whist, Owls and Peanuts.

The ladies who compose the Twentieth Century whist club entertained
the gentlemen, at the residence of Mr.
and Mrs. William Wilson on Presidents avenue. This was the second of these gatherings that the ladies have held,
and they have both proved to be very enjoyable. At Monday evening gathering whist was the main feature, and for two hours it held the undivided attention of those present. At the conclusion of the play it was found that Mr. James Craig and Mrs. John Lawry had the best scores and were therefore entitled to the first choice of the pretty souvenirs that had been provided. The second best scores were secured by Mr.
and Mrs. Geo. T. Magee, who were also awarded pretty souvenirs. Following this ice cream and cake were served.
The balance of the evening was taken up with an Owl party and a peanut chasing contest. Both are very amusing games and created considerable laughter. China souvenirs were awarded the successful contestants in these games. Wilson's orchestra was present and rendered a number of selections
during the evening.

Weymouth Town Meeting.

Weymouth will have no special liquor officers this year, having at the annual town meeting, Monday, after a warm debate reduced the appropriation for police, from $4,000 to $3,000. This does away with the special liquor officers who have been on duty for years.The School Committee was instructed to pay the Superintendent of Schools a salary of not over $1400 a year.It was voted that the offices of the Town Clerk, Selectmen, Water Board, Overseers of the Poor and Board of Health be located at East Weymouth in building to be erected by the Savings Bank at an annual rental of $900.The principal appropriations made were: Schools, $42,000; the Alewife Funds and half the dog tax; highways
and bridges, $11,000; poor, $17,000;
police, $3,000; disabled soldiers and sailors $2300; fire department, $6,000;
Tufts library $2,250; interest $5,000;
miscellaneous, $2,500; pay of town officers $6,200. The meeting then adjourned until Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. Teale Dead.

Rev. Dr. Teale was born in Medford,
Feb. 11, 1823. He was graduated from Yale college in 1842, and from the Yale Theological school in 1845. [His first parish was at Naugatuck, Conn., where he was settled four years. He came to Milton in May, 1850, and was installed as pastor of the First Evangelical Congregational church, Dec. 18

fiftieth anniversary of his settlement as pastor of his church was observed.

REJECTED BY ENGLAND

Cannot Agree to Hay-Pauncefote Amendments

MOVES AS TO THE FUTURE

Must Be Initiated by United States—Answer Makes Clear the Attitude of Great Britain Alongside the Attitude of America as to Nicaraguan Canal

Washington, March 12.—Ambassador Pauncefote yesterday received the reply of the British government to the amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, made by the senate, and he at once communicated it to Secretary Hay. The secretary and the ambassador were closeted together for half an hour. At the conclusion of the conference it was stated that the British government did not see its way clear to the acceptance of the senate amendments. These amendments were treated in detail at some length, in argumentative fashion, the purpose of the British government being to show that it had sound reason for declining to accept them. After disposing of the details, the note concluded with an expression of regret that such a course was forced upon the British government. There was nothing in the nature of a counter proposition, nor was any opening left for further action by the British government. It was stated that if there is to be a further attempt to amend the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, so as to authorize the United States to construct a waterway across the isthmus, it remains for the United States to make the overture; the British government simply drops the matter at this point.

No opportunity offered yesterday afternoon for a conference between the president and Secretary Hay respecting the British answer; therefore it cannot yet be stated what action, if any, will be taken by our government. It is stated that there is no hurry, even in the event that it shall be decided to invite Great Britain to join in fresh negotiations as to an isthmian canal, congress not being in session to consider a treaty if one should be framed. The belief seems to be warranted that there will be no further negotiations on the subject in the immediate future, unless some event not now foreseen by the officials causes a radical change in the situation.

For the present the text of the British answer will be withheld from publication on this side of the water, at least, though it is said that, after the president has thoroughly considered the matter, some general statement may be made as to the points developed.

The British answer is quite long, as such documents go, and would make about two newspaper columns. The tone of the reply is distinctly friendly throughout, particularly so in the concluding assurances of good will and a desire to co-operate in the realization of this undertaking.

The Hay-Pauncefote negotiations have been in progress for something over two years, and, owing to the great interests involved, they have constituted the chief international question at issue before the state department. The treaty was signed prior to the opening of the Fifty-sixth congress, and was submitted to the senate in December, 1899. It at once encountered opposition in that body, but, after considerable delay, was ratified after several amendments had been adopted. The chief issue was made on what is known as the Davis amendment. While in terms this did not give the United States a right to fortify the canal, yet in general language it expressed the right of this country to adopt such measures in regard to the canal as were deemed necessary for the proper maintenance of American authority.

After extended debate in executive session this and two other amendments to the treaty were adopted, and the treaty was ratified as amended. The two other amendments abrogated the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and struck out the provision of the treaty which invited other foreign governments to express their approval of it.

As the amendments created conditions which the British government had not concurred in when the original treaty was made, it was necessary to present the instrument in its amended form to that government for its approval. The effect of the British answer cannot be to restore the life of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty so far as now appears. That document has a distinct limitation within which it could be ratified, and no doubt seems to exist among officials that the period expired when the senate adjourned. The answer is chiefly important, therefore, as making clear the attitude of the British government alongside the attitude of the American government. With the two positions thus clearly defined, it remains to be seen whether the United States government will carry on such further negotiations as may reconcile differences and bring about a common ground of action.

Incident Won't Close With Duel

Brussels, March 12.—Andre Buffet mentions the receipt of a further communication from Paul Deroudele, who he refrains from publishing at present out of generosity. "I am compelled," says Buffet, "in these circumstances to fight, however absurd it may appear to be, but M. Deroudele must still prove his words. Otherwise he will lay himself open to the charge of being the author of an odious invention."

Conspiracy Against Wilhelmina

London, March 12.—The St. James Gazette says that, acting on representations received from The Hague, the Roumanian police have been instructed to watch certain persons in Moldavia, who are suspected of being engaged in a conspiracy against the lives of Queen Wilhelmina and her husband.

A DISGRACEFUL QUARREL

Follows a Disaster at Chicago In Which Many Lives Were Lost

Chicago, March 12.—By the explosion of the boiler in the Doremus laundry eight people were instantly killed, 42 were injured and several are missing. The cause of the explosion had not been determined with accuracy as yet, and it will probably require an official investigation to settle the matter. Pending the verdict of the coroner's jury, A. L. Doremus, the proprietor of the laundry, is held in custody by the police.

The list of the dead and wounded was difficult to secure. Reports of the number of dead in the ruins run all the way from six to 20. It is known that 30 employees of the laundry had entered the place before the explosion occurred. Two or three were entering at the moment of the explosion, making an approximate total of 40 employees in and around the building. The list of injured includes, however, several people residing in the adjoining buildings, nearly all of which were badly damaged.

The search for bodies in the ruins came to a sudden end in the afternoon, and the work of rescue was entirely abandoned. The cause of the cessation of the search was a dispute between the firemen and the policemen as to who was responsible for the recovery of any bodies which might be concealed beneath the debris. The firemen said that they had performed their whole duty, and, gathering up their hose, they retired from the scene. The police said it was not their work to dig for bodies, and nobody else volunteered to do the work.

While the firemen and police were arguing, Building Inspector Klobbass sent a notice to the agents for the property to immediately begin the work of pulling down the walls and clearing away the debris. The real estate firm soon had a number of wreckers at the ruins, and the work of pulling down the walls was immediately begun. This operation made it impossible to continue the search for bodies.

Runners of Another Big Combine

Birmingham, Ala., March 12.—Runners of the consolidation of the largest industrial corporations in the south, with a combined capital of $100,000,000, are current in this city. The companies are the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, the Sloss Sheffield Steel and Iron company and the Republic Steel and Iron company, which owns 28 pig iron furnaces, one steel mill and two rolling mills in Alabama and Tennessee, and make the bulk of the iron in these two states. The combined capital and bonded debt of the three companies is $32,000,000.

Why We Hold the Cup

Glasgow, March 12.—John H. Biles, professor of naval architecture at the University of Glasgow, in the course of a lecture last evening, said: "Great Britain has always been several years behind America in yacht construction. The problem is to reduce weight without reducing strength. The veil of secrecy surrounding the conception and construction of British challengers is perhaps necessary to prevent the abstraction of secrets, but they are secrets which, if another knew them, would only regard as things to avoid."

Mutineers Before Commissioner

CURTAINMENT PROPOSED

As the Means of Relieving the Glut in the Print Cloth Market

Fall River, Mass., March 12.—The selling committee of the Fall River Manufacturers' association, having reached an opinion as to the necessary step to relieve the present stagnation in the print cloth market, yesterday announced that a special meeting of the general body would be called, at which time a proposition from the selling committee would be placed before the general body, calling for curtailment of production by local manufacturers for a term of weeks or months, to be determined by the manufacturers themselves. This proposition is expected to receive the endorsement of the mill men in the association.

In taking this step the committee has been able to compromise the factions in the local mill circles, one interest advocating curtailment by general agreement, and the other a reduction of wages and curtailment, either independent or in common. The selling committee makes no proposition on the wage question.

At present there is a surplus of about 2,000,000 pieces of cloth in this city, equal to the full production of the mills for eight weeks. The weekly production here amounts to about 250,000 pieces, and it may be decided to curtail for a term of weeks during which the production of the mills may amount to the present stock on hand.

Navy Yard Will Be Kept Busy

Boston, March 12.—Orders to make 22 anchors, each 16,500 pounds in weight, for the new battleships of the Virginia class, and the new cruisers of the California type, were received yesterday by the equipment department of the Charlestown navy yard. The new anchors are to be wrought iron, and will be the heaviest and largest ever forged. Orders were also received for more than 700 tons of chain of 2 5/8 inch diameter size, and for wire and rope hawsers. This means at least a year's work.

Prominent Manufacturer Dead

Woburn, Mass., March 12.—Word has reached here of the death yesterday in Jacksonville, Fla., of Henry H. Stevens, the millionaire linen manufacturer of this town. Mr. Stevens was prominent in the affairs of this place. The winters Mr. Stevens spent at Jacksonville, where, during the past few months, he had suffered considerably from a number of ills.

Seventy-Mile Electric Line

Canaan, Conn., March 12.—A company is being organized to build an electric road from the Massachusetts state line, north of here, to Bridgeport, a distance of 70 miles. The plan is to have this road connect with the proposed Berkshire line from the state boundary to Pittsfield, Mass., and with its connections form a continuous line to New York city.

Keene Breathes Easier

Keene, N. H., March 12.—The scarlet fever epidemic, as it was pronounced last week, is abating, and the city's health as regards contagion is improving most encouragingly. No new cases of the fever have been reported to the board of health since Friday. For last week there were 16 cases, against 30 cases the preceding week.

The Public Kept In Ignorance

Skowhegan, Me., March 12.—The coroner's jury investigating the suspicious death of Rosie Pomeroy reassembled yesterday and examined a number of new witnesses. No one connected with the inquest will talk for publication, and the witnesses summoned are all sworn to secrecy. The jury will resume its work today.

Carelessly Handled Revolver

Curtilment Scheme Stated to Fall River Treasurers

A FOUR WEEKS' SHUTDOWN

Which Will Only Affect Parties to Selling Agreement—Every Possible
Effort to Be Made to Sell Goods Now on Hand—Indications of Success

Fall River, Mass., March 12.—Mill
treasurers yesterday heard the proposition which was agreed upon for recommending to the manufacturers by the selling committee. It seeks a curtilment of production for four weeks between the time the final signatures are appended to the agreement and the 8th of May. When all the signers of the selling agreement have affixed their names to the paper the agreement to curtil will go into effect.

Some members of the committee would like to have a longer term agreed upon, but if a 21 day's shutdown can be consummated, it will be all that the committee can expect to accomplish, in view of the dislike of some large interests to do any further curtilment.

Nothing has been decided upon, so far as can be ascertained, concerning a reduction of wages, but a couple of signers have been given to understand that if the curtilment is not effective, a reduction will be recommended after May 8, if a majority of the committee is allowed to have its way.

Before the curtilment can go into effect, all the mills that are parties to the selling agreement will have to sign the agreement to curtil and those who are in charge of passing the paper have not yet arrived at any conclusion as to the ultimate result.

The fine goods mills will not be bound by the agreement, nor will the local yarn mills, nor the Iron Works mills.
The fine goods mills have been curtiling for some weeks, and the yarn mills are increasing the amount of their idle machinery every day.

Every possible effort is to be made to sell the goods now on hand before the new cotton crop comes in, as it is felt that the mills cannot afford to carry any high-priced goods into the new cotton year. The impression is that a large crop of cotton will be planted this year, and the prices for the new crop will be lower.

One difficulty in securing a curtilment
through committee channels is that many of the mills have been making contracts on goods outside of the committee's selling province, and there are mills here that will go on making print cloths.

Everything now looks like success.
The curtilment plan meets with the approval of the labor leaders. It has come to be considered the best method of tiding over the dull periods in the business.

Strike on Peculiar Grounds

New York, March 12.—A strike among the employees of the new East river bridge was ordered yesterday, and it may be followed by a general sympathetic strike on the part of the iron workers. The strike grew out of the discharge of John Hale, one of the painters who was on the scaffold, the rope fastenings of which broke Friday,
causing the death of Frank Aberton,
who fell a distance of 150 feet, and was dashed to death at the base of the granite anchorage. Hale, in saving himself, fractured his left arm and dropped a pot of black paint, which struck the granite anchorage, causing a disfigurement of the surface. For this, it is claimed, he was discharged.

The Deroulede-Butt Row

Paris, March 12.—The seconds of Andre Buffet and Paul Deroulede met in Paris yesterday and deliberated over the proposed duel, after which a statement was issued, declaring that Der-oulede's seconds agreed that Buffet is the offended party. The weapon chosen is the pistol. Two bullets will be exchanged, at 25 paces. The place, day and hour will be fixed later. A gesture or a word being exchanged on the field between the combatants is for-bidden.

accompanied by two of her followers.

the bottles, but after heroic efforts was

ENGLAND'S AMNESTY OFFER

Liberal Terms Presented For Consideration by Boer Leaders

London, March 12.—The Daily News
this morning makes the important statement: We understand that the government has greatly modified the "unconditional surrender" policy. We believe Lord Kitchener has been authorized to offer amnesty to both the Boers and the Boer leaders, except where treachery is clearly proved. Cape rebels only are to be punished by disfranchisement.

Loans are to be granted to the Boers
for rebuilding and restocking their farms, and finally the government will offer to establish some kind of civil government so soon as all the commandos have surrendered.

Its form will probably be that of a crown colony, but with an important concession which Sir Alfred Milner advises, namely, a council including Boers
of position, like General Botha, General
Lucas Meyer and Mr. Schalk-Burger.

No Inquiry Into Colville's Retirement

London, March 12.—In the house of commons last evening the debate was continued on the motion introduced by Mr. Douglas, calling for an inquiry regarding the retirement of Major General
Colville, who was sent home from South Africa by Lord Roberts for alleged inefficiency in the field. General Colville's friends contend that he had never been heard by a competent tribunal. Those opposed to him asserted that he had been properly dealt with. Mr. Douglass' motion was rejected by a vote of 262 to 118.

Won't Give Out Information

lodge was carrying $6,000,000 insurance.
Following the revocation of the license a friendly suit was brought by the local officers of the society, which has resulted in the appointment of a receiver.

Exceeded Contract Requirements

Newport News, Va., March 12.—On his builder's trial trip yesterday the

of the trial being to test her boilers.
Under a moderate forced draught, the ship in a two hours' run averaged 16.2
knots an hour, with 107 revolutions.
The contract requirements call for 16
knots an hour with 120 revolutions.

FIZGERALD'S POPULARITY

Former Congressman Is Praised and Presented With Watch and Charm

Boston, March 12.—A splendid tribute was the reception tendered to former Congressman John F. Fitzgerald in Faneuil hall last night, upon the conclusion of his six years' service in congress. His fellow congressmen were his fellow eulogists, and the spirit which permeated the letters read from prominent men in Washington who were unable to attend was in line with the spoken words of the speakers in the hall—regret at his leaving Washington and praise for the work he had accomplished there.

A more substantial token of esteem
was a handsome gold watch and charm which were presented to him by P. A.
Collins on behalf of many friends. In addition to its being a testimonial to Mr. Fitzgerald, the gathering perhaps possessed something of political significance. When Mr. Collins' name was mentioned as the next mayor of Boston
the applause was loud. Strong words were spoken in the interests of Democratic harmony by Congressman Thayer.

Following the presentation of the watch, Mr. Fitzgerald expressed grateful appreciation of the kind and flattering words that had been spoken, and his pride in having been able to perform his duty to the satisfaction of his fellow citizens.

Letters were read during the evening
from Secretary of the Navy Long, Senators Hoar and Lodge, Representatives Moody, Sulzer and Cummings, Senator Bailey, General Joseph Wheeler
and Lieutenant Governor Bates.

FILED VETO WITH CLERK

How the Mayor of Salem Succeeded in Getting Around a Stumbling Block

Salem, Mass., March 12.—Mayor Hurley submitted his veto on the annual appropriation bill to the common council last night, and after being read, it was voted, 15 to 7, to have the message printed and lay the bill on the table until the next meeting. Pending an agreement, all moneys in the treasury are tied up, and the city employees, who are supposed to receive their pay today, will not be paid off until an agreement is reached.

There was no meeting of the common council, in which branch the bill originated, to which he could make his return within the limit by the city ordinance, but Mayor Hurley was not to be balked in this fashion. Last Saturday he found Clerk Collins of the common council at his home, and filed his message with that official. In this procedure he was sustained by an opinion from City Counsel Evans, who decided that placing the document in the hands of the clerk of the body was in effect
the same as making a return to the common council itself in regular session.
As passed by both branches of the city government, the appropriation bill carried $643,540.43. As sealed by Mayor Hurley, it stood $600,753.43, or a reduction of $42,787.

information has been received at the war department concerning the organi-

eral foreign consuls, and which has been engaged in supplying insurgents with munitions of war. The organization is practically broken up, but some of the persons engaged will be punished so as to give others to understand that such conspiracies will not be permitted by the United States authorities.

Victory For French Force

Algiers, March 12.—Another engagement has been fought between the dispersed with great loss. The French expedition lost two officers and 23 men killed, and had many others wounded.

States government.

State House Hearing.

Good Afternoon.

The Wollaston Councilmen seem to be fighting out the Board of Health investigation among themselves. President Bryant and Mr. Freeman on one side, and Messrs. DeNormandie and Nichols on the other. Councilmen Gassett and Nicol being absent on Monday evening, the first two had the support of the majority, who constituted the law unto themselves. Nothing could be plainer than the parliamentary practices which apply to the City Council and committees of the whole constituted by it, and yet by strength of numbers, parliamentary laws were set aside, and the Council which seeks to correct the methods of the Board of Health, proceeds in a reckless fashion to lay them out.

Messrs. DeNormandie and Nichols clearly had the right of the situation, as any disinterested citizen would admit, and President Bryant is coming in for considerable criticism for the high hand with which he carried things, and the personalities to which he descended.

It is very evident that under the law, which has been quoted in the Ledger, that the committee of the whole could not adjourn, and therefore could not meet by adjournment, as was recognized when the committee rose on Monday evening.

There is also a nice question as to whether the investigation or investigation order were properly before the committee of the whole. The record of the City Council will probably show whether either were ever referred to such a committee. The reading of the records should be called for at the opening of the next Council meeting.

Again, by what authority were witnesses summoned to attend the hearing, and will the city be liable for witness' fees? Why were they not recognized? Is it the intention of President Bryant to act as prosecuting officer?

If the investigation by the Board of Health was a farce, what is to be said of the investigation by the City Council? It has been said that there were politics in the attempt to remove Inspector Kenley, but the animus of some of the Councilmen and Democratic politicians toward Mayor Hall is more clear in the latter, and more disgusting to those who desire good government.

Aside from Brockton and other inland towns which are directly on the line of the proposed Taunton river canal to the Weymouth Fore River, the city of Quincy and towns of Braintree and Weymouth should be among the most interested in the success of the scheme. But we fail to discover any enthusiasm in Quincy over the proposed canal, or any one who believes it will ever be opened. However, there is some Brockton push behind the scheme, and the entertainment of the Legislative Committee tomorrow may appeal to them strongly. It is surprising how some people like to interest themselves in big schemes.

Braintree Court Bill.

The hearing at the State House Tuesday on the bill to establish a new court at Braintree, did not develop much strength. But one gentleman appeared in favor of the bill, Mr. Wallace Wilson the lawyer who introduced it. It was opposed by the selectmen of Braintree, and by nearly every member of the bar in Quincy. Mr. Wilson stated before the close of the hearing that he was willing the bill should be referred to the next General Court.

Realistic Tea Party of Stage Setting Antique and Characters in Old Costumes.

"Standing room only" could have been fully applied to Woodward hall Tuesday evening, long before eight o'clock, as every seat was taken and people were standing in the hall. Founder's day is always observed at Woodward Institute, generally by an address by some noted speaker, but this year something entirely new was arranged and carried out by the pupils. A three-act play adapted from Mrs. Gaskell's famous story "Cranford" by Marguerite Merington, and published in the February number of the Ladies' Home Journal, was presented by special permission of the editor.

Woodward always makes a special feature of its singing and the short musical program given before the play under the direction of Prof. Buckingham was finely rendered and thoroughly enjoyed, as were the selections between the acts.

STAGE SETTING.

The stage setting was unique, and a closer inspection than was possible from the audience, would have shown that nearly all the articles used in the setting were antique, and many of them were closely identified with the early history of Massachusetts. The chair in which Lady Glenmire sat while engaged in playing cribbage was a Governor Winthrop chair, while the large upholstered arm chair in which the Honorable Mrs. Jamieson fell asleep during the game was one of those used at Plymouth during the time of the Pilgrims. The other chairs were also of antique pattern. The little old-fashioned table, the brass candle sticks and the warming pan were once in use in the old town of Plymouth. The two portraits which hung on the wall on either side of the portrait of Dr. Woodward were painted on wood and were very old. Even the newspapers that were used to save the carpet from being worn out, while of modern print, were cut to antique size.

All of the articles used in the stage setting were loaned and many more articles were proffered, but it was impossible to use them.

The little fox terrier who behaved so nicely and drank all the cream, was "Pompy Josselyn," and did his part to perfection.

The costumes worn by the misses were in several cases those worn by their ancestors years ago.

The play was given under the direction of Miss Small, Miss Dodd and Miss Tinker. Hardly three weeks was given to its preparation, and the regular school work was not interrupted.

The people in the play: "Dear Miss Mattie," (Miss Matilda Jenkins), Elizabeth B. Merrill.

Miss Pale, (A courageous and energetic maid-in-law of decided opinions) Mary L. Rogers.

Mrs. Forester, (whose opinions are valued because she was "born a Tyrrell") Lola A. West.

Mrs. Fitz-Adam, (the widowed sister of Dr. Hoggins, rich and kindly, but not "aristocratic") Rachel M. Doble.

Miss Betty Barker, (a retired milliner but recently received into genteel society; thoughtful, generous and apologetic) Maggie Shirley.

The Honorable Mrs. Jamieson, (The leader of Cranford society; self-centered and indolent) Helen C. Durgin.

Lady Glenmire, (a native of Scotland; sister-in-law of the late Mrs. Jamieson, and later the wife of Dr. Hoggins) Bertha W. Josselyn.

Mary Smith, (Miss Mattie's guest who is instrumental in finding the long-lost Peter, Edna B. Miller.

Martha, (Miss Mattie's faithful maid) Florence F. Newcomb.

Peter Marmaduke Arley Jenkins, (a brother to Miss Mattie; from boyhood a resident of India) Gertrude King.

The parts were exceedingly well done and many were heard to say that older people with more experience could not have done it any better. All were easy and natural in their parts, none were stage struck, not even the man in the play or the little dog.

Miss Small, her assistants, and the girls are to be congratulated on the fine presentation given, and many will remember it as one of the most enjoyable of the many delightful evenings given in Woodward hall by the teachers and pupils of Woodward Institute.

—The tan shoe is going to be popular again this spring and summer.

—Says the Journal of Education:—Never forget that the school is for the boy and not the boy for the school. The same is true of girls.

Y., by the employees of McDonnell & Sons. It was his twenty-first birthday. A presentation speech was made by George Buxton, who presented a very fine silver suit case. Appointment Approved.

At a meeting of the Boston School Committee held Tuesday, says the Herald, Mrs. Fifield, chairman of the committee on 9th division, reported that the committee recommended approval of the appointment of A. Maud Briggs of Quincy as special assistant in the Gilbert Stuart district, to date from Jan. 2, 1901.

Mr. Baldwin objected to the appointment of non-residents to be teachers.

Mrs. Fifield explained the report as follows:

"Maud Briggs' father was for many years an instructor in the normal art school. He also was a citizen of Boston; his children were born in Boston and always went to school in Boston. His daughters graduated from the normal school and one has been a teacher here. On the death of Mr. Briggs for family reasons the widow, with the children moved to Atlantic, a part of Quincy, a few years ago. It seemed to us that Miss Briggs did not forfeit her claim to be a Boston teacher. Moreover, this is not a situation of permanence, but is that of special teachers' position, and all of the committee agreed that it was perfectly proper for her to serve in that capacity."

Mr. Baldwin said that "in order to be consistent" he would withdraw his objection. The board then approved the appointment.

IS ON HIS DEATH BED

No Hope For the Recovery of General Harrison

RAPIDLY GROWING WEAKER

Unconscious This Morning After Passing Yesterday In a Semi-Comatose Condition—Was In Full Possession of Perfect Health a Week Ago

Indianapolis, March 13.—General Harrison is battling for recovery with all the force and strength of a magnificent constitution, and assisted by the vigor of a life lived according to the rules of hygiene, but battling unsuccessfully. He is gradually growing worse. Hour by hour his vitality decreases and he is less able to resist the attack of the inflammation.

BENJAMIN HARRISON

Early last night there was increased respiration, which indicated creeping congestion, and the strength of General Harrison began to diminish rapidly. At 10 o'clock he was much weaker than he had been two hours before, and from that time on the sinking rapidly continued.

At 5 o'clock this morning General Harrison was lying in an unconscious condition. He is constantly growing weaker, and the congestion continues to spread. There is nothing to indicate that his death will occur for several hours at least.

During yesterday afternoon the physicians resorted to the "oxygen" treatment in an endeavor to mitigate the constant pain and labor of breathing with which General Harrison contended.

The widespread interest in the condition of the former president is shown by the hundreds of messages from every part of the country which poured into the newspaper offices and the Harrison home during the day.

None but the physicians and a few intimate friends are admitted to the house, although there has been a constant stream of carriages with callers.

When the general was taken sick it is said he requested his physicians to make no unnecessarily alarming reports to the public as to his condition. Following these instructions it has been with the greatest difficulty that any authentic news has been obtained from the sick room up to yesterday morning.

At 5 o'clock last evening it became apparent that General Harrison was dying, and the physicians now make no effort to conceal the real gravity of the situation. They say it is a matter of hours only, all hope of his recovery being abandoned.

General Harrison was for the greater part of yesterday in a semi-comatose condition, and at times there were indications of approaching delirium.

General Harrison was in perfect health last Wednesday, and, contrary to common report, was not suffering from a cold or from illness of any sort. He was in full possession of the vitality and vigor which has characterized these latter years of his life to a remarkable degree. Wednesday morning he went to the law office of Miller & Elam, where he remained for about an hour and a half, talking to several friends. He walked all the distance for the sake of exercise, and on the way met a number of friends. He returned from his afternoon walk without even feeling fatigued, and in the evening went to one of his neighbors to make a short call.

Thursday morning he awakened with a pain in his chest, which at first was hardly noticeable, but later gradually grew worse, until Mrs. Harrison became alarmed, and the family physician, Dr. Jameson, was summoned. He pronounced it simply a cold, and at the time feared no alarming results. Then the lungs became rapidly affected and the illness was complicated with intercostal neuralgia. On Saturday his condition was serious, but not such as to cause particular alarm.

On Sunday, for the first time, the physicians began to have fears for the recovery of the patient, but said little to the public about the seriousness of General Harrison's condition. The next day it was announced to the newspapers and to the public that the illness was more alarming than was at first supposed, and that there was danger that the general would never recover from the attack. Since Monday morning his condition has gradually grown worse.

INJURY BY X RAYS.

Reported Cases of Harm Done by the Application of the New Light.

The question as to whether the application of the X rays to the human body causes any pain to the patient undergoing the treatment has aroused widespread discussion; but, according to a recent case that happened in England reported by The Scientific American, it is evident severe suffering is occasionally inflicted by their application.

A lady 68 years of age, while cycling, met with an accident which was supposed to have fractured her thigh. Shortly afterward an eruption broke out in her stomach, and to diagnose the case the Roentgen ray apparatus was brought into use. The lady eventually succumbed to the malady, and at the inquest which followed a letter was read in which she stated that she had suffered untold agonies by the "cruel overexposure of the X rays." The photographer stated that he made two exposures of 35 and 45 minutes respectively. The surgeon who was present at the exposures and superintended the operations stated that death was due to the exhaustion from shock produced by the fracture of the thigh and the application of the X rays. Expert evidence upon the subject was given by Dr. Lewis Jones, the medical officer in charge of the electrical department of St. Bartholomew's hospital, London, who said he considered that the exposures had been normal. He had discovered in the course of his investigations that some people were sensitive to the rays while others experienced an immunity from their effects. This was believed to be due to the condition of the skin at various times. There was always a risk of skin burn where the exposures were prolonged, but he had never heard of death being attributable to the X ray burn. The jury, however, returned a verdict that the woman died from shock and exhaustion following an accident and the effects of the X rays upon a weakened system. The photographer and surgeon were exonerated from all responsibility.

BROCKTON PLANS

For Entertaining Committee of the Legislature.

Who are to View Route
of Canal.

The Alderman Appropriate Money Toward Entertaining.

The Brockton Enterprise says: The committees from the city government, Board of Trade and Commercial club met at the Mayor's office at City Hall Monday evening and laid out a program for Thursday, when the legislative committee on harbors and public lands is to go over the route of the projected ship canal from Fore River, Weymouth, to Taunton river.

Col. John J. Whipple presided at the meeting, and Mayor Coulter and nearly all the members of the local committee were present.

The plans as decided upon provide that the legislators shall leave Boston on the 8.45 train from Boston, meet the committees from Brockton and other places interested at Braintree, and take the third rail cars for Weymouth. There barges will carry the party to the starting point of the proposed canal, and a stop will be made by invitation at Mr. Parker C. Chandler's residence.

At Braintree the train will be boarded that reaches Brockton at 11.30.

Special trolley cars will be in waiting here, and will carry the party to the Plain street bridge at Campello and then over the canal route through West Bridgewater, Bridgewater and Raynham to Taunton, reaching that city about 1 o'clock. There dinner will be served, followed by a public hearing from 2.30 to 5 o'clock. The return to Brockton will be made over the short line. Supper will be eaten at Hotel Belmont at 6.30, and from 8 to 10 a hearing, which all interested will be welcome to attend, will be held in the assembly hall at the Commercial club. Most of the committee will return to Boston on the 10.40 train.

The senators and representatives from all the sections interested are expected to make the tour with the legislative committee, and altogether there will probably be fifty or sixty in the party.

Mayor Coulter went to Taunton today to consult with Mayor O'Hearne and decide upon details, and these sub-committees have been appointed: On electric car transportation, Hon. James Sidney Allen; on entertainment on cars, Ex-Mayor E. M. Low, Ex-Representative David W. Battle and Alderman Dennis Sheehy; on supper, Alderman N. D. Toppin, J. J. Dowd, Esq., and S. Heath Rich.

An order was presented at the meeting of the board of aldermen authorizing the expenditure of $150 from the general fund for the purpose of entertaining the committee from the general court upon its tour of investigation over the proposed route of the canal.

In explanation of it, Alderman Toppin said there were 15 of the committee and that it was proposed to go over the whole route from Weymouth to Taunton, and the order was for the purpose of paying a portion of the expense. Mayor Coulter explained that the expense of entertainment was to be proportionately borne by the city, the Commercial club and the Brockton Board of Trade.

Alderman Meade was a little sceptical as to the kind of "blow out" that was contemplated in the expenditure for the purpose of such a sum as $150.

Alderman Sheehy said that invitations were to be extended by the committee to the various town governments in this vicinity, also to their senators and representatives, and the total number here would probably be about 60. This would necessitate the engagement of two electric cars to and from Taunton to convey the party, and there was to be a public meeting in the evening at the club house of the Commercial club. It was also the intention to provide dinner for the guests.

This closed the discussion and the order was passed.

The Boy Wanted in Business.

"What kind of a boy does a business man want?" was asked of a merchant. He replied: "Well, I will tell you. In the first place he wants a boy who doesn't know much. Business men generally like to run their own business and prefer some one who will listen to their way rather than teach them a new kind. Second, a prompt boy, one who understands 7 o'clock is not 10 minutes past. Third, an industrious boy who is not afraid to put in extra work in case of need. Fourth, an honest boy—honest in service as well as matters in dollars and cents. And fifth, a good natured boy, who will keep his temper, even if his employer does lose his now and then."

AN UNFAVORABLE VIEW

Of the "Russian-American Flirtation in China"

Russians Claimed a Piece of Land as Part of Their New Concession, but the British Fought to View It in That Light—An Appeal to Diplomacy

London, March 12.—A correspondent of The Times, commenting upon what he calls the "unpleasant discovery by the Washington cabinet that Russian diplomacy cannot be trusted," says: "It is rumored that the services of Comte Cassini (Russian ambassador to the United States) are regarded so highly that he is likely to be promoted. In any case the United States government has reason to deplore his success to the same extent as Russia has to rejoice over it. This melancholy result of the Russian-American flirtation in China was clearly foreseen elsewhere."

The Vienna Neue Freie Presse attributes the dissatisfaction of Americans to the circumstance that the cession of Manchuria to Russia deprives China of the means of compensating the United States for the good offices which the latter unsuccessfully rendered China. It considers that the Chinese problem has been complicated by the Russo-American tariff dispute, adding that "the commercial differences between these two giants have rapidly extended to the political sphere, so that the United States, for the first time since the outbreak of the disturbances, is found on the side of Europe against Russia."

The Pekin correspondent of The Times, writing yesterday, says: "It is believed that the Chinese court has decided not to authorize the signature to the Manchuria convention until it is seen how far the powers will support 'China in a refusal to sign.' So far as the assurances of Count Lamsdorf (Russian foreign minister) are concerned, nothing of this kind will have any decisive weight until Russia renounces her policy of secret negotiations with China and discloses the terms of the secret engagements she has undoubtedly imposed upon China in recent years."

A correspondent of The Times, commenting upon what he calls the "unpleasant discovery by the Washington cabinet that Russian diplomacy cannot be trusted," says:

Friction has arisen at Tientsin between the British and the Russians over a piece of land, alleged to belong to the railway company, and to have been in possession of the company for some years.

According to dispatches from Tientsin the Russians assert that this land is part of their new concession, and, therefore, Russian property. Mr. Kinder, manager of the railway, had begun to make a siding, but was stopped by the Russian authorities. He appealed to Colonel McDonald, who referred the matter to General Barrow, British chief of staff in Pekin, who replied: "Carry on the siding with armed force, if necessary."

Guards were put on the line by the British, and the work was continued. General Wagsak, the Russian commander, protested, and said the thing would not have been done if the Russians had had as many troops as the British, adding that such matters should be left to diplomacy.

Colonel McDonald again communicated with General Barrow, who telegraphed: "Continue the siding." General Wagsak, very indignant, appealed to the Russian minister in Pekin, M. De Giers.

A One-Sided "Fight"

Pekin, March 12.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Count Von Wackersee dated March 11: "In the fight west of Suling Pass we had only one slightly wounded. The Chinese left 250 dead on the field."

Chaffee's Attitude Praised

New York, March 12.—The board of members of the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States of America yesterday passed a resolution expressing approval of the course of General Chaffee for the mercifulness which he has shown to the Chinese.

An Inconceivable Mourner

New York, March 12.—Dr. J. L. Dow, who has been holding vigil over the inanimate body of his wife for many days at an undertaking establishment in this city, after the body had reached Mount Olivet cemetery forbade the lowering of the casket, which was then placed in a receiving vault. When last seen Dr. Dow was standing alone in the cemetery near the vault in which his wife's body lay.

To Be Tried on Three Charges

Omaha, March 12.—James Callahan, recently held for alleged connection with the kidnapping of Edward Cuddeby, Jr., was arraigned yesterday. He pleaded not guilty. The court fixed the date for trial at March 20. Callahan will be first tried on the charge of robbery, which is the most serious of the three on which he is held.

Cuban Excitement Cooling

Washington, March 12.—Conditions in Cuba are said by officials at the war department to be improving. It is asserted that the feeling of unrest which followed the adoption of the Platt resolution by congress is quieting down and gradually a peaceful condition is being brought about.

Bryan Visits the Quaker City

Philadelphia, March 12.—William J. Bryan paid a visit to this city yesterday and was entertained by publishers and editors of the leading newspapers. Mr. Bryan last night attended a public meeting, which was addressed by Sixto Lopez.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT

Belief That Troubles at North Brookfield Will Be Amicably Adjusted
North Brookfield, Mass., March 12.—The committee of 25 employees and members of the firm of the E. & A. H. Batchelder company will hold a conference this afternoon, and it is thought an acceptable settlement of the difficulties will be made. The entire community is pleased to hear of the proposed conference and probable settlement of the strike.

The executive committee of the board of trade held a meeting yesterday afternoon, but they agreed not to divulge the doings of the meeting. No meetings of the employees or board of trade were held last night, which is believed to indicate that all concerned are confident a settlement will be effected at the conference.

Judge Reed, the third member of the state board of arbitration, has arrived here. It is thought the conference will bring about a settlement without the assistance of the board of arbitration.

Bay State Legislature

Boston, March 12.—Both branches of the legislature had lively debates yesterday, the senate on the proposed abolition of the death penalty, while the house took up the annual question of granting the right of suffrage to women. Ten senators were in favor, and 17 against the bill making imprisonment for life, rather than death by the electric chair, the penalty for murder in this state. The house was forced to adjourn without reaching a vote on the woman suffrage question.

Married Teachers Not Wanted

Boston, March 12.—The Boston school committee has refused, by a 11 to 9 vote, to confirm a married woman who had been a teacher on probation in a school in Charlestown. The teacher, Mrs. Cora V. Enwright, had taught school prior to her marriage. The opposition was based on the claim that "there was a small army of normal school graduates who were willing to place the cause of education above matrimony."

Women Not a Drawback to Colby

Waterville, Me., March 12.—Rev. Dr. E. C. Whittemore, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city and a graduate of Colby, comes out with a long statement in which he says that the women of the college have been a benefit to the institution, and suggests that if education is to be discontinued a number of the best students have been offered and not yet received will be withdrawn.

Higher Salaries Disapproved

Chelsea, Mass., March 12.—Mayor Gould sent to the board of aldermen last night votes of all the orders by which they raised the salaries of city officers for this year. The mayor said that there seems to be no difficulty in obtaining officers at the salaries paid at present. About half of the orders were passed over the mayor's vetoes, while the remaining vetoes were sustained.

Declared to Be Suicide

Boston, March 12.—The somewhat singular death of Michael J. Keenan in a Brookline field has been deemed a suicide by the medical examiner. He is of the opinion that Keenan almost severed his left hand with an axe, and then walked until exhausted by the flow of blood. The axe has not been found, although constant search has been made for it.

Part of L Road Completed

Boston, March 12.—The first trip of the board of directors of the Boston Elevated road on the new elevated structure was made yesterday afternoon, a three-car train taking the party several times from City square station to the Sullivan square terminal, all in the Charlestown section. The distance is not great, but it shows the progress of the road.

Pool Championship Settled

Boston, March 12.—The last game but one in the pool tournament was played last night between De Oro and Stoff, in which De Oro won by a score of 159 to 131. Frank Sherman of Washington plays Elby tonight, but the result of that game will not change the championship, which Sherman now holds, having won five games and lost none to date.

FOR A CHILD

who is "not doing well"—the condition occurs now and then with all children.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is a food that begins to build you up at once—of course, it don't show at once.

"Not doing well" means that the child is not getting the good of his food. Not today, or this week; it may have been going on for a month; before it begins to show in the child's condition.

You want him to get back to turning his usual food into strength.

You want the food that begins to build, up at once.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

TESLA'S NEW LIGHT.

CLOSEST IMITATION OF SUNLIGHT THAT HAS YET BEEN SEEN.

Simple, Economical and Cheap to Manufacture—Light Produced in Bent Glass Tubes Without Wires. An Ideal Form of Illumination.

Nikola Tesla has given to the New York Sun an authorized statement concerning his new experiments on the production of light without the aid of wires. Mr. Tesla says:

"This light is the result of continuous efforts since my early experimental demonstrations before scientific societies here and abroad. In order to make it suitable for commercial use I had to overcome great difficulties. One of these was to produce from ordinary currents of supply electrical oscillations of enormous rapidity in a simple and economical manner. This I am glad to say, I have now accomplished, and the results show that with this new form of light a higher economy is practicable than with the present illuminants. The light offers, besides many specific advantages, not the least of which is found in its hygienic properties. It is, I believe, the closest approach to daylight which has yet been reached from any artificial source."

The lamps are glass tubes which may be bent in any ornamental way. The total illuminating surface of a lamp is from 200 to 400 square inches. The ends of the spiral tube are covered with a metallic coating and provided with hooks for hanging the lamp on the terminals of the source of oscillations. The tube contains gases rarefied to a certain degree, determined in the course of long experimentation as being conducive to the best results.

"The process of light production is, according to my views, as follows: The street current is passed through a machine which is an electrical oscillator of peculiar construction and transforms the supply current, be it direct or alternating, into electrical oscillations of a very high frequency. These oscillations, coming to the metallically coated ends of the glass tube, produce in the interior corresponding electrical oscillations, which set the molecules and atoms of the inclosed rarefied gases into violent commotion, causing them to vibrate at enormous rates and emit those radiations which we know as light. The gases are not rendered incandescent in the ordinary sense, for if it were so they would be hot, like an incandescent filament. As a matter of fact there is very little heat noticeable, which speaks well for the economy of the light, since all heat would be lost."

"This high economy results chiefly from three causes: First, from the high rate of the electrical oscillations; second, from the fact that the entire light giving body, being a highly attenuated gas, is exposed and can throw out its radiations unimpeded, and, third, because of the smallness of the particles composing the light giving body, in consequence of which they can be quickly thrown into the high rate of vibration, so that comparatively little energy is lost in the lower or heat vibrations. An important practical advantage is that the lamps need not be renewed like the ordinary ones, as there is nothing in them to consume. The illuminating power of each of these lamps is, measured by the photometric method, about 50 candle power, but I can make them of any power desired up to that of several arc lights. It is a remarkable feature of the light that during the day it can scarcely be seen, whereas at night the whole room is brilliantly illuminated. When the eye becomes used to the light of these tubes, an ordinary incandescent lamp or gas burner produces a violent pain in the eye when it is turned on, showing in a striking manner to what a degree these concentrated sources of light which we now use are detrimental to the eye."

"I have found that in almost all its actions the light produces the same effects as sunlight, and this makes me hopeful that its introduction into dwellings will have the effect of improving in a measure now impossible to estimate the hygienic conditions."

"The lamps are very cheap to manufacture, and by the fact that they need not be exchanged like ordinary lamps or burners they are rendered still less expensive. The chief consideration is, of course, in commercial introduction the energy consumption. While I am not yet prepared to give exact figures, I can say that, given a certain quantity of electrical energy from the mains, I can produce more light than can be produced by the ordinary methods. In introducing this system of lighting my transformer, or oscillator, will be usually located at some convenient place in the basement, and from there the transformed currents will be led as usual through the building. The lamps can be run with one wire alone, as I have shown in my early demonstrations, and in some cases I can dispense entirely with the wires. I hope that ultimately we shall get to this ideal form of illumination and that we shall have in our rooms lamps which will be set aglow no matter where they are placed, just as an object is heated by heat rays emanating from a stove. The lamps will then be handled like kerosene lamps, with this difference, however, that the energy will be conveyed through space. The ultimate perfection of apparatus for the production of electrical oscillations will probably bring us to this great realization, and then we shall finally have the light without heat or 'cold' light. I have no difficulty now to illuminate the room with such wireless lamps, but a number of improvements must be made yet before it can be generally introduced."

Good Afternoon.

A favorable report has been made in the Legislature on a bill requiring that every town and city of 10,000 inhabitants shall maintain manual training
as a part of its school system and yet Quincy, a city of 25,000 has not adopted it.

Quincy can unite on a candidate for county commissioner if that is necessary, and all that is necessary, to secure the election of a Quincy man to the office. It is said that the claims of the city are recognized and that all that is necessary is harmony.

The Councilmen should not overlook
the annual appropriations in the heat of the mock investigation. The total should be kept down as low as possible
for good service by the various departments, but there should be no repetition of such treatment as was accorded the School Committee last year.

Quincy up to within a comparatively short time, has been remarkably free from politics in the deliberations of its City Councils, and it was not thought possible that such situations could arise as we read about concerning other cities. But evidently Quincy is in for it now, much as most people desire to avoid it. It is possible, however, that the voters may hold the trump card on election day.

Drift of Opinion.

A member of the Great and General Court of the Commonwealth offered an order in the House to the effect that the legislators might provide themselves with badges at their own expense. The order was laughed out of court when a Boston member proposed that the badge should be of a design that might be interpreted "I am a lobster." One might be allowed to think that the man who proposed the badge could appropriately adopt the boiled crustacean as his proper emblem.—Lynn Item.

The entire state is taxed to supply the Metropolitan district with water. Boston is the chief beneficiary, but by some financial legerdemain
Boston is to be paid $12,500,000 for her water works. The water works are still used almost exclusively for Boston, but the state is to have $12,500,000
additional debt piled on for the sake of maintaining the fiction that the whole state profits from the transfer of the water works from the direct control of Boston to the control of the state commission. It is part of the fine farce which keeps all of Massachusetts dancing to the music of Boston's piping. And Boston still continues to get her water unmetered. Householders are taxed so much per faucet, and they can let the water run to waste ad-libitum. That is a cheerful fact for the rest of the state to remember when it pays for Boston's water.—Worcester Gazette.

That doodecimo edition of a state, "Little Rhody," contains many happy households, but it has been spoken of slightly by several critics for generations because of the laxity of its divorce laws. When the number of divorces in comparison with the number of marriages in the community
founded by the saintly Roger Williams is as one to eight it doth appear that the barriers against the breaking up of families are not so hard and fast
as they should be, although it is well known that in a large percentage of cases the husbands and wives who are set apart by the Rhode Island court did not plight their vows within the borders of that state. Some of the most enlightened men among the dwellers on the shores of picturesque Narragansett Bay are seeking to remove the ancient reproach from their beloved home, and to make the divorce law of the state more rigid. May success attend their efforts.—New York Tribune.

The movement to so modify the ballot law that all the candidates on the ticket can be voted for by one stroke of the pencil has failed so far as the legislative committee to which the subject was referred is concerned. Probably this disposes of the matter for this session of the legislature, for the demand for such law making is limited.
A few professional politicians profess to favor it, but even they are not very insistent on the matter. Outside, the call for a modification of the ballot law is practically nothing. Voters, as a rule, are contented enough to mark for each candidate, or to mark for such as they have an interest in, and to leave the others unmarked. Something has been said about men who want to vote the straight ticket, but who begrudge the time necessary to pick out all the candidates. We are not disposed to think so poorly of our fellow citizens as to believe that any considerable number of them think so lightly of their rights. Beside, an inspection of the election figures of New Bedford leads to the conclusion that the greater part of the voters do not want to vote
the straight ticket.—New Bedford Standard.

Charity.

There is a nice specimen of tating
work, an old-fashioned fancy work that is now revived, in the window of Mr.
Appleton's paper store, which can be seen by one passing to Quincy station.
This piece was made by an invalid in Whitman, and is put here to be sold for her benefit. Tating is very serviceable as well as beautiful, and these are two pieces which will be useful for a small table, or for a piece for the dining or luncheon table. The woman was able to work only twenty minutes
at a time, and is now unable to do any work. If some one, charitably inclined will pay a fair price for these, great kindness will be done.

A man who says he is going to be put out of his house for non-payment of rent, begs today for jobs of work. He says he has not lived in Quincy long and that his wife and four children are suffering.

We do not know whether the Associated Charities so ably organized once by Rev. D. M. Wilson, pastor of First church, Rev. Samuel Kelley and other citizens is still working, but a good organization and well planned work can relieve similar cases. There are kindly disposed people and generous ones,
but poverty and lack of work are here too.

Rev. Mr. Cotton was very anxious for some memorial tablet to be placed in Quincy for Rev. Mr. Kelley, the Methodist preacher who labored so assiduously so many years in old Quincy. He is one of the landmarks in the history of Quincy who can never be forgotten
by those who knew him. Our large number of churches should unite and organize work for the unfortunate.

Sunday School Social.

The Sunday School of First church was given good time Wednesday afternoon and evening. They gathered at four o'clock in the chapel where they were amused with games and music until supper time. In the dining hall
the ladies had been busy all the afternoon laying the tables for one hundred and fifty children. It was a happy lot of children that marched down to supper at six o'clock. There was an abundance of everything; hot rolls, sandwiches, hot chocolate, milk, cake
and ice cream, etc., and the ladies saw that every child was well supplied.
After supper all adjourned to Colonial hall where dancing was enjoyed until nine o'clock.

The superintendent of the Sunday School firmly believes in giving the children a good time once in a while,
and it is a very good policy as it keeps up the interest in the school work, and certainly the young people appreciated
the good time given them Wednesday.

All the teachers in the school and several ladies in the parish contributed toward making the social a success, and enjoyed it almost as much as the children.

LOCKE RESIGNED.

Is No Longer President of Tir-rell Carriage Company.

The criminal action of Treasurer F.
W. Tirrell of the Tirrell & Sons
Carriage Co. against Judson Locke, president of the company, who was charged with the larceny of certain books of the company and private papers of Mr. Tirrell was settled in court Wednesday without a trial, the defendant being discharged for want of prosecution. The settlement of the case was entirely satisfactory to Mr.
Tirrell. President Locke having resigned his office as president of the company and returned to the treasurer
all books and money in his possession
that were the property of the company.
The cause of the trouble which has now been peacefully settled, dates back several weeks. The directors of the company, reaching the conclusion that President Locke's expenses were unwarranted, held a meeting, at which a vote was passed which in effect was that President Locke was not entitled to any salary or compensation for his services, and that he should have no authority to act as agent or as representative of the company, other than as president.

This action was followed by President Locke carrying off the books of the company and the private pocket book of Mr. Tirrell from the safe, which were later recovered by officers who visited Locke's house armed with a search warrant.

Readings Defeated.

The Reading Athletic Association candle pin team visited the Merrymount club of Wollaston, Tuesday evening and rolled three games of candle pins. The Merrymount team took all three games which the club members are proud of,
as the Reading team is known as being hard team to defeat. The Merrymount boys however met their opponents with a winning spirit, and made a good score.

schools for the four weeks ending Feb.
21, was unusually light, the per cent.

MAKING IT EASY

Further Concessions Offered to Boers as an Inducement to Surrender

London, March 14.—We understand that there has been an active interchange of telegrams between the home government and the Cape authorities and Lord Kitchener, says The Daily Chronicle, "concerning the negotiations with General Botha, and also that immense quantities of foodstuffs are reaching Pretoria by way of Delagoa Bay, which are destined to feed the Boers when the final surrender is made."

The Daily News says: "In addition to the modifications announced by The Daily News yesterday in the 'unconditional surrender' policy, we understand that the government has authorized Lord Kitchener to give a distinct promise that the government of the new colonies shall culminate in a complete grant of free institutions."

It is generally expected as a result of yesterday's cabinet council that the government will make some announcement today as to the result of the negotiations at Pretoria.

Colonel Sheridan a Suicide

New York, March 14.—The man who about two weeks ago committed suicide in a Belfast, Ire., hotel by shooting was last night identified by a photograph and description furnished to the detective bureau by the Belfast police as Colonel James Sheridan of Bridgeport, Conn. Sheridan was colonel of the Fourth regiment of the Connecticut national guard. He left his home in Bridgeport Jan. 1. On Feb. 17 he was a guest in a small hotel in this city. He left the place that day, taking his satchel with him. It is surmised he bought a ticket for Europe that day and sailed.

Fierce Storm in Michigan

Detroit, March 14.—Raging along the entire coast of Lake Michigan, north of Grand Rapids, is one of the most disastrous storms in years. Railroad lines are blocked and not a train on the Grand Rapids and Indiana or the Pere Marquette, north and northeast of Grand Rapids, is able to move. Trains are stalled and backed in with walls of snow and frozen slush. The strength of the blizzard may be understood when it is known that the windows of the coaches and the cabs of the engines were in some instances broken in.

Arrest in the Fosberg Case

Hudson, N. Y., March 14.—Deputy Sheriff Fowler of Hatham has arrested a man named Vaughan Hawkins, whom he believes is one of the "wire gang" accused of the murder of Miss Fosberg of Pittsfield, for which her brother was arrested. Hawkins admits that he was in Pittsfield when the murder was committed, but neither denies or confesses that he was in any way implicated.

Three Fatalities in Brooklyn Fire
New York, March 14.—A fire at 270 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, early this morning, was the scene of several accidents. Mrs. George Mackin jumped from the third story rear window to the yard below and was instantly killed. The body of a child, unidentified as yet, was recovered from the blazing building. The body of Mrs. Mary Burns was also removed by the firemen.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the Grippe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease, get a bottle today and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose, lungs free from inflammation. All druggists sell KEMP'S BALSAM at 25c. and 50c.

FACTORY DOORS OPENED

Strikers at North Brookfield Carry Their Point

OLD SCALE RE-ESTABLISHED

Conference Over the Ten Percent Cut-down Results in the Yielding of Employers and the Resumption of Work by Eleven Hundred Operatives

North Brookfield, Mass., March 14.—The strike of the 1100 employees of the E. & A. H. Batchelder company's shoe factory was settled in conference yesterday afternoon, the company withdrawing its cutdown of 10 percent, with a profit sharing proviso and restoring the wage schedule in force prior to last Friday. The conference was between a committee of the strikers and the members of the firm.

The strike was made quite noticeable by the almost unanimous refusal of the factory employees to work under the cutdown. It was felt by them to be unjust and when it took effect only about 25 men reported at their work. At no time have the acts of the employees or their discussion of the strike been antagonistic to the company or the men who control it.

In the conference there was an expression of good will in the statement that the employees would return to work in the morning under the old schedule, and members of the strikers' committee said they would use their best efforts to see that the manufacture of shoes in the future was conducted on an economical basis as is consistent with their part of the work.

The factory closed down for want of operatives on Friday noon last. The strikers immediately appointed a committee of 35 and through the efforts of the board of trade, the conference which yesterday resulted successfully, was brought about. The members of the state board of arbitration and conciliation were in town and placed their services at the disposal of the conflicting parties.

Royal Family Is Expensive

London, March 14.—The Times asserts that the government's proposals for the civil list shows a total of £470,000, being £110,000 for his majesty's private purse and the rest for the expenses of the royal household. The queen consort's allowance is £50,000, and is included in the total already given. This will be increased to £70,000 in the event of the death of the king.

Wanted For Alleged Assault

Danbury, Conn., March 14.—The authorities of New Fairfield are searching for a farm hand named Whitlock, who is wanted there for an alleged murder assault on Charles Sanford, a charcoal burner. The men had a dispute over a charcoal pit, and Whitlock, it is alleged, shot Sanford, the bullet entering one side of his head and passing out of the other.

Failed to Kill Himself

Andover, Mass., March 14.—A weak piece of pipe saved William Gordon, 23 years old, from death, as it broke and let him fall to the floor. It is supposed he tried to commit suicide in Smith & Dove's mill. He was unconscious when found with a rope around his neck and the other end tied to the section of pipe. He will recover.

Unknown Man Found Dead

Exeter, N. H., March 14.—The body of an unknown man, frozen stiff, was found at Stratham last evening. The man was about 40 years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighed 170 pounds, and was fairly well dressed. There was nothing of value on his person, and nothing to give any clue to his name.

Sherman's Remarkable Play

Boston, March 14.—The pool championship of the world last night went to Frank Sherman of Washington, who defeated Grant H. Ely in the closing match of the tournament, by a score of 150 to 110. During the whole tournament Sherman has not lost a game.

Said to Have Four Wives

Malden, Mass., March 14.—Chick L. Darlington of Melrose was arraigned before Judge Pettengill yesterday, charged with polygamy. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $500 bonds for appearance next Saturday. It is alleged that he has four wives.

Launching Expected In April

Boston, March 14.—"If we can possibly do it, we shall launch the Independence the first week in April, during the high course of the tides," said Builder George F. Lawley yesterday. The boat will be put overboard as soon as she can be shothed.

Bay State Legislature

Boston, March 14.—By a vote of 132 to 29, the house yesterday rejected the proposition for extending suffrage in this state to women. The majority against the suffragists was the largest for many years.

A PHILANTHROPIST, INDEED

Carnegie Marks His Retirement From Business With a Magnificent Gift

Pittsburg, March 14.—Two communitations from Andrew Carnegie, officially made public last night, tell of the steel king's retirement from active business life, and of his donation of $5,000,000 for the endowment of a fund for superannuated and disabled employees of the Carnegie company. This benefaction is by far the largest of the many created by Mr. Carnegie, and is probably without a parallel anywhere in the world.

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

This fund will in no wise interfere with the continuance of the savings fund established by the company 15 years ago for the benefit of its employees. In this latter fund, nearly $2,000,000 of the employees' savings are on deposit, on which the company, by contract, pays 6 percent, and loans money to the workmen to build their own homes.

After giving instructions in detail as to his disposition and management, Mr. Carnegie says: "I make this first use of surplus wealth upon retiring from business as an acknowledgment of the debt which I owe to the workmen who have contributed so greatly to my success. I hope the cordial relations which exist between employers and employees throughout all the Carnegie company works may never be disturbed; both employers and employees remembering what I said in my last speech to the men at Homestead: 'Labor, capital and business ability are the three legs of a three-legged stool, neither is first, neither is second, neither is third, there is no precedence, all being equally necessary.'"

Negro Burned at the Stake

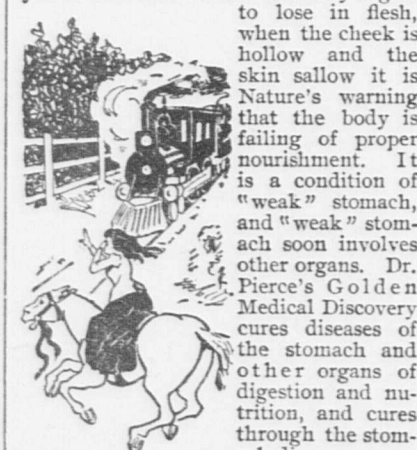

Corsicana, Tex., March 14.—John Henderson, the negro who outraged and murdered Mrs. Conway Younger, was burned at the stake by a mob in the court house yard yesterday in the presence of 4000 persons. Just as the torches were being applied Conway Younger, the husband of his victim, jumped at Henderson and attempted to cut his throat with a knife, but only slashed the chained negro's face. Henderson's struggles were fearful, but his screams were drowned by the yells of the mob. Justice Roberts held an inquest over the remains of Henderson and gave a verdict "that the deceased came to his death at the hands of the lynch mob in the United States, the citizens of Navarro and adjoining counties. The evidence, as well as the confession of guilt by the deceased, shows that his punishment was fully merited and commendable."

Curtilage May Have to Be Extended

Fall River, Mass., March 14.—The selling committee can report nothing definite concerning the prospects of curtilage, as they have not seen all of those interested, and have not begun the formal work of securing signatures. It is quite likely that the period of curtilage will have to be extended if all the mills are to be taken in, as it has been ascertained beyond question that some mills cannot shut down without violating contracts that may be profitable.

In Danger.

Every one is in danger who neglects the warnings of declining health. The warnings are not as startling as the sudden shriek of a locomotive, but they are just as ominous. When the body begins to lose in flesh, when the check is hollow and the skin sallow it is Nature's warning that the body is failing of proper nourishment. It is a condition of "weak" stomach, and "weak" stomach soon involves other organs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote, but which have their origin in the disease of the stomach and its allied organs.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Before I commenced to use your medicine I was in a bad condition (for eight years), and four doctors treated me," writes Mrs. Bettie Askew, of Garysburg, Northampton Co., N. C. "They, of course, gave me at the time some relief, but it did not last long. I was some days in my bed and some days I dragged about the house. I have used five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five of the 'Favorite Prescription' and four vials of the 'Pellies.' Now I feel like a new woman, and I want the world to know it."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, 1008 large pages, paper binding, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only, or 31 stamps for it in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NOT AFTER MANCHURIA

Russia's Presence In That Province Is Legitimate

TALK WITH COUNT CASSINI

In Which He Defends Action of His Government and Points to What He Considers a Parallel Condition at Present Existing In Pekin

Washington, March 14.—Asked concerning the reiterated reports as to Russia's designs on Manchuria, Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, said he was not authorized to make any official declaration on the part of his government, but, in view of the constant reports, he consented to state his individual views, based upon his long service in China and his familiarity with the general policy Russia has consistently maintained toward China.

The ambassador first called attention to the Chinese invasion of Russian territory last summer when Chinese forces committed depredations and threatened Russia's interests. This invasion was of such a character, the ambassador said, that Russia would have been justified, then and there, in declaring war against China and taking Manchuria. Count Cassini added that if Russia had been disposed to exercise this undoubted right, she had the military force on the ground ready to execute it. But Russia did not at that time take Manchuria, and in that very fact, the ambassador said, was the best answer to the present reports of Russia's purposes to absorb Manchuria. If she had not chosen to take Manchuria when the opportunity was open and clear, why should there be any step in that direction now?

The ambassador said that frequent reference was being made, in foreign publications and in this country, as to the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria, and writers expressed some surprise at their presence there. In reply to the frequent question why Russian troops are in Manchuria, the ambassador asked:

"Why are German troops, British troops, American troops and other troops in Pekin? There seems to be no surprise about this latter condition, and yet it was exactly parallel to the presence of Russian troops in Manchuria. In each case depredations were being committed, foreign interests were in jeopardy, and each nation sent its troops to give due protection to the lives and properties of its people and to prevent the recurrence of disorder."

Inquiry was made of Count Cassini as to the specific report that an agreement, containing a number of articles, was about to be concluded between Russia and China. The ambassador suggested that such reports must be taken with a great deal of allowance. He was not advised on any such agreement, and, in the absence of such advice, he did not, he said, feel at liberty to discuss the subject. As far back as Aug. 25, Count Cassini pointed out, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, in a formal note, had announced clearly and distinctly the China policy of Russia in regard to Manchuria. In accordance with that declaration it could not be doubted that when order had been established in Manchuria and measures taken for the protection of railway construction, Russia would recall her troops from Manchuria, provided the action of other powers did not place an obstacle in the way of such a measure.

Berlin Diplomats Not Posted

Berlin, March 14.—Inquiry in official circles in Berlin develop the fact that nothing is known here officially regarding the report, contained in a dispatch from Washington, that Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang have asked the United States and other powers to induce Russia to abandon the Manchurian convention.

Thirty Thousand Christians Killed

Berlin, March 14.—The Pekin correspondent of The Lokal Anzeiger gives statistics as to the number of foreign Christians killed during the troubles, exclusive of the Pekin siege. He enumerates 118 Englishmen, 79 Americans, Swedes and Norwegians, 29 Frenchmen, 11 Belgians, 10 Italians and Swiss, and 1 German. He estimates that 30,000 native Christians perished.

Firemen Had a Hard Time

Boston, March 13.—Eight firemen were injured by falling walls, one man was struck by a hose nozzle and knocked senseless, and another fell overboard, and was rescued with difficulty, at a fire which broke out yesterday afternoon, and did damage estimated at over $50,000, in a warehouse and freight shed on Union wharf. The loss is difficult to estimate, as the fire burned many hours.

Bandits' Purpose Not Accomplished

Manila, March 14.—Paymaster Major Pickett, with $75,000 in gold and an escort of 10 men, was attacked by a party of 30 bandits on a road in the province of Nueva Viscaya. A hard fight ensued, and the robbers were routed. The funds were saved. Corporal Hooker was killed and a private was wounded.

Fifty Girls Return to Work

Paterson, N. J., March 14.—The Haledon velvet mills have granted the 50 girl strikers an advance of 15 cents on every bundle of 200 yards of velvet they handle, and the girls have returned to work. There is no change in the situation of the other mills affected.

Duellists Make a Move

Brussels, March 14.—Andre Buffet, the arrangements for whose duel with Paul Deroulede have been completed, left Brussels yesterday for Bale, Switzerland.

Genoa, March 14.—Paul Deroulede has gone to Switzerland.

NOTES OF CONDOLENCE

Public Men Express Sorrow at General Harrison's Death

THE BODY TO LIE IN STATE

President and Members of Cabinet and Many Governors to Attend Funeral on Sunday — Mobilization of Entire National State Guard at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, March 15.—No sooner was the news of the death of ex-President Harrison announced to the world than the messages of inquiry which had been pouring in for several days changed to messages of condolence and sympathy. They came from every section of the country. Many of these telegrams were of such an intimate personal nature that Mrs. Harrison felt they should not be given to the public.

Telegrams of condolence have been received from Wu Ting Fang, Mexican Ambassador Azpiroz, T. Dagatt, commissioner from Porto Rico; Sir Richard Webster of London, who was chief counsel for Great Britain in the famous Venezuela case, and Holleben, German ambassador, and many other distinguished men in this country and abroad.

Besides messages from former President Cleveland, twice the rival of General Harrison for the presidency, words of sympathy came from Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Harlan and Justice McKenna of the supreme court, and all the remaining members of General Harrison's cabinet.

A telegram from President McKinley was as follows: "In the death of General Harrison the country has lost a distinguished statesman, a devoted patriot and an exemplary citizen. The people of the nation mourn with you. You have the heartfelt sympathy of Mrs. McKinley and myself in this hour of overwhelming sorrow in your home."

Ex-President Cleveland has telegraphed that it will be impossible for him to attend the funeral.

The arrangements for the funeral have been completed. The body will lie in state at the capitol tomorrow from 11 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, and the funeral services will be held from the First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. M. L. Haines officiating. President McKinley and members of his cabinet will attend the funeral.

Governor Durbin has sent a notice of General Harrison's death to the governors of many of the states, and it is the belief that the majority will be here. Members of General Harrison's cabinet have sent word that they will be here and will act as honorary pallbearers. The only member of General Harrison's cabinet not yet heard from is Redfield Proctor, who is now in Cuba.

The casket will be taken from the home tomorrow morning, accompanied by a military escort composed of the national guard and Grand Army posts. The adjutant general has issued orders for the mobilization of the entire state national guard. The troops will arrive this evening and tomorrow morning and will remain until Sunday evening.

Late yesterday afternoon W. H. H. Miller, Russell B. Harrison, Secretary Tibbett and Colonel Ramsdell selected a casket and gave directions concerning the funeral arrangements. What is known as a state casket was decided upon. It is made of red cedar and is copper lined. It is decorated at the corners with simple hand-carving, and has a heavy carved moulding. The top is plain, and will bear an oxidized plate on which will be engraved the words: "Benjamin Harrison, 1833-1901."

The covering is of black broadcloth. Heavy oxidized handles and ornaments will be used. The casket complete will weigh near 300 pounds. A heavy red cedar outside box will be used with the casket. It will be deposited in an airtight vault, and the casket will then be placed inside.

The vault at Crown Hill, where the body is to be placed, is now being constructed. General Harrison will lie at the right side of the first Mrs. Harrison, whose remains are buried in the family lot. A stone marks the lot. General Harrison himself selected the monument, a solid piece of granite, 10 feet high and six feet square, which marks the grave of his departed wife, and will also stand above his head. "Harrison" is the simple inscription on the plain but lasting stone.

There is a feeling of gloom throughout the city and state. Flags are at half-mast, and the buildings are draped in mourning. While the body lies in state all the merchants in the city will drape their places in mourning and business will practically be suspended.

Complaint Not Pressed

New York, March 15.—The 12 sailors and firemen who mutilated on the British tramp steamer Camperdown when the vessel went on the shoals off Cape Lookout, were yesterday discharged by the United States commissioner. Captain Smith of the Camperdown refused to go to England to press his complaint against the mutineers, consequently further proceedings would be futile.

MILLS TO SHUT DOWN

Curtailment Considered Best Means of Relieving Print Cloth Market
Fall River, Mass., March 15.—The agreement to curtail production in Fall River print mills will be practically unanimous by tonight, and because of a shortage in the supply of raw material many mills will begin upon the curtailment period at once, closing their doors tomorrow afternoon. The majority of the mills in the agreement will run one week and curtail the next, but some will adopt the plan of shutting down two weeks at a time. It is probable the curtailment will be completed the four-day-a-week plan pursued by that corporation during the shutdown period last year.

All the print cloth mills of the city, with the exception of a few whose treasurers have not yet received the authority from the board of directors of their respective mills, are now represented in the agreement to curtail for a few weeks' period. One mill, the Arkwright, which cannot curtail within the time fixed by the selling committee, has agreed to close four weeks between now and July 1, its contracts preventing a shutdown before May 1, as the curtailment agreement stipulates.

The idea of the committee in securing the prompt adoption of their curtailment plan is to relieve the market as soon as possible. They hope that at the end of the curtailment period business will have so much improved that the necessity for further action will be avoided. When the movement is actually in motion, manufacturers look for an increase in demand as the result of the plan.

Plague Continues to Spread

Cape Town, March 15.—Owing to the increasing gravity of the outbreak of bubonic plague in Cape Colony, the authorities here purpose confining the soldiers to camps and barracks. The number of European cases is increasing, four having been officially reported yesterday. In addition to these there were eight colored cases reported. So far there have been 37 deaths. Wholesale inoculation was begun in Cape Town yesterday, and 2000 natives were treated.

Thunderer May Be Prosecuted

London, March 15.—The disclosure of the civil list proposals of the government by The Times yesterday created a flutter. Mr. Balfour regards it as in the highest degree deplorable and discreditable to the channel through which they had been communicated to the press. A question will be asked in the commons with a view of endeavoring to bring The Times under the penal law against improper disclosure of official documents.

Vaccination In Courtroom

Minneapolis, March 15.—Three vagrants from Montana were brought before Judge Dickinson in the police court yesterday and were ordered sent to the workhouse. A health officer discovered that all had had the smallpox recently, and one of them had not entirely recovered. He placed a cordon of police around the room, telegraphed for help and proceeded at once to vaccinate everyone in the room, nearly 100 in all.

"Disfranchisement" Bill Wins

Annapolis, Md., March 15.—The Democratic majority in the senate succeeded in passing the "disfranchisement" bill last night, by a vote of 14 to 11, a strict party division. It now goes to the house for concurrence in the senate amendments. The consensus of opinion is that no further obstacle will be placed in its way, and that it will go to the governor tonight for his signature.

Life Saver That Doesn't Save

New York, March 15.—One man was drowned and four others were rescued in an unconscious condition yesterday after a test of a "self-righting" life boat by United States officers in Brooklyn. As soon as the men got into the life boat for the test it turned over completely, throwing the 13 men who were in it into the water. The boat did not right itself.

Self-Confessed Embezzler

Raleigh, March 15.—As a result of the finding of forged balances in the state prison in the treasury department, Major Martin, until March 10, 1901, a clerk in the department, was arrested yesterday, charged with embezzlement. He confessed and failing to give bonds was sent to jail. The amount of the shortage is $4000.

Sanger Succeeds Melklejohn

Washington, March 15.—Colonel William C. Sanger of New York was yesterday appointed assistant secretary of war, and immediately entered upon the discharge of the duties of his office. Mr. Melklejohn did not desire his name to be considered for reappointment.

Serious Threat Against a Senator

Toledo, March 15.—State Senator Gear has received the third letter demanding $500 on the threat of burning his home, waylaid one of his daughters and burning her eyes out. Detectives have been employed on the case.

Another Trial For Mrs. Botkin

San Francisco, March 15.—The state supreme court yesterday granted a new trial to Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, who was convicted of the murder of Mrs. J. P. Dunning, in the summer of 1898, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Mrs. Botkin was tried on the charge of sending through the United States mail from this city to Dover, Del., a box of poisoned candy, which caused the death of Mrs. Dunning, to whom it was addressed.

DE RODAYS' EARS BOXED

Editor Charged Castellane With Betraying a Plot

COUNT ASKED EXPLANATION

Which Was Not Furnished Quickly Enough to Suit Him and Assault Followed — Assaulting Party Withdraws After "Polite Salutations"

Paris, March 15.—The Castellane-De Rodays affair is the sensation of Paris. Since the speech of M. Deroulede at San Sebastian, on Feb. 23, in which he intimated the Royalists of Paris had notified the police of his attempt to coup d'etat after his refusal to allow the Duke of Orleans to appear in the ranks of the agitators, very great interest has been aroused respecting the identity of the Royalist emissary who approached M. Marcel-Habert on the occasion.

Castellane thrashed M. Ferdinand De Rodays, editor of The Figaro, yesterday for stating the he (De Castellane) had betrayed the Deroulede plot on the occasion of the funeral of the late President Faure, Feb. 23, 1899.

M. FERDINAND DE RODAYS.

Count Boni has written the following letter to the newspapers here:

"Reading The Figaro, I was filled with indignation at the perfidious insinuation accusing me of treachery. I immediately begged my father and a friend, M. Morel, to accompany me to the residence of M. De Rodays. The latter received us, and, after a few brief observations to which he gave unsatisfactory responses, I inflicted on him merited correction. I reserve a similar one for any person persisting himself the same accusations."

Count De Castellane was interviewed at his residence on his return from the residence of M. De Rodays. He said: "Yes, I boxed M. De Rodays ears several times in the presence of my father and M. Morel, who is editor of The Journal De Castellane. They are here now, and can give you the particulars of the incident."

The count then retired to his study, and the Marquis De Castellane gave the following account of the affair:

"The paragraph in The Figaro clearly designated Boni as the traitor of whom M. Deroulede spoke, but Boni could not have acted such a role, nor be suspected of so doing. It was a most outrageous insult to designate him. Boni determined to ask for explanations of M. De Rodays and begged us to accompany him in order to serve as witnesses in case of need. We, therefore, went to M. De Rodays' residence, where we presented our cards. M. De Rodays received us. After a polite exchange of salutations, the Count De Castellane said:

"You published against me this morning an abominable paragraph. I have come to ask for explanations."

"M. De Rodays replied: 'Do you mean an article?'"

"I interposed, saying: 'Have you not read your paper?'"

"Yes," said M. De Rodays, 'but I do not understand.'"

"Boni then exclaimed impatiently: 'Will you retract? Yes or no?'"

"M. De Rodays began: 'I cannot.'"

"Boni, without allowing him to conclude, said: 'Can you say formally that it is not I you intended to refer to? Reply quickly that it is not. Speak quick, or—'"

"At the same time moment Boni approached him and boxed his ears several times. M. De Rodays recoiled and Boni struck him again. We then intervened and I stood in front of M. De Rodays. Then, after polite salutations, the whole party withdrew, M. De Rodays, who was much agitated, accompanying us to the door."

M. De Rodays' seconds, MM. Prestat and Perrier, have called at the residence of M. De Castellane. The representatives of the count are not yet publicly known, but it is understood that the four seconds will meet today to make arrangements for a duel.

Buffet-Deroulede Duel Today

Paris, March 15.—A dispatch to Le Journal from Lausanne, Switzerland, after announcing the arrival of M. Buffet's seconds there, says that they have had a final interview with the seconds of M. Deroulede, and that the duel will take place today.

Good Afternoon

Drift of Opinion.

Ex-Representative Marcus C.

Cook, of Boston, erstwhile of Lynn, is the father of the greater Boston movement, which looks as if it needed two fathers.—Lynn Item.It is proposed to print and distribute the correspondence of Thomas Jefferson in favor of the annexation of Cuba. Thomas Jefferson was the most far-seeing of statesmen and political philosophers; but he was not prescient enough to foresee the coming of universal suffrage which would put the ballot in the inept hands of multitudes of ignorant persons utterly unfamiliar with the simplest notion of political self-government. It would be unwise to complicate the problem of universal suffrage in the southern portion of this country by fresh annexations of ignorant people.—Philadelphia Record.It is said that as the result of closing the canteen one army captain stationed at a military post in command of a company of regulars reports
an increase of court martials per month from 4.60 plus to 43.33 plus. The statement is taken as a complete condemnation of the anti-canteen legislation. We are not concerned to defend that legislation but it must be observed that no conclusion based on the report of one captain for one month
at one post is of the slightest value.
Any one who has had occasion to follow statistics which have been cooked up for the purpose of proving any theory concerning the effects of liquor laws knows very well how misleading all such arrays of figures can be made to be. It is not unknown that officials deliberately make arrests
or refrain from making them in order to give proof of their ideas concerning the value of the law. This captain may not have been of that stripe, but in any event he alone does not offer controlling evidence of the inefficiency of the canteen law. Men of experience and good judgment will not make up their minds because of any one piece of testimony on either side.—New Bedford Standard.

Quincy People in the South.

Henry P. Kittredge, who returned Wednesday night from Palm beach, says that he heard nothing of typhoid fever at that place until he reached Boston, and that there was no scare
there. He says that he left Rev. and Mrs. Butler in good health. Mr. Butler said that he was feeling very much improved, and could enjoy a good night's sleep, something he did not do before he left Quincy. The climate agrees with him and he will return with renewed health. Mr. Kittredge also saw Ernest W. Branch, Mr. and Mrs.
Branch are both at Palm beach, and Mrs. Branch's health seems to be better. Mrs. Homer Bigelow, he says, did not have typhoid fever when he left there, but was suffering from malaria, which she had before leaving Boston.

Mayor Hall and Former Pastors

Among Speakers.

The promises of the gentlemen of the Universalist church were abundantly fulfilled at the annual banquet in the vestry Thursday evening, for the 300 in attendance. Five long tables in the vestry and one in the ladies' parlor were just sufficient to accommodate the guests.The people began to arrive shortly after 6 P. M. and after depositing their wraps in the church auditorium enjoyed themselves socially, until the dinner was in readiness, but the gentlemen were prompt so there were no vegetable delays.The blessing was asked by Rev. W.
H. Morrison, the Universalist pastor at Brockton, and was a model one for briefness.The menu included turkey, cranberry sauce, mashed potato, salmon salad, pies, cake, fruit, rolls and coffee, which was served by young men. After the tables had been cleared and removed came past prandial exercises, at which Rev. M. C. Ward, the pastor, presided, and there was a flow of wit and wisdom. The speakers were Rev. Mr.
Morrison of Brockton; Rev. Mr. Ellsworth, acting pastor of the Quincy Point church; Mayor Hall, and Rev. F.
W. Preble, a former pastor. These were interspersed with music including a vocal solo, by Mr. A. Peters; a musical trio by John Greene, (piano),
F. W. White (harmonica), and Robert E. O'Connor (bones); and vocal solo
by John Greene.

Extinguished Without Alarm.

Prompt work on the part of Officer Nicol prevented a fire which would have destroyed one of the old landmarks
at South Quincy. It was about 9:20 Thursday night when the officer detecting smoke made an investigation and discovered a brisk fire in progress in the old Baxter building at the corner of Franklin and Water streets. The building is unoccupied at present. Smashing a window Officer Nicol entered and found the fire in a pile of old rubbish, in what was the office. Quite a hole had been burned in the floor, but he succeeded in extinguishing the fire with out an alarm.

AN IMPORTANT PROVISIO

Governs Russia's Return of Manchuria to China

DEGREE OF "INDEPENDENCE"

But Chinese Must Conform in Every Way to the Supreme Authority of Russia—American Troops Ordered to Leave China at Once For Philippines

Washington, March 15.—Such information as has come to the hands of officials indicates that the Russian agreement with China consists of 12 articles, not nine, as has been published. On their face it is said they show a return of Manchuria to China, which would seem to be quite in keeping with the desire of all powers.

But this is accomplished upon certain conditions imposed upon China, and it is understood that these conditions, in effect, establish a Russian suzerainty over Manchuria, with a Russian official occupying the chief executive position, quite similar to that of the British viceroy of India.

Comparing the situation with that in India, it is said that if the present agreement is consummated Manchuria will be much in the same position of one of the Indian states, having a certain degree of independence, and yet conforming all its actions to the supreme authority over it.

The exodus of the American troops from China is to begin at once. This is the conclusion reached at a recent consultation, in which the secretary of state and the secretary of war declared themselves of one mind.

Adjutant General Corbin has, therefore, notified General Chaffee by cable to prepare to move back to Manila without delay. He is to take with him his staff and all his soldiers, except 150 men, who will remain as a legion guard. The officers and men are to be selected with special care, on account of the character of their duties and the general dignity of the detail.

This, it is believed, will not only take the United States out of the atmosphere of diplomatic intrigue which has settled around Peking, but will furnish to China and the world the best possible assurance of the good faith of our government in dealing with the new Chinese problem. There seems to have sprung up abroad a suspicion that, because Russia has so promptly seconded the efforts of the United States to prevent further bloodshed as a preliminary to the settlement of terms of peace, the United States must have entered to some extent into Russia's supposed schemes for the acquisition of territory, or at least consented to countenance them. This latest move, it is hoped at the state department, will set at rest any false assumptions of this sort.

Chinese affairs received considerable attention at the state department yesterday, as the Chinese minister, the British ambassador and the Russian ambassador followed each other in long conferences with Mr. Hay. It is understood that in the informal discussion with Count Cassini an earnest intimation was conveyed to him that it would be most helpful in dealing with the subject if a clear and explicit understanding of Russia's plans in this particular matter were forthcoming.

Russia Must Heed Protests
London, March 15.—The Vienna correspondent of The Times, discussing the gravity of the issues raised by Russia's seizure of Manchuria, says: "The relations between St. Petersburg and at least one other European capital are unquestionably strained, although it is quite unlikely that these conditions will lead to a conflict. In fact Russia's financial embarrassment is so great that she will be almost compelled to take some account of European protests."

Pekin News Summarized
Pekin, March 15.—At yesterday's meeting of the foreign ministers the question of indemnities was further considered.
Li Hung Chang is reported as again in good health.
Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee left here yesterday for Tientsin.
General Gaselee, the British commander, has left Tientsin for Wei-Hai-Wei and will thence go to Shanghai.

The Feeling In Berlin
Berlin, March 15.—The opinion is gaining ground in official circles here that the Manchurian question is nearing a peaceable solution, but that Russia, in order to secure her interests in north China against possible Japanese interference, will increase her troops there, which now number in round figures 100,000 men.

China Raises Objections
Pekin, March 15.—China has strenuously objected to the limitations of the Manchurian convention respecting the importation of arms, the reorganization of the army and the practical control by Russia over Chinese officials.

Attributed to Stock Speculators
Mexico City, March 15.—Alarmist reports regarding the health of President Diaz and conspiracies here are absolutely baseless. These reports are believed to be fabricated for stock speculation purposes. There is no political agitation here.
Didn't Draw a Large Crowd
Springfield, Mass., March 15.—Sixto Lopez, the Filipino, spoke to an audience of about 250 in this city last evening. The address dwelt on the education and feelings of the Filipino people.

Conclusion of Scientists
Berlin, March 15.—The official laboratory at Hamburg has discovered that the sand which fell during the recent snowstorm in northwestern Germany came from the African Sahara.

KILLED THE CASHIER

One of a Pair of Young Bank Robbers
Becomes a Murderer

Harrisburg, March 15.—Charles W. Ryan, cashier of the Halifax National bank, was shot to death by Henry Rowe and Weston Kelper yesterday in an attempt at a daring bank robbery. The robbers were captured and brought to the Harrisburg jail, together with F. B. Straley, who is suspected of being an accomplice.

Rowe and Kelper drove to Halifax from Elizabethtown, and, hitching their team on the outskirts of the town, boldly entered the bank with revolvers pointed. They demanded the cashier to turn over the money. One of them held in check President Postenbaugh, Teller Lyter and Mr. Swartz, who was in the bank on private business. The other covered Cashier Ryan, who collected the cash in the drawers, amounting to $2000, and handed it to Rowe in a satchel.

Just when it seemed that the robbers would succeed in getting away, Ryan leaped forward in an attempt to knock up the revolver of the man with the money. In the scuffle several shots were fired and Ryan fell to the floor, shot through the groin by a bullet from Rowe's pistol. Mr. Postenbaugh grabbed Rowe, and, after a short struggle, threw him to the floor. Kelper ran out, but the noise of the shots attracted J. F. Lyter, who has a store near the bank building. He ran out with his shotgun and pursued Kelper for one block, and then shot him, the bullet entering the back of his head. The robber surrendered.

The wounded cashier died last evening. Rowe and Kelper are unmarried, and formerly worked in the coal mines at Lykens. Rowe is 19 years old, and has been considered dangerous. Kelper is 20 years old, and has always been looked upon as honest and harmless.

Healy Created Excitement

London, March 15.—After midnight this morning, during the debate on supply, Lord Hugh Cecil called for a division, and Timothy Healy asked the speaker whether the premier's son was entitled to interrupt. He addressed some remarks to Cecil, which were drowned in an uproar of shouts and cries of "send for the police." The speaker sternly called Mr. Healy to order, asking him to stop interrupting. Mr. Healy retorted: "I won't. You can do what you like, but keep the premier's son in order. You won't turn him out." Then turning to Cecil, Healy exclaimed: "We won't stand nonsense from you." All the time the Nationalists were cheering, laughing and shouting "Turn him out," "Fetch the police," and the like. Eventually quiet was restored.

Epidemic of Suicides
San Juan, P. R., March 15.—Two members of the Porto Rican regiment, Beltran and Arroyo, committed suicide yesterday. Beltran had been reprimanded by an officer for untidiness and ordered to do kitchen duty. He went to quarters and blew off the top of his head with his rifle. Arroyo, who was a close friend of Beltran, killed himself in the same fashion. There have been seven suicides in the native regiment during the last six months.

De Jager's Punishment
Pietmaritzburg, Natal, March 15.—The trial of the most prominent rebel in the colony, De Jager, has been concluded. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $25,000. De Jager was a Boer commandant. His defense was that a Transvaal boucher had decided that, although he was not a naturalized burgher, he owed allegiance to Natal.

Torpedo Boat Goes Down
Brest, March 15.—A French torpedo boat which had been sent to meet an incoming transport, the Lerhin, sprang a leak yesterday and suddenly began to fill, sinking in a few moments. The crew narrowly escaped in the boats.

Strife Continues In Colombia
Kingston, Jam., March 15.—It is reported that trade is totally paralyzed in Colon, in consequence of rebel activity in the neighborhood. Fighting is going on in several quarters, but without important results.

Plan Deserves Success
Boston, March 15.—Dr. Perin of the Every Day church is forming a corporation to purchase the buildings of the New England conservatory of music on East Newton street, and turn them into a home for working girls. The property is valued at $250,000. The buildings would accommodate 500 girls in refinement at moderate cost.

Clinton to Be "Remembered"
Clinton, Mass., March 15.—Andrew Carnegie has made an offer of money for the building of a library in this town. The conditions of the gift are not yet known here, but will be received soon from Congressman Weymouth, who telegraphs that the offer is a "generous" one.

Insurance Men Lose Heavily
Boston, March 15.—The all out signal for the fire at the Union wharf was given at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, just 24 hours after the third alarm was sounded Wednesday. Insurance men say they do not expect to come out of the loss under $125,000.

No Wreckage Off Nantucket
Nantucket, Mass., March 15.—There is no sign of any wreckage along the Nantucket shore, and the report of a disaster on the shoals is unfounded. The body of a horse was washed ashore here, but it had evidently been thrown overboard from a steamer.

A VERMONT MYSTERY

Woman Supposed to Have Been Killed
by Poison In Guise of Medicine

Shoreham, Vt., March 15.—Ida Fosburg, a domestic in the family of Miner Jones, is dead, and the cause of death was suspicious enough for State Attorney Donaway to order that the viscera of the woman be sent to Burlington for analysis. An autopsy was held yesterday afternoon, but the verdict is not given out, owing to doubt as to the cause of death.

Miss Fosburg is thought to have died from poison sent to her in a letter under guise of medicine. It is known that on Tuesday night she received a letter containing what was supposed to be a medicinal powder. She was seen to read the letter, and then acted as if disappointed in its contents. She went to her room and later was found dying. She did not say anything to explain her condition, and death came after a few hours. She was 40 years of age and formerly in good circumstances. A few years ago, it is understood, she recovered $2500 in a breach of promise suit.

The letter, which is thought to have a bearing on her death, was posted at the Shoreham postoffice Tuesday afternoon, and the presence at the office about that time of two well-dressed men, who later rode away behind a span of horses, is thought to be a clue worth following. In the opinion of the town officials.

Foster and Dickinson Indicted
Boston, March 15.—Indictments against George M. Foster, former cashier of the defunct South Danvers National bank of Peabody, and John W. Dickinson, an investment broker, were returned in the United States district court yesterday. One of the indictments is against Foster alone and contains three counts. The second indictment contains 15 counts and is against Foster and Dickinson jointly. All of the counts in this indictment charge Foster with the crime of willfully misapplying the funds of the bank, and Dickinson with aiding and abetting him in the commission of the crime. Bail was placed at $25,000 in both cases and was furnished by Mr. Dickinson, whereas the cashier was unable to do so and was sent back to jail to await the next move in the case.

Polygamy Still Being Taught
Boston, March 15.—An address on Mormonism was given by Deaconess Eliot of Utah before the Girls' Friendly society yesterday. She said that there are thousands of women in Utah who still firmly believe their souls could not be saved unless they were plural wives and unless their husbands call them from the grave. Thousands of girls were now being taught such doctrines. Mormon doctrines, including polygamy, were taught in most of the states of the Union, and more converts were now made in Maine than in any other state.

Prezied-Lover Ends Two Lives
Norwood, Mass., March 15.—Unsuccessful in an attempt to place an engagement ring upon the unwilling hand of the girl he loved, Ralph Bateman, in desperation fired a bullet into the brain of Ella White, and then killed himself. Neither lived five minutes after the first shot was fired. Miss White was 20 years old, and Bateman but two years her senior. The tragedy occurred at the home of the Whites, where Bateman had gone to plead his cause. He had been rejected during a stormy interview early in the evening.

Change In Court System
Concord, N. H., March 15.—After an all day struggle the New Hampshire house of representatives passed "an act providing for a judiciary system consisting of two courts." The bill provides for a supreme court and a superior court, each to consist of a chief justice and four associates. The supreme court will sit in this city and try questions of law, while trial terms in the different counties of the state will be held by the superior court.

Bay State Legislature
Boston, March 15.—The upper branch of the legislature adjourned yesterday after a few minutes' session, out of respect to the memory of the late ex-President Harrison, but the house kept steadily at work until after 4 o'clock. The principal action of the house was the rejection of the proposition providing that any proposed amendment to the constitution of the state shall be submitted to the people on the petition of 50,000 voters.

A PALE-FACE GIRL

may be almost safely set down as wanting red in her blood. If subject to dizziness, fainting, shortness of breath on slight exertion, no doubt remains.

To want red in the blood is to fail of the good of one's food. Her food is not nourishing her. She needs a change.

The easiest change she can get, and one of the best, is Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

It gives her the upper hand in the contest—her food has the upper hand now—she is pale no more.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

AT SEA.

Oh, we go down to sea in ships,
But Hope remains behind,
And Love, with laughter on his lips,
And Peace, of passive mind,
While out across the deeps of night,
With lifted sails of prayer,
We voyage off in quest of light
Nor find it anywhere.

O thou who wroughtest earth and sea,
Yet keepst from our eyes
The shores of an eternity
In calms of paradise,
Blow back upon our foolish quest
With all the driving rain
Of blinding tears and wild unrest
And wait us home again.

A CIVIL ENGINEER
WANTED.

BY M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.

One morning in my bachelor apartments in London I read the following advertisement in my newspaper:

"The undersigned desires the services of a competent civil engineer for several days in a rather strange enterprise and promises a most liberal reward. He must be a man who can keep a secret. Address —"

I was a competent civil engineer and just then out of employment. I was a man who could keep a secret. I was therefore naturally interested in the advertisement. It might possibly be some job which would get me into trouble with the law, but if so I had only to decline to take hold of it after an interview. I was inclined to believe that some land or mine owner wanted a private and secret survey made for his own satisfaction, as is often the case. It is sometimes the case that where two neighbors quarrel one of them builds a house or barn on what he believes to be his line, but which is found to trespass by a few inches. I could see a dozen good reasons why the person should advertise as he did, and I hastened to answer him and post the letter. He gave his address as the office of the newspaper, but after four or five days I received a call from him in person. He gave me his name as James Bennett and his address as London and left me to infer that he was a man of leisure.

HE ATTACKED ME AND THREW ME TO THE FLOOR.

I was not exactly pleased with Mr. Bennett's personal appearance. He was a tall, dark faced man of troubled countenance. His eyes had a furtive look, and he was nervous and ill at ease. Had I met him while traveling I should have been inclined to look upon him with suspicion. He told a straight enough story, however, though a rather queer one. Being left an orphan at the age of 12 years, he had been brought up by an uncle living in Hertford county. He had always been given to understand that he would be his uncle's heir, and he was sure that a will had been made to that effect, but three years previous to his call on me the uncle had passed away, no will had been found, and the property had gone to the next of kin. While the uncle was rich, he was also an eccentric. Being a single man and living almost alone, he had been almost a hermit. The house he had occupied was a rambling old structure at best and now that it had been untenanted for several years was in a bad state. What Mr. Bennett had come to believe was that the will was concealed in the old house. He had searched and searched without avail, and he wanted my assistance for a new search. There might be secret closets he had passed over. If I would give him my faithful services for three days, he would pay me £25. If the will was found, he would present me with £200 more. I was to say nothing of my quest, make my appearance at the old house on a certain date, and he would assist in the search.

I didn't like Bennett's personal appearance and actions, as I have said, but there was nothing out of the way with his story, and I was glad to accept his offer. It would be combining romance with business to come upon the hidden will and restore the ousted heir to his own. His caution to me to make my way alone from the nearest station without asking or answering questions might have seemed queer but for the fact that we would both be trespassers while making the search. I had not a single suspicion. I was to arrive by a train which would enable me after a walk of three miles to arrive at the old house at dark, and he would have provisions at hand and fix up the best lodgings he could. I was especially warned not to betray my destination to any one I happened to meet en route, and I was to bring no baggage.

All these things seemed all right to me at the time. I reached the station by the train named, but found the distance to the house to be five miles instead of three. This brought about my arrival quite a spell after dark, and Bennett was waiting for me a quarter of a mile up the road. The first question he asked was if any one had spoken to me, and when I assured him that even the people at the station did not know where I was bound for he was somewhat elated. I found he had provisions for a cold lunch, but nothing very appetizing, while we must sleep on the bare boards of the family sitting room. It was while eating supper that I noticed a wild, strange look in the man's face and began to doubt him. He was restless and distrustful and watched me in a furtive way, and it wasn't long before I felt that he had some sinister designs in luring me to the lonely old house. I put a bold face on the matter and demanded an explanation, and at that he attacked me and threw me to the floor. From his savage manner I believed he was going to murder me outright, but after growling in his throat like a wolf he lifted me up and shoved me into a closet and bolted the stout door on me. Of course I protested, argued and struggled, but without avail. I heard him laughing to himself after he had locked me in, but I did not hear him leave the house. Fifty times during the night I kicked on the door and called out, but I got no answer. Next morning, still failing to arouse him, I began to cut at the door with my pocketknife. It was of oak and my task was a hard one. It was almost night when I reached up and slid back the bolt, and as soon as I found the house deserted and lost no time in getting away myself.

I went straight to the police with my story, and who do you think the man proved to be? No more or less than a lunatic who had escaped from an asylum three months before. He was under another name, lived far from the address he had given me, and his mania was the fear of starvation. Before going to the asylum he had locked up two different people in tenantless houses to see how long they could live without food or drink, and my capture was a third experiment in that line. I bore him no ill will, of course, but insisted that he be returned to the asylum, and I believe he is living today. In that old house, far from help and a place never visited, he would have wrought my death by inches but for my pocketknife, and months or years might have passed before my corpse was ever found.

Where Eloquence Is Wasted.

It might have been supposed that Addison, the most polished writer of our Augustan age; that Burke, with his versatile intellect and exuberant eloquence; that Mackintosh, with his almost encyclopedic learning; or that Jekyll, who had set a hundred dinner tables in a room, would one and all have achieved conspicuous success in the house of commons.

But, as Macaulay has pointed out, exactly the reverse was the case. Their wearied and bewildered their audience. And their rising to speak was too often the signal for a general exodus; in fact, as was said of Burke, they acted as a dinner bell. Even Macaulay himself, though on two occasions his speeches changed the fate of a division, was in no sense of the word an orator or even a great debater. His voice was too shrill and monotonous, and he poured out a torrent of words with such headlong fluency as to confuse his hearers as well as to baffle the quickest of parliamentary reporters. Bulwer Lytton, again, could recite an admirable essay, but his delivery was bad, and the saw gestures which accompanied his speech were as "grotesque as those of an old fashioned postboy."

In our own generation no two men probably have had more highly cultivated minds than John Stuart Mill and Mr. John Morley, but as far as their parliamentary utterances go their names are "writ in water."—Blackwood's.

Tit For Tat.

The diners at a popular New York restaurant are said to have had the privilege of witnessing an amusing little incident one evening not long ago.

An Anglicized young man seated himself at a table at which there was only one other person, a writer well known throughout the country, but evidently a stranger to the newcomer.

The writer is a man whose dress is always fastidiously neat, but by no means fashionable in cut or expensive in material. When the young man took his seat, the writer glanced up at him and, seeing that it was no one whom he knew, returned to his study of the bill of fare.

The young man languidly placed his monocle in his eye, and, screwing up his face to keep the glass in position, treated the other guest at the table to a prolonged stare.

The stare ended abruptly, however, for suddenly the writer looked up. Quick as thought he seized an empty tumbler and, applying it to his right eye, stared gravely through its bottom at his vis-a-vis.

The monocle was dropped in a very few seconds, and then the tumbler was replaced on the table. But the young Angloman's face was crimson, while that of the writer remained grave and unmoved, and through the dining room rustled the sound of something that suggested repressed merriment.

FRUIT FLOWERS.

GARDEN FLOWERS.

From April to November, inclusive.
Twelve Best For the Amateur.

To name the 12 best herbaceous plants for the amateur is a difficult task. It would be easier to name 50. But a Pennsylvania grower makes the following choice:

Arabis Albida.—This pretty rock cross is of the easiest culture, grows only about five or six inches high and puts forth its fragrant white flowers in April so profusely as to completely hide the foliage.

Iberis Sempervirens.—This pretty candytuft has clean, evergreen foliage, which is completely hidden with large white flowers early in May.

Iris Germanica.—The German iris is a very satisfactory plant in every way.

Paevev Orientale.—These beautiful, showy poppies have handsome foliage, are very hardy, produce their gorgeous flowers in May and will sow themselves.

Veronica Rupestris.—This pretty creeping speedwell flowers late in May, makes a beautiful sheet of blue and is exceedingly pretty among rocks.

Paeonia officinalis Rubra Plena.—Improves with age and is perfectly hardy. It bears double brilliant crimson flowers in great profusion in May.

Coreopsis Lanceolata.—A mass of golden yellow flowers in June; will seed itself if soil is not too heavy.

Delphiniums.—These hardy larkspur flowers in June, and if the flower stalks are removed a second crop may be expected late in summer.

Phlox.—The dwarf perennial phloxes are very beautiful and desirable. A slight covering after the ground is frozen in the fall will insure their re-appearance in the spring.

Hollyhocks.—Easily raised from seed, and young plants not so subject to disease as older ones. The Alleghany hollyhock is a beautiful, fringed semidouble flower and does not seem to be affected by disease.

Rodbeckia Golden Glow.—This plant is of vigorous growth and produces great quantities of golden yellow double flowers, making a beautiful sight late in the summer.

Anemone Japonica Queen Charlotte.—One of the last plants to bloom in the garden. It begins early in September and puts forth its large, semidouble white flowers tinged with pink until knocked out by hard frost.

These 12 plants cover the season from April to November, inclusive. Seven are good for cutting, none is rare enough to cause much expense or trouble in procuring it, and all are entirely hardy.

When and How to Layer the Grape.

The best time to layer grapevines for propagation purposes is in the spring, after the growth has started a little, and if the work is done properly you should be able to get one good plant for every bud on the cane that is layered. To do this successfully a good, strong, well ripened shoot of last season's growth should be selected, and in the spring of the year should be tied on the trellis, with the center a little higher than either end. This will cause the buds along the center of the cane to start fully as soon as the end. When the buds have started about six inches, which will be some time about the 10th of June, dig a little trench perhaps four inches deep, and into it carefully place the cane in such a way as will not injure the growing shoots and then cover in rich soil to the depth of about two inches, just enough, in fact, to hold the canes in place. In about a week's time the shoots will have made six inches or more of growth, when the trench may be filled full. Treated in this way, it will be found that each joint will have produced a bunch of roots by autumn. Then the canes should be separated from the old plant and the cane divided into as many plants as there are shoots growing from it.

GRAPEVINE LAYER.

Best Time For Grafting.

At the Connecticut state station the best time for grafting was found to be from May 15 to June 15. Whip grafts on small stocks made the best union. Cleft grafting is desirable for large stocks. Foliage should be left around the graft to protect it from the sun's rays. When the grafting is skillfully performed, it can be reasonably expected that about 50 per cent of the scions will grow.

Horticultural Notes.

English ivy is well recommended for shady places, such as bare spots under trees.

Dahlia growers all over the world are striving to produce a better flower. The color is better, the stems longer and the flower more vigorous.

The "light pink" Lorraine is another of the variations from the beautiful and popular Gloire de Lorraine.

Violets prefer a mild, damp climate and cannot blossom steadily if subjected to weeks of frost and snow. They dislike, too, a high, cold wind, and it is useless to plant them in a wind-swept field.

The otahets dwarf orange as a pot plant is attractive, whether in fruit or flower.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—Christ, our high priest.—Heb. vii, 24-28.

In the topical reference we have the characteristics of Christ as a high priest set forth and the superiority of His priesthood over that of Aaron illustrated. It is shown that Christ is the real priest of mankind for whom all the nations of the world had been looking and longing. A study of the characteristics of His priesthood should help us to appreciate more fully Him and His work as our high priest.

1. The priesthood of Christ is unchangeable. "This man [Christ], because He continued forever, hath an unchangeable priesthood." The Aaronic priests died. They had predecessors and successors. But though Christ died He continued forever, and His priesthood is unchangeable. Like Melchisedec, Christ had no predecessor and no successor.

2. The priesthood of Christ is effective. "He is able to save unto the uttermost that come unto God by Him." The sacrifice that He has made as a priest is acceptable to God, and it actually saves all those who accept it and come to God through Him and His work for them. And that His work may be effective "He ever liveth to make intercession" for those for whom He died. He intercedes for us. We are guilty and condemned to death, but He is our advocate. He pleads our case before God, not upon our merits, but upon His merits and upon His work, and His intercession is always successful.

3. Christ's priesthood is superior to the Aaronic priesthood. (1) Christ's character is "holy, harmless and undefiled." He is absolutely sinless and needs not, therefore, to make sacrifices for himself. This was not the case with the Levitical priests. They had "infirmities"; they were human only and therefore weak and sinful, and before offering sacrifices for the people they were compelled to offer sacrifices for themselves. (2) Christ made but one sacrifice. The Aaronic priests sacrificed daily and the high priest once a year, on the day of atonement. But one sacrifice was enough for Christ, because He offered up Himself "a sacrifice to satisfy Divine justice." (3) Christ ministers in the heavenly sanctuary. Aaron ministered in an earthly tabernacle and his successors in perishable temples, but Christ performs the offices of His priesthood at the right hand of God in heaven. He is "a high priest who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, a minister of the sanctuary and of the true tabernacle which the Lord pitched and not man."

But with all the superiority of the priesthood of Christ it will avail us nothing unless we accept Christ as our high priest. He is able and willing to successfully intercede for us at the right hand of God, but we must also be willing and express our willingness to have Him as our advocate and mediator. We should be the readier to accept Him by the remembrance of the fact that today He is the only mediator between God and man, and if we have accepted Christ and His sacrifice our gratitude should go out to God for His goodness in providing us such a priest and sacrifice at such a cost, and we should show our gratitude by a life of devotion and consecration to God in Jesus Christ, our high priest.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a specially arranged programme, with prepared papers or address on the characteristics of Christ as a high priest.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxviii, 1-43; Rom. vii, 22-29; Heb. ii, 17, 18; iii, 1, 2; iv, 14-16; v, 1-14; Pet. ii, 15; 1 John ii, 1, 2; Rev. v, 9, 10.

Civilization and Religion.

Civilization cannot establish itself without the aid of a moral law. Its aim is to increase man's happiness, but man cannot become happier save by becoming better, and to become better he must feel himself constrained by an inflexible authority to embrace duty even at the cost of pain and be thus, as it were, raised above himself. But how can such an elevation take place if man has nothing to rest on save himself? By the religions which he himself creates he seeks only to draw heaven over to the side of his own interests, his own selfishness. But how, indeed, could the religions made by man transform his nature? They have not given laws to conscience simply because to render righteousness binding on man's free will surpasses the forces of our nature.—M. Etienne Lamy in Revue des Deux Mondes.

The Thankful Heart.

For every weary worker there is a present rest; for every solicitude there is heart ease; for every cloud there is sunshine; in every vicissitude there is Christ. None of us should be depressed or discouraged in the greatness of the way, for it is of the Divine appointment, and our Lord is with us in it, going on before. They who keep the morning watch with Jesus, they who never omit their trust with Him at night, will go from strength to strength. "When all the springs are dry," there are those who are filled at the Living Fountain.—Margaret Sangster.

A Walk Through the Woods.

A walk through the woods in September is bliss I can never define; The red leaves that glow like an ember Make gorgeous the tree and the vine. With earth and the sky for my altar I worship with sun and with ether. Forgetting the priest and the psalm, For now I am walking with God.

The hills are as hymns of high measure, The valleys as roared rhyme; And set to the loftiest measure The forest an anthem sublime. No more on man's teaching depend, From cant and from creed I am free, And Beauty and Truth are transparent, For God is now walking with me.

HEMMED IN BY FIRE

Three Proofreaders Meet Death
From Suffocation

QUICK WORK OF FLAMES

Cut Off Egress From a Newspaper
Building by Means of Stairways—
Many Who Escaped Hurt by Jumping
—Prompt Action of Messenger Boy

Boston, March 16.—Three lives were lost, five men seriously injured in hospitals, several others more or less severely injured and a heavy monetary loss is the result of a fire last night in the seven-story building occupied by the Boston Advertiser and Record.

The dead are: James Richardson, Judson Craft and Walter Luscomb, all proofreaders.

Among the injured are Harvey Holt, an apprentice, hip broken and badly burned; four compositors, named Farwell, Duffy, Hubbard and Murphy, badly bruised by jumping. Four firemen were slightly cut and bruised.

How the fire started is not known, but it was first seen in the press room, and like a flash it spread to the elevator well and darted to the top so rapidly that before the occupants of the two upper floors were aware that the building was on fire, their rooms were filled with flames and smoke so stifling that it was with difficulty any of them escaped. In the editorial room on the sixth floor there happened to be at the time but five men. All had to run for their lives. Night Editor Hathaway managed to feel his way down the stairway to the street, which he reached almost overcome by the smoke and heat. The others, who were behind him, ran to the fire escape on the southerly side of the building, from which they jumped to the roof of the building adjoining, occupied by Woodbury's cafe and billiard hall, through which they descended to the street.

On the upper floor were some 18 compositors and proofreaders, whose situation was most critical. Panic-stricken they rushed for the windows leading to the fire escapes, and all but three of them succeeded in gaining the roof of Woodbury's building, where they remained for a time shouting to the crowd which had gathered in the street below, and by whom they were warned not to jump, as help was at hand.

Long ladders were raised as quickly as the network of electric wires over the street would permit, but even before a ladder could be placed in position to relieve them the men had dropped through the skylight in the Woodbury roof, and reached a place of safety.

Except in the press room in the basement, there was practically no fire in the building below the fifth floor. Fortunately the press room, do not begin work until about 11 o'clock, and no one was in the press room at the time the fire started, as far as known.

The three upper stories burned furiously, and it was some time before a stream of sufficient force to do much execution could be brought to bear upon the fire.

The excitement during the fire's progress was intense, and all manner of sensational reports were in circulation, it being reported at one time that five persons were dead, several missing and nearly a score injured. The three victims were suffocated before they had time to reach the fire escapes. Those who did find the fire escapes were obliged to jump several feet to the roof of the adjoining building, and in this way quite a number of them sustained injuries, more or less painful, though none is likely to result fatally. Judson Craft was a man weighing over 250 pounds and this fact no doubt told against him in his efforts to escape.

On the northerly side of the Advertiser building is the large building occupied by the Boston Globe, but as a heavy brick wall separated the two structures the fire did not enter that building, although it was filled with smoke from top to bottom.

The Advertiser force last night made up its paper in The Globe office and printed a four page paper from The Globe's presses. Stephen O'Meara of The Journal offered the facilities of The Journal office for printing Saturday afternoon's Record, and the offer was accepted. The Herald and Post also indicated their desire to do anything in their power to aid The Advertiser and Record in their misfortune.

The fire was discovered at about the same time by Marshall Rees, an Associated Press messenger, who was delivering copy, and the colored man who runs the elevator. There is no fire alarm box in the building, and the two, after shouting to warn the occupants, had a race to the nearest fire alarm box, in which Reese came out the winner. He turned in an alarm, and this was followed soon after by a second and third. Mr. Barrett, the publisher and heavy-lost loser, did not carry a cent of insurance. He said that his loss would be as much as $100,000, and that he did not have a cent of insurance, never had carried a dollar's worth, and that, although he had lost a large amount of money, he did not regret the policy, established years ago, of carrying his own insurance. Mr. Barrett estimated the total losses to the other tenants at $25,000, and the damage to the building at $25,000 more.

St. Louis a Beneficiary
St. Louis, March 16.—Andrew Carnegie has offered to donate $1,000,000 for the building of a new public library in St. Louis. Mr. Carnegie asks that the city furnish an unincumbered site for the library, and that a maintenance fund of $150,000 per year be assured.

Easy Conditions Imposed
Clinton, Mass., March 16.—There is little doubt that Clinton will accept the offer of Andrew Carnegie of $25,000 for a public library. The donor's conditions are that the town appropriate annually $2500 to its support and provide a site.

Massachusetts' Gift Appreciated
Washington, March 16.—In answer to an inquiry from Representative Bull of Rhode Island, as to the testimonial to be given by his state to the battleship Rhode Island, Secretary Long has replied that he would not suggest a silver service as a gift. "Such a service," he says, "must necessarily be kept enclosed, and my idea of a proper memorial is something which everybody can see. The best one I know of is that given by the commonwealth of Massachusetts to the battleship Massachusetts—a bronze figure of Victory in front of the forward turret."

In the Boston and Maine System
New York, March 16.—Hornblower & Weeks, bankers and brokers of this city and Boston, announce that they have transferred control of the Boston and Maine railroad to the Central Massachusetts railroad, a company of which they are the sole owners. The price paid for the preferred and common shares has not been disclosed. It is known, however, that the change of control involves about $2,000,000 of preferred stock (par value), and about $700,000 of common.

The Commons' Long Sitting
London, March 16.—Under a threat from Mr. Balfour of a Saturday sitting, the house sat until 1:30 this morning and adopted the chief items of the army estimates, these amounts being urgently needed by the government before the close of the fiscal year.

IT MAKES WOMEN HAPPY.

"I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 1861 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician or purchasing medicine. My husband at last induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking one bottle and following your advice I was so encouraged that I took five more bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I continued taking it and felt that I was improving faster than at first. I am not now cross and irritable, and I have a good color in my face; and one thousand pounds of comfort for I am a new woman once more, and your advice and your 'Favorite Prescription' is the cause of it."

THE HARRISON FUNERAL

All the Arrangements Have Been Completed

EX-MEMBERS OF CABINET

Will Be Honorary Pallbearers—Room
Completely Filled With Floral Tributes—President McKinley Will Be Guest of Governor Durbin

Indianapolis, March 16.—An atmosphere of quiet pervaded the Harrison home yesterday. Arrangements for the funeral of the late ex-president progressed rapidly. There were numerous arrivals of relatives and friends. Mrs. Harrison saw all of the messages and letters of sympathy which arrived during the day, and was consulted and expressed her wishes in regard to the arrangements for the funeral.

The casket containing the remains of General Harrison was removed to the front parlor yesterday, where it lay until taken to the state house. The body of the ex-president is dressed in the customary black suit of Prince Albert cut. A plain black tie was used with gold buttons in the shirt front. The left hand lies across the breast, a plain gold band ring being on the second finger. The face of the dead general is composed and restful.

The casket was placed directly in front of the fireplace. The mantle above it was piled high with the floral offerings. Other floral designs were arranged about the room. After it had been placed in position, Mrs. Harrison went into the room alone and remained for some time, other members of the family and friends being admitted afterwards.

The hearse to be used on the day of the funeral has been draped in black and with American flags, and will be drawn by four black horses.

President McKinley will arrive in this city from Canton at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will be entertained at the home of Governor Durbin during his stay in the city. It is understood the presidential party will return to Canton Sunday evening.

Numerous other telegrams and messages of sympathy were received yesterday by Mrs. Harrison, and many friends called in person to offer condolences. Mrs. Harrison saw only one or two intimate friends.

All of the relatives who are expected to attend the funeral are now in the city, except Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. John F. Parker. They are on their way from California, and are expected to reach Indianapolis this afternoon or evening. Carter B. Harrison, the second brother, arrived from his home at Murfreesboro, Tenn., yesterday.

The number of floral tributes sent to the house yesterday was greatly increased. So many have arrived that a separate room was set aside for them and this has been completely filled.

The list of active and honorary pallbearers who will officiate at the funeral ceremonies of General Harrison was announced last night. Among the honorary pallbearers will be the members of General Harrison's cabinet, who will attend. The active pallbearers chosen are: A. L. Mason, James W. Riley, Evans Woodlen, Harry C. Bobbs, Harry S. N. Calk, John L. Griffiths, Newton E. Tarkenton, Hilton T. Brown and Samuel Reid.

The honorary pallbearers will be General Benjamin F. Tracy, ex-secretary of the navy; John W.anamaker, ex-postmaster general; William H. H. Miller, ex-attorney general; John W. Noble, ex-secretary of the interior; and Charles Foster, ex-secretary of the treasury; General Lew Wallace, Judson Harmon, attorney general during Cleveland's administration, and W. A. Woods of this city.

Admiral Brown, on behalf of the Loyalty Legion, sent a beautiful silk flag. The flag bears the emblem of the legion and will be placed over the casket. It will not be removed until just as the body is lowered into the grave. Numerous other offerings of respect have been received.

Circuit Court Raised the Fine

Port Wayne, Ind., March 16.—In the circuit court yesterday Judge O'Tourke reversed the decision of Justice Buttermann in the case of several baseball players, arrested last season for playing ball on Sunday. Justice Buttermann had fined the defendants 1 cent and costs. Judge O'Tourke fined them $5 and costs, amounting to $200, and so doing scored the decision of the lower court as a "disgrace to the laws and dignity of the state."

Platt's Plan Objectionable

Havana, March 16.—The committee on foreign relations held a private meeting yesterday afternoon and agreed unanimously that the Platt amendment in its present form could not be accepted and that a report to this effect will be submitted to the constitutional convention.

Victim of Student's Bullet

St. Petersburg, March 16.—There has been a renewal of demonstrations by students in St. Petersburg and in Moscow. In the latter city the students stoned and broke the windows of the palace of the governor general. Large forces of police and Cossacks are patrolling both cities in anticipation of a renewal of disturbances. A seditious proclamation is being circulated in the large towns of Russia.

RUN ON SAVINGS BANK

Caused by the Misinterpretation of a Remark to a Depositor

Natick, Mass., March 16.—As the result of a rumor that the Natick Five Cent Savings bank had failed, the doors of the institution were blockaded yesterday with anxious depositors, mostly from out of town, and during the day there was a continuous run on the bank, the amount of $32,551.80 being drawn out. The rumor of the bank's failure started from the visit of an old lady from Saxtonville to the bank Thursday afternoon, about 3:30, when she found the doors closed. She was told that the bank had closed its doors for business, and jumping at the conclusion that it had failed, she went home and caused great excitement in Saxtonville by telling her neighbors that such was the fact. From there the report rapidly spread to the other surrounding towns and the inward bound electric cars yesterday were crowded with depositors who came to draw their money.

Fortunately the bank, which is considered one of the strongest in New England, had on hand $50,000 in cash, and in addition was easily able to borrow $85,000 more from the national bank in the city, so that there was much more than enough to pay the demands of all depositors who wished to withdraw.

At a meeting of the trustees in the evening it was decided to post a sworn statement of the bank's standing, together with an assurance that it was in perfectly good condition, in the window of the bank. It is believed that when the facts become known the excitement will be allayed and that there will be no large withdrawals.

Boston, March 16.—The legislative committee on liquor laws held an executive session yesterday and took action on some of the matters which have been before them. The abettors' bill, the semi-colon bill and the bill to permit the sale of liquor on election days after the close of the polls were postponed to next week. It was voted to report leave to withdraw on the bill to prohibit a single license from covering more than one bar; providing that licenses may be paid quarterly, and on the bill to permit the sale of liquor on Labor day. The bill to prevent the sale of cider in no-license cities and towns will be recommended for reference to the next general court.

The bill to consolidate the metropolitan water and sewerage commissions, which has been the storm center of discussion and interest in the state senate, ever since it reached that body after its passage by the house, was finally passed to be engrossed by the upper branch.

Clever Swindler in Custody

Boston, March 16.—Perhaps the most adroit check forger and clever money swindler for alleged charitable institutions to be rounded up in recent years hereabouts, the police say they have in the capture of Louis V. R. Adams, who was taken from one of the best hotels in this city yesterday afternoon. The police say they have proof that he has operated in many cities, taking amounts ranging from $5 to $10,000. His plan was to get a small check and instead of raising it he would write another for $1000 or more. He would place it on deposit at some bank, and by aid of accomplices get the worthless paper cashed.

Has Recovered Power of Speech

Boston, March 16.—A Middleboro special to The Post says: "Edith Bartholomew, the girl who says she was frightened to the value of $10,000 by Charles J. Parmelee saying 'Go' to her, has found her tongue at last. Edith was stricken with cataplexy in the courtroom in New Haven on March 7. Since then she has been at the home of her cousin, Charles W. Soule, in this town. The pretty 18-year-old girl was not able to speak until yesterday, although having recovered all her other senses shortly after reaching Middleboro."

Held For Attempt to Murder

Montpelier, Vt., March 16.—Arthur Bernaco, charged with having shot Chief of Police Brown at Barre, was pronounced guilty yesterday of being armed with a dangerous weapon and of assault with intent to murder. The extreme penalty for the act of which Bernaco has been found guilty is life imprisonment. Sentence in his case will be pronounced later.

Result of Punow Inquest

Skowhegan, Me., March 16.—The coroner's jury which has for several days been investigating the sudden death of Rosie Punow brought in a verdict stating that the girl came to her death as the result of an abortion performed by a person or persons unknown to the jury. It is not known as yet whether the girl's friends will take further action in the matter.

Brosius Stricken With Apoplexy

Launceston, Pa., March 16.—Congressman Brosius last evening had a stroke of apoplexy which will probably result in his death. Two days ago Brosius struck his head against a rafter at his home. The accident was not at first regarded as serious.

A Newspaper Man's Plum

New Orleans, March 16.—Lauber C. Quintero, a member of the local bar, and attache of The Picayune staff, has been appointed to the supreme bench of the Philippines, at a salary of $7000.

Seventy-One Buildings Burned

Cloverport, Ky., March 16.—Seventy-one buildings were destroyed in the fire Thursday. Complete estimate of the loss brings the total up to $400,000.

Good Afternoon.

A bill was reported in the Senate yesterday authorizing the State Board of Health to supervise the plumbing business. Perhaps the board will take a hand in the Quincy muddle.

The common council of Salem has voted to sustain the veto of Mayor Hurley, reducing the annual appropriations. The councilmen are in favor of giving the mayor a chance to carry out his ideas. This is proper.

It is said that the Committee on Harbors and Land of the Legislature are favorably impressed with the Taunton river canal scheme. So much so that they will probably report reference to the next Legislature.

Much has been said about newspaper enterprise, but when a daily newspaper is burned out after 1 P. M. and yet is able to reach its customers as usual at sunrise next day, as did the Boston Advertiser this morning, it is doing phenomenal work. The Globe also is entitled to great credit for the mechanical work and for the fraternal spirit exhibited.

While we sympathize with the School Committee relative to recent cut down of their annual estimates, we take exception to the claim that there is a general feeling of uneasiness among the teachers. The number of changes in 1900 was probably no larger than the average, and not more than one would naturally expect where 140 are employed. A few of the resignations are for advances in salary, but quite as many are for other reasons. Although there are 265 days in the year, the Quincy teachers do not keep school 265 half days, as the annual report of school attendance shows. A principal who receives $1,400 per year receives therefore over $1.50 per hour for every hour the schools are in session, and some of them $3 per night extra or evening schools.

Many have heard the story of the farmer who attempted to count a large number of pigs in a pen. After several attempts, he gave it up with the remark that he could count all but one, but he ran about so fast that he could not count him. Now, we did not notice any pigs at the Men's banquet of Thursday evening, but there were a large number of people present, and some of the gentlemen were omnipresent, but there was one in particular who of all others should have been enrolled, and he was Mr. George F. Spooner, the leading spirit of the occasion. He was neither a guest or a waiter so that the Ledger representative overlooked him, but at the same time he is indebted to him for courtesies extended, and desires to congratulate him on the success of the banquet.

Drift of Opinion.

The Fall River Globe joins in endorsing the proposition for a constitutional amendment limiting the debt of cities to the present statute figures of 2 1/2 per cent. of the average valuation of the city for three years previous to the computation. It seems rather peculiar to admit that the legislatures can't be trusted to enforce the provisions of the statutes and that they are so weakened that they kneel at every request which is made to override the law, but if such is the fact, and it appears to be, the people will put a seal on that law which cannot be broken.—Haverhill Gazette.

When a municipality indulges a propensity for spending money faster than it should, the day of reckoning may be stayed off for a while, but the time will eventually come when the obligations must be faced and met. Owing to the mutations of City Council there is much greater temptation to overstep the bounds of prudent expenditure than would be the case if those who voted the funds had the obligations to meet later on, a position which a member rarely if ever finds himself, however. There the tendency is toward a spirit of prodigality, spurred on by the prodding of some of the personally interesting in this or that project, through lack of a due feeling of responsibility and more or less disregard for the encumbrances which mortgage the future.—Lynn Item.

Is the old ship of state going on the rocks? Are there dangers ahead? Are questions that the people of little faith are asking every day. They think that the republic is drifting toward a despotism. They see dreadful visions of military rule. It is evident that they are alarmed by the spirit of harmony that prevails between the legislative and executive branches of the government. Possibly they would be more comfortable if McKinley were carrying on a constant quarrel with the other branches of authority. Of course the appropriations made by congress are large and the army has been increased in its permanent form. But how could the country get along on less expenditure and with a smaller army? Are not the people of the several states as free as formerly? Do they not make their own laws and execute them? Is not self-government carried to the limit, giving the temptation to convert liberty into license?—Des Moines Capital.

Now, as a matter of fact, we don't believe golf on Sunday would create any disturbance or fracture the holy day especially. Still, here's a point—the people who play golf are as a rule prosperous people of more or less leisure. They can and do find time to play during the week. Now there are a lot of people who like base ball, polo, fishing, lawn tennis, and some other sports. They are eager to play those games on Sunday, which is practically the only day they have. But the law says they may not play any game or go hunting or fishing on the Lord's day. Why, then, should anybody be allowed to play another game—golf—on Sunday particularly in view of the fact that the golf players can find other days in which to enjoy their sport? What logical or fair reasons is there for drawing distinctions in law between the club man who plays golf and the ordinary every day citizen who plays base ball or uses the rod and line?—Brockton Enterprise.

All who believe in obeying the fourth commandment or in preserving Sunday as a day of rest, are decidedly opposed to the bill now pending in the legislature introduced by Representative Gale of Natick to rescind that portion of section 1, chapter 434 of the acts of 1895, entitled "An Act to Regulate the Observance of the Lord's day." His intent was to repeal that portion of the act which prohibited sports and recreations and to allow these when they did not interfere with with private rights or public peace or worship. How long would it be, if such legislation were enacted, before work people would be inordinately deprived of the seventh day release in the work they now have? Aside from moral and ethical principals involved, all who labor and are heavily laden should view with grave suspicion all efforts to reduce to the level of a workday the only respite so many of them now have—the Sabbath. Keep it unscathed from the touch of commercialism or industry and as the one day when all can rise even a little higher into the truer, nobler life that alone endures.—Milford Journal.

For instance a Modern House of six rooms, with all improvements for $2100. Think twice about this $2100, for everything including sewer; on a good street, and handy to everything.

Others are being built at all times. I will meet parties who wish to talk about them at the rooms of the Master Builders' and Traders' Association, Savings Bank Building, from 11 to 12 daily, or telephone to Quincy, 83-2.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

Supt. Parlin Would Make Many Changes in Our Schools.

Continuing the review of the School department of the city for 1900, soon to be issued we find the following queries and suggestions in the first annual report of Supt. Parlin:

"The requisites of a good teacher are character, natural aptitude to the profession, a good, broad, general education and professional training. Local candidates should be measured as others are, by their merits. To appoint a local candidate whose qualifications would not be acceptable in non-resident is indefensible. Other things being equal the local candidate may properly receive the preference but the other things must be equal when measured by the same standards. So long as local candidates are chosen or retained solely on their merits there is little danger, but if their appointment is dictated by such motives as charity, friendship, family or political influence, it is a menace to the schools and an abuse of the appointive power."

"The welfare of the child being the chief consideration, is it not a mistake to send them to school at the age of five years?"

As long as children are admitted at the age of five, is it not a mistake to keep them in school as many hours a day as older pupils?

Are not two hours a day enough for children of five or six years?

Is it not a mistake to admit pupils to the first grade twice a year, April and September. Would it not be better to admit them but once a year in September?

Is it not a common mistake to require much home study?

Five hours a day of faithful work is enough in any grade below the high school. The theory of home study does not usually work as expected. Too often instead of spurring the slow and lazy on to the effort necessary to keep up with their class, it needlessly stimulates the quick and conscientious, while it overworks and worries the weak and nervous.

Courses of study are made for the service of the children, not the children for the courses of study.

Is it not another mistake found in the usual primary number work.

Are we not in conflict with nature in teaching penmanship and requiring so much writing in the low grades?"

TODAY'S COURT.

Dr. Donald of Trinity church and his assistant read the Episcopal service. Music was rendered by the Trinity quartette. The floral offerings were many in number and of great beauty. Among them was noticed a white basket of marguerites and lilies of the valley, a token of the sympathy of the boys of the singing class for their leader. The body of the little one was placed in a receiving tomb at Mt. Wollaston.

Bowling.

The North Quincy bowling team will have more courage now. Last night they entertained the Norfolk club of South Weymouth, and while the visitors won two games out of three, the home team had the largest grand total.

The first game went to the Norfolks by 46 pins, both teams putting up good scores. Both weakened relatively on the second as the Norfolks won by 47 pins. The visitors dropped below 700 on the third while the North Quincys surpassed themselves with a total of 780, leading their rivals 110 on the string and making the grand total 2,218 to 2,201 for the Norfolks.

F. J. Fuller Writes Interestingly from There.

Antioquia, S. A., Nov. 9, 1900.

I wrote you from Barranquilla at the time I left there and if the letter went along you should have it by this time. As I have not reached the gold mines yet the only thing I can write about is the account of the journey here.

October 29th. We left Barranquilla last night on a gun boat bound up the river. Our party were the only passengers. We got the privilege of going on this boat through the courtesy of Signor Ospearia, the commander-in-chief of the army of Columbia. I said our party were the only passengers which is true; but the boat was crowded with sick soldiers and officers going into the interior of the country with a large amount of ammunition and supplies for the army.

On going aboard the boat we found a sorry looking sight. The boat was perforated through and through with bullet holes. Every mirror and every window was smashed by bullets. The state-room we had was perforated by more than a dozen bullet holes. Between the deck and stateroom it was lined up with railroad rails and iron plates. There were two rapid fire cannons which were kept ready for instant use; soldiers were everywhere on the boat and all these things made it look slightly warlike.

We got as far as Calamar and hauled up for the night. Calamar is a very old city. It is said that it once had a population of 250,000 people, but it has now but a few thousands; living in the most wretched looking huts and ruins.

Nov. 1st. This has been another day of monotony. We have made only about fifteen miles today and are now tied up at a town called Bodega Central. There are about fifty mud houses here. Some of us went on shore and got some coconuts. We gave a boy a dollar to climb a tree and get them. A dollar in this country is only one-seventeenth of a dollar of our money. Coconuts as they are taken from the tree are not ripe like those you get. They are filled with a liquid, clear like water and very nice and refreshing. Those we got contained about a quart.

Nov. 2d. The steamboat got underway at five o'clock this morning and after an hour's sail stopped and tied up to some trees where the crew were sent ashore armed with rifles and ropes to catch some cattle. There were plenty in sight when they went but instead of trying to surround them they went directly toward them and they ran away. After waiting two long hours they returned with only one pig and the boat started on again, only stopping to take on wood.

Three very sad things occurred today but no notice of it is taken by the officers of the boat. Early this morning a man fell overboard. The alarm was given and the boat stopped but the current is so swift in this river that he was carried a long way back before the boat got to him. As it happened the man could swim and he managed to get to shore, and was picked up. About noon another man fell overboard and although the boat stopped and went back as quick as possible the man sank out of sight before they could get him. Again at about five o'clock another man fell overboard and was drowned before he could be reached.

Just before night the boat stopped and the crew went on shore again after beef with better success as they brought in four nice looking cattle which will probably be enough to last us through.

Nov. 3d. A terrific thunder storm prevailed all last night but the boat started at five o'clock this morning and as we have lots of woods and beef we are hoping that we can run all day without stopping. Alligators by the dozen are seen lying along the banks. The officers try their rifles at every chance they have for a shot. If the bullet hits near them they roll off into the water with a splash. They are horrid monsters. Some are fifteen feet long. We are again tied up for the night.

Nov. 4th. Another terrific thunder storm all night. We started at about four o'clock this morning. The weather is cool and lovely. While we stopped to take on wood I went ashore and bought a dozen of eggs for which I paid the woman a dollar; less than six cents of our money. Taking them on board I got the cook to boil them and as we had tea and crackers we had a good breakfast outside the fare we get on the boat.

I will skip over my notes from Nov. 4th to Nov. 6, when we arrived at Porto Berrio, which is where we leave the steamboat. It is also the terminus of the railroad from here to Carriacolle about fifty miles. We arrived here at three o'clock A. M. The morning was very dark and we concluded to stay in the depot, or bodega, as it is called here. It is a long shed in which thousands of tons of coffee are stored in bags of 200 pounds each. We climbed upon them and after selecting as favorable a place as we could, lay down to sleep. In the morning we found that the only hotel in the place was used as a hospital for sick soldiers and no other place could be had where we could sleep, but through the kindness of the railroad people we got the privilege of sleeping in the depot. We had provided ourselves with canvas for stretchers, or cots, and we constructed rude frames so that with the bedding we had, made ourselves quite comfortable.

To our supreme disgust we found that we were to be delayed here indefinitely. There were two landslides about half way out and the only two engines that the company owned were on the other side of the obstruction. As the removal of these landslides might occupy weeks the railroad company undertook to repair an old broken down engine. So we wait here day after day watching the process of repairing, etc. We take our meals at a private house where we get enough to eat, fairly well cooked, but what we call coarse fare. We have chicken, eggs, corn cake, fried plantain and potatoes, coffee or cocoa.

Nov. 9th. Waiting here day after day is trying to the patience and any change is desirable and this morning came the word from the manager of the railroad that the repairs on the engine will be completed today and that we could go on to Carriacolle if we wished.

The unanimous decision was that we could not find a worse place and decided to go, taking only our personal baggage, leaving our machinery to come when the railroad was in condition.

At five o'clock P. M., we took the train consisting of one passenger car with about a dozen passengers, and our trunks, etc. We made the start after a great lot of whistle blowing; and although we got through without harm, I must say that I never knew what it was to have my hair stand up with fear before. In the first place the road bed is very poor and the track is in very poor condition. I do not think there is more than five rods of straight track in any place. The grade is very steep; a canyon on one side and a mountain on the other; and when we went down grade they ran very fast.

When we reached the first land slide all our baggage was carried across and packed on a hand car and we got on and started, pushed along by five men to each car. When it was up hill it was all they could do to push it, and down hill they would jump on and ride.

This down hill ride was something frightful. One man held the brake which was a stick stuck through a hole in the car so that he could press against the wheel. He would let the car go at a frightful speed around the sharp curves, we being piled on top of our trunks had nothing to hold on to except each other and were in great danger of being thrown off.

We travelled in this way for two hours when we came to the other landslide, where our trunks were again carried over and put upon a flat car which was pushed along by an engine that had to stop at every hill and get up steam enough to go up. This continued for ten miles or so when we came to another obstruction where all were carried over again and put on another train of hand cars and this time we got through to Carriacolle in safety.

On arriving at Carriacolle we secured quarters at the only hotel in the place, and after having our rooms assigned we got our trunks, etc. And by the way there is only one room in the hotel and each man's room consisted of ground enough to put his bed upon. All the floor is the ground here. A board floor is a luxury that is not indulged in. We have good living here and all are in the best of health.

The family consists of several human beings: a cow and calf, several pigs, hens and a dog, who are all at home in any part of the house. If a pig gets too familiar some one of us will give him several kicks and send him out.

This town is full of soldiers at present. There is a large quantity of ammunition stored here awaiting transportation to Medellin, all of which has to be carried on pack mules over the mountains. The government has taken seven hundred mules to do this work and as soon as they can be got together it will be started. Large pack trains laden with coffee arrive here every day and the mules are held for this ammunition.

Nov. 14th. We have been waiting for our goods to arrive. The word has been every day that they would be here tomorrow. Last night the train got through but our goods did not come. Two cars of ammunition were brought and tonight there is great excitement among the soldiers.

Nov. 15. All were on duty fearing a raid by the enemy on the ammunition. Pickets were placed on every trail and all night word was passed along the line by the pickets crying out, "all's well" in Spanish. This could be heard every minute. I did not sleep much as the general's headquarters is opposite and within ten feet of my bed. This morning all is safe and the mules are being brought up and packed and started on the trail to Medellin with a guard of soldiers. After all were gone it seemed very quiet.

This would be a beautiful town if it were anywhere but in South America. It is surrounded by high mountains. The brooks and stream are as clear as crystal and the air is pure. If the same sanitary conditions existed in any town in New England every child would die with some contagious disease; yet there is no sickness here, and the place does not have even a doctor.

I shall have to skip over my notes and go on to our journey to San Domingo, but one more word about this place. Every morning I go out about a fourth of a mile to the bathing hole, as we call it, where the creek has worn a hole about three feet deep and the water is as clear as crystal, just cool enough to be pleasant and take a plunge. This is a most invigorating and healthful bath.

Nov. 8. This is a day that we have long sought as we are all anxious to be on the move. Our goods arrived last night and we have arranged them for packing in the night, and as we have had mules engaged for some days we have our trunks packed on them and take our leave of Carriacolle at 7.30 A. M. for San Domingo. Our first two or three miles is up the steepest and roughest mountain trail that can be imagined. It seems impossible that any animal could carry two hundred and fifty pound over this trail. Yet it has been used for hundreds of years and our mules do not seem to mind it. At first the ride seemed so hazardous that I got off and walked or climbed down the steep places. After a while I came to the conclusion that I was as safe as the others.

The trail winds around and over the mountains that I can liken only to saw's teeth, they run up to a sharp point and are as steep as the teeth of a saw, with the teeth upwards. The trail goes round the sides where our mules must travel within a foot of the outer edge where we should get a direct fall of thousands of feet if we went over. No rolling down hill here. Sometimes we are on the top of the mountain where nothing but mountains are in view, but always higher than where we are.

After three days of this journeying we reach San Domingo, one of the old cities of South America. It is 5,822 feet above the sea. The houses are built after the old Spanish fashion, one and two stories with roof covered with tile. The walls are of clay, or brick, an covered with whitewash so that all are white. The dwellings are built around an open court so that the living rooms are around this court. In many of the courts are plants and flowers of all kinds. The front door is the entrance to the house. They ride into it and through this court, back of which the animals are kept. The streets are paved after a fashion; and, as there are no carriages of any kind, the streets are narrow. The city is on a very high hill and the streets are very steep. Carriages would be of no use on such steep streets for it is enough for men or animals to climb without a carriage.

The hotel where we are stopping is down the valley. When we arrived we rode directly into the front door and into an open court, where our beasts were taken to their places on one side and our rooms were on the other. They have a cow and calf, pigs, hens and pigeons; and we all are now well acquainted and a happy family. They keep the cow and calf out to pasture day times but they sleep here with us at night.

The people here are very kind although they do not understand us very well. They try to teach us their language and when some of us in trying to speak the words they give us but we cannot get the right accent it makes them laugh at our mistakes and we laugh at them in trying to speak our language.

To illustrate the kindness of the landlady, I retired quite early last night while the others stayed up for an hour or two, she, thinking I was not feeling well, brought me a bowl of nice tea and some cake. I drank the tea so that she would not feel slighted although I did not want it. I occupy the best room in the house. It has a board floor and is comfortable. The other rooms are on the ground or have a dirt floor.

The climate is the most delightful. The thermometer stands at 66 degrees during the night and rises to 69 in the day time. I sleep very comfortably under two blankets. I go up to the piazza about half a mile, two or three times a day, simply for exercise; and at other times I go out to a creek close by and watch a man who is washing out gold. He gets some shining specks at every pan full of dirt. He tries to talk with me but always contrives to say something that I cannot understand. Yesterday I asked him how much he got during the day and he showed it to me and held up four fingers to indicate that it was worth four dollars. Today I went to see him and he said "mocho" meaning not much or no good. This creek is a branch of the Nus river where there are some very rich mines. This state of Antioquia is full of gold mines and if men would work they could have plenty but they are too lazy to do anything.

As I write here this 25th day of November I am reminded that it is Thanksgiving day at home and I suppose at this hour, two o'clock, you have had your turkey and are trying to settle your dinner while I am scribbling away to take up time hoping to get out of here and on to the mines where we are going, where we shall have something to do. I do not expect to send this letter for a long time, not until after we get to the mines. I then may have a chance, but it is all uncertain. We have been trying to find out who is president but that is not known here. I have not seen a newspaper in either Spanish or English since I left New York. I have heard that there is a paper published at Panama but it never gets here.

People in this country live within their own resources. I do not think that even a sheet of wrapping paper could be found in this city. Everything is done up in leaves or corn husks. Butter comes done up in a large cabbage leaf. Sugar comes in balls of two pounds each done up in the leaves of the cane, and everything else in the same way.

Market day here is Sunday. People from the country come to the piazza with products. I embraced the opportunity last Sunday of seeing their manner of selling. Where anything was to be weighed like meat, etc., the man or woman had a stick with a handle in the centre like scales and a stone is put in a tray on one side and the article to be weighed in one on the other side; and they have different sizes of stones for the weight. This is the only arrangement for weighing there is on the ground.

Everything is cheap. One dollar of our money will buy twelve and a half dollars of their money, and ten cents of that will buy a dozen large and sweet oranges or bananas, twenty cents a pound for butter, or a dozen eggs; and fifty cents a good-sized chicken which is less than six cents of our money.

Clothing is much cheaper here than in Boston. A man called my attention to his suit of clothes which was tailor made and cost him sixty-eight dollars in their money, less than six dollars of our money. Horses and mules are all that are sold as high as in the States. A good one is worth one hundred dollars in gold.

Dec. 10. I hope to be able to send this to you in a few days as it is said that there will be a mail to the coast this week. Mails are a thing not to be depended on in this country. I hope you are all well.

Victor Metal Company.

There is in East Braintree an industry which is growing rapidly and is becoming known, through the press, the world over. It is the Victor Metal and Foundry Company's plant, located on Mill lane.

As the writer was near the plant Monday he happened in and there witnessed the casting of the metal for the balance rudder to the Independence. Mr. Lawton's cup defender. The main rudder was cast about two weeks ago, but that was only about one-half the size of this one, which weighs about 2,500 pounds.

Victor C. Lassen, the manager, William Clough and Joel F. Sheppard stockholders of the company were there, and the moulten metal was run in successfully. This casting was specially prepared and will stand a tension of 72,000 pounds to the square inch. It is the toughest metal known.

While this moulten metal is being taken from the furnaces and run into the mould, doors and most all the windows had to be kept closed to keep the metal boiling hot. There is a powerful gas which comes from the metal and together with the smoke (which was so dense a man could hardly be seen ten feet away) it sickened the workmen so they were unable to work the next day.

During the period of casting which took about an hour the men could not keep from coughing and choking and were forced to go out into pure air at intervals.

Let us hope that the Independence will be allowed to enter the cup race and win.

A Walk in the Woods.

The following was the best composition written in the Jonas Perkins school of East Braintree, for the recent J. P. S. A. banner contest.

One clear day last autumn, my cousin came up to spend the day. We were thinking about what we should do. That is always very puzzling, especially when you have company. Don't you think so?

"Suppose we go and take a walk," my cousin said.

"That's just the thing," said I. Where shall we go? was the next question.

We finally decided we would go to the woods. We put on our coats and hats, and soon reached the woods.

It was a beautiful day for such a walk. The ground was hard and it was easy walking.

The trees had on their cherry red and yellow dresses, and looked very pretty. The bushes and vines had changed their summer coats of green, for some of orange. Even the grass had changed its dress.

I think they must have bought their new things to please Jack Frost. They know he likes bright things.

I feel almost sure he kissed them in return, they were blushing so.

I broke off some sprays of red leaves to take home to mamma.

She is very fond of them and likes to put them around in different parts of the house.

All of a sudden I saw a little gray squirrel run up a tree. We waited, and pretty soon he came down with his cheeks filled with nuts.

We marked the place, so we could remember where to get nuts when it was time.

Then we saw it was getting damp, and that we had better turn our steps homeward.

We both agreed we had a delightful afternoon, and went home with h hearts.

WILL LEAVE IN APRIL

American Troops Ordered to Evacuate China

A SMALL LEGATION GUARD

Will Be Left Behind to Perform Duty at Peking—Chinese Situation Cleared Up as Far as the War Department Is Concerned

Washington, March 16.—The war department has ordered the evacuation of China by American troops, leaving only a legation guard of 150 men. The troops will be removed from China the last of April. The dispatch to General Chaffee is dated March 15, and is as follows:

"In reply to your telegram, the secretary of war directs you to complete arrangements to sail for Manila with your command and staff officers by the end of April, leaving as a legation guard an infantry company, composed of 150 men, having at least one year to serve, or those intending to re-enlist, with a full complement of officers, medical officer, sufficient hospital corps men and, if you think best, a field officer especially qualified to command the guard. He is to instruct an officer of the quartermaster's department to proceed to erect the necessary buildings for the guard, according to plan and estimates you approve.

"Colonel Charles F. Humphreys, on arrival, will make an inspection of the quartermaster's department in the Philippine islands until July 1, when he will be assigned to duty as chief quartermaster at Manila, and Miller ordered to the United States. All stores and supplies not required for the legation guard are to be disposed of in your best judgment. Serviceable supplies needed in the Philippine islands will be sent to the Manila division of the Philippines. Will furnish supplies for legation guard. MacArthur not informed.

It was said at the war department that this clears up the Chinese situation as far as the war department is concerned, as the protection of the legation can in no sense be taken as occupation of Chinese territory, and the guard cannot be used for any other purpose.

The transports Sumner and Indiana will be sent to Taku to take the troops in China to Manila. Those troops consist of the Ninth infantry, four troops of the Sixth cavalry and the light battery, formerly commanded by Captain Reilly. Two transports will bring away the 1100 animals which have been used by the army in China.

General Chaffee has advised the department that the best place of embarkation is Taku, which no doubt will be clear of ice on the day fixed for departure.

ON DISPUTED GROUND

Conflict Threatened Between Troops of King Edward and the Czar

London, March 16.—A dispatch received here from Tientsin by Reuters Telegram company says: The Russians are now encamping at the disputed territory. A company of the Hong Kong regiment, with fixed bayonets, is in front, while two companies of the Madras pioneers, under command of Major Johnson, are held in reserve. Both the Russians and the British are awaiting instructions from their governments.

When German Troops Will Leave

Berlin, March 16.—In reply to a question as to how long the German troops would remain in the province of Shensi, Count von Bismarck said yesterday: "That will depend upon China's fulfillment of the peace conditions which she has accepted. But no longer will promises of even the most charming notes from Li Hung Chang be of any avail. So soon as we receive serious guarantees for the payment of the indemnities we shall immediately withdraw our troops. Until then Count von Waldersee will fill his post as at present."

Excesses by German Soldiers

Peking, March 16.—It was reported at the United States legation yesterday by Rev. W. S. Ament of the American Board of Foreign Missions that the Germans had visited the prosperous market town of Nan-Ming, 60 miles from Peking, and completely looted it, and that they had also ransacked and desecrated a native Christian chapel and despoiled women of their trinkets, even taking rings out of their ears and generally ill-treating the natives.

Sheathing of Warships Abandoned

Washington, March 16.—Secretary Long yesterday signed papers doing away with sheathing of a large number of warships. Sheathing in the American navy is an experimental stage, and the application of it to ships abroad has developed defects that have resulted in its abandonment by at least one country whose naval expansion is parallel to our own.

Remembered by the President

Canton, O., March 16.—Judge George E. Baldwin of this city, a life-long friend of the president, and his supporter and advocate in all of his campaigns, has received word that the president intends to appoint him consul at Nuremberg, Bavaria, to succeed Dr. Welber, the appointment to take effect June 1. The salary of the consul is $3500 a year and fees.

Prayer and Oil of No Avail

New Haven, March 16.—Andrew C. Whitney, a preacher of a sect known as the "Household of Faith," died yesterday of consumption, after four years' illness, during which he refused all medical attendance. Whitney was treated by the laying on of hands, anointing with oil and prayer.

EXCEPT IN TEXTILES

The General Business World Is In a Remarkably Flourishing Condition New York, March 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Improving wheat crop reports, a pig iron production seldom exceeded, strong cash prices for all iron and steel products that can be delivered, heavy grain exports at good prices, activity in minor industries, and a money market that imposes no hardship upon business, comprise the bright side of the picture of the week. Threatening labor troubles seem more remote. The textile markets, more backward, have again failed to respond to the general confidence in commercial circles. A slight recovery in cotton was not held, and the goods market shows a decline. That the country is doing a heavy business appears from railroad earnings for the first week in March.

Boot and shoe shops are well occupied, eastern factories having their full capacity engaged in some cases up to Sept. 1, and even the less fortunate makers have contracts for some months. While the local jobbing trade is comparatively quiet, Easter buying is expected to begin shortly. Leather is active and well sustained.

Slight improvements in special lines of textiles are occasionally noticed, but prices are maintained with difficulty. Print cloths were reduced another eighth, without accelerating operations, and Fall River mills are preparing to curtail production.

Aside from a little better re-order business in lightweights, reports are not of an encouraging nature from the woolen mills. Further declines are reported in wool, making a material fall since the month opened.

Interesting to Motor Cyclists

Worcester, Mass., March 16.—In the superior court here yesterday the case of Corey vs. Havener and Adams was decided. The plaintiff, while driving toward Worcester, met the two defendants, who were riding on motor cycles. Corey's horse was frightened and ran away. Corey was thrown out and severely injured. He sued the cyclists for damages, and got an award of $1400 from the two men.

No Deroudele-Butt Duel

Lausanne, March 16.—The duel which had been arranged to take place between M. Deroudele and M. Buffet yesterday, has been abandoned in consequence of the authorities having issued a decree expelling both the would-be combatants from Switzerland. The seconds thereupon decided that as the origin of the quarrel was political, the honor of the principals was not concerned.

Malays Will Resist Isolation

Cape Town, March 16.—Eleven fresh cases of bubonic plague, including one European, were officially reported yesterday. In consequence of the removal of the kadis to a reservation outside the city, the Malays held a mass meeting yesterday and resolved to resist eviction by force if necessary. Several thousand are now here.

High Estimate of American Troops

London, March 16.—During the debate on the army estimates in the house of commons yesterday, Lieutenant Colonel Lee, who was British military attaché with the United States army during the Spanish-American war, said the American recruits, in physique and intelligence, were superior to any other troops in the world.

Gotham's War on Pool Rooms

New York, March 16.—An alleged pool room, occupying an entire floor of the building on Bond street, was raided last night by the police, under the direction of representatives of the committee of 15. Seven arrests were made. Justice Jerome accompanied the raiders to the building, and held the prisoners in $1500 bail each.

Smallpox Breaks Out Afresh

Pawtucket, R. I., March 16.—Even after the most vigorous precautions on the part of the board of health to stamp out smallpox from this city, two new cases have been found, both of which have for a week past intermingled with a large number of people, rendering possible a breaking out anew of the disease here.

Italian Statesman Sick

Rome, March 16.—Francesco Crispi, during an audience with Dowager Queen Margherita yesterday, was attacked by a sudden illness and fell to the floor, injuring his head. He received immediate medical attention, and was able to return to his hotel.

Mayflower on a Sand Bar

San Juan, P. R., March 16.—A dispatch from Pajaro announces that the United States special service vessel Mayflower, with Governor Allen on board, is aground on a sand bar. The government tug Uncas has gone to her assistance.

A Serious State of Affairs

St. Petersburg, March 16.—M. Bogoloff, minister of public instruction, who, while holding a reception on Jan. 27, was shot by Peter Karpovich, formerly a student at the University of Moscow, died yesterday of his wound.

Boar Generals to Meet

London, March 16.—According to a dispatch to The Times, dated March 15, from Knaalspruit, it is reported there that Generals Botha, Delarey and De Wet will meet March 18, to discuss the situation.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Porto Rican executive council has called upon the various emigration companies to file information showing the number and nationalities of immigrants.

Oliver Hammond, a capitalist, dropped dead suddenly in the Rookery building, Chicago. Mr. Hammond was largely interested in the Chicago grain and New York stock markets.

HANS' LATEST DEAL.

THIS TIME HE TAKES IN A BUSINESS PARTNER.

To Put It More Correctly, However, It Should Be Said That the Partner Takes Him In, as the Cobbler Soon Finds Out.

[Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.] I vhas sitting by der stove one day and waiting for some shobs to come in when a man come along and says: "Vhell, cobbler, I see how she vhas mit you. You don't haf some peesness because you vhas no peesness man. Maype it vhas all right for Sherman, but then you vhas in America you must do deefereet. If you vhas some cobbler mit springs under your heels, you vhas overrun mit work."

"A PARTNERSHIP VHELL GIV HIM TO YOU."

"How would you do?" I says.

"I would do one thousand things, but first I would take a partner. Your name vhas Hans Kleinfeldt. Dot vhas a good name, but nobody cares about it. You may be Hans Kleinfeldt forty times oaf, and what vhas dot to der pooble? Notings at all. My name vhas Walkover—J. J. Walkover. If a sign of Walkover & Kleinfeldt vhas put oop oaf der shob, don't you see der deefereet? It vhas no longer one Dutchman in peesness for himself, but a reliable firm dot shall pay cash down and do some hustling."

"I don't see how it vhas," I says.

"It vhas shust dis way," says he.

"We shall be partners. I vhas in coal and real estate and insurance, and eaferybody knows me. I go in peesness mit you. I send all my customers to dis shob. All der leather men knows me, and I haf pulls mit firemen and police. Why, man alive, it shall be der making of you. In four weeks you can put oilcloth on der floor and a parrot in der window, and in three months it takes two banks to hold our money. I send in der orders, and you do der cobblering. I keep der books and handle der cash, and you make repairs. Once in two weeks we divide der profits."

"I don't know if dot pleases me, but I talk mit my wife, and she says it vhas peesness. I goes by dot liddle tailor and speaks to him about it, and he smiles and says:

"Hans, that you need is experience, and a partnership vwill gif him to you."

Dot settles me. I go into partnership mit Mr. Walkover, and next day he paints our sign and hangs it oop. I belief dot if he vhas my partner he ought to pay me for half der stock on hand, but he says I don't know peesness from broomsticks. Instead of his paying me any money, I haf to lend him five dollar to begin to hustle on. We open shob on Monday morning, and poety queek a man comes in and says:

"So my frendt Walkover vhas a partner mit you, eh? Dot vhas fine. You shall haf my custom. Fix oop dot shoe heel and put on a cement patch." I fix oop his shoes all right for sixty cent, but he don't pay. When he vhas ready to go, he cobbler:

"All right, cobbler. I vhas going right down town, and so I step in und pay Walkover. He vhas an old frendt of mine."

Two more men do dot same thing before night, and when my partner comes around und I ask him how she vhas he says:

"Oh, dot vhas all K. O. I vhas der bookkeeper and cashier, you know, und so I handle all der money. Shust go right away und make peesness hum, und I vwill see der finances."

Der next day und der next feller come in und get some repairs und don't pay me. I must haf some more leather for stock, und I speaks to Mr. Walkover.

"Of course—of course," he says. "Shust go by der dealer und order what you want."

"But I haf no money," I says.

"Dot vhas no deefereet. We vhas a firm. We vhas cash in ten days. Dot vhas der rule, und you go right along. We meet all our bills in ten days und get some discounts."

Der dealer dot like it when I buys some sole leather, but he lets me haf it for ten days. When dot first Saturday night comes, I like to draw five dollar from der partnership, but Mr. Walkover says:

"Not dot week, Hans. Our money vhas in der bank, und I lose my check-book. You go by der grocer und butcher und tell 'em it vhas ten days' credit. By der vhay, lend me $2 in cash to buy some daybooks und ledgers for us."

I haf to do dot, und I can't make her out. Der next week more ash footten feller come in for repairs und don't pay, und if I take in twenty cents dot Mr. Walkover comes around und gets it. He says peesness vhas rushing, und so I let it go, but in two weeks I vhas like a dead man. On der second Saturday morning my partner comes around und borrows a dollar of my wife to buy a cashbook, und at night

he comes back mit a long face und says:

"Hans, in two weeks we take in $18. As your partner I vhas to draw $10 per week. You vhas to draw der same, but ash we don't haf enough to pay me how can you get some?"

"Do I work two weeks for nottings?" I says.

"You do. You see how it vhas. We haf assets, but we can't realize on 'em. We owe debts und cannot pay. When it vhas so, we haf to fail. Dot firm of Walkover & Kleinfeldt vhas no longer in peesness. We vhas faillures und shall take down der sign."

"But how vhas my wages?" I says.

"You vhas a partner und don't haf some wages coming to you."

"But I lends you some money—$7."

"Yes, but dot goes in mit our assets dot we can't realize on. It vhas all right, Hans—all right. Owing to der stringency of der money market, coupled mit der fact of a falling leather market, der firm of Walkover & Kleinfeldt goes by der wall und vhas wiped out. Good night, Hans, und if you like to be a notorman maype I can get you a shob."

Vhell, I almost hang myself, und my wife faints avhay. I goes by dot liddle tailor to ask him how it vhas, und he laughs in my face und says:

"So der firm of Walkover & Kleinfeldt vhas faillures, eh? Vhell, Hans, dot vhas all right. You haf der experience, und Walkover haf der cash, und maype you don't haf to sandpaper your head some more?" M. QUAD.

A Life Saved.

"There is sometimes a bit of humor connected with our business," said the pawnbroker as he smiled for the first time in a week. "For instance, one evening about two months ago a man came dashing in here and threw down a small package and hoarsely exclaimed:

"I'm driven to it at last. My wife is dying for want of food and medicine."

"I opened der parcel und found five rhinestones reposing therein, and as I looked up der man continued:

"Quick, quick! I must yet save her precious life!"

"How much do you want?"

"Three hundred dollars."

"Hand it over quick—come in for the ticket tomorrow—doctor—medicine—food and a fire—God bless you, liberal hearted man!"

"Then out he went, und I have never seen him since und never expect to."

Talking Shop.

"Ah, frankin, this is a beautiful place! The silver brook, with golden grapes hanging over it, dew glistening like diamonds on the leaves and the emerald green of the fields!"

"How poetic you are! Do you write verses?"

"No, frankin; I'm a jeweler!"

Any Idiot Knows.

"Any idiot knows," said Rex the Riddler, "that the real reason the Boers sleep with their boots on is that they want to keep der wet from defeat. But can you tell me this: Why cannot a deaf und dumb man tickle nine women? You'll never guess it. Give it up? Well, a deaf und dumb man can't tickle nine women because he can only gesture. See?"—Exchange.

Hope For the Poets.

Needer Hæreket—Ah, this world is cold und unsympathetic. It is almost impossible for us poets to make any money nowadays.

Job Scumder—I think you're wrong there. There's no prejudice against poets. I know a man who engaged a poet and gave him $3 a week to keep the office clean und run errands.—Phil adelphia Press.

Tuesday evening a party of young people met and tendered a surprise party to Miss Mildred McGlaulin of Plain street it being the eighteenth anniversary of her birth. The evening was enjoyable and quickly passed away by games and music from a graphophone. The guests were treated to ice cream, cake and fruit in abundance.

At the regular meeting Tuesday evening the camp was presented with a very handsome silk flag. The flag was the property of the Boys' Brigade of East Braintree and was given to the camp through Augustus Johnson, a member. The boys did great work in assisting the W. R. C. at their two nights' fair.

The two-night fair of the Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Woman's Relief Corps, No. 94, was held in the town hall, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Samuel Dyer, an aged and much respected resident of this village, is quite ill at his home on Washington street.

Mrs. Joseph Brown (Lulu Mann), formerly of this town, died at her home in Stoughton Wednesday, after a lingering illness.

President Mrs. Mary E. Bangs of the W. R. C. has been appointed by Mrs. Maria W. Going department president of the W. R. C. to report the patriotic work done under her charge.

The employees of Williams, Kneeland & Co. are to hold a dancing party in the Town Hall this evening and a general good time is expected. It is the first dance by the employees of that factory. Cuff's orchestra will furnish the music.

The Braintree club netted the sum of $75 at their Minstrel show last week. Too much credit cannot be given to W. C. Cuff the director of the affair for his untiring efforts in rehearsing the soloists and chorus. In our last week's issue Dan Haley was given credit for the success of the affair, while Mr. Cuff was really the one to receive the praise.

The members of Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2, defeated their house mates, members of Hose 2, in a game of bowling at the Kenwood alleys Thursday evening. The score being Hooks, 1052 pins; Hose, 1005. The players for the hooks were: W. Simonds, N. Hayden, Call, Coy and Carmichael; Hose, B. Simonds, Parker, G. Reviere, Thayer, and W. Levangie.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church met with Mrs. Dr. Holmes, Thursday afternoon. Although the weather was somewhat inclement several were present. It was a great pleasure and inspiration to have the president, Mrs. Freeman able to meet with us. Among items of interest concerning the work, it was voted to send a box to Miss Edith Hemmingway of Singapore.

Thomas Gaughan died Monday of pneumonia at the home of George Gardner, on Hancock street. He was sick only a week and his death was a shock to his many friends. He was born in Ireland in 1864 and is survived by one brother, James Gaughan of this town, a father and two brothers in Ireland. The funeral was held Tuesday at nine o'clock, high mass. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery in Randolph.

Miss Elsie Drinkwater, who was critically ill with appendicitis and was operated upon at the Newton hospital, is very much improved.

The annual meeting of the Braintree Golf club will be held in Pythian hall Wednesday evening, March 29. Election of officers and other important business will come before the meeting.

Two large wooden storehouses on Adams street near the Monatiquet river, formerly connected with the Morrison mills and now the property of Mr. H. H. Kelly, have been raised, turned around and are being converted into excellent double tenement houses.

The monthly business and social meeting of the Y. P. C. U. was held last Tuesday evening with Miss Annie B. Lang. There were twelve members and friends present and the evening was pleasantly and profitably spent. The next meeting will be held with Miss Virgie Litchfield.

George Clapp of West street has been under the care of Dr. Marstin this week.

PLACED ON FILE.

The Case of Book Agent in Blue Hills Reservation.

The case of Albert Shayer, the book agent who was arrested last week by officers of the Metropolitan Park Commission, came up in court this morning on continuance. This was a case where Shayer was canvassing among houses which were situated in Milton, but abutted on the boulevard. When arrested he was led to believe by the officer that if he did not plead guilty on one case they would bring complaints against him on all cases. With that understanding he entered the plea of guilty, when the case was called in court. Judge Humphrey expressed his doubt as to the arrest of Shayer and continued the case until this morning for the Park officers to produce authority to uphold their claim. This they failed to do. Shayer, however, was represented by Counsel, who asked that his client be permitted to retract his plea of guilty and enter one of not guilty. In support of this request he stated that Shayer, who was ignorant of the law, had been induced by the officers to plead guilty. That there was no question but what he had a right to canvass among houses which were situated in Milton, which abutted on the boulevard; that if the rule held good it would prevent grocers from calling at the houses for orders; would prevent the occupants from singing in their own houses or indulging in games or past times.

The court said that while it had no doubt but what Shayer had a right to canvass where he did, it had been informed that several convictions had been made in similar cases, but probably no more such cases would be brought. As a plea of guilty had been entered it would not permit the plea be retracted, but that if Shayer would plead nolo-contendere the case would be placed on file, also that this would not prevent him from continuing his canvassing in houses situated in Milton which abutted on the boulevard. With this understanding the plea of nolo-contendere was entered and the case placed on file.

IN SPIRIT OF REVENGE

Three Negroes Said to Have Started Fire Which Cremated Sixty Men

Chicago, March 16.—A special to The Chronicle from Mobile, Ala., says: A crowd of citizens of this place is searching Baldwin county in an effort to find three negroes, who, in a spirit of revenge, are said to have burned a turpentine camp across the bay, causing the death of 60 white men and negroes. Frank C. Pressler rowed to Mobile, a tired only in his underwear and suffering intensely from burns. He was the only person who escaped from the burning camp. He said:

"I was asleep Friday morning when a choking sensation and intense heat aroused me. The log shack in which the 60 men slept was on fire, as was a shed nearby, filled with 200 barrels of raw turpentine. The trees surrounding us were also burning. I yelled to the men as I ran, but none answered and I am sure all perished. I made my way, bare foot, over live coals, to the swamp, where I found a boat. In this I rowed to the city. The camp was doubtless destroyed by three negroes who were discharged Thursday evening. They threatened to burn revenge."

MANY MORE MILLIONS

To Be Given Away by Carnegie For the Establishment of Libraries

New York, March 16.—Andrew Carnegie has promised under conditions named in a letter made public last night to give $5,200,000 to establish 65 branch libraries in this city. The offer was made in a letter to John S. Billings, director of the New York public library. Mr. Carnegie's letter says:

"Our conference upon the needs of Greater New York for branch libraries to reach the masses of the people in every district has convinced me of the wisdom of your plans. Sixty-five branches strike one at first as a very large order, but as other cities have found one necessary for every 40,000 or 50,000 of population the number is not excessive.

"You estimate the average cost of these libraries at say $80,000 each, being $5,200,000 for all. If New York will furnish sites for these branches for the special benefit of the masses of the people, as it has done for the central library, and also agree in satisfactory form to provide for their maintenance as built, I should esteem it a rare privilege to be permitted to furnish the money as needed for the buildings, say $5,200,000. Sixty-five libraries at one stroke probably breaks the record, but this is the day of big operations, and New York is soon to be the biggest of cities."

WEYMOUTH.

Washington square was almost a river during the heavy rain Monday. The brook running through the Weston estate, broke through the culvert and rushed down the street, through the square, gully the street to the depth of two and one-half feet and inundating the cellars.

The subject of the sermon by Rev. William Hyde in Trinity church, Weymouth, next Sunday morning will be, "Lessons for Lent from the First Psalm," and in the evening he will preach on "Israel a Blessing to Egypt," subject on Friday evening, "Christ's Words on the Cross."

Liquor Measures.

There are several important liquor bills before the Committee on Liquor Laws of the Legislature, of which Representative Badger is a member. Action on the "semicolumn" is hung up because of the enforced absence of Representative Brown of Ipswich and Senator Fitzgerald of Boston from the deliberations of the committee in executive session yesterday afternoon.

For a similar reason no action was taken on the "Abetter" bills, the sale of liquor on election days after the close of the polls, and the hotel bills.

But leave to withdraw was granted on the bill to permit the sale of liquor on Labor Day; on the bill to prescribe that there should be but one bar under one license, to which Representative Montgomery of Cambridge and Thomas L. Davis of Salem dissent, and on the bill that license fees of the first, second and fourth class shall be paid quarterly. A bill will be reported that the town of Medway may refund to Lawrence McGuinness $2,300 paid by him for a first and fourth class license, which licenses were revoked on account of improper posting before McGuinness had opportunity to make them operative.

In committee the vote on reporting this bill was five to four, but Mr. Brown will, it is declared, dissent, so that the committee will stand six to five, the five dissenters being Senator Harrington, Representatives Keith of Brockton, Badger, Brown and Stowel.

Reference to next General Court is the decision of the Committee on the bill to prohibit the sale of cider and native wines.

Keith's Theatre.

There are few actors who have achieved a greater degree of popularity than Tony Cummings, for several years comedian at the Castle Square theatre, and who is to make his vaudeville debut at Keith's Monday afternoon, March 18, in a new and original farce comedy, entitled, "Jack's Uncle," in which he will be supported by Eva Westcott, a well known actress, and A. G. Kraus, an actor of admitted ability. Monday evening a large party of Mr. Cummings' friends and admirers will be in the audience to give the mirth-provoking comedian a good "send off" in his new venture. Others who will be in next week's bill at Keith's are: Chas. E. Johnson and Dora Dean, the best of all the "real comedians" singers and dancers; Johnson, Davenport and Lorella, in their amusing specialty, "The Farmer and the Football Players." The educated horse bonnet, the engine wonder of the age, will also be included in the bill for the special benefit of the juvenile patrons of the house.

Castle Square Theatre.

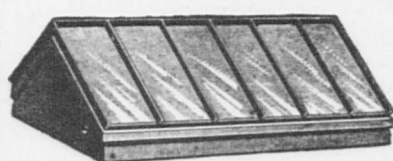

The enterprise shown by the Castle Square Theatre management in the production of Edward Elmer's dramatic version "Under Two Flags" has been so fully appreciated by the patrons of this play-house that it has been found necessary to continue this attraction during the coming week. Few melodramas of recent years have proved more uniformly interesting throughout than this stage version of Quila's novel and the admirable work done by Mr. Elmer in fitting the old story for dramatic use shows him to be a playwright of excellent ability. The principal characters in the play are impersonated with consummate skill by the leading members of the Castle Square company and Miss Lillian Lawrence gives a brilliant climax to its thrilling incidents by her perilous dash up the desert gorge on horseback. All the scenes are splendidly staged and the groupings and tableaux are remarkably effective. "Peet Wollington" is now set for production Monday, March 25.

HARRISON IN HIS TOMB

Thousands of People Witnessed
the Last Sad Rites

PRIVATE SERVICES AT HOME

Followed by Impressive Ceremonies at Church and the Grave—Manifestations of Sincere Sorrow at the Loss of an Honored Fellow Citizen

Indianapolis, March 18.—Surrounded by fully 15,000 of his fellow citizens, the remains of Benjamin Harrison were yesterday interred in the family lot in Crown Hill cemetery. Close by the grave were the members of his family, President McKinley and other visitors of distinction, and the more intimate friends of General Harrison. Back a distance of 50 yards, behind ropes guarded zealously by a large force of police, stood with uncovered heads the great multitude who knew him not so well as did they who stood beside the freshly upturned earth, but who honored him and admired him quite as much.

It is doubtful if any public man, at least in this generation, has been borne to his last resting place among so many manifestations of respect. Of passionate grief there was little outside the members of his family, but the tribute of respect was universal. There was no exception anywhere to the expression that the nation had lost one of its ablest men, and the greatest man
of his generation in his own state.

By the grave stood the chief magistrate of the nation, and behind the ropes were the street Arabs of General Harrison's city; every grade of human life in America, between the two, was represented in the crowd, and among them all there was but the feeling that a man had died who was honest at all times with himself and with others, and whose ability and character were such as the nation could ill afford to lose.

The services at the church and grave
were simple in the extreme, all in most excellent taste, and there was an utter absence of friction in everything that was done. All was well ordered and well performed.

At the Harrison home, before the remains were taken to the First Presbyterian church, where the full service was held, there were brief exercises for the members of the family and the more immediate friends of General Harrison.

Possibly 150 people were present. Mrs. Harrison did not appear, but remained in her room until it was time
to leave for the church.

President McKinley, accompanied by Governor Durbin, called at the house at about 1 o'clock. At about the same time came the members of President Harrison's cabinet, and others continually arrived until the short services were over. The people sat in the porches, filled the halls and a number of them sat upon the stairs, while Dr.
Haines read a short passage from the Scriptures and made a few remarks touching the life and character of General Harrison, as did Dr. Nicoll of St.
Luke's, and, after a brief prayer by Dr.
Haines, the services were over.

Several thousand people were around the Harrison residence as the funeral procession moved away, but the crowd
there was insignificant to that gathered around the church. The streets were kept entirely clear by a detachment of police and company C of the Second infantry. Sentries patrolled the streets just outside the curb and nobody without being able to produce a card entitled him to admission to the church
was permitted to step off the walk.

The florist with his men had scarcely completed their work in the church
when the front doors were opened and the funeral party appeared. When all had taken their seats Rev. Dr. Haines opened the service. He began: "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth in me, though he were dead,
yet shall he live, and he that liveth and
believeth in me, though he were dead,
yet shall he live, and he that liveth and
believeth in me shall never die." Mr.
Nicoll then read from 1 Cor., xv, 35-38, inclusive, after which Mr. Haines offered prayer. After the prayer the choir rendered the hymn "Rock of Ages"

in a beautiful and impressive manner.
This was General Harrison's favorite hymn, and it is said is the only one he ever attempted to sing.

Following the hymn Dr. Nicoll read portions of Scripture, after which Dr.
Haines delivered the funeral address.
After the address Dr. Nicoll offered prayer. The services were closed with a baritone solo, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," rendered by Edward Nell, in which the entire choir joined in the chorus.

Gathered around the Harrison lot in Crown Hill cemetery and standing in solid masses along the winding roadway
which led to the place where the thousands of people who with bowed heads and manifestations of sincere sorrow watched the funeral procession take its way through the grounds. It was 5 o'clock when the line of relatives and friends came up the gravelled path to the tomb.

The burial service was very simple and very brief. Rev. Mr. Nicoll

the short committal and burial service and Rev. Mr. Haines followed with a prayer. Instead of following the usual practice of dropping a handful of just on the coffin, three white carnations
were placed upon the lid.

When the last word had been said
and the service was over, the attendants lowered the coffin to its place. To the last it bore the wreath from Mrs. Harrison, and the bouquet of lilies of the valley from Little Elizabeth. On the coffin was placed a heavy walnut cover,
and then the granite roof of the tomb
was lowered and closed.

FELL FIFTY FEET

Fall River Man Instantly Killed While Trying to Evade Arrest

Fall River, Mass., March 18.—Peter Ramsay, 30 years old, well known to the police, having been arrested several times for various offenses, had been out of town for six weeks, and a warrant against him for assault and battery was on file for him at the police station. He returned to this city Saturday, and Officers Grinnell and Smithson yesterday started to find him. They went to a house on Camden street, and hearing voices in one of the rooms they entered.
They found one man who denied all knowledge of Ramsay's whereabouts.
While the officers were questioning him
they saw the body of a man shoot down by the window to the ground, and rushing out, they found Ramsay on the sidewalk. The latter was dead when the officers reached him, having fallen 50 feet. Every bone in his body was broken. It is presumed that Ramsay, hearing the officers enter the house,
rushed up the stairway, through a skylight to the roof, where he probably lost his balance.

Preacher and Author Dead

Harpwell, Me., March 18.—Rev. Elijah Kellogg, well known as a writer of books for boys and one of the most famous authors in this state, died at his home here yesterday. He was born in Portland, May 17, 1813, and went to sea in his youth. He was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1836, and completed his preparation for the ministry
at the Andover theological seminary.
He was the founder and for a number of years pastor of the Second Parish church in Portland. From 1854 to 1856
he occupied the pulpit of the Mariners' church in Boston. Since 1896 he has resided here, where he has been pastor of the local church, and has devoted much of his time to writing.

Death of Patrick Donahoe

Boston, March 18.—Patrick Donahoe,
the publisher of The Pilot, died this morning. He reached his 90th year yesterday. Since last Friday he had been at the point of dissolution, and the efforts of his physicians were to keep him alive for his birthday anniversary.
He was born in Munsey, Ire., and came to this country in 1825. He was apprenticed to a printer and from that time to his death was identified with newspaper making in Boston. Before the great fire of 1872, Mr. Donahoe was worth $500,000, but he had to start over again with a small insurance. His endorsements of business paper brought another blow, but he had since retrieved his fortune.

Falls Heavily Upon Operatives

Fall River, Mass., March 18.—The
plan of the selling committee of the local Manufacturers' association, calling for a curtailment of production in the mills represented by that body for four weeks, between March 9, the date when the agreement was first circulated, and the week ending May 5, has become an assured fact. Fifty-eight mills are represented in the agreement. In these mills 20,000 operatives are employed,
with a weekly payroll of about $145,000.
The curtailment will mean a loss of about $58,000 to the operatives of this city.

Students Cause State of Siege

St. Petersburg, March 18.—In consequence of the riotous disturbances following the demonstrations promoted by university students, the government has proclaimed a state of siege at Odessa, Kieff and Kharkoff.

of cod-liver oil is the means of life, and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life
bright.

It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food.
But what is the use of food,
when you hate it, and can't digest it?

MEETS WITH APPROVAL

American Republics In Favor of Conference

CHILE RAISES AN OBJECTION

To the Consideration of Subject of Arbitration, but Desire Likely to Be Unheeded—Plans to Develop Means For Expansion of Trade

Washington, March 18.—Practically all of the South and Central American republics have accepted the invitation to participate in the conference of American republics, which is to be held in the City of Mexico next October. The preliminary work of the congress has been directed from Washington, as the United States government has taken great interest in the meeting, and has had the co-operation here of the representatives of the southern countries.

Several of the republics already have chosen their delegates or have names under consideration. The personnel of the delegation from the United States is beginning to attract attention,
and in southern circles there is an earnest desire that at least one of the delegates from this country shall sustain some official relation to the state department. In the former congress, held in Washington, Mr. Blaine was a conspicuous figure, and the southern republics are desirous that there be like prominence at the coming congress.
Little attention has yet been given to the consideration of particular names,
yet among those informally mentioned
are Assistant Secretary of State Hill, Director Rockhill of the bureau of American republics and John B. Moore, who was assistant secretary of state under Judge Day's administration of the state department.

The sentiment for arbitration was strong in the last South American congress, and in the recent congress at Madrid it again took form. At the same time it has been understood that Chile might not desire to participate if the subject was to be discussed in such form as to involve the pending controversy between Chile, Peru and Bolivia.
In signifying her purpose to accept, the Chilean authorities said in substance that it would be conditional upon the discussion of no topics which would involve pending questions in which that country was concerned. From this it has been inferred that the particular question desired to be eliminated is that now in sharp dispute between Chile and Peru. On the other hand Peru looks forward quite confidently to this congress as a means of presenting her view of this long pending conflict. But in any event, it is not expected that a subject of the magnitude of arbitration can be entirely eliminated from a congress of this character.

Besides this topic it is expected that the congress will deal with commercial affairs of interest to this country and the other republics, developing means for thorough co-operation and mutual expansion of trade. To some extent, also, the gathering will have a broad political aspect, indicating the fraternity which exists among the republics of the western hemisphere.

Two Men Killed by Electric Cars

Fall River, Mass., March 18.—Joseph Crowther, a contractor, 58 years old,
was struck last evening by an electric car at North Tiverton, and died soon after from his injuries. The accident happened in a very dark part of the road. Crowther never regained consciousness.

Payne, R. L. March 18.—An electric car struck and instantly killed Joseph Patteault, aged 46, last evening, at Lonsdale. Motorman Sheldon, seeing a man on the track, sounded his gong.
The man left the track, but just as the car came up to him he staggered back to the track, and the car struck him.

Immigrants May Have to Return

Halifax, March 18.—Steamer Lake Champlain, from Liverpool, was forced to sail for St. John last night, with a number of Italian immigrants still on board. They were supposed to land at Halifax, but were penniless and were rejected as undesirable persons. They are bound for the United States. Unless they succeed in passing inspection at St. John the steamship company will have to carry the people back to England.

A Change For the Better

New York, March 18.—The presence of detectives and policemen stationed around the various dance halls, concert halls, concert pavilions and similar resorts that are located in the neighborhood known as "Little Coney Island," caused a decided change in the atmosphere of that locality yesterday, the results all being comparatively deserted.

Order For Tieup Would Be Obeyed

Shamokin, Pa., March 18.—Miners of the ninth district say they are pleased with the action of the Hazleton convention in advocating a vote for a strike
unless the operators meet the miners'
representatives in joint convention by April 1. They say that if a tieup is ordered they feel certain all will cease work in a body.

Poor Excuse For Lynching

Nashville, March 18.—Belle Crutch-field, colored, living near Rome, was taken from her cabin by a mob, who carried her to a bridge, where she was bound, shot to death and thrown into the creek. The woman was suspected of having found and failed to return a lost purse containing $120.

Good Afternoon.

"Spring begins" March 21. Some thought it began today. It is so balmy, warm and pleasant.

Weymouth cannot afford to extinguish its street lights and at the same time reduce its police appropriations. If the town is to go in darkness for a year it should appropriate $10, 000 for police instead of $3,000.

Two of the teachers of our public schools who resigned in 1900 went to Northampton, two to Malden, and one to Waltham. As six resigned to get married, the School Committee have a greater rival in Cupid than in outside cities.

The year 1901 is proving unusually fatal to Quincy granite manufacturers.
Although three months have not yet passed there have been three deaths
of prominent manufacturers—first, Franklin Hardwick; then Amos
Churchill; and now, Michael J.
Carey.

The idea that the abolition of grade crossings costs a city or town but little or nothing, may receive a severe shock
when one learns that Hyde Park must pay $133,767.00 for the work done at Readville, and the town of Dedham $48,057.25 more. Quincy should go slow in taking the initiative for the abolition of grade crossings which after all are mainly for the benefit of the roads.

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Legislature has closed its hearings on parks and boulevards,
and all were treated exactly alike,
the report in each case being "reference to the next General Court." Although Quincy's pet scheme suffers with the others, we cannot but feel that Gov.
Crane has taken the proper stand, and that it is time to curtail metropolitan expenditures. The development of the park system should be slower. Unfortunately for the cities south of Boston, the cities on the north have received the greatest benefit, a fact which the Legislatures of the future should consider in making appropriations. This year the amount asked for park-ways was $2,000,000, and the taxpayers are thankful that Gov. Crane took a bold stand and nipped the extravagance.

Drift of Opinion.

Boston and her suburbs, having the spectacle of the "Greater New York" before them, decline to create a "Greater Boston," in which declination they are certainly sane.—New Bedford Standard.

The first volume of his life
is closed, and the poor bobbin factory
boy retires from business, as Mr. J.
Pierpont Morgan says, "the richest man in the world, all made in legiti-mate manufacturing, never a share sold or bought on the stock exchange. This is a 'record breaker' but what if the last volume of this man's life is to render the other, marvellous though it be, comparatively unimportant? It is often said of Mr. Carnegie that he never does things like other men: will he give the world a last volume more surprising than the first? There are those who so believe, but that is another story. We must await development.—Extract from Carnegie article in the World's Work
for April.

With all due respect to those who don't like monopolies and money kings

it must be admitted that Andrew Carnegie is enriching the earth with his presence—and presents. His last benefaction of $5,000,000 for the benefit of old employees is undoubtedly a great piece of philanthropic work, and with the free libraries he has established and the other good work he has done
Mr. Carnegie may be forgiven much that might be urged against him merely because he has been a successful money-winner. It is altogether unlikely that Mr. Carnegie will save himself entirely from "the disgrace of dying rich," but he is coming nearer to it than any of the other notably rich men of the country.—Brockton Enterprise.

The naval schemes of the English and French governments for the coming year include the construction of a number of submarine boats. The battles of the next collision of the great nations of the world will be fought not only on land and sea, but under the sea. Warships of the air will be next in order.—Haverhill Gazette.

A merchant may have the best,
or the cheapest, article of its kind that has ever been offered to the public; but he will not be able to get adequate trade if he shall fail to tell the people convincingly about it. In this day there are too many men in business for the people to keep informed concerning establishments which make no effort to attract attention. Having something to sell, or services to render, a man's chief effort should be to advertise the fact in the best way. He cannot afford not to advertise.—Philadelphia Record.

EAMES VS. PAGE.

Exciting Billiard Exhibition at Granite City Rooms.

Nearly one hundred were present at the rooms of the Granite City club Saturday night to witness the exhibition game of billiards between Eames, the champion of New England, and Page, the winner of the class B championship at the recent tournament of the 999 Artillery Association at Charlestown. The first game played was a ten-inch balk line. Eames was to make 300 to Page 200.

Page started the game by running up 22 points. He made his 300 points in 25 shots his average being ten. His best runs were 34, 27, 20 and 22. He had five misses.

Eames started with four shots and did not do anything until the sixth shot when he ran up 40 points. The next shot he ran up 32, and followed with a run of 54. At the eighteenth shot Eames had 194 points his credit and Page 107. Then Eames made three misses and Page made runs of 8, 10, 14, which brought his points
up to 139. Eames next three shots were of 7, 21 and 7 points.

This made him 220 at the end of the 24th shot, even shots. Page's score at that time was 166. That was the last shot Eames had for Page made a run of 34 on his twenty-fifth shot, and finished his 200 points. Eames average was nearly 10.

The next game was a cushion carom of fifty points. This was won by Eames, the score being 50 to 43, or 49
to 35 on even shots. Some difficult and pretty shots were made by both players and the audience never failed to applaud a good shot no matter who made it.

At the close of the two games Eames gave an exhibition of fancy shots.

Found Guilty.

David Werblinsky, David Kerner and Samuel Goldstein were on Saturday found guilty in the Suffolk court of stealing a safe from a house at the West End, Boston, which was afterward found off Squantum street,
Quincy. The jury was out five hours.
They will be sentenced today.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Body of Peter F. Carlson Found at Pikes Peak.

The body of Peter F. Carlson who disappeared so mysteriously from his home on Morton street last December was found Sunday afternoon by four Milton boys in an abandoned quarry
on the line of the Quarry Railroad.
The place where the body was found
was back of the Lyons Granite Co.
works and was what is known as Pikes Peak. The body when discovered was frozen in the ice. The boys notified the Milton police who responded. It was then discovered that the place was in Quincy, and the Quincy police were notified.
Inspector McKay went up with the ambulance and brought the body to Hall's undertaking rooms.
The body was fully dressed with the exception of a vest. The cap, which was a new one was found on the edge of the quarry. In the pockets was a broken knife and a red bordered white handkerchief, with the letters "C. F."
worked in it. Officer Sandberg and Alex.
Larson identified the body as that of Peter F. Carlson.

Carlson disappeared on Dec. 3. On that morning the door leading to his room was found to have been barracaded.
When entrance was forced into the room blood was found on the bed and floor. Carlson's pocketbook containing quite a sum of money was also found. It was thought at that time that during a temporary fit of insanity that he had barricaded the door, and then cut himself, and jumping through the window had drowned himself in one of the numerous quarry holes near
by. A search was made at that time, but no trace was found of him.

Expensive.

The auditor appointed to examine the expenses incurred in making the alterations of grade crossings in Hyde Park and Dedham has been filed with the clerk of courts at Dedham and confirmed. From May 7, 1897, to Dec. 1, 1900, there has been expended on account of these alterations in Hyde Park $999,867.87, and in Dedham $355,- 979.99. A total of $1,355,847.86. The law provides that this sum be apportioned as follows: New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company $740,765.80, Commonwealth of Massachusetts $424,256.83, Hyde Park $133,- 767.09, Dedham $48,057.25.

Granite Manufacturer Dead.

Michael J. Carey, junior member of the well known granite manufacturing firm of Carey Bros., of Willard street, died at his home at West Quincy, Saturday, aged 50 years. Mr. Carey was born in Ireland and came to America many years ago. He has been in the manufacturing business for twenty-eight years. Mr. Carey's health has been poor for the past two years, but it was not until recently that his illness assumed a more serious aspect. He leaves a widow and four children. His funeral will be held Tuesday.

Birds.

Mr. F. W. Chapman, the well known authority on all matters connected with birds, has kindly consented to give a lecture on that subject at Chickering
hall Boston, on Saturday afternoon, March 23, at 3 o'clock, in aid of the Sunny Side Nursery, which is much in need of assistance to keep the establishment open during the summer months.
This will be the only opportunity of hearing Mr. Chapman's highly interesting lecture, which will be doubly attractive by the use of his fine stereopticon.

mated that there are $100,000 worth of

THE FRIDAY CLUB.

Now Ten Years Old—Sketch of Its Work.

The light shining from this club,
can no longer be hid under a bushel.
It has already become the parent of a Junior Friday club, and it has been active for ten years. The work of the Junior club is carried on in a manner similar to that of the original club, now so active, and which began in the winter of 1891 and 1892. A few ladies met casually one afternoon and decided to come together again, each one inviting two friends to swell the number. The time was to be devoted to some useful reading or study, and at the close of the reading, to enjoy a social half hour and a simple "tea."

These meetings were to be held on alternate Friday afternoons in the months from October until May, and the number of members was to be limited to fifteen, later it was increased to eighteen.

The officers were to consist of a president, secretary and an executive committee. A subject for study and for the afternoon's program was to be chosen by the committee, consisting of these officers, and parts were to be assigned to the various members of the club.

The object was purely literary, and no deviation has been made, except that lately when the art or music of a country has been under consideration, songs, and piano music by the members illustrating that era, or photographs of places, and persons
about which the papers are collected,
have been added to the program.
Sometimes maps, as in the afternoon
upon Switzerland, were made to show
the conformation of the country.

Access to our public library
furnished the books necessary in writing papers, or in compiling papers for presentation.

The program for the winter being made out at the beginning of the season ample time for preparation and for thorough and exhaustive work
was given.

Many fine private libraries in Quincy have contributed books, historical,
literary and political, for careful work
for the club.

As the members have remained unchanged, each winter's experience has furnished hints for more precise study,
and the Friday club has thus modestly kept on in the noiseless tenor of its way, until a tenth anniversary has been reached. The ranks have been broken by death only once in the passing away of Mrs. Anna W. Wason, an old member, whose death was a sad loss to the club.

In addition every way to the Friday club,
her beautiful personality and mature mind gave a strength to her work and to the social element that will not be forgotten.

A glimpse of the program of the work done by this club shows well as in a long bi-monthly session for one winter, good results can not fail to accrue if the study is systematic, as has been the case.

It took up in 1891-2 its first active
year the study of France.

In 1892-3,—Italy.

In 1893-4,—Spain.

1894-5,—Germany, Belgium.

1895-6,—Holland, Norway, Sweden
and Denmark.

1896-7,—Russia.

1897-8,—Switzerland.

1898-9,—English Literature.

1899-1900,—Scottish history to the Union of the Crown with a period in English history and literature.

1900-1901 —England and Scotland
from James I to George III.

The club has not usually had outside audiences, a rule, for the hostess at whose house they met, having a privilege of three invited guests, has been kept. Occasionally a member brings a guest. As this club, is almost without exception a married ladies' club, once in a while the sterner half is permitted to join them at an evening session.

Then the exercises take on a less intellectual flavor, while the "tea" has added flavor expanding into a liberal collation. A flow of wit is permitted, while wisdom is held in thrall and a larger freedom from rules indulged in.

The regular meetings have been absolutely free from any but a kindly charitable spirit, devoid of criticism
or comparison, an end gained, of providing afternoons that shall yield profit to the individual beyond that gained by desultory conversation.

The social tea and half hour's un-bending round out the sessions which have increased in interest during the ten years of their life.

The officers at present are: President,
Miss Elizabeth A. Souther; Secretary,
Mrs. John O. Hall, Jr.; Executive Committee, the president, secretary,
Mrs. Theodore Hardwick, Miss Edith
Randall and Mrs. Otto Hayward.

To Sing at Campello.

Sunday morning Miss Mary Virginia Hastings sang for the last time at the Wollaston Congregational church, where for seven years she has been the soprano. She has accepted a flattering offer to sing at the South Congregational church of Campello. Her new work will begin Easter Sunday, April 7. During the many years Miss Hastings has sung at Wollaston she has made many friends, who have enjoyed her clear, sweet soprano voice. Always simple and unassuming in manner, she has endeared herself to all those who attended the church services. Her friends, though sorry to lose her, wish her the best of success in her new work.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

E. J. MURPHY,
G. A. LORENS, Wollaston,
S. F. COPELAND.

Pastor to Resign.

A crowd that taxed the seating capacity of the Wollaston M. E. Church listened to Rev. Mr. Waterhouse's sermon Sunday evening on "The Uniqueness of the Bible." It is with deep regret that his many friends receive the report that Mr. Waterhouse will sever his connection with the church some time next month. During his pastorate the church has increased largely in numbers and the well attended Sunday evening meetings tell of his popularity in Wollaston. Mr. Waterhouse is forced to take this step because of sickness in his family.

COUNCIL BUSINESS.

The Committee of the Whole May Sit Again.

There is considerable business to come before the City Council at its regular meeting tonight.

The Mayor will return without signature the order relative to the purchase of material, and suggesting some changes.

The joint committee on Police and Ordinances will report an order amending the Police ordinance, increasing the permanent force.

The committee on Streets will report orders granting locations to the Electric Light Co., and on a number of petitions for street lights; also on a stone sewer on Liberty street and for a public hearing on the widening of Hancock street, between Granite street and Cottage avenue.

The committee on Public Buildings will report on the matter of enlarging the High school and remodeling City Hall.

The committee on Legislative Matters will report on dividing Wards One and Two into voting precincts, and relating to the League of American Municipalities.

In the calendar are engrossed orders relative to transfers. A public hearing will be held on the laying out of Albertina street.

Then there is the report of the Committee of the Whole, and it is possible the committee may hold another session.

Rev. H. H. Faxon.

In the historical sketch of the Norfolk Conference of Unitarian and other christian churches, published in 1900, Mr. George M. Bodge, Secretary, writes of certain good work done by the Rev. H. H. Faxon. We assume that he alludes to our good worker Henry H. Faxon, whose modesty may have prevented this new title becoming a matter of public news. Certainly the earnest and unflinching good work done by this citizen in the First church (Stone Temple) here, may have been a little misleading, but the fact of what he did, as alluded to, remain the same—good work.

After passing through the public schools of Braintree, she entered Hollis Institute, an academy of high rank in those days, and there pursued and completed her education.

On September 14, 1854, she was married to Mr. Benjamin F. Dyer of Braintree. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. William B. Hammond who was the pastor of the South Congregational church, and who died last year at the advanced age of eighty-six.

There were born to them three children: Frank Eugene, who married Anna Theresa Barrett; Annie Kendall and Jessie Stanton, now the wife of William Oliver Chapman of Salem. During their whole married life of more than forty-six years there has been no break by death in the family circle and very little sickness.

In 1857 Mrs. Dyer united with the South Parish church and for nearly forty years sang in the church choir. She was a most honored and faithful attendant at all the services of the sanctuary, and was very rarely absent from her accustomed seat. A beautiful singer, a willing worker, she gave her voice and her hands to the service of the church and found her highest joy in the pleasures and duties of parish work.

As a member of the Old Stoughton Musical Society she took a great deal of interest in its gatherings. The annual Christmas sing was an event in her life to which she always looked forward with increasing pleasure. She would allow no social function to interfere with her attendance on those unique occasions. Even in recent years her enthusiasm for old fashioned music was surprisingly intense.

Indeed, Mrs. Dyer had a great passion for all old things. She loved the old songs and the old hymns and the old customs and the old ways. Not that she was bound by them, by any means, but rather that they were links to past pleasures and past experiences.

She was a zealous student of genealogy. She had a thorough knowledge of the ascent and descent of man and quietly rejoiced that she was the direct descendant in the seventh generation of the renowned John Alden.

As a charter member of Adams chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution she was greatly concerned for its growth and prosperity. She entertained the chapter several times at her home and was invariably present at its regular monthly session in the old Adams House, Quincy. In furnishing the present cozy quarters of the Chapter and in paying off the debt of the same, Mrs. Dyer took very active part.

The Woman's Relief Corps also received a share of her sympathy and service. Her interest in the organization was the outgrowth of her devotion to the soldiers at the time of the civil war. Working for them during those anxious years of '61 and '65, she learned to honor them for their service to their country and when in after years, the Woman's Relief Corps organized she manifested her continued interest in the welfare of the veterans by becoming a charter member. In these various societies where her genial presence was so frequently seen and felt, she will indeed be missed, because her seat will be empty.

During the last fifteen or twenty years of her life Mrs. Dyer travelled quite extensively. Although often importuned to go abroad, she always declined because of her dislike of an ocean voyage. But there is hardly any section of the United States and Alaska that she did not visit and in her journeying through her native land she took unbounded delight. Three times she travelled to the Pacific coast and lately had been contemplating a visit to Mexico.

During the last fifteen or twenty years of her life Mrs. Dyer travelled quite extensively. Although often importuned to go abroad, she always declined because of her dislike of an ocean voyage. But there is hardly any section of the United States and Alaska that she did not visit and in her journeying through her native land she took unbounded delight. Three times she travelled to the Pacific coast and lately had been contemplating a visit to Mexico.

After passing through the public schools of Braintree, she entered Hollis Institute, an academy of high rank in those days, and there pursued and completed her education.

On September 14, 1854, she was married to Mr. Benjamin F. Dyer of Braintree. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. William B. Hammond who was the pastor of the South Congregational church, and who died last year at the advanced age of eighty-six.

There were born to them three children: Frank Eugene, who married Anna Theresa Barrett; Annie Kendall and Jessie Stanton, now the wife of William Oliver Chapman of Salem. During their whole married life of more than forty-six years there has been no break by death in the family circle and very little sickness.

In 1857 Mrs. Dyer united with the South Parish church and for nearly forty years sang in the church choir. She was a most honored and faithful attendant at all the services of the sanctuary, and was very rarely absent from her accustomed seat. A beautiful singer, a willing worker, she gave her voice and her hands to the service of the church and found her highest joy in the pleasures and duties of parish work.

As a member of the Old Stoughton Musical Society she took a great deal of interest in its gatherings. The annual Christmas sing was an event in her life to which she always looked forward with increasing pleasure. She would allow no social function to interfere with her attendance on those unique occasions. Even in recent years her enthusiasm for old fashioned music was surprisingly intense.

Indeed, Mrs. Dyer had a great passion for all old things. She loved the old songs and the old hymns and the old customs and the old ways. Not that she was bound by them, by any means, but rather that they were links to past pleasures and past experiences.

She was a zealous student of genealogy. She had a thorough knowledge of the ascent and descent of man and quietly rejoiced that she was the direct descendant in the seventh generation of the renowned John Alden.

As a charter member of Adams chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution she was greatly concerned for its growth and prosperity. She entertained the chapter several times at her home and was invariably present at its regular monthly session in the old Adams House, Quincy. In furnishing the present cozy quarters of the Chapter and in paying off the debt of the same, Mrs. Dyer took very active part.

The Woman's Relief Corps also received a share of her sympathy and service. Her interest in the organization was the outgrowth of her devotion to the soldiers at the time of the civil war. Working for them during those anxious years of '61 and '65, she learned to honor them for their service to their country and when in after years, the Woman's Relief Corps organized she manifested her continued interest in the welfare of the veterans by becoming a charter member. In these various societies where her genial presence was so frequently seen and felt, she will indeed be missed, because her seat will be empty.

During the last fifteen or twenty years of her life Mrs. Dyer travelled quite extensively. Although often importuned to go abroad, she always declined because of her dislike of an ocean voyage. But there is hardly any section of the United States and Alaska that she did not visit and in her journeying through her native land she took unbounded delight. IN MEMORIAM.

A Tribute to Mrs. Benjamin F. Dyer, late of Braintree.

As Mrs. Dyer had many friends in Quincy, the following from the Braintree Observer and Reporter will be of interest:

The South Parish sustained a very severe loss last week in the death of Mrs. Benjamin F. Dyer, who peacefully passed away after a brief illness, on Saturday afternoon, March the ninth.

The funeral was held at her late residence on Washington street, Tuesday afternoon, March the twelfth, and the body interred in the family lot in the South Parish cemetery. Members of the South church choir, with whom she had sung for many years, furnished appropriate selections of music. The floral remembrances from those who knew and loved her were exceedingly beautiful.

Many of Mr. Dyer's business friends, including Mayor Hart of Boston, were present to sympathize with the family in their great sorrow and bereavement. All who knew her sincerely mourn her decease and joyfully testify to the sweetness and strength of her sterling christian character.

Mary J. Dyer, the daughter of Warren and Jane Dyer Mansfield, was born in Braintree, April 17, 1836. Her mother died when she was six years of age, and she was left to the loving, fostering care of an elder sister, now Mrs. Samuel L. Dyer, who still survives her.

After passing through the public schools of Braintree, she entered Hollis Institute, an academy of high rank in those days, and there pursued and completed her education.

Saco, Me., March 18.—Isaac Richards, a tramp, who is a lodger at the police station, made a statement last night, which, if it proves true, adds another crime to the account of Edward Graffman, who is now in Portland Jail, charged with the murder of Clifford Mosher, in Gorham. Richards says that Graffman told him that he killed Charles Coburn, who was found dead beside the road in Gorham several years ago. Sheriff Pearson of Portland will investigate.

He is 55 years old, is a widower with six children, and lived in West Rutland for 25 years.

Boston, March 18.—To the people of Boston, the 17th of March is a double anniversary—to those of Irish birth and descent it is the feast of St. Patrick, and to the American, with the blood of Revolutionary sires in his veins, it commemorates the date when the British troops sailed away from Boston, their dominion lost. Flags are flying on city staffs, for the holiday, which is being generally observed today.

THE TIENSIN DISPUTE

May Lead to "Vast and Disturbing" Contingencies.

OUTWARD UNION OF ACTION

Protested Against by Dr. Morrison, Who Says Russia Is Fulfilling a Compact to Ignore the Concert of Powers in Return for Private Concessions

London, March 18.—Commenting editorially upon the situation at Tientsin, The Standard reminds Russia that "The British fleet is as potent as ever, and Japan is burning to second the efforts of any one ready to oppose the annexation of Manchuria," adding:

"It is a painful task thus to be compelled even to hint at contingencies so vast and disturbing, but the perils of the moment are more likely to be overcome if it is thoroughly realized that we do not shrink from such action as would be best calculated to maintain our rights."

The other morning papers recognize the gravity of the situation at Tientsin, and counsel the government to be firm, but they express themselves less aggressively.

"A grievous blow has been inflicted upon our reputation in the far east," says The Daily Mail. "Our weakness and unpreparedness for war are well known to our enemies, and there is reason to expect further surprises in the diplomatic line. Before, however, we can put our foot down, the empire must be placed in fighting order."

"There is no fear of Lord Salisbury going to war with Russia," says The Daily News. "Russia is a fit object for grateful concessions, and not a small republic to be bullied and provoked."

Dr. Morrison, writing to The Times from Peking, says:

"Russia, by her refusal to support the powers in their demands for the punishment of guilty officials, has finally thrown off the mask. A plea for leniency is hardly serious, coming from a power whose troops last summer were guilty of reprisals upon the Chinese scarcely less ferocious than the acts of the Boxers themselves. Russia's action is only explicable as the fulfillment of a private compact with Li Hung Chang to throw the concert overboard in return for concessions securing her separate interests."

Dr. Morrison proceeds to protest energetically against any further sacrifices of their interests on the part of the powers to secure an outward union of action. He thinks that even France can hardly follow her ally in this instance.

Commenting upon the Manchurian convention as giving Russia a privileged position at Kashgar and Yarkand, he says: "Russian railway enterprise in China means military occupation, and Russia, once installed in Chinese Turkestan, will turn the whole position which Great Britain has toiled to render impregnable on the northwest frontier of India."

In the course of a later telegram, Dr. Morrison says: "Chinese officials say they have been informed from St. Petersburg that Russia abandons her claims to exclusive rights in Mongolia and Turkestan, and consents to modify the stringency of her control of the civil administration of Manchuria, agreeing the convention shall be published as soon as it is signed in St. Petersburg, a fortnight hence."

"This is the first check inflicted upon Russian diplomacy in China since Lord Salisbury was cajoled into the withdrawal of the British troops from Port Arthur in 1898, and it cannot fail profoundly to modify the situation by convincing the Chinese that there still exists international combinations capable of maintaining the equilibrium of the far east."

Li Hung Chang in Poor Health

Peking, March 18.—The health of Li Hung Chang is again a matter of grave consideration to the ministers of the powers. Mr. Rockhill says he is a physical wreck, and apparently in a state of utter collapse, although mentally as brilliant as ever. The removal of Li Hung Chang by death or any other cause at the present moment would be very unfortunate. His influence with the Chinese court is absolutely unique. No other man in China approaches him in this respect. This influence is particularly effective at important moments in the history of China like the present.

Russians Still Buying Land

Tientsin, March 18.—The Anglo-Russian dispute shows no change, and the disputants are exercising the utmost caution to prevent a collision between the guards during the negotiations. The Russians continue to purchase land in the new concessions.

For the Second Time

Clinton, Mass., March 18.—The police yesterday raided the drug store of Thomas T. Tate, where they found five men drinking in a rear room, and seized a quantity of liquor. This is the second time that Tate's place has been raided. On the first occasion he was convicted and fined $100.

Plague Cases Multiply

Cape Town, March 18.—Nine new cases of bubonic plague have been officially reported in Cape Town during the last 48 hours. Three of these are Europeans.

SCANNELL AND LAWSON

Cannot Agree Upon Terms For Racing the Abbot and Boralma

New York, March 18.—John J. Scannell, owner of The Abbot, has issued an answer to Thomas W. Lawson's proposition for a race between The Abbot and Boralma. Mr. Scannell says:

"In reply to the challenge for a race between The Abbot and Boralma, I will accept same if the owner of Boralma will eliminate the unheard of and unusual condition—that added money or gate receipts (which he says he will guarantee to reach $25,000) shall be given to Boston charity, designated solely by him, whether or not his horse wins."

"I am a New Yorker, and should I win and desire to give the money to charity, I would certainly prefer to give it to New York, or have some voice in its disposition. It is certainly not customary in making matches involving the championship for the challenger to dictate unrecognized terms or conditions."

"If the owner of Boralma sincerely and honestly wants a match with The Abbot, I am ready, and now accept the challenge from him for a race for $25,000 a side, $10,000 to be deposited now, $5,000 July 1, and $10,000 the night before the race, all deposits being forfeited by the horse that does not come to the wire on race day; the race to be trotted during the month of September, 1901, the winner to take all proceeds of the receipts, outside of the stake of $50,000, to be divided as we may agree."

Boston, March 18.—Thomas W. Lawson, when informed of Mr. Scannell's reply, said: "I will never race Boralma under such conditions. That's getting down to hippodroming. I offered him a race for $25,000, and that too, when my horse is at least four seconds slower than his. So far as my racing Boralma against The Abbot, or any other horse, for a division of the gate receipts, I should never consent. I believe that when two great horses enter a race to decide which is the better, the winner should take whatever stake is offered, and if Mr. Scannell has confidence in his horse he is sure of winning $25,000."

Sequel to Sensational Shooting

Chicago, March 18.—Announcement is made here of the marriage of John T. Shayne, the wealthy Chicago merchant, and Mrs. Martha K. Hammond, former wife of Harry H. Hammond. Mr. and Mrs. Shayne are now in New York City. Shayne was shot by Hammond nearly two years ago, in the cafe of the Auditorium annex in this city, where Shayne was dining with Mrs. Hammond, who was then separated from her husband. Shayne, though supposed to be fatally wounded, finally recovered. Hammond, who is a merchant tailor, was subsequently tried on the charge of attempted murder, and acquitted after a sensational trial.

THE BAILEY MURDER

Trial For Supposed Perpetrator of the Deed Begun at Boston

Salem, Mass., March 18.—The John C. Best murder trial opened in the superior court today, with the calling of over 100 jurymen. The prisoner is charged with the killing of John E. Bailey, keeper of the Breakheart hill farm, Saugus. The body was cut up, placed in gunny sacks and these sacks sunk in Floating Bridge pond, Glenmere. The evidence against Best is thought to be entirely circumstantial.

It is expected that the chief witnesses for the government will be Susan Young, Bailey's housekeeper at the farm, and the rifle experts from the Winchester Gun factory at New Haven. Great stress will be laid by the government upon the claim that the bullets found in Bailey's body must have been fired from a rifle found in the farmhouse.

Agricultural Missionary Work

Washington, March 18.—Jared Smith, who has been in charge of the offices of seed and plant introduction in the department of agriculture, has been directed to establish an agricultural experiment station at Honolulu. He will teach the Hawaiian people how to grow garden truck. Most of the vegetables now consumed in the islands are imported from San Francisco. The Hawaiians will be taught also the value of dairy cows among poor families, butter and cheese making, the forage plants most economically produced for Hawaiian consumption and the value of poor families raising chickens and pigs.

Artillerymen on the Rampage

Halifax, March 18.—A rather serious clash between imperial and Canadian soldiers occurred in the garrison yesterday. Eighteen royal artillerymen took possession of one of the principal streets, breaking glass and interfering with pedestrians. A detachment of 50 Canadians was sent out to arrest the gunners, who showed fight, using their belts as weapons. The infantry charged with fixed bayonets. One of the mutinous artillerymen was stabbed through the left hand, and one of the Canadian soldiers received a severe cut over the eye. The artillerymen were taken prisoners.

Killed by Her Pet Dog

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Carrie Cobus, living on West Eighteenth street, was subject to epileptic fits. Her constant companion was a fox terrier. Last night Mrs. Cobus had an epileptic attack. The terrier, seeing its mistress in agony, appears to have gone mad. He flew at the prostrate woman as she writhed on the floor and repeatedly attacked her, burying its teeth in her throat and severing the jugular vein. Mrs. Cobus bled to death. The dog disappeared in the street.

He never rode on a railway but once.

Good Afternoon.

The action of the City Council of Quincy in reference to street lighting is in marked contrast to that of town of Weymouth. The item in the Quincy budget for lights is $19,000, and is being jumped up rapidly. It amounts to eighty cents per inhabitant now. Quincy looks upon street lighting as a protection as well as a comfort.

The Legislature of 1901 is doing commendable work, and indications are that there will be an early adjournment. It has promptly referred to the next General Court on the petition of Marcus C. Cook for a Greater Boston form of government, and rejected the bill to establish a second district court for Eastern Norfolk at Braintree.

Lightning struck at the meeting of the common council in Medford, and a few such flashes might have a beneficial effect in Quincy and other cities. The mayor and school committee recommended increasing the salary of the superintendent of schools from $2,500 to $2,800, but the aldermen and council reduced it to $2,000. Salaries in some of the departments of Quincy might well be reduced. If the next applicant for an increase gets the Medford treatment, others may be scared.

In the street petition which Councilman Faxon submitted to the City Council last evening the merchants that have business upon Irving place are strongly interested. This street, as planned by City Engineer Flood, is 1100 feet in extent from Saville street to Granite street. Of this 900 feet is contributed to public use and the proposed extension passes through vacant property, giving an easy approach from Granite street for persons coming from the West and for the merchants of City Square. Since the freight siding has been put in by the N. Y. N. B. & H., the traffic over the grade crossing, at the depot, has assumed extensive proportions and the outlet as planned has become a necessity.

Drift of Opinion.

Weymouth will be the Darktown of this country this year, her voters in a fit of heathenish economy having refused to make any appropriation for lighting the streets.—Brocton Enterprise.

The Baby Pathfinder for March is upon our desk. It is published by the New England Railway Publishing Co. of Boston, Mass., and is full of reliable information for anyone traveling either by rail or boat. Price ten cents.

There is a new idea in the Young People's society business adopted by a Congregational church out to Pittsfield, which will be watched with a good deal of interest. The society has given up the Christian Endeavor pledge, and after each Sunday evening service they adjourn to the church parlors and partake of refreshments and spend a social hour before going home. Such a program ought to revive any struggling society and make it popular.—Beverly Times.

The no-breakfast fad is generally believed to be an empty idea.

Light in Darktown.

Weymouth was in total darkness for a few minutes Monday night, and during that time several citizens appeared on the streets with lanterns. The cause of the trouble was the failure of the town to appropriate money for street lighting. The Selectmen notified the company, Monday, that the appropriation for that purpose was exhausted, and out went the lights. John R. Graham of Quincy, president of the company, subsequently ordered them turned on, and the streets were lighted as usual pending a meeting of the directors.

It is said that a special town meeting will be called at an early date to bring up the light question again. The Weymouth Light and Power Co. is now owned largely by Quincy gentlemen, John R. Graham and Clarence Burgin being among the largest stockholders.

N. E. O. P. Notes.

At the last meeting of Quincy Lodge No. 201, two applications for membership were received and Mr. Frank B. Sanderson took the initiative degree.

Mr. I. M. Holt attended the annual meeting of the Grand lodge, held in Boston March 13, and was obligated as a member of the same.

Mrs. Holt who has just returned from a trip south, was present at the last meeting after an absence of several weeks.

Quincy Lodge has received and forwarded to the beneficiary the amount of the insurance taken out by late brother Ernest Marshall.

Brother Everett Pope is en route for Bermuda where he is to spend several weeks recuperating his health.

A lodge of the New England Order is reported to be organizing in Wollaston.

Quincy Boy in Trouble.

A New York despatch of Monday to the Herald says: John Burke of Quincy, Mass.; James Cleary, alias James Birmyer, and a boy named Charles, each about 18 years old, and living in the newsboys' lodging house on Duane street, today entered a dismantled building on New street, Charles mounted a ladder and fell, his head striking a radiator. His skull was fractured. His companions were arrested.

Now a Presbyterian Minister.

Mrs. Archibald Kerr and family left last week for Neillsville, Wisconsin, where they will join her husband the Rev. Archibald Kerr, a former resident of Quincy, and former pastor of the Baptist Church at Rock, Mass. Mr. Kerr has received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church in Neillsville and has renounced his anti-baptism and immersion views. The family were baptized in the First Presbyterian church last Sabbath by the Rev. Dr. Todd in accordance with the rites of that denomination.

To Make Inspection.

A special meeting of the Board of Health was held last Saturday evening at the residence of William E. Badger. At this meeting it was voted to view the premises at Wollaston, upon which a charge had been preferred against Inspector Kenley, some time this week. The date of the inspection will depend upon the counsel for Mr. Kenley.

Scavenger Bids.

The recent bids for doing the scavenger work of the city were as follows, C. L. Prescott, the successful bidder, being lower in each case:

	Prescott.	McConarty.
Cesspools, per load,	$1.65	$1.98
Single Vaults,	1.20	1.40
Double Vaults,	1.70	1.90

A passion play will be given at Selzach in the canton of Soleure, Switzerland, on June 10. Performances will take place each Sunday and fete days up to September 1, when the performance will be brought to a close.

Echoes from Committee of Whole and More to Follow.

There was a very large attendance of citizens at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. Fun was evidently expected; if so, however, it was a disappointment. Councilman Craig and Nicol were the absentees.

JOURNAL READ.

Councilman DeNormandie asked for the reading of the minutes of the last meeting. This was done and over ten minutes was required for the purpose.

JURORS DRAWN.

Mayor Hall, assisted by City Clerk Cleaves and Councilman Langelier drew Charles H. Hoyt, George W. Clapp and John Barry as traverse jurors, and Alexander W. Russell as grand juror.

APPOINTMENT.

Mayor Hall sent in the appointment of Francis Abelle, Jr., as Inspector of Animals, to March 31, 1902; appointment confirmed.

A VETO.

The Mayor returned without his signature the order relating to the purchase of material, suggesting an amendment, which was necessary to have the ordinance meet the ends that it was desired it should. Laid on the table.

SEWER TRANSFER.

Mayor Hall sent in a letter received by City Solicitor Sears, from the Metropolitan Sewer Commissioners, suggesting the form of vote the City Council should pass for the sale of the pumping station and force mains to the Metropolitan Commission.

Councilman DeNormandie asked if the City Solicitor had examined the instrument to see if the rights of the city were protected. City Solicitor Sears said he had not but would do so before the transfer. He also said in reply to a question by Councilman Bass, that the act provided that the Commission should take and maintain forever the pumping station and force mains. He was informed that the land taken was the same as taken by the Quincy Sewer Commission. The order was then adopted.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held on the petition to lay out and accept Albertina street.

But one gentleman appeared for the petition. He said he thought the street should be accepted as lights were needed. In reply to questions by Councilmen Faxon and Bass, he said he did not know whether abutters would want damages or not, also that the street was about 1,000 feet in length.

The hearing then closed and the order was recommitted.

A communication was received from the Mayor requesting the transfer of $33.35 to the appropriation for support of poor for 1900. To Committee on Finance.

PETITIONS

Several petitions were received for State Aid, Soldiers relief and a job wagon license.

Petitions were received asking that

OUR HIGH SCHOOL.

Annual Report of Head Master Harper.

Alternating Program is Giving Satisfaction.

Both Buildings Are Now Over Crowded with Pupils.

Mr. C. F. Harper, the headmaster at the Quincy High school, makes the following annual report to the Superintendent of Schools, which will be printed in the annual City Book.

The year has been one of earnest effort towards the attainment of ap-

cases, the choice has been made by parents and pupils consulting with the teachers. This greater freedom in the election of courses has resulted in greater earnestness of purpose and in closer application to study.

"If it pays to educate, it pays to do
it well, and if it pays to do it well, favorable conditions are economical."
There are two conditions which seriously hamper and interfere with the work of the school, an over-crowded building and a lack of sufficient teaching force.

The capacity of a school building can not and should not be estimated by the number of pupils that can be crowded into it but by the number of teachers
that can be provided with convenient, healthful class rooms, accommodating
a reasonable number of pupils per teacher. Our building, according to the standard of modern secondary education, should not accommodate more than two hundred and seventy-five pupils, and yet four hundred and forty-six are crowded into it while seventy-six other pupils, unable to be accommodated, had to be transferred to unsanitary rooms in the old building.
Under the present conditions, it is necessary to use for recitation purposes, poorly lighted and poorly ventilated corridors, drawing and lecture rooms, and laboratories. It is also necessary to overcrowd some divisions

so that others will be small enough to be accommodated in places too small for classes of the regular size. The school is deprived of a biological laboratory, of a library room, and of an assembly hall. It is necessary to use the present hall for study purposes, thus leaving no place to assemble even
a whole class for general or public exercises. Unless the interests of the school are to be sacrificed, unless the disadvantages under which teachers and pupils are obliged to work are to be increased constantly by the growth of the school, and unless successful work is to be rendered less assured, increased accommodations must be provided at once.

To show the rapid growth of the school during the past three years, the following table has been prepared. It gives the number of different pupils enrolled in the classes of the school in December of 1898, 1899 and 1900, and presents a careful estimate of the size of the school and of the different classes for the year of 1901. This estimate is based upon facts secured from the records of the past three years and does not make allowances for the promised, rapid growth at Quincy Point, due to the ship building industry. For this reason it is safe to say that the estimate will be too small rather than too large.

Year.	1898.	1899.	1900.	1901.
Freshman.	207	243	221	253
Sophomore.	122	123	171	157
Junior.	52	64	67	88
Senior.	41	48	51	58
Graduate.	2	2	12	14
Total.	424	480	522	566

*This is two hundred pupils more than both
the old and new buildings should accommodate under modern conditions.
That the influence and the efficiency of the school may not be impaired, an addition should be built large enough to accommodate the present school and to provide for future growth. It should provide additional class rooms, recitation rooms, laboratories, lecture room,
manual training and domestic science rooms, gymnasium, reading room and lunch room. The whole should furnish adequate accommodations for a thousand students.

Oak streets, one on Linden street, and that the oil lights on these streets be discontinued.

The order in the calendar for a light on Standish avenue was passed.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman Freeman offered an order for refund of taxes paid by Mary McAuley, all amounting to $67.
Adopted.

The joint committee on Public Buildings and Ordinances were authorized to report in print an ordinance
providing for building inspection.

ANOTHER STORM SEWER.
Councilman Spargo offered an order appropriating $2,000 for a storm sewer on Water street, from Franklin street to Quincy avenue, with eleven catch basins. To Committee on Streets.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS.
Councilman Bass offered an order appropriating $150 to defray expenses
of Camp Boyd, L.S.W.V., on Memorial day. There was some doubt about the rights of the Council to vote money to the Spanish War Veterans and pending investigation the order was withdrawn.

AN EXPLANATION.
Councilman DeNormandie offered an order, that the Clerk of the Council shall forthwith rise and report by what authority and at whose request he issued notices for a meeting of the City Council on March 11 (the night of the meeting of the Committee of the Whole).

The order passed and Clerk Spear
said it was not the intention to hold a Council meeting. He supposed all the Councilmen understood it. On the Monday morning in question he had been requested by President Bryant
to notify the Councilmen of the meeting of the Committee of the Whole that evening, and he had used the postals of the City Council.

After a few questions by Councilman DeNormandie and further explanation
by President Bryant the matter was temporarily dropped.

SECONDARY INSTITUTIONS.
Councilman Faxon offered an order for a Committee of Five (three from the Council, together with the chairmen of the Board of Managers of Adams Academy and Woodward Institute) to ascertain what might be done to utilize the educational advantages of both the institutions named to their full extent.
Adopted.

PAVING.
Councilman Hughes offered an order
appropriating $8000 for paving one side of Willard street between Copeland street and the Milton line. To Committee on Streets.

PIPE DRAIN.
Councilman Callahan offered an order for a pipe drain for Miller street. To Committee on Streets.

SIDEWALKS.
Councilman Sherman offered an order appropriating $5000 for a concrete sidewalk on Granite street from Whit-well street to School street.

Councilman Newcomb offered an order appropriating $1200 for a sidewalk on the west side of Chestnut street for its entire length.

Councilman Bass offered an order appropriating $1000 for a sidewalk on the west side of Bigelow street, from Revere road to Town brook.

All were read and referred.

NEW STREETS.
An order of Councilman Newcomb
was adopted authorizing the Committee on Ordinances to have printed 100 copies of the proposed ordinances concerning the acceptance of streets.

TURNED DOWN.
Councilman DeNormandie moved that the clerk be instructed not to issue any notices for further meetings of the Committee of the Whole.

President Bryant ruled that the City Council had no right to instruct the Committee of the Whole.

Adjourned.

GOOD ENTERTAINERS

Gentlemen Give a Return Party to Ladies of 20th Century Club.

The ladies of the Twentieth Century
club were entertained by the gentlemen
Monday evening at the residence of ex-Councilman Lester M. Pratt on Franklin street. The entertainment planned by the gentlemen was in the nature of a return party in recognition of the several pleasant evening gatherings to which they had been invited by the ladies. The committee having the matter in charge did their work well, and the evening proved to be one of rare enjoyment. For two hours everybody played whist, and the pretty prizes which were shown stimulated each to do her or his best. At the conclusion of play, it was found that Mrs. E.
Frank Mitchell and Mrs. John Richards were the fortunate ladies, and they were presented with a handsome bronze bust and a vase. It was announced early in the evening that a consolation prize had been provided for the gentleman who had the smallest score. Charles H. Penniman was the gentleman who secured the mysterious package, and after removing several yards of paper, in which it was wrapped, a perfect model of a very useful, if not ornamental article was brought to view.
The beer mug, which was the prize for the gentleman who had the largest score, went to a temperance man who lives on Hancock street.

After the prizes had been awarded,
the doors leading to the dining room were thrown open, and another hour was passed in partaking of the many things, pleasing to the taste, that had been prepared under the direction of the gentlemen, with some assistance by the ladies. Music, a cake walk and an exhibition of drawing while blindfolded, occupied the balance of the evening. As the guests departed for home
each lady received a half pound box
of Page & Shaw's chocolates.

The Horse Got a Rest.

Monday noon a horse, attached to a wagon load of fruit, became exhausted
on Hancock street near Hall's stable and fell down. Just then Officer Barry came along and helped get the horse onto his feet. He remonstrated with the two young men who had the team
in charge and told them to put the horse in a stable and give him rest. At this the two men ran off leaving the team with Officer Barry, who put him in Penniman's stable. Later in the afternoon a telephone message was received from Boston saying that the team had been stolen on Commercial street, Boston, and that they would be out after it. Police Headquarters, Boston, and Station One, Boston, were communicated with, but no theft of such a team had been reported.

The fact that two men who had charge ran away, and that no theft of a team had been reported, matters looked rather queer, and when, Monday night,
the parties appeared for the team they were sharply questioned. They claimed a man named Mahoney owned the team.
Chief Hayden then informed them that if Mahoney owned the team he must come after it and prove his ownership.

The parties left promising to come out this morning. This they did.

THE BEST TRIAL

Jury Selected and Four Witnesses For the Government Give TestimonySalem, Mass., March 19.—Twelve citizens of Essex county were selected in the superior court yesterday to sit in judgment on John C. Best, charged with the murder of his fellow workman,
George E. Bailey, at the Breakheart Hill farm, in Saugus, on Oct. 31st. The selection of the jury and the reading of the indictment occupied the morning session, while the balance of the day
was consumed in a long opening argument by District Attorney Peters, covering the government's theory of the murder, and the testimony late in the afternoon of four witnesses, relating principally to the finding of Bailey's disembodied body in Floating Bridge pond.Seventy-one men out of a panel of several hundred were examined before the counsel for the prosecution and the defense agreed upon the necessary 12.
A majority of those rejected being on their averment to capital punishment.
As in all capital cases, two justices, Messrs. Sherman and Fox, sat on the bench, while Attorney General Knowlton, assisted by District Attorney Peters and Assistant District Attorney Sherman, represented the government. Best being of poor circumstances, Messrs.
Sisk and Clark were assigned to defend him.It is expected that the trial will consume a week or more, as a large number of witnesses have been called. As outlined by District Attorney Peters, the government bases its case on the theory that Best killed Bailey with a shot from a Winchester rifle, and after cutting up the body, placed different parts of the body in grain bags and sank them in the pond.The indictment is in four counts, two alleging that Best killed Bailey by shooting him with a rifle, one stating that an axe was employed, and the fourth that the deed was committed
"by some means and with some implement to the jurors unknown."Demonstration Tamed by Troops
St. Petersburg, March 19.—The students organized yesterday what was intended to be an imposing demonstration in front of a cathedral, the occasion being the anniversary of the death of Votrina, a girl who committed suicide
some years ago in a dungeon of the political prison in a fortress, in order to escape infamous persecutions. Immense crowds assembled, but the military in even greater numbers occupied the district. The demonstration was held, but, owing to the presence of the troops, it was rather a mild affair, although for a time serious consequences seemed likely to follow the brutality of the Cossacks in driving back the people with whips.

Lumber Went Up in Flames
Nashville, March 19.—The lumber yards, saw and planing mill plant of John B. Ransom & Co., in West Nashville, were destroyed by fire yesterday.
The loss is estimated at $140,000. The yards cover 20 acres of ground and the fire raged fiercely for several hours.

EDUCATION OF NATIVES

An Important Step Taken by the Philippine Commission

TEN DIVISIONS OF SCHOOLS

To Be Presided Over by a Thousand Trained Teachers From the United States—Criticism of the Doctrines of Any Church Will Not Be PermittedWashington, March 19.—One of the most important acts of the Philippine commission, as promulgated by the military authorities in the islands—that of establishing a department of public instruction in the islands—already briefly reported by cables from Manila,
has been received at the war department.The act provides for a general department of public instruction, with a central office at Manila, under the direction of a general superintendent, to be appointed by the commission at a salary of $9000 per annum. Schools are to be established in every pueblo in the archipelago where practicable, and those already established shall be reorganized where necessary.There are to be 10 school divisions in the archipelago, each with a division
superintendent, and there is to be a superior advisory board, composed of the general superintendent and four members, to be appointed by the Philippine commission. According to the terms of the act, the English language, as soon as practicable, shall be made the basis of all public instruction, and soldiers
may be detailed as instructors until replaced by trained teachers.Authority is given to the general superintendent to obtain from the United States 1000 trained teachers at salaries of not less than $75, nor more than $100 per month, the exact salary to be fixed according to the efficiency of the teacher.The act provides that no teacher or other person "shall teach or criticize the doctrines of any church, religious sect or denomination, or shall attempt to influence the pupils for or against any church or religious sect in any public school." Violation of this section is made punishable by summary dismissal
from the public service. It is provided, however, that it may be lawful for a priest or minister of the pulpit to teach religion for one-half hour, three times
a week, in the school building to pupils whose parents desire it. But if any priest, minister or religious teacher use this opportunity "for the purpose of arousing disloyalty to the United States, or of discouraging the attendance of pupils, or interfering with the discipline of schools" the division superintendent may forbid such offending priest from entering the school building
thereafter.The act also provides for a normal school at Manila for the education of natives in the science of teaching. It appropriates $100,000 for school buildings, $220,000 for text books and other supplies for the current calendar year, $25,000 for the normal school, $15,000
for the organization and maintenance of a trade school in Manila and the same amount for a school of agriculture.Among the other acts is one declaring all persons in arms against the authority of the United States in the Philippine islands and all persons aiding or abetting them on the 1st day of April, 1901, or thereafter, ineligible to hold any office of honor, trust or profit in the Philippine islands.

Awaiting News of Peace

London, March 19.—Lord Roberts, in a letter to a correspondent, expresses a confident hope that Lord Kitchener will soon be able to secure peace in South Africa, but thus far there is no sign from Pretoria or Cape Town that peace is near. The latest news is that General Fourie, with 800 men, escaped Sunday
from the British columns that were endeavoring to corner the commando east of Bloemfontein. Further big operations will be started in Orange River colony within a few days.

Anthracite Strike Would Be "Local"

Scranton, Pa., March 19.—President Mitchell of the Miners' union states that if it becomes necessary to order a strike
in all the district presidents being newssary before a strike can be ordered do not apply in this instance. He said it only applied to a general strike, and that the strike of the anthracite miners would be considered local.

Experts' Services Come High

New York, March 19.—A jury in the supreme court yesterday returned a verdict for $1,577.69 in favor of Dr. William E. Hagan, an expert in handwriting, against the city. If the verdict of the jury withstands appeal, it means that in all probability the city will be compelled to pay all the handwriting experts called in the Molineux murder trial
at the rate of $50 a day.

Harrison Wrote His Own Will

Indianapolis, March 19.—Before the members of the immediate family of General Harrison leave the city a meeting will be held at which the general's last will and testament will be read before it is probated. The will of the late president is a holographic document,
written in the spring of 1899.

Three Score and Four

Princeton, N. J., March 19.—Ex-President Cleveland spent yesterday, his 64th birthday, at home with Mrs. Cleveland and their children. He entertained no callers. Congratulatory telegrams in abundance from friends were received.

Three Deaths From Poison

Sharon, Pa., March 19.—Three boys,
in search of watergreen near Sharpsville yesterday, ate a quantity of polluted berries, and died in terrible agony
about an hour later.

MOROCCO MUST SETTLE

Cruiser New York Will Enforce Payment of Claims If Other Means FailWashington, March 19.—The state department is giving renewed attention to the settlement of the claims against the government of Morocco. The claim in the case of Marcus Ezagui, who was murdered at Fez in June last, has been adjusted by the payment of $5000. But there are other claims equally meritorious which have not been satisfactorily adjusted. Recently the state department gave these consideration, all efforts on the part of Mr. Gummere, the consul general at Tangier, to adjust them, having proved ineffective.Under these circumstances, a special mission, following in this respect the practice of other governments, seemed necessary. Instructions to this end yesterday were sent to Mr. Gummere, as well as a further instruction to demand an apology for an apparent discourtesy on the part of the foreign viceroy and the minister of foreign affairs in attempting to defeat the purpose of the state department in dispatching a special mission to Morocco City.The armored cruiser New York, with Admiral Rodgers aboard, is rapidly nearing Gibraltar, with every prospect of reaching Tangier by the end of this week. She will take Mr. Gummere aboard and convey him to Mazargan,
where the consul general will disembark
and go overland to the Moorish capital.
The New York will remain at Mazargan under his orders until some sort of a settlement is reached, and Mr. Gummere was yesterday notified to this effect.

Bound to Obtain Redress

Red Wing, Minn., March 19.—George
P. Rice, the deported Manila editor of The Daily Bulletin, arrived here yesterday. He is now visiting at his old home. He is not willing to discuss his plans. He said: "My business is now with the government. In Manila I asked for a military or civil trial, but was denied both. The military there all hang together, and knowing if I could prove my statements, they were afraid that if I were allowed to remain
I might also bring charges against others. Hence I was characterized as a dangerous incendiary. I am satisfied that the evidence which I will produce will not only clear me and vindicate me, but give me redress, and I shall not rest until I obtain both."

Callahan Ordered to Give Up Letter

Omaha, Neb., March 19.—James Callahan,
the alleged kidnapper, and his attorneys were yesterday served with an order of the court commanding them to produce at Callahan's trial the original letter sent to Edward A. Cudahy, demanding $25,000 ransom for his son. This letter was enclosed in the sack of gold deposited by Cudahy at the place seized by the abductors. The county attorney and police say they have evidence that Callahan has the communication.

Echoes of "Affairs of Honor"

Paris, March 19.—Paul Deroulle reports that the seconds of Andre Buffet told his seconds that Buffet had resolved, in view of his Christian principles, to allow Deroulle to fire in the proposed duel without Buffet returning the fire. It would, therefore, have been cowardice on the part of Deroulle to insist upon carrying on the duel.M. De Rodays, who was wounded by the Count De Castellane in a duel, is suffering no pain.

Object to Settling For Breakeage

Toledo, March 19.—Glass workers at the factory of the Macbeth-Evans Lamp Company works went on strike yesterday, and threaten to call out the employees of the company's factories at Pittsburg, Elwood and Marion, Ind.
The company has just enforced an order making the workmen responsible for all breakage of the chimneys. The latter refuse to work under the order.

Elephant in Barber Shop

Indianapolis, March 19.—A young elephant escaped from the zoo here yesterday, helped across the street and threw a large plate glass window into a barber shop. While the greatly surprised barbers and their patrons hurried out the door, the elephant upset
a few chairs and then turned and ran out of the window. After a short chase it was recaptured.

Coroner Requested to Act

New York, March 19.—The coroner's office was asked last night by Ernest Sulzer, son of the late Councilman Herman Sulzer, to make an inquiry into the death of his father. He believes there are suspicious circumstances connected with it. Coroner Bausch will make an investigation today. Private physicians said that death was due to pneumonia.

A Boy's Costly Amusement

Cumberland, Md., March 19.—Thomas
Comers, the 8-year-old son of Thomas Comers, a coal miner, had seen his brothers set off powder in the yard for fun. His father kept a keg in the house, and yesterday the boy went up stairs and lighted it. The explosion wrecked the house and instantly killed
the boy.

Want Shorter Working Day

New York, March 19.—Brass workers
in four of the largest foundries in Jersey City went on strike yesterday. They the wages. Police are on guard.

OLD SOLDIER "LET FLY"

Notorious Cora Carson and a Male Companion Are Badly WoundedAugusta, Me., March 19.—A special to The Journal from Chelsea says: Two persons lie seriously wounded in the notorious Carson house in Chelsea, as the result of a shooting affair that happened Sunday night. The wounded persons are Cora Witham, better known as Cora Carson, sister of Rose Carson White, who is now serving a sentence in state prison for the murder of her husband, and a person whose name is unknown, but who is believed to have come from Thomaston, and whom Cora claims is her husband.Last week Cora Carson was liberated from the state prison, having served a sentence of two years and six months
for assault. She appeared at Togus Saturday, in company with the stranger.
The Carson woman was struck on the top of her head and most of her scalp was torn off. The man with her was struck in the neck by the shot.Officers are now on the scene, but the outcome is not known. All concerned
may be arrested.Both of the injured persons are alive,
but there is a possibility of neither recovering. Cunningham claims he had no idea who the parties were. He heard his window crash as the axe went through it, and seeing a shotgun, let fly.

Alleged Passing of Bad Draft

New London, Conn., March 19.—John Wenzell, said to have been formerly a lawyer at law in Boston, was arrested yesterday and bound over to the superior court on a charge of passing a worthless sight draft on a local merchant. Wenzell and his wife and daughter have been boarding at a hotel here for 10 days.Boston, March 19.—John Wenzell is a well known member of the Boston bar, holding the position of librarian and secretary of the Boston university law school. His home is in Winthrop Highlands. He left Boston about a month ago.

Wants to Race For $250,000

Boston, March 19.—Thomas W. Lawson last night, in a lengthy statement, named the conditions under which he would accept the proposition of Henry Haulin, breeder of The Abbot, for a race "for the sum of $250,000" between Borahna and either The Abbot or Lord Derby. The conditions are similar to those proposed by Mr. Lawson in his endeavor to get a race with Mr. Scannell.

Part of Air House Destroyed

Portland, Me., March 19.—Fire broke out in the attic of the Worthy Profession building of the clubhouse last evening.
It was caused by electric wires. There was great excitement for some time, but all of the inmates were saved. Nearly all of the roof and a part of the third story was burned. No insurance is carried by the city on these buildings,
and the loss is about $5000.

The Fight Over Gilman's Will

Bridgeport, Conn., March 19.—After a long hearing in the probate court, Judge Hobbs last night denied the application of Edward S. Percival and Edward L. Norton for appointment as administrators of the estate of the late George F. Gilman. The application was supported by a part of the heirs
only, and a further hearing on the question will be held.

gallons of water were released by the breaking of the dam at reservoir No. 2 of the Stafford Springs Water company yesterday, and hundreds of acres of meadow land were flooded to a depth of several feet.

lips, a widow, 26 years old, attempted suicide last night by shooting. Three weeks ago she tried to cut her throat
with a razor, but was unsuccessful.
Her second effort is likely to prove successful.

FANNIE B. BAILEW, who has had wonderful improvement in her skin.

For the face, which is in a horrible condition, covered with red spots, pimples, blackheads, freckles, and wrinkles. HARRISON'S WILL FILED

The Sum of $140,000 Is Left to His Wife

GETS PERSONAL PROPERTY

Consisting of Houses, Land, Horses and Household Goods — Baby Elizabeth and Benjamin Harrison McKee Get $10,000 Each — Others Remembered

Indianapolis, March 20.—General Harrison's will was yesterday estimated, public opinion rating it as high as $500,000. Those who are best informed about the ex-president's affairs, however, say he was worth about $250,000 or $300,000.

The will of General Harrison was filed for probate late yesterday. It bequeathed to the Union Trust company, as trustee, if his wife shall survive him, $125,000 to be invested, the interest to be paid to her during the term of her life.

At the death of his wife, any earned interest not paid to her shall become part of his residuary estate. To his wife he also leaves $15,000; to his daughter Elizabeth $10,000, to be paid to his wife as trustee. When Elizabeth becomes of age or marries, she is to receive an unexpended balance. If she dies before receiving it such unexpended balance shall go to her mother. He leaves $10,000 to be invested by the Union Trust company and to accumulate until his grandson, Benjamin Harrison McKee, shall become of age, when he shall have the principal and accumulated interest. The trustee is authorized, however, to use the interest in the support of the grandson, if necessary. If the grandson dies before becoming of age, the fund shall become a part of the residuary estate. To each of his grandchildren—Mary Dodge McKee, Martha Harrison and William Henry Harrison—he leaves the sum of $5,000, in addition to other gifts mentioned.

He gives to his sisters, Sarah H. Devin and Anna H. Morris, and to his sister-in-law, Elizabeth S. Parker, each the sum of $500; to his sister, Bettie H. Eaton, an annuity of $800, to be paid to her by his executors each year during her natural life, in quarterly payments; to his nephew, Benjamin Harrison, Jr., son of his brother John, $500.

To the Indianapolis orphan asylum he leaves $500; to the Eleanor home $500; to the summer mission for sick children $100; to his secretary, E. F. Tibbitt, $500.

He sets out that he has already given to his children, Russell and Mary, the jewelry and other things belonging to their mother. These and other articles belonging to their mother he bequeaths to these children. This gift, he says, is not to be taken to include articles of furniture purchased by their mother for the home and paid for by him. He confirms to his wife all the gifts she has received, all the articles in the house that were purchased within six months before his marriage with her, and all that have been purchased by either of them since that time. He also gives to his wife for the term of her life all other articles of the household used or owned by him at a period earlier than six months before, and that were in the house at the time of his death, except such articles as are otherwise disposed of. He gives to his wife all his horses, vehicles and stable furnishings. He directs that all the personal property left to his wife for her life shall at her death be divided among his surviving children, the issue of any that may have died taking the parent's share. His wife is not required to file any inventory of property, nor to give any bond, nor to be liable for any loss. He leaves to his wife for the term of her life the North Delaware homestead. He also leaves to her and to her heirs six lots in Herkimer county, N. Y.

The watch seal given to him by his wife's mother and his Grand Army name are to be kept for his daughter Elizabeth. Other came to be bestowed as his wife chooses. All debts owing to him by his son Russell are remitted and the executor is directed to cancel any evidence of such indebtedness. He gives to him the portraits of the first Mrs. Harrison, some other portraits and family relics. To his daughter, Mrs. McKee, he leaves a portrait of her mother, some other portraits and family relics. To his daughter Elizabeth he leaves some family portraits, medals and relics, together with the gold watch chain, silver toilet set and all his souvenir spoons. To his grandson, Benjamin Harrison McKee, he leaves his watch and chain and his shotgun. To his brother, Carter, his Royal Legion badge and a cane, to be selected by his wife. To his brother John, his gold sleeve buttons and a cane. It is directed that the provisions made for his wife are in lieu of all her interest in the estate of his widow.

All the rest of his estate is left as follows: It is to be divided into as many equal shares as he leaves children, and one additional share for the issue of any child that may have died leaving an issue. One such share is given to his son Russell, in trust for the children of Russell, to be used for the support and education of such children; such portion as is not used before shall be turned over to the child on his becoming of age. In the event of the death of any of such children, his share shall be divided among the surviving children. The second equal share is given to his daughter, Mary Harrison McKee, in fee simple. A third equal share is left in fee simple to his daughter Elizabeth. If another child or children should be born to him each such child would have had one equal share.

The will was drawn up April 20, 1899. In this will he leaves his wife the sum of $100,000, but in a codicil written Feb. 13, 1901, he increased it to $125,000.

HIGH CIRCLES ALARMED

Riots at St. Petersburg Have Reached a Most Dangerous Stage

St. Petersburg, March 20.—Alarm pervades high circles here. The police have notified house owners to have their dvorniks, or house police, report for duty, and hold themselves in constant readiness. A company of Cossacks yesterday passed the Moscow gate on the way to Tsarskoe-Selo, 17 miles south of St. Petersburg, to which place the czar has just removed. The police said they would escort the czar back to the winter palace, and that he would return by carriage instead of by rail. It appears more probable, however, that the Cossacks were merely sent to Tsarskoe-Selo as a precaution, since the czar is more easily protected there than here.

It is apparently confirmed that three students were killed Monday. The Cossacks rode into the crowds on the sidewalk and many faces were cut open by their knotted whips. Students and workmen threw rubber shoes, canes and snowballs at the Cossacks. It is reported that one Cossack was killed. A thousand prisoners were taken, among them being 350 women students. The presence of workmen among the rioters rendered this demonstration more dangerous than any known in many years.

Serious riots occurred here yesterday on the occasion of a solemn mass in a cathedral for the repose of the soul of M. Bogolipoff, the minister of public instruction, who was shot and fatally wounded by Karpovich. The police fired their revolvers, and it was rumored that five students were killed and 80 others injured. Wholesale arrests, including many women, followed the rioting.

All the high schools of the city are closed, and all the police headquarters are filled with arrested persons. Others in custody, who had been temporarily confined in the military riding school, were taken to various prisons yesterday. They were cheered by the students as they passed.

A remarkable feature of the demonstration has been the prominent part taken by women of the higher class of the university.

Evangelist With a Bad Record

New York, March 20.—Clarence T. Young, who is in jail in Newark, awaiting trial on a charge of bigamy, is a deserter from the United States marine corps. Major Taylor of Brooklyn has identified Young as having enlisted in Boston Aug. 18, 1900. He was ordered to the Philippines Oct. 17, and deserted Oct. 18. It was on the very next day, Oct. 19, that he married Mary Crisco, who now charges him with bigamy. On March 1 last he married Martha Snyder in Newark without having first obtained a legal separation. The finding of a photograph of Young in the United States marine uniform which he gave to wife No. 1 led to his identification as a deserter.

Ross Raymond in Court

New York, March 20.—Ross Raymond pleaded not guilty to an indictment for grand larceny before Judge Newburger yesterday. The complainant was Henry S. Clarke, paying teller at the Lincoln National bank, who says that Raymond came to the bank with a letter addressed to President James of the institution, purporting to be signed by Secretary Loebe of Columbia university, with a draft for $200. The draft was cashed, and later it was learned that the order on which it had been obtained was forged.

A MUTINY OF CONVICTS

Took Possession of Penitentiary Mine in Kansas

WERE NO VIOLENT ACTS

Guards Were Held as Hostages Beneath the Surface — Hunger and a Volley of Shots Finally Ended Strike For Lighter Labor and Better Food

Leavenworth, Kan., March 20.—The insurrection of the convict miners in the state penitentiary shaft at Lansing was brought to a close at 11:30 o'clock last night, and the mutinous convicts were placed in their cells as fast as they were brought to the surface. The imprisoned guards have been released and are again above the surface.

The 24 convicts in the coal mine mutinied Monday, seized the 15 guards, stopped work and took complete possession of the mine. The convicts held the guards as hostages for the enforcement of their demands for lighter work and better food. As many of the convicts were life-term murderers there was great fear for the safety of the guards. It appears, however, that no violence was offered, the convicts merely going on strike.

Shortly after midnight last night the warden and every available officer gathered around the mouth of the mine, each man heavily armed. Hunger had begun to tell upon the mutinous convicts, and they began to parley with the warden. They sent word that if he would promise not to inflict punishment for their action they would come up. To this the warden would not consent, sending down word that the surrender must be unconditional, the question of punishment to be considered later.

As night wore on it was decided to attempt a rescue of the guards, and also to overawe the convicts and force their surrender. Selecting his men, the warden, with seven or eight guards, heavily armed, entered the hoist and were speeding downward.

When near the bottom of the pit a heavy fusillade was opened, the shots being fired toward the top of the shaft. This took the convicts by surprise, and thinking the shots were intended for them, they hastily fled, leaving the guards, who were soon joined by their comrades, after which they were sent to the top.

The armed guards then started after the convicts, and soon had the ring-leaders under arrest, when the others gave in and surrendered. The work of taking them to the surface began, and this morning the convicts were again behind the bars of their cells.

The first outbreak in the mine was started by the convicts in division No. 8. Of the 19 men in this division, 10 seized the guard and overpowered him and announced that they had decided to strike. They told the guard that they had decided to mine two, instead of three cars of coal as a day's work in the future, and that they proposed to have better food.

This guard was left in charge of two of the convicts in the mutiny, while the others marched to the adjoining divisions and called on the convicts there to join the revolt. The convicts were soon marching through the mine from one division to another, yelling and swinging their lamps and picks.

Other desperate convicts fell into the spirit, while the short-term men generally offered no opposition to the mutineers and quietly joined them.

The officers, being unarmed, were helpless, and the life of any one would have been forfeited had he tried to check the mad spirit of the convicts.

Phenomenon Remains Unsolved

Berlin, March 20.—The Berlin Geographical society devoted yesterday to a discussion of the colored rain which fell recently in various parts of Germany. Dr. Meinardus attributed the phenomenon to sandstorms from Africa. Professor von Richthofen thought the color of the sand indicated the Sudan. The meteorological institute has received specimens of the sand which fell in Sicily and Italy for comparison with the German samples.

Russia Modified Convention

Peking, March 20.—Prince Ching confirms the information as to Russia's modification of the Manchurian convention. The Chinese minister at St. Petersburg officially reports that Russia has agreed to eliminate the clause granting her exclusive privileges in Mongolia and Turkestan, and also to modify various other clauses objected to by China. There are no further developments at Tientsin.

For Shooting a Clergyman

Arlington, N. J., March 20.—The grand jury of Hudson county yesterday handed down an indictment against Thomas G. Barker, for the shooting of Rev. John Keller on Feb. 8 last. The indictment has three counts, one for atrocious assault, one for assault with intent to kill, and one for simple assault.

Good Afternoon.

It is to be hoped that nothing will induce Rev. E. C. Butler to adopt his new found paradise for a future residence.

The resolve granting the amount which Norfolk County may raise by taxation this year has been engrossed in the Senate, yet very few people know the amount. Attempts of the Ledger to ascertain have failed.

The mill tax for State support of schools should receive better treatment from the legislature this year than in past, particularly as there have been some improvements in the bill. The State requires that Quincy shall include manned training in its High school, but the number of pupils being so large in proportion to the valuation, the city is absolutely unable to provide the necessary appropriation; while some towns
where the rich congregate, have an abundant and to spare on a low tax rate because of the unjust distribution of the corporation tax.

No streets need good concrete sidewalks more than Granite and Chestnut streets. Both are important tributaries to City Square and are without electric cars. Where people must walk they should have dry sidewalks. Good sidewalks also save shoe leather. The sidewalk on Granite street is used more than ever, now that the Cranich school has been opened. An appropriation for sidewalks is different from other appropriations in that the city gets a return from assessments. And abutters will not strenuously object to assessment if good sidewalks are general, as they will receive the benefit of all. Good sidewalks increase the value of property, as they improve the appearance of streets and neighborhoods. There is no danger just yet of Quincy having too many concrete sidewalks.

If there is anything for the City Council to investigate, the citizens of Quincy hope that they will get at it, and not continue the farce. The indications are that there are more politics
in the investigation than in the Board of Health, and that rules and laws are to be entirely ignored. Until the City Council sets a date (if not already too late) the Committee of the Whole cannot meet, for the paragraph from Cushing's Parliamentary Laws already quoted covers this point as it has been:

"Such committees can not adjourn,
as others, to another time, to consider
what was referred to it but, the business being unfinished at the regular
time for adjournment of the assembly,
or at a time when the assembly must
consider another matter, the committee
will, if it is desired, to consider the
question further, make a motion to
rise, report progress, and ask leave to
sit again. If this motion is passed in the affirmative, the chairman rises, and,
after the presiding officer has resumed
the chair of the assembly, informs him that the Committee of the Whole has been considering, agreeably to order,
the matter referred, have made progress,
but, not completing the business, have directed him to ask permission for the committee to sit again. A vote is then taken on granting such permission. If decided in the affirmative, THE TIME IS RESOLVED when the assembly shall again resolve itself into a committee. If the vote on permission be negative, the committee is dissolved."

Drift of Opinion.

There is a chance to gamble now on whether John B. Vallin will get his flying machine perfected and in operation first, or E. Moody Boynton will have his single rail, up-in-the-air railroad in operation.—Brockton Enterprise.

The story of the two presidents,
Cleveland and Harrison, will possess a peculiar interest for the political student of the future. Both are strongly partisan, but at the same time ruggedly independent. Neither of them temporized; neither sacrificed principle for personal or partisan advantage. Neither of them yielded to senators or truckled to congressmen, and neither of them was strong with
the managers of his party organization.
Almost it would seem that neither was popular in the usual acceptance of the term. Certainly neither was strong with the rank and file of his party when he retired from office; and yet it is perhaps not too much to say that no two-ex-presidents have, at any time in the history of the country, held a warmer place in the hearts of the people after their retirement to private life.—Manchester Union.

Daughters of the Covenant.

Mrs. H. E. C. Burns of Granite street entertained the Daughters of the Covenant, of Bethany church, at her home on Granite street on Tuesday evening. Eleven members were present and one honorary member, Mrs. Theophilus King, and later in the evening
Rev. E. N. Hardy was present for an hour.

Miss Jennie Lang, president, called the meeting to order at eight o'clock and a short devotional meeting was held, followed by a business session
and the election of officers as follows:
President, Miss Lucie Newcomb; Vice-president, Miss Willietta King of Wollaston; Secretary, Miss Myra Spear of Wollaston; and Treasurer, Miss Margaret Davidson.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Burns is a most charming hostess and the society always enjoys meeting at her home. The meeting on Tuesday evening was no exception, and an unusually happy evening was passed.

Tawasentha Banquet.

Twenty-two members of the Tawa-sentha club were present at the seventh annual anniversary banquet of the club Tuesday evening. The feast was served at the United States Hotel, Boston, and the menu was one that could not help appealing to the tastes of those present.
At the conclusion of the banquet Mr.
E. D. Gould was introduced as toastmaster. Brief but interesting remarks were made by A. L. Melcher F. E.
Tupper, Dr. Francis Abele, Mrs. F.
W. Crane, Miss Mabel Baxter, Dr. W.
L. Sargent and others. A feature of the evening was the reading of an original poem by Ezekiel Sargent.

The post-prandial exercises were followed by a social hour and the evening proved one of the most enjoyable gatherings the club has ever held.

Mrs. P. T. Wilson.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. P. T. Wilson of Atlantic, were held at the M. E. Church, on Friday, March 15, Rev. Walter Healey officiating. The attendance was quite large, including twenty-two descendants of the deceased. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, and in addition to those from her children and grandchildren, the following societies sent floral offerings:
Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E.
Church, Epworth League of the M. E.
Church, Junior League of the M. E.
Church, Ladies' Aid Society of the Memorial Congregational Church, and the Woman's Relief Corps, 103, of Quincy. The interment was at Cedar Grove.

Sewer Transfer.

Mayor Hall, City Solicitor Sears and
the board of Sewerage Commissioners are before the Metropolitan Sewer Commissioners today, and it is probable that the instruments transferring the pumping station and force main, and land with same, will take place today.
As Governor Crane has signed the bill consolidating the Water and Sewer Commissions of the State, the present board of Sewer Commissioners will go out of office tonight. It was therefore desired that the transfer should take place immediately. Hence the meeting today.

Building of the Des Moines.

The manganese huge stern-post of the cruiser Des Moines, which is being built at the Fore River Ship & Engine plant, which weighs six tons, was placed in position Tuesday. The stem casting which weighs five tons will be placed in position today. The cruiser is plated half way up and the watertight compartment doors have been finished. As a whole the work on the cruiser is progressing finely.

The Lawrence Speedy.

The torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence was given another builders' trial on Tuesday over the official course off Eastern point, she made several runs over the course at a speed of 25 knots,
the propellers making 283 revolutions per minute. The government officials and builders are much pleased with her performance.

QUINCY GRANITE.

No Limit for the Development and Uses.

A Stone of Unsurpassed Quality.

A New Polishing Firm with Improved Machinery.

The starting of another large granite polishing plant in the city, does not indicate a decline of the stone trade in Quincy and we think it safe to assume that as long as the best quality of Quincy granite can be had, and manufactured in a first-class manner, there need be no fear of a demand.

Quincy granite when polished, is, undoubtedly the most beautiful and in every respect the best adapted for the purpose of memorials which this country contains.

Ten years ago, when Barre, Vermont, was rapidly rearing plant after plant to meet the increasing demands for its stone, it was not unusual to hear around the stone-sheds of Quincy,
such remarks as:—"Quincy has seen its best days in the granite business."
"Better ship tools and derrick to the Green mountains," etc. But those who best understood the nature and character of the Quincy stone, as compared with the product of most other places, including Barre, predicted a steadily increasing demand for the peerless product of our blue hills.
And how surely those predictions have been fulfilled! In the last ten years we have witnessed the building and putting in operation of several extensive up-to-date polishing plants, and still another is about to be started.

Mr. Thomas Mitchell, who is well known in the polishing business here,
and who fully understands the business and its existing demands, besides having intelligent ideas concerning the future of the trade, has erected near the corner of Centre and Columbia streets, a large building, and is now busy setting up the machinery and expects to be ready to do business next week.

The main building, in which the polishing machines are being situated has a floor space of about 4,000 feet,
and is about thirty-five feet in height.

On the north-east corner is built the boiler and engine house. The boiler is of the latest type and will develop a pressure of an hundred horse-power.
The machinery also is all of the latest and most approved patterns, and with the new discoveries and improvements in polishing materials will be capable of turning out an amount of work, per man, that would fairly surprise a granite polisher whose record dates back ten years.

There is no saying to what extent the granite business of Quincy may develop. The unsurpassed quality of the stone, and the high polish it takes are features which will recommend it
for more purposes than it is yet used.
The introduction of new devices in its manufacture, make it possible to produce it in a variety of ways, and for purposes not thought of in the past.

When we think of the diamond saw,
the pneumatic tools, the improved
turning lath and the latest machines
for polishing, we are led into visions of cunningly carved and beautifully polished interior decorations of our public monuments and buildings, and also the fanciful ornamentation of private homes. This will be done in tracings and carvings shown in contrast on the polished surface which can be produced now as finely as with the pencil, and at a cost which will be not of consideration, when the beautiful possibilities are fully known.

We saw, only the other day, in a yard, near to the new polishing shop,
a picture of the "Gates Ajar," with the penitent clinging to the cross in the background, and flanked on both sides by beautifully designed vases containing flowers, traced on the dark polished surface of a piece of Quincy granite. The tracing showed in striking contrast and for delicacy and exact-ness of execution could not be surpassed with the pencil, and it will ex-cure in its brightness and contrast as no other stone, we know of, will.
For this kind of work the Quincy stone excels all others, and is sure to be brought into new uses.

The saw, when perfected, will have much to do with the manufacture of granite, and to it we should look, for it will make possible a new field for our product that will be limitless.

In the granite business, generally,
Quincy has much to look forward to,
and will only need skill, energy and honesty to accomplish it. The addition of Mr. Mitchell's large and finely equipped polishing plant is another reminder that the business in Quincy is growing, and that we should take due care to maintain, and if possible improve our high standard of workmanship, and be ever on the alert for methods, tools and materials that will add to our efficiency and variety of products. In this connection a technical school would be a great help to the industry and to Quincy.

Mrs. Margaret Carroll, another old resident of Quincy, died at her residence on North street, Quincy Point, on Tuesday, in her 84th year. Ex-Councilman Cleverly is one of her grandchildren. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from St John's church.

A young Quincy bachelor celebrated his birthday, which is St. Patrick's day, the 17th, by a family tea, augmented by the company of his bright, particular chum, on Monday evening.
The hostess' toilet was partially in green and the typical green ornamented
the tea table. The evening closed with a dual contest of the new fashionable game of hearts, as played by cards.

A Reduction.

The order adopted by the City Council last Monday night relative to Soldiers' Relief makes quite a saving to the city. Under the new order, or revision of the Soldiers' Relief list, the amount paid is $147 per month against $195 under the former orders. This makes a saving of $48 per month, or over $500 a year.

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

This page designated by TIFFANY.

Immortal year, when the public mind is over President Grover's, is a fitting issue General Grover's book. It is already tremendous, and will perhaps be the most important American history of the century. It is a book that Grover has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Lincoln, President McKinley and the Chief Executives of the Nation. Every student of American history should read this book. It is a book that Grover

Modern education requires the development of three forms of power,
if there is to be clear, complete expression of thought—that of the body,
that of the intellect, and that of the heart. The High School, while training the last two, gives the first no attention other than lessons in drawing.
This omission is responsible for the failure of many bright, promising pupils. Manual training quickens the intellectual life; forms the sense of order and beauty, awakens creative activity; secures diligence, accuracy and economy; places empirical experiences side by side with theoretical knowledge and aids the development of practical power. Manual training emphasizes accuracy and honesty because errors cannot be covered up and begets self reliance, since each must perform his allotted task. Business, industrial success, and national prosperity are demanding young men and women equipped with qualities of integrity, industry, judgment, and purpose. Educated workmen are demanded who have been trained to grasp situations, to think clearly, and then to act with energy and precision. The

Manual Training and Gymnasium Among Necessities.

Continuing the annual report of Head Master Harper to the Superintendent of Schools, are suggestions for thought relative to the teaching force, manual training, gymnasium and other needs of the school, which conclude the report as follows:

The ratio of teachers to pupils in the high schools of Massachusetts is one teacher to each twenty-six pupils on the basis of enrollment. This means that the Quincy High School with an enrollment of five hundred and twenty-two pupils should have at least twenty-two teachers, where it has but fourteen—
a ratio of one teacher to thirty-eight pupils, twelve more to each teacher
than is customary throughout the state.
It is an acknowledged fact that the smaller the divisions, within reasonable limits, the greater the percentage of successful pupils and promotions. According to the opinion of our best authorities a division should not exceed twenty. The efficiency of the teaching in our school is decreased, because it is necessary many times to make divisions of more than thirty pupils. It also deprives the teachers of periods for consultation with their pupils, and demands that they should spend more than a reasonable amount of time out of school hours in correction and preparation of work. This is loss to the pupils, since limited opportunities for self-improvement mean limited breadth in teaching. The following table shows the total enrollment, the number of teachers, the ratio of pupils to teachers existing in several schools of the state, and the number of teachers that Quincy should employ on a similar basis. Schools in cities like Brookline are omitted, because of greater resources at their disposal. This data represents the conditions in these schools, December 1, 1900.

Birth Party.

Miss Muriel Rogers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Rogers of Hancock street, observed her thirteenth birthday Tuesday evening by entertaining a large number of her young friends. Over forty were present.
Among the attractions was a Geographical party, where the children guessed what several emblematic cards on the wall represented—either city, country, mountain, lake, etc. In this they were very successful. After other games refreshments were bountifully served.
Then came cake walks, chorus singing,
and a good social time until nearly ten o'clock.

There was a birthday cake at the feast
upon which were burned thirteen candles. The ring hidden therein was found by Annie Blacklock, the thimble
by Alice Claffin, and the dime by Edward Taber. It was feared at one time before it was located, that another young man had swallowed the dime,
and it was a relief to learn otherwise.

Among those present were:

William Currier, Lorenzo Gison, Eugene
Duggan, Carl Sheppard, Carl Prescott, Carlton
Hallowell, Carl Saville, Harry Drake, Axel
Sprund, Homer Morrison, Wallace Carr, Robert Curis, Guy Peters, Edward Taber, Robert
Hardwick, Charles Parker, Morton Smith.

Helen Currier, Avah Gison, Constance Barker, Stella Barker, Alice Claffin, Helen Rhines Mildred Rogers, Germa Saville, Cleo-
rine Saville, Cornelia Weeden, Grace Spear, Irma Tilton, Carlina Walker, Eunice Kidd,
Minnie Packard, Mabel Lovejoy, Marguerite
Davis, Estelle Tirrell, Annie Blacklock.

A Rare Treat.

Through the courtesy of the Copley Society of Boston, of which the instructor of drawing at the Woodward Institute is a member, 78 of the pupils and teachers of that school enjoyed a rare treat Tuesday in viewing the old masterpieces at the Fair Children Exhibition. In the absence of the principal at Plymouth, the party was in charge of the associate teachers of the Woodward. Special cars attached to the 9.12 inward and 12.28 outward trains conveyed the party to and from Boston.

BUILDING LAWS.

Favored at Meeting of Atlantic Monday Evening Club.

The Atlantic Monday Evening Club
at its last meeting was favored with an interesting and instructive paper
abounding in good advice and true public spirit by Mrs. Ida Waterhouse of Atlantic on "How may we improve the appearance of Atlantic?"

The necessity of restrictive building laws was one of the many points she touched upon as conducive to the desired effect.

The musical part of the program was in the hands of the committee, Mrs.
Alfred Jelinek and Mr. C. Anton
Stecher and consisted of piano solos,
"Faust," "La Truite" and "Narcissus,"
by Miss Annie Wendelstein of Canton; Vocal solos, "Leave me to languish,"
"My Jaqueminot," "Give me my home," "Do you remember" by Miss Russell of a New Bedford Church quartet; tenor solos, "Was ever maid
so fair?"—Otto, Cantor, "Legend
by the hearthstone"—M. Wegelin, sung by Mr. William Prior of Dorchester; and a duet "I live and love thee,"
—F. Campana, by Miss Russell and Mr. Prior.

Miss Wendelstein's playing was exquisite and won the unstinted approval of the audience of two hundred and fifty.

With equal vigor the large audience
showed its appreciation of the vocal solos Miss Russell and Mr. Prior and of the duet where the blending of their voices was very effective.

Mrs. Herbert Gearwar and Mr. W. N.
Ware were the introduction committee.

A DISCOVERY.

Rev. E. C. Butler Has Found a Model Town in South.

Henry H. Faxon has received the following letter from Rev. E. C. Butler, which will be of interest:

Daytona, Florida,
March 17, 1901.

My Dear Mr. Faxon:

I have discovered the model town. I don't know but that somebody else
may have thought of it, but it is reserved for me to make the discovery,
just as the Norsemen came to America before the time of Columbus, yet the true discovery was reserved for Columbus himself, so the discovery of Daytona has been reserved for me.

I know that you are interested in sociological matters and so I want to tell you about this delightful place. In the first place there didn't anybody live here beyond a few "crackers"—but some people from the North happened along, saw the advantages of the place, and forthwith built themselves cottages and settled down to the enjoyment of the delightful climate.

Anybody can get a living here, because it does not need much to live upon. He does not need much of a house, because in the few cold days a few sticks of wood will keep any kind of a house warm, but most of the time
one needs no fire at all.

The sea is close by with a beach
seventy miles long, and the Halifax river also, both of them full of oysters, clams and fish.

By and by more people came down from the North, until there are 1500 people. No one is very rich and no one poor, except the darkies, and they are the richest people I know. Everybody seems comfortable and able to own a bicycle, for nobody walks.

It is truly the ideal condition but one can easily see the reason for it. No body is idle and there are no rum holes.
There was an attempt made to establish one or two but the citizens got together and gave the owners two hours to get out of town and they went.

The result is that there are no policemen, no vagrants, no beggars, no paupers. There is one lawyer, but he has no business. The town clerk is a boy and has not much to do.

I never saw anything like it. Things seem to run themselves. But the value of real estate is increasing. There is a building lot just across from where we are staying held for $3000, and I fear
the simplicity of the old life will soon be broken up, but as things are now, it shows what can be done in this direction.

Sincerely yours,
E. C. Butler.

WOOD FROM PEAT.

Artificial Austrian Product Useful For Street Paving.

No natural product of the earth has been so much neglected and so little esteemed as peat, yet it contains a mine of wealth for those who can appreciate its possibilities. By its adaptability as material for fuel it is of particular interest now, when the price
of coal is so high in both hemispheres.
It seems timely, therefore, to direct attention to this product, which exists in vast deposits throughout the temperate zone and is present in especially large quantities all over North America, the beds ranging from 10 to 40 feet
in depth, promising an available supply for many years to come. Although as yet peat cannot successfully compete as a fuel with anthracite coal,
since in proportion to its heating value
it is of great bulk and hence makes transportation dearer, nevertheless, with the necessity of making practical use of it, invention cannot fail to be stimulated. The problem of so saturating and compressing it into bricks as to make it replace anthracite coal for household and industrial purposes can without doubt be solved eventually.

Machines already have been constructed by means of which this valuable product can be mined with facility,
and peat has been put to a variety of industrial uses. Progress in Austria in the employment of peat is shown in the manufacture of a patent artificial wood, so called peat wood. This artificial wood is especially distinguished by the property that in moist soil it hardens steadily, owing to the formation of calcareous hydrochloride of alumina. It is perfectly adapted as a material for street paving, being absolutely free from dust, noiseless and exceedingly durable. Natural wood blocks, on the other hand, do not sufficiently resist atmospheric influences and soon warp. Peat wood is also excellently suited for railroad sleepers.
Screws, rivets and nails become as firmly fastened therein as in the best of oak. Wood sleepers rot in damp soil, while moisture only renders the peat wood harder. All kinds of wood, from willow to oak, can be excellently imitated in this new material, which holds out in suitable districts fair promise of growing into a source of profitable business enterprise.

MONEY FOR A FUNERAL.

Lake Bluff People Procure It by Amateur Theatricals.

Residents of Lake Bluff and neighoring suburbs are discussing a peculiar incident that occurred in that town recently, says the Chicago News. Two months ago Oscar Olson, a carpenter locally well known, was seized with an attack of pneumonia, which developed into quick consumption. He was unmarried, 32 years old and was generally liked, but he had no means, and some of his forethought friends began casting about for some plan whereby they might be able to provide in time for a respectable burial, which they saw soon would be required for him.

After considerable discussion a public entertainment was given under the auspices of the Lake Bluff lodge of the L. O. G. T. The ancient burlesque entitled "The District School" was chosen as the attraction for the occasion,
and for a week or more the promoters held frequent rehearsals of the little comedy in which grown people don the garments of childhood and "spell down," "do sum" and frolic through their lessons just as their grandparents are said to have done.

Olson died and was buried with the money raised for that purpose by the amateur theatricals while he was alive.

Telephones In the Streets.

Public telephones on street corners,
like fire alarm boxes, will soon be erected in New Haven. They will be inclosed in aluminum boxes the height
and shape of fire or police alarm boxes.
On each of four sides of each telephone will be a blue bell, the sign of the public telephone. The boxes will be ordinarily locked. They can be opened by dropping into a slot a coin, which is recoverable when the door is opened.
When the door has been so opened, the process of obtaining a telephone connection will be precisely the same as
at any public pay station, a directory being hung inside each box. The door of the box will be so arranged that it will shut automatically when the receiver is hung up after use. C. B. Deo-little, the superintendent of public telephone stations in New Haven is the inventor.

New Alloy In Germany.

Consul Albert writes from Brunswick
in regard to magnalium, a new alloy of aluminum and magnesium, with a percentage of from 2 to 30 per cent of the latter metal. Magnalium, it seems, is free from the bad qualities of aluminium, while it retains its light weight, firmness and tenacity. It is especially applicable in the automobile industry, in electro-technics, aeronautics and dentistry. It can be worked with the file, lathe and planing machine. It is also admirable as a solder, and its pliability adapts it as a border for lenses and eyeglasses. Magnalium is absolutely weather proof and does not rust.

Female Detectives In France.

Former Chief of Police Goron, discussing the news that a staff of women detectives was recently engaged by the Waldorf-Astoria. New York, declared that more than 5,000 women detectives are constantly employed by the French government. Hotels also employ them.
Some of the most useful political spies
are real women of the world, who do this work because they need additional funds to sustain their social position.
The French police prefer pretty women who have had trouble with justice and whose penalty has been suspended for a consideration.

Nebraska, Wisconsin, Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming and Kansas felt the effects of the storm, which tied up street car traffic in many cities and delayed railroad trains. Wisconsin reports snow and rainstorms, with rivers and streams out of their beds.

SECRET DIES WITH HER

Nobody Knows Mrs. Phillips' Motive For Suicide

SHOT HERSELF AT BOSTON

Where She Had Lived Since She Shot Her Brother In Self-Defense—Had Unsuccessfully Tried to Poison Herself Two Weeks Ago

Boston, March 20.—Mrs. Nora Pauline Phillips, the young widow whose home was in Leicester and who sought to end her life by shooting on Monday in a lodging house on Clarendon street, in this city, died at the city hospital this morning, where she had been under medical care since her almost lifeless body was found in her room early Monday night. She had not regained consciousness since she fired the shot into her head.

Last August the young woman, who is said to be the widow of Gilbert Phillips of Putnam, Conn., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McNamara of Leicester, Mass., came prominently before the public through having shot and killed her brother, David McNamara, at her sister's home near Worcester.

After the shooting she surrendered herself to the police, and at the hearing it was shown that the shooting was done in self-defense, and she was discharged. Since that time she has been in Boston, residing at the Clarendon street house about six months. About two weeks ago she made an unsuccessful attempt to poison herself with arsenic.

The motive for her act still remains unsolved, as she has been unable to converse, and no one that has yet been found is able to solve the mystery.

An adjoining apartment in the Clarendon street house was occupied by a student at Boston university, who was an intimate friend of Mrs. Phillips. As his name was found to a note found in the latter's room, it was thought that he might be able to throw some light upon the case. He states positively, however, that he knows nothing as to the woman's reason for her act. His relations toward Mrs. Phillips were simply as one fellow boarder to another, in a house where all were as members of a large family. He had occasionally taken her to entertainments, but their relations had been strictly proper.

Prolonged Litigation Likely

Bridgeport, Conn., March 20.—The first step in what may prove to be a prolonged litigation over the estate of millions left by George F. Gilman, the test merchant, was taken yesterday afternoon, when, at the conclusion of the hearing before Judge Nobbs in the probate court, it was announced that the counsel for those heirs who desired the appointment of Edward L. Norton and Edward S. Percival as administrators would appeal to the superior court from Judge Nobbs' decision. Judge Nobbs ruled that the Bridgeport Trust company shall act as sole administrator, on the motion for the appointment of George W. Smith, a nephew of the dead millionaire, as co-administrator, being denied.

Cloakmakers' Strike Threatened

New York, March 20.—The Times says that a notice stating the fact that the Brotherhood of Cloakmakers passed a resolution last spring to the effect that there will be no strikes for a year, a general strike, involving from 10,000 to 12,000 cloakmakers, is pending. Officers of the executive committee of the union stated yesterday that the manufacturers took advantage of the anti-strike resolution, and believing the cloakmakers would not strike, have been cutting prices.

Rejection of Peace Terms

London, March 20.—Joseph Chamberlain's official announcement of General Botha's refusal to accept the peace terms offered him is commented upon with an evident sense of relief. The idea that Lord Kitchener initiated the negotiations, instead of General Botha, as has been supposed, is unpopular in the British war press. The Daily Mail asks why the government instructed Lord Kitchener to sue for peace, after the murder of the peace envoys.

Prohibition That Doesn't Prohibit

Portland, Me., March 20.—Several Portland hotel men waited on Sheriff Pearson yesterday and presented a remittance against what they termed unfair discriminations in the sale of liquor. They asserted that while they were debarred from selling liquor to their guests, yet liquors were obtained from the city agency and other sources and drunk on the premises. The sheriff promised to give the matter consideration.

Bad Smashup In Nebraska

Nebraska City, Neb., March 20.—In a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight, near Johnson, last night, the fireman of the passenger train was killed and three others injured. Both trains were badly wrecked. The wreck occurred on a curve and was caused by the crew of the passenger train being unable to see the freight train on account of the blinding snowstorm.

Presiding Officers Are Socialists

Coburg, March 20.—Liebelman and Bock, Socialists, were yesterday elected president and vice president respectively of the united diet of Sax-Coburg and Gotha, the first German parliament to choose both presiding officers from the Socialist party.

Wandered Away From Almshouse

Portland, Me., March 20.—In the excitement attending the fire at the almshouse Monday night one of the inmates, an aged man named Sumner Freeman, wandered away and has not yet been found.

CROOKS' TALES DISAGREE

As to Participation of the "Wire Gang" In the Murder of May Fossberg
Pawtucket, R. I., March 20.—William McCaughey, who is serving a sentence in state prison for stealing wire, says that all the statements he has made regarding the so-called "wire gang" and their participation in the Fossberg murder at Pittsfield, Mass., are true, and that he hopes there will be an investigation. He says the Fossberg murder was the cause of the breaking up of the so-called "wire gang."

Bly, who, with Qu'lan, is charged by McCaughey with the murder of May Fossberg, says that McCaughey's statements are nearly all false. He says, however, that the statement made by McCaughey that he (Bly) told Patterson to leave the state is true, but that the other statements of McCaughey are false. Bly claims that Patterson did not say to him that if he (Bly) "squealed" on Patterson the latter would "squel" on the Pittsfield affair.

Jurors Visit Scene of Tragedy

Salem, Mass., March 20.—The jurors who have been selected to weigh the evidence before the superior court in the trial of John C. Best, charged with the murder of George E. Bailey, were given an opportunity yesterday to visit all points having any connection with the case. The entire forenoon was taken up with the visit to the Breakheart Hill farm and to the Floating bridge. At the afternoon session of the court Medical Examiner Plunkham testified that the cause of death was bullet wounds in the chest, and death probably ensued five or six minutes after the wounds were inflicted. He found two flattened bullets just under the skin of the back, near the left side, having followed a straight course through the body.

A Lamp Throwing Episode

Boston, March 20.—An exploding kerosene lamp set fire to the clothing of Mrs. Frank Enos, at her home in East Boston last night, and she was badly burned about the head, arms and body. She was taken to a hospital and is on the dangerous list. Mrs. Enos' hair was burned off, and she was cut on the hands while attempting to extinguish the blaze. Enos claims that his wife threw a lighted lamp at him, knocking him down. He is badly cut about the head. Mrs. Enos claims that her husband threw the lamp at her. He was not locked up. The police believe that the man's statement is correct.

Police on Guard at Funeral

Brockton, Mass., March 20.—The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kinsinger died on Monday of scarlet fever at the home of his parents. The parents planned for a funeral in the Polish Catholic church, but it was forbidden by the board of health. The family undertook to take the body to the church yesterday for the funeral, and three police officers had to prevent the removal of the body from the house. The funeral was held at the house, the priest alone being admitted from the outside. The officers remained on guard during the service.

To Investigate Ballot Frauds

Boston, March 20.—A private hearing was held yesterday by the board of election commissioners, which is expected to result in bringing the subject matter before the grand jury. The commissioners, during a recount of ballots cast at the last city election, found 28 ballots that had been double marked. They examined the precinct officers yesterday, taking their statements by a stenographer for record. The testimony was such that the commissioners were satisfied that the double marking was done by two of the inspectors.

Man, Child and Money Missing

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—William Wolfson, 28 years old, has been missing since Feb. 16. His 6-year-old son, it is said, and $2000 disappeared with him. Wolfson was proprietor of a small shoe store, peddling shoes outside, while his sister tended the store. When he left Wolfson said he was going to buy another store. His wife and mother-in-law fear he may have met with foul play, since he had so large a sum of money with him.

Captured by the Watchman

Pawtucket, R. Death's Frequent Calls

Brockton, Mass., March 20.—Three times within a week has death visited the family of Charles H. Taylor of this city. A few days ago Mrs. Taylor's mother died, and on Monday her aunt passed away. Yesterday Mr. Taylor's mother died. The three deaths were from different diseases.

PAINFUL AND PECULIAR

Circumstances Attending the Funeral of Herman Sulzer at New York
New York, March 20.—The funeral of the late Councilman Herman Sulzer was held in Scottish Rite hall yesterday afternoon. While the dead man's wife, their son and 16-year-old daughter were in attendance, it was contrary to the wishes of Sulzer himself, as expressed by him in writing before his death. These three sat apart and distant from the casket, while close to it sat the aged father, supporting a woman, Mrs. Ida Weiman, whose claim it was that she was recognized by Sulzer in his lifetime as his wife "in the sight of God."

In addition to giving instructions that his widow and children should not be admitted to the funeral services, Herman Sulzer also asked that none of them be interred in the same plot of ground with him.

It was the intention of those in charge of the funeral to carry out the wishes of the deceased, but during the temporary absence of those in charge, Mrs. Sulzer and her children entered the hall and took seats. It was then decided not to disturb them, but two detectives were ordered to remain near the party to prevent them from creating a scene.

After the services Mrs. Weiman, while taking a last look at the body, fell in a faint across the casket and was carried into the open air. After she had left the building, the wife and children, unaccompanied, went up to the casket. Clara and her brother were the first to reach it, and the son started those in the hall by crying out, "Oh, father, father." Both were gently taken out of the room, and then Mrs. Sulzer looked on the body of her husband for the last time. She sobbed bitterly, but made no demonstration and left the hall with a firm step.

The body was taken to Woodlawn cemetery, where it was placed in the receiving vault.

Boiler Known to Be Unsafe

Testimony showed that it was a common occurrence to have the boiler blow off. Whenever this occurred the employees would rush out of the rooms nearest the engine room. There was a feeling of insecurity in regard to the safety of the boiler.

Travelers Have Dry Throats

London, March 20.—At a meeting of the shareholders of a London wine firm, the chairman, while congratulating those present upon having supplied the wine on the steamer Ophir, upon which the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York are making their colonial tour, stated that this vessel had not space enough to carry a sufficient stock of wine for the whole voyage. Consequently, the firm's agents would board the Ophir at her various ports of call and fill up her bins.

Foreigners Leaving Mining District

Hazleton, Pa., March 20.—The fear of another general anthracite coal strike on April 1 is causing a great exodus among the foreign-speaking miners of the Hazleton region. Today 50 Italians went to Johnstown, where they have secured work in the iron mines. Many Hungarians and Italians have engaged passage on outgoing steamers, and will remain in Europe until the strike, if one occurs, is over. The probability of a strike has also caused stagnation in business circles.

Alleged "Cooking" of Evidence

London, March 20.—The house of commons sat until 3 o'clock this morning to discuss the estimates. Mr. Burdett Coutts attacked the South African hospital commission's report, which he described as "partial, inadequate and important in its conclusions." He charged the officers of the medical service with "cooking" evidence, and he practically accused the commission of hiding the truth from the British public.

A Mining Town Tragedy

The entire population witnessed the fight, and not until Neville fell mortally wounded did anyone interfere. Elliott was also wounded, but not seriously. He is in jail.

Poured Kerosene on Fire

Farmington, Me., March 20.—Mrs. Stanley Poirier, aged 24, was burned to death yesterday, while pouring kerosene oil on a smoldering kitchen fire. An explosion occurred, blowing the windows out of the house and setting fire to the clothing of Mrs. Poirier. She expired before assistance could be rendered.

Good Afternoon.

There seems to be a kind of epidemic of insanity in the East Norfolk district this year. Of late there has been a case in court almost every day. Some idea of the number may be had when it is known that more cases have been passed upon thus far this year than the average number for eighteen years. Many of the cases are from Quincy.

There is method in the giving of Mr. Andrew Carnegie and the millions which this prince of givers is scattering over the country promise to be a help and an inspiration to the masses. Massachusetts is well supplied with public libraries, a recent newspaper item having stated that there were only four towns in the State without free public libraries. Mr. Carnegie is against raising church debts or assisting churches in any way, but is known to have given one or two organs. Library buildings are his hobby, but we understand his giving will not be wholly confined to these institutions. In fact he has already given a princely sum to benefit the men who have worked for him at Pittsburgh, and to endow educational institutions there.

Occasionally a city is against asking Mr. Carnegie for a library, or accepting the gift of one, and a few newspapers commend the attitude, arguing that it will lead to municipal pauperism. But is their ground solid? Mr. Carnegie does not intend any community shall get something for nothing. When he offers a library building, he requires that the city shall furnish the land, and also agree to contribute a liberal sum annually to maintain it. Many of the libraries have been given to Massachusetts cities and towns on this same plan. It was so in Quincy and neighboring towns, and each of these places are expending more annually to maintain libraries than they were before the gifts. New York city before it can accept 41 library buildings wants authority to raise $5,000,000 to purchase sites. It is evident that the favored cities must meet Mr. Carnegie half way and fulfill their part of the contract.

Drift of Opinion.

Dark green "black" boards are to take the place of black blackboards in the Chicago schools. What a job! But since it is the result of the advice of some society or other, the expense is of no account.—Journal of Education.

It is almost time for that sweetest of spring messengers—the blizzard. How queer it is, that however mild the weather and balmy the air we can never quite believe winter is gone until we hear one morning those musical notes, and catch a glimpse of that bit of sky on wings. After that it is quite easy to convince ourselves that it is time to pack away our heavy coats and furs. There is a pretty legend from somewhere that tells us that the blizzard is really a bit of Heaven come down to warn the green things that it is time to wake up and prepare for spring.—Hingham Journal.

A Record Breaker.

The temperature at noon today was 59 degrees. This is the highest the mercury has been, at noon, this year and in fact the highest since Nov. 23, last year, when it was 63. A year ago, March 20, the temperature at noon was 65, and a year ago today it was 44.

AN AGREEMENT.

For Transfer of Quincy Sewer Plant for $98,974.20.

Although the instrument, transferring the sewer pumping station force main and land therewith to the Metropolitan Sewer Commission was not passed Wednesday, at the conference between Mayor Hall, City Solicitor Sears and the Sewer Commissioners of Quincy, and the Metropolitan Commissioners, an agreement for the transfer was made. The agreement provides that the price paid shall be $98,974.20. The papers will be passed later.

This was doubtless almost the last official act of the Metropolitan Sewer Commission as Governor Crane has signed the bill consolidating the Sewer and Water Commissions. The agreement was reached before the bill became a law. It was on this account that the matter of the transfer was hastened. The money received from the sale of the property will be placed in the city treasury for the present.

Looking for $5.

John Lyons, who two years ago started to become an independent candidate for Mayor, came into court this morning looking for $5 from Clerk Churchill, claiming that amount was due him for an overpaid fine in 1896. He claimed that in 1896 he was brought into court for profanity and was fined $10 which he paid. He has now come to the conclusion that he paid $5 too much and he wants it back. In support of his claim he says the public statutes fix the fine for that offence at $5, and that the ordinances of Quincy can not overrule the statutes. The court records show that he was arrested and fined for violation of the City Ordinances.

It is hardly necessary to say that he run up against a snag when he tackled Clerk Churchill and that he did not get the coveted $5.

Accident.

J. Joseph Kane of Brockton had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday night on Quincy avenue. He was on his way to Brockton with a pair of horses, one of which he was leading. Just before he reached the top of the hill north of Newcomb square the car due in Quincy at 10:25 came over the hill. The horse that he was leading became frightened at the car and pulled the horse he was riding toward the car. By this time Kane realized that nothing but quick work would save him and he made a jump for the car, catching it by the bonnet where he hung on until it came to a stop.

Kane was taken on the car and brought to Quincy where his injuries were attended by Dr. Garey. Those consisted of a lacerated right hand and a slight cut under the right eye. Neither were serious. The horses were taken in charge by Millard Newcomb. One escaped uninjured but the horse that was being led and caused the trouble was so badly injured that he had to be killed.

Presentation.

Miss Bessie Powell, who has made her home with Dr. England, but who is now with Mrs. George Stevens at Braintree, was given a surprise party Wednesday evening by a large number of her Quincy friends. The evening was passed in a social manner with games and music, not forgetting refreshments. Before the surprises departed for home they presented Miss Powell with a gold watch as a token of their esteem. Miss Powell leaves next week for Baltimore, Md., where she will make her future home.

Lanterns in Darktown.

Weymouth people had a good opportunity Wednesday night to see the result of their folly in refusing to make an appropriation for street lighting. It was had enough being about in towns where there were lights in the mist and rain but it was something terrible in Weymouth and a stranger would have thought he was in the backwoods somewhere. There were several church affairs in East Weymouth, Wednesday night, and it was noticed that many of the people carried lanterns to light their way.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the Grippe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease! Get a bottle today and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose, lungs free from inflammation. All drug-gists sell KEMP'S BALSAM at 25c. and 50c.

BADGER DISSENTS

Objects to Dropping the Semi Colon.

Keith of Brockton is With Him.

Eight of the Eleven on Liquor Committee Report in Favor.

There promises to be a fight in the Legislature over the attempt to remove the semi-colon from the liquor law, which now prevents the sale of liquors in licensed hotels after 11 P. M. The hotel men say it was a mistake in punctuation and did not at first anticipate any opposition to the change, but Henry H. Faxon appeared at the hearing in opposition, and the report of the Committee on Liquor Laws on Wednesday was not unanimous.

Eight of the eleven are in favor and voted to report the bill as requested by the Hotel Mens Association as follows:

Section 1.—The second condition of sec. 9 of chap. 100 of the Public Statutes, as amended by chap. 90 of the acts of the year 1885, is hereby amended by striking out said condition and inserting in place thereof the following:

Second.—That no sale of spirituous or intoxicating liquor shall, except as hereinafter provided, be made between the hours of 11 at night and 6 in the morning, nor during the Lord's day, but, if the licensee is also licensed as an innholder, he may at any time supply such liquor to guests who have resorted to his house for food or lodging.

Sec. 2.—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3.—This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Keith of Brockton and Badger of Quincy, who voted against reporting the bill, reserved the right to dissent from the committee's report, and it is probable that they will have many supporters.

The bill was reported in the Senate, while both of the dissenters are members of the House, so that it stands a good show of passing the Senate, particularly as the three senators on the committee favor it.

A Chafing Dish Lunch.

The entertainment and chafing dish lunch given by the Edward Hewitson Associates Tuesday evening was a grand success. The Wollaston Unitarian vestry was filled to overflowing with about two hundred friends of the boys, when John E. Simmons opened the program with an overture composed by Mrs. Edith Noyes Porter. Mr. Williams announced the numbers of the program.

Mr. Bacheelder of Boston, played several cornet solos, and Mr. Ritchie of Boston read humorous selections that pleased all.

A series of tableaux, illustrative of "Hanging of the Crane" were presented under the direction of Miss Almira Simmons, Miss Frame, Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Tenney. The performers all acquitted themselves creditably.

A double quartette, consisting of Messrs. Winslow, Brown, Thayer, Anderson, Bates, Nichols, Barbour and Fowler, sang "Kentucky Babe."

The hit of the evening was a two-comedy sketch, entitled "One of the Dusenberrys," given under the management of Mrs. J. A. Barbour, by the following young people Miss Drew Miss Bates, Miss Litch, Messrs. Ganet, Nickerson Pinkham and Master Theodore Corey. The performance was full of sidesplitting situations in which Gorham Nickerson as the country farmer contributed some clever acting. All the young people sustained their parts with credit.

At the conclusion of the entertainment the seats were rearranged and small tables daintily arranged with chafing dishes and the appeturates thereto were brought in. The chafing dishes were managed by Mrs. Witham, Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Sayward, Miss Albee, Miss Bates, Miss Thayer, Miss Rideout and Miss Hatch. Fruit punch was served by H. H. Albee and H. F. Bates. The affair was ably managed by Mrs. Tenney and the boys, all of whom worked faithfully to make the evening pleasant. The thanks of the club are extended to all those who assisted in any way, to those who loaned articles and to the ladies on the committees.

—W. C. Todd of Newburyport has presented $50,000 to the Anna Jaques hospital, together with a parcel of land which is valued at $5,000 as a site for a new hospital. Mr. Todd is well known as the giver of $50,000 for the free reading room of the Boston public library, and the donor of the public libraries in Concord and Atkinson, N. H., and the reading room in the Newburyport public library.

Six tables of whist were played and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. James M. Nowland, Miss Ada Nightingale, Miss Rothenburg and Miss Block. A buffet lunch was served and a delightful afternoon was enjoyed.

The program for the Wollaston Unitary club, on Friday evening of this week promises to be unusually fine. Mr. Emory L. Crane has the evening in charge and the subject is "Literary Trifles." Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Miss Edith Randall and Mr. Crane will have papers and there will be music by Miss Florence Emery, Mrs. N. S. Hunting and the chorus which took part in the minstrel entertainment at Music hall in December. All are cordially invited.

Loss of $50,000 by Fire

New York, March 21.—The residence of George B. Raymond at Morris Plains was destroyed by fire before daylight Wednesday, entailing a loss of $50,000 on the building and its contents. The fire was caused by the crossing of a telephone and an electric light wire in the basement. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

ANOTHER ARREST PROBABLE

And the Case of Miss Foshburgh's Poisoning Will Be Further Aired, According to Statements by the Authorities

Middlebury, Vt., March 21.—Aldace Vendette, who was engaged to be married to Ida Foshburgh on Tuesday night of last week, and who was arrested on a charge of poisoning her, was released from the Middlebury jail, where he had been a prisoner in the Addison jail, is a free man, his release having been ordered at 8:30 o'clock last night by a telephone message from State's Attorney Donaway at Shoreham. Vendette, who immediately left the jail, is not much elated over his discharge, as he said late last night that he did not want to be discharged without a trial. Mr. Vendette was formally discharged by Justice Moore. State's Attorney Donaway had been in Rutland during the day in connection with the case, and made arrangements for Vendette's release. Deputy Sheriff Fish of West Rutland telephoned Jailer William H. Cobb to give Vendette his liberty, as everything to that effect had been arranged with the state's attorney. Deputy Cobb immediately took the prisoner to the court telephone office, where he had an extended talk with Deputy Sheriff Fish. At the conclusion of the conversation over the wire, Deputy Sheriff Cobb decided not to release Vendette without personal or written instructions, but upon a telephone order from the state's attorney at Shoreham he gave Mr. Vendette his liberty.

State's Attorney Donaway came up from Rutland to Leicester Junction last evening on the 5:30 train, and from there he went by train to Shoreham. It is now confidently expected that another man will be arrested today on suspicion of having caused the death of Miss Foshburgh, by sending her a poison powder through the mail. If an arrest is made the suspected party will occupy the cell vacated by Mr. Vendette. It was learned that the coroner Berry is making good progress on the analysis of the stomach of Miss Foshburgh, in an attempt to determine the actual cause of her death. It is still uncertain, however, when Mr. Berry will be able to submit his complete report to the county authorities. The receipt of this report is waited with a great deal of interest by those who are working on the case and are anxious to arrive at some definite conclusion while suspected parties are being given a searching investigation.

During the past few days it has been the general opinion of many who have followed the case that the trail leads much nearer the scene of the crime than Colorado, the adopted home of Aldace Vendette, who says he came the entire distance to Vermont for the purpose of marrying Miss Ida Foshburgh, and who shortly after his arrival at his former home, was placed under arrest accused of the murder of the woman.

Counsel for the defense have announced that unless an examination of the prisoner was shortly held the defense would attempt to force matters in favor of Vendette. The release of the prisoner now causes all such proceedings to stop, and while Mr. Vendette courted a thorough investigation and was positive that he could prove beyond a doubt that he was not implicated in the murder of Miss Foshburgh, he expressed himself as not being much elated over his release, as he did not want to be discharged without a trial, which would give him an opportunity to prove his innocence.

Would Not Interfere

Tientsin, March 21.—General Lorne Campbell, commanding the British forces and General Wogack, commanding the Russian troops, upon his arrival here, learning that both had received instructions from their governments, Count Von Waldersee said it would be useless for him to give an opinion regarding the matters at issue. General Wogack declined to discuss the question of ownership until the British had withdrawn from the ground claimed by the Russians, and on the other hand, General Campbell stated that under his instructions he could not withdraw from the position. The proposal which General Wogack refused to consider was that the disputed territory be turned over to a neutral guard, the Russian and British simultaneously withdrawing, pending legal investigation of the questions involved. General Campbell has received the approval of the government in his view of the dispute with the Russian command here, and is holding his ground under orders from London. The Russian authorities at Tientsin are upheld by St. Petersburg in the contention that any solution of the difficulty, except the withdrawal of the British troops, will be incompatible with their outraged dignity.

Japan May Take a Hand

London, March 21.—In an interview yesterday, Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister to Great Britain, said that Japan did not regard with pleasure the Russian operations in Manchuria, but, he added, there would be no cause for complaint if Russia adhered to her promise that she had no intention to permanently occupy that territory. If, however, she did occupy it and then turned her active attention to Korea, Japan would take action. When asked what action would be taken, the baron replied that that would depend on circumstances.

RACE PROBABLY OFF

An Apparent Disagreement Between Scannell and Lawson

Boston, March 21.—When Mr. Lawson learned yesterday that an agreement had not been reached between the representative in New York and the representative of Mr. Scannell, owner of The Abbot, for a race between Mr. Lawson's Boralma and The Abbot, the Boston man said that after having had his offer accepted, and a request made to send a man to New York with a certified check, which request was complied with, he did not feel inclined to accept any new conditions in regard to the race between The Abbot and Boralma. The proposition which Mr. Lawson accepted, he said, came from Mr. Scannell. The conditions of acceptance on Mr. Lawson's part were made previously, and were plainly in black and white, and Mr. Scannell announced that they were all right. If, since then, Mr. Scannell had seen fit to alter the conditions, Mr. Lawson declared that he does not feel bound to accept the changed conditions, especially as in making the match all the odds were in favor of the New Yorker. Mr. Lawson states that Mr. Scannell's original proposition was for any number of heats, from 11 to 20.

Died in New York

New York, March 21.—In fulfilling a prophecy made by himself that he would die before the end of the week, and while on his way to attend his brother's funeral, A. L. Floyd, a wealthy Boston cotton manufacturer, died on the street in front of 62 Park avenue, in this city, yesterday. Three brothers, A. L. E. D. and S. D. Floyd, were in the cotton manufacturing business. The firm name was Floyd Brothers. The headquarters of the house is maintained at 78 Chalmers street, Boston, and a branch is maintained at 199 West Broadway, this city. S. D. Floyd, who looked after the New York interests, died Monday morning, and when A. L. Floyd heard of the death he is said to have remarked: "I believe I'll follow him shortly. I'd not be surprised if I went this week." Mr. Floyd at once left for this city to attend the funeral, which was held yesterday. He was down at the office early in the day and was on his way to the funeral services when he was stricken.

Drank Carbolic Acid

North Abington, Mass., March 21.—Miss Edna Evans, the 17-year-old daughter of Edward Evans, committed suicide yesterday by taking carbolic acid. She was an employee of a local shoe factory and the other employees noticed that she was seated on a shoe box and appeared to be very sick. By the time they reached her Miss Evans fell over and became unconscious. A bottle of carbolic acid was found in her lap, which disclosed the cause of her sudden illness. Physicians were called, but were unable to render medical aid to save her life, and she died about 6 o'clock. Her family and friends are unable to advance any theory as to the motive of her act, as she had a very pleasant home, was very popular in the community, and apparently, up to the time she took the poison, she was in a happy frame of mind. None of the employees of the factory happened to see her as she took her seat on the box and drank the acid from the bottle.

The American League

Philadelphia, March 21.—The schedule meeting of the American League of Baseball clubs was held here. In addition to President Johnson all the cities in the new league were represented. The only business of importance transacted was the consideration of the schedule arranged by President Johnson. The schedule was adopted in full, but the games for the opening day, Memorial day and the Fourth of July were agreed upon.

Says Kitchener is a Prisoner

Dover, N. H., March 21.—Baron H. L. De Ginchberg of Johannesburg delivered a lecture here in aid of the widows and orphans of Boer victims of the South African war. He made the announcement that General Kitchener is a prisoner in the hands of the Boers, the capture having been made last Friday. This, he said, was an absolute fact, he having received the news direct from the South African league, of which he is a member.

Claimed to Be Jesus

Boston, March 21.—The authorities of Bucharest, Roumania, as well as some people not so far away, are interested to know that Dr. Theodore Nicholas, son of General Nicholas, is now at this city, where he is in the hospital. He is the lunatic who created a slight sensation at Trinity church last Sunday, after the afternoon services, by insisting upon seeing Dr. Donald, and claiming to be Jesus Christ.

Hard Weather in Wisconsin

Cumberland, Wis., March 21.—The severe blizzard which has prevailed throughout western Wisconsin for the past 24 hours is the worst seen for years, and has played havoc with railway traffic. All freight trains have been abandoned and passenger trains are running with double headers. Country roads are impassable and lumbering operations are at a standstill.

Diaz in Mexico City

Mexico City, March 21.—President Diaz arrived in this city last evening after an absence of nearly three months at Cuernavaca. The streets were lined with people, who cheered and waved handkerchiefs as the president passed. The president appears in excellent health.

From Governor Odell

Albany, March 21.—Governor Odell has positively and formally declined to sign any police bill, has repudiated the new bill drawn by Senator Platt and his friends, and says that if the bill came to him he would veto it, even if it was made plain that it would be passed over his veto.

AHEAD IN COMPETITION

America Wins in Markets of the World

WE HAVE AMPLE FACILITIES

By Energy and Persistence Will Capture Further Large Orders—Skillfulness at the Helm is the Only Requisite

Washington, March 21.—Consul General Guenther, at Frankfurt, Germany, in a report to the state department, submits a recent publication in which the Frankfurt chamber of commerce calls attention to the growing American competition in the markets of the world.

The publication says that the harbor authorities of Calcutta advertised for bids on locomotives. The lowest English bid was $7340 for each one, the time of delivery to be limited to nine months; the lowest American bid was $5068, the time of delivery to be limited to six months. The American firm received the contract.

A recent contract for furnishing a large quantity of cast iron pipes for the Dutch colonies was awarded to an American firm, whose bid was nearly 25 percent lower than the German competitors. Large orders for rails recently were placed in American hands from Holland.

Steel Magnates to Meet

Pittsburgh, March 21.—One of the largest and most representative meetings probably ever held by iron manufacturers will take place at Cleveland next Wednesday, for the purpose of adjusting the prices on ore for the next 12 months. All the largest manufacturers in the country will be represented. The meeting will be the first of which representatives of the United States Steel corporation will be present. Most of the prominent independents will also be in attendance. It is expected to have the bare price of iron settled upon before adjournment. The steel price will, it is said, be between $5.50 and $5.75, an advance over last year's price of about 25 cents per ton.

All Want Libraries

Southampton, March 21.—The arrival here of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, who sailed from New York on the American Line steamer St. Louis, March 15, is awaited by delegations from various missionary institutions, who want checks. These include representatives of Woolton, Reading and other cities seeking libraries, and agents of a various number of institutions desiring aid. Hartley college, Southampton, a technical school, has a deputation of 60 awaiting the steamer's arrival.

Morgan Lendit

New York, March 21.—J. P. Morgan & Co., the syndicate managers of the United States Steel corporation, have under date of March 21, sent a circular letter to the shareholders of the constituent companies informing them that the time for depositing the common and preferred stocks which expired by limitation, has been extended until and including April 1.

News From Pueblo

Pueblo, Col., March 21.—The Daily Chieftain says: "It is definitely known here that ex-Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado will, in a few days, be appointed by the president to be secretary of the interior, to succeed Mr. Hitchcock. The news has been received by friends of Mr. Wolcott in this city, the statement being made unequivocally."

"Common Sense"

Is the motto of the modern woman. The thick soled shoe and the rainy day skirt are witnesses to the wise application of the motto in matters of dress.

There is no common sense in neglecting womanly diseases or in experimenting with other medicines when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes a weak woman strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries encumbering drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

It is not common sense to seek medical advice of those who are not physicians when Dr. Pierce, not only a doctor, but a specialist in the treatment and cure of diseases of woman, offers a consultation by letter free. Write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "I had falling of internal organs and had to go to bed every month; had irregular monthly periods which would sometimes last ten or twelve days," writes Mrs. L. Holmes of Coaling Spring Street, Uniontown, Penna. "I had no digestion so bad that I could eat anything hardly. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery cured me. I took three bottles of the Favorite Prescription and one of the Golden Medical Discovery."

For 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only you can get free a paper covered copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The book contains 100 pages. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Naramore Commits a Shocking Crime

GROVER MAKES DISCOVERY

Husband Distracted and Wife May Die as a Result of Suicidal Intent — Much Sympathy Is Manifested Throughout the Community

Coldbrook, Mass., March 22.—While in a fit of temporary insanity yesterday, Mrs. Lizzie Naramore killed her entire family of six children, at her home, a farmhouse, half a mile from this village, and then tried to take her own life. The children ranged from 10 years to a babe of 10 months, and their lives were taken by the mother with an axe and a club. Then she laid the blood-drenched bodies on the beds, two on one bed, and the other four on a bed in another room. This terrible sight met the eyes of the husband and father, Frank Naramore, when he returned home some hours later. Mrs. Naramore then attempted to take her own life by cutting her throat with a razor, and when discovered she was in the bed on which the bodies of four children were lying. Although she cut a deep gash in her throat and suffered the loss of much blood, it is believed she will recover.

Frank Naramore and his happy family lived on the Babcock farm, so-called, a short distance from the village of Coldbrook, just over the town line of Oakham, but in the town of Barre. Mr. Naramore left his home at the usual hour to go to his work, and it at that time his wife did not attract his attention by acting strangely. It is supposed the crime was committed shortly after noon, the discovery being made by George Thrasher, an employee at Parker's grocery store in Coldbrook village. Mr. Thrasher visited the Naramore house at about 2:45 o'clock, for the purpose of delivering groceries that had previously been ordered by Mrs. Naramore. He was unable to get in the house by the door he usually entered, and an examination showed him that it was barricaded. He made a noise, but was unable to raise anyone. He then noticed blood on the floor, while Mrs. Naramore was lying on a bed. He was somewhat surprised also in the absence of the children, whom he was accustomed to see playing in or about the house, and the circumstances made him suspicious that something wrong had happened. He, therefore, returned to the village and told of what he had seen and what he had suspected. A party was made up, and a hasty visit was made to the Naramore house. At a late hour last night the attending physicians were confident that she would survive.

At the time the party of villagers found Mrs. Naramore she was asked how she did the deed, and she said that she took the lives in four different rooms, and as fast as she killed one child the body was placed in a bed. When Mr. Naramore reached the house he was prostrated with grief in the loss of his family. The children were three boys and three girls, Ethel, 10 years of age, being the oldest, while the ages of Walter, Charlie, Chester, Bessie and Lena ranged from 8 years to 10 months, Lena being the baby. Mrs. Naramore told her most intimate friends that she first killed Ethel, and then followed with the five others, each time taking the eldest. Five were killed by being struck on the head with the back of an axe, while Lena was killed with a club. She says she fully expected the gash in her throat would cause her death, and that when her husband returned at night he would find all of the bodies in the two beds. She appeared rational last evening, and displayed signs of sorrow for the deed she had committed, although she is unable to give any reason why she killed the children.

Each of the children had evidently received several blows, as their heads were terribly bruised, and blood was scattered in all directions about the rooms. The two beds were saturated with blood from the wounds on the six children, and the self-inflicted gash in Mrs. Naramore's neck. She had evidently made preparations for the deed, as all the doors were locked and barred with sticks of wood.

When the men first reached the house Mrs. Naramore presented all appearances of being dead, but she was soon revived. She has not been sick of late, and while her husband now remembers the past few days, he did not enter into any suspicions that she would do any harm. Mr. and Mrs. Naramore have been well and favorable known by the residents of Oakham and Barre, and their six children have been admired by everyone.

At about 9 o'clock last night Mrs. Naramore experienced a sudden change for the worse, and it is believed she will not live. At a later hour she was just alive, and no hopes were entertained for her recovery. Two lady friends and a physician have been in attendance since she was brought to the village hotel.

The affair is the most horrible in the history of the town, and sympathy is everywhere manifest for the almost heart-broken husband and father, while the woman is also pitied.

ANOTHER STEP TAKEN

By the Government in the Bailey Murder Case

Salem, Mass., March 22.—Yesterday was the fourth in the trial of John C. Best of Saugus, charged with the murder of George E. Bailey at Breakheart Hill farm, on the night of Oct. 8, 1900.

The early portion of the session was a continuation of the same line of testimony as that introduced Wednesday, concerning that "rattling Democrat wagon," in which it is the contention of the government, Best carried the dismembered body of Bailey from the farm to the Floating bridge, whence the packages were tossed into the water.

The government has introduced its testimony in the most logical sequence, first by putting on witnesses to place Bailey at the farm on the evening of Oct. 8, then to identify the rental as those of Bailey; then to show, by the medical examiner that death was caused by the bullet wounds.

Another step was to show, also, by the medical examiner that death had come about two hours after the victim had eaten; that the body had been in the pond eight to 12 days when found, and, incidentally, identifying the bags and stones which were wrapped about the body, and which weighted it so that it would sink in the water.

Documentary and Proprietary Stamps
Washington, March 22.—The commissioner of internal revenue has issued a circular relative to the redemption of documentary and proprietary revenue stamps. It says that "unused documentary and proprietary stamps, issued under the provisions of the war revenue act, for which the owners have no use, may be redeemed, but in all cases there will be deducted the percentage, if any, allowed to the purchaser. Application for the redemption of such stamps should be made to the collector of internal revenue, from whom the same were purchased, who will supply the applicant with necessary instructions relative to the preparation of his claim."

Bay State Legislature
Boston, March 22.—In the senate yesterday the committee on street railways reported a general bill under which street railway companies can carry United States mails.

The committee on election laws has voted to report two bills of particular interest to Boston, one constituting the board of election commissioners and the mayor a board for the purchase of voting machines, and the other changing the period at which subcommittees shall convene, from Oct. 1 to Aug. 1.

The features of the session of the house yesterday were the speeches in aid of the resolve for a statue of Major General William Francis Bartles, made by Representatives Sleeper of Wintthrop and Calender of Boston.

Offers a Reduction
Washington, March 22.—The state of Amazonas, Brazil, desiring to develop the rubber trade in that section, offers a reduction of 10 or 15 percent of the export duties on rubber, and permission to cut and pack in its own bonded stores to a syndicate that will take charge of the trade, according to information received at the state department from United States Consul Kennedy at Para.

Wagon Bolt a Weapon
Dunsmuir, Ont., March 22.—Neighbors found Mrs. Lynch in her house last night with her head terribly beaten. She explained that her husband had beaten her with a king bolt of a wagon until he thought she was dead, when he cut her throat with a jackknife, dying almost instantly. It is thought he was insane. Mrs. Lynch is not expected to recover.

Attacked by Insurgents
Manila, March 22.—Insurgents have attacked and burned the ungarriooned village of Uguis, in the province of South Ilocos. A detachment of the Twentieth infantry overtook and chased the marauders. Colonel Schuyler of the Forty-sixth volunteer infantry has captured eight insurgent officers and 218 men at the village of Ternate, in Cavite province.

Greeting to Diaz
New York, March 22.—A dispatch to The Herald from the City of Mexico says: President Diaz arrived in this city from Cuernavaca last evening. He was greeted at the station by cabinet ministers, high officials, several members of the diplomatic corps and a great crowd of citizens. At least 100,000 persons lined the route and gave the president an ovation as he passed.

Heavy Casting
Ansonia, Conn., March 22.—What is thought to be the heaviest casting ever made in New England lies nearly completed at the works of a machine company in this city. It is an engine bed for the public pumping station in Philadelphia, and its weight is estimated at 80,000 pounds. The casting is 22 by 9½ by 8 feet in size, and is in one piece.

HORSEMEN DISAGREE

Owners of The Abbot and Boralma

In Controversy

New York, March 22.—Fire Commissioner Scannell announced yesterday that he had decided to agree to the conditions stipulated by Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, that the proposed race between the trotters The Abbot and Boralma should be for four heats in seven.

Mr. Scannell made the following statement: "A misunderstanding having arisen between Mr. Lawson and myself as to the terms and conditions of the proposed match for $25,000 a side, with the privilege of increasing the sum to $50,000, between The Abbot and Boralma, and being anxious to gratify the desire which the public seems to have for a contest, I am willing to waive my objections to the proposition of Mr. Lawson, that the race should be for four heats in seven. I do not believe in subjecting so valuable a horse to such a strain, but as I have already conceded everything else contended for by Mr. Lawson, I have decided to make this last concession and have deposited a certified check for $10,000 to find the match."

Mr. Lawson says he does not consider that Mr. Scannell is making any "concessions," as The Abbot, Mr. Scannell's horse, is four seconds faster than Mr. Lawson's Boralma.

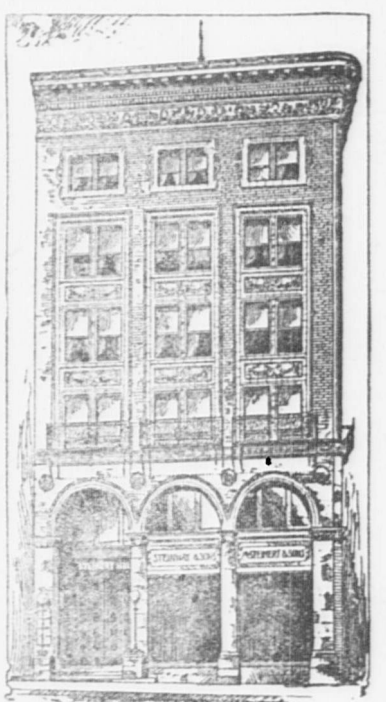

Boston, March 22.—Thomas W. Lawson, when asked if there was any possibility that a race might be arranged between Boralma and The Abbot said: "I will not reopen the matter, as I said in my statement of Wednesday evening. The incident is closed. When Mr. Scannell said he would race any horse in the world for any number of heats from seven to 20, I took him at his word. It was immaterial to me how many heats there were in the race. I would have been willing to race three in five heats if he had so stated at first, but when he said he would race The Abbot four in seven, I accepted that offer."

Important Deal

Burlington, Vt., March 22.—Negotiations have just been closed whereby the Rutland Lumber company has purchased of J. J. Fylin of this city, as agent, 20,000 acres of heavily timbered spruce land in the towns of Manchester, Sunderland, Winhall, Stratton and Dorset, in Benning county. The entire product of the timbered land has been sold to the International Paper company. General Manager Wright of Amherst, Mass., has several carloads of horses, camp equipments and supplies purchased, all of which have been shipped to the Manchester depot, to be taken to the woods. A portable mill will be located on the tract of land between the snow leaves the ground. Between 20,000 and 25,000 cords of pulp wood are to be taken out this year.

For the Manufacture of Tin

Washington, Pa., March 22.—A large plant for the manufacture of tin is to be erected at Waynesburg, Pa., at a cost of $250,000. The concern is expected to begin operations Aug. 1, and will employ 350 men.

Good Afternoon.

For some months a surprisingly large number have availed themselves of a "short cut" between City Square and the Public Library across the Dr. French estate. This shows that there is a demand for the extension of Maple place to Hancock street, and this improvement should be made now before a brick bridge is erected upon the French estate which has for some time been upon the market. We are led to these comments because the short cut has this week been closed to travel to the disappointment of many.

Until a permanent sidewalk is built at proper grade on the west side of Chestnut street, the sidewalk abutting Faxon hall will continue dangerous. Opposite the door now generally used to enter, via basement, the sidewalk is at least a foot and a half above the street, so high that it has been found desirable to put in a small stepping stone. Entertainments and dances at Faxon hall are attended by many strangers, and it is not surprising that some get shook up if not injured in stepping in the dark from the sidewalk to the street. In front of the John Hall estate the sidewalk is even higher above the street, and no one would care to step off. With the sidewalk would come a granite crossing across Revere road and edgestones. Both Chestnut street and Bigelow street should have concrete walks as proposed by the City Council.

It may be a difficult and expensive undertaking for the city to enlarge the High schoolhouse, especially if it is contemplated to provide for 1,000 pupils as suggested by Head Master Harper in his annual report. This is three times as many as the present building was designed for only six years ago, and Mr. Harper says that in addition to class rooms and recitation rooms it should include laboratories, lecture room, manual training and domestic science rooms, gymnasium, reading room and lunch room.

The city showed its wisdom in purchasing a large lot for the building, and it is centrally located so that an addition could be erected on either side, front or back; as may be found most advantageous. The last payment of $10,000 for the land was made less than four months ago, and the last payment of $8,000 for the building will be made next December, so that the city has no sooner paid for a building than it must enlarge it.

The enrollment figures in the High school report are a little misleading, as the total is set at 522, whereas the monthly report of attendance issued by Supt. Parlin a few days ago showed the whole number at date at the High school was but 463, and the average daily attendance still less, only 417.

It is hardly possible that the rapid percentage of increase will continue as in the past few years for several reasons:

- 1.—Because many of the cities which have a larger population have even less pupils than Quincy. We might cite North Adams with only 225, Gloucester, Salem and Haverhill. Holyoke a city of 45,712 population has but 550, and Springfield with 82,059 but 691.
- 2.—Because the accommodations at the Adams Academy for boys, Woodward Institute for girls, and Thayer Academy for boys and girls, all endowed secondary schools free to Quincy pupils, may, could and should be utilized, as proposed by an order adopted in the City Council this week.
- 3.—Because a technical school may soon be established in Quincy as in

New Bedford and other cities. Already there is a movement for such a school, but it is not generally known. Such a school would be popular with boys who intend to become skilled as designers, draughtsmen, engineers, electricians etc., in connection with the ship building plant, the granite industry, or manufacturing generally. Undoubtedly the High school building must be enlarged immediately but if to twice its present size it should be sufficient for many years.

Drift of Opinion.

The Brockton and Taunton papers can clasp hands over the canal project at least, and for the present call a truce to the dispute as to the accomplishments of their respective burgs.—Haverhill Gazette.

Man is the architect of his own fortune, but he would often get on better if a board of building inspectors was appointed to look after him. Most of them are not particular enough as to fire-proof construction.—Milford Journal.

A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market," once wrote Charles Lamb and he never gave birth to a more golden sentence. A hearty laugh is the dynamo which sends the electricity of good cheer through all around it. It rides the angry billows of life like a life preserver, and is bound to make port in any storm.—Uncle Tim.

The men who stand most prominently in the field as candidates for the Republican party to succeed McKinley are, of course, Vice President Roosevelt and Thomas B. Reed. If McKinley's second administration should prove as successful as the last, it strikes us that the vice president, in the natural course of events, would become the next president of the United States. On the other hand, if the influences that Senator Hoar represents gain strength, if the administration makes mistakes in the Philippines, or if there is some set-back in business interests, the more conservative element of the party may gain control. In that case the most natural man to lead them in the national convention would be Thomas B. Reed.—Worcester Spy.

There seems to be a great desire on the part of some of the towns about here to conceal their good deeds beneath cover of darkness the coming year. Yet if there's anything that makes a bad impression on a stranger and causes him to think he has indeed found the whereabouts of Sleepy Hollow, it is the gloom of a dark town at night-time. It is good advertising and it is well for a town's business and the safety of its property and its inhabitants to be well lighted. Under cover of dark, burglars, incendiaries and "hold-up" artists flourish, and it is a well-known fact that a well illuminated corner is better to have in a business centre than a policeman—although it's just as well to have both.—Brockton Enterprise.

Enough to Feed the Army.

There is waste, or unused land enough in our city, to feed the army of the unemployed. Prince Kropotkin in his talk before the Twentieth Century club in Boston, Monday evening, deplored the waste of energy in teaching our children all about battles and kings, but omitting to teach them how farming can be made pleasant and profitable. Industrialism is destroying agriculture, but this is not necessary he said. He told of a tiny plot of land in a London suburb that furnished him and his wife with vegetables almost all the year round at almost no expense. Anything that will promote agriculture is a step in the right direction. Industrialism without wealthy classes leads to Filippi and Transvaal wars.

Dr. E. M. Hartwell, director of physical education in the public schools, introduced the speaker. Some of our young Quincy teachers went to the Lowell Institute lecture to hear this speaker.

Flowers From Tacoma.

Mr. B. J. Weeks has been writing to his friends in Quincy of the forwardness of the season in Tacoma, and to prove that he was not exaggerating the least bit he has forwarded the editor of the Daily Ledger a box of "flowers that bloom in the spring." These include jonquils and several other kinds but little known in this vicinity. They were a little the worse for their long journey, but it was kind of Mr. Weeks to remember old friends.

No Inspection.

The Board of Health has not yet made an examination of the house at Wollaston, which was the subject of one of the charges against Inspector of Plumbing Kenley, as counsel for Mr. Kenley has not been able to go with them up to the present time.

The syndicate is composed of prominent citizens of Detroit, headed by John C. Shaw, and including John H. Smedley, John A. Rathbone, W. C. Jupp, C. B. Warren, D. J. Coman, Henry B. Joy, C. F. Hammond, William B. Cady, D. D. Buick, D. C. Whitney, W. L. Holmes, J. S. Newberry, and W. N. Warren.

Relative to the defender of the cup the Detroit Tribune says: Details of the new cup defender, for which plans are being drawn by Charles A. Desmond of the Detroit boat works, and Frank E. Kirby, are not yet ready to be given out, nor will they be for a couple of weeks. Mr. Desmond said Monday that he was not at liberty to give out the names of the parties who are building the new defender. He did say, however, that it was not being built for a syndicate, and would be a 35-footer, but would give out no further information.

Acceptance of Streets.

The proposed ordinance concerning the laying out of new streets is of importance, and provides standard as to width and other requirements. Some of the conditions, in brief, are: That streets opened after Jan. 1, 1901, to be accepted, must be 45 feet wide. No street shall be recommended laid out or accepted unless plan and people are filed; unless constructed not less than 40 feet in width; unless clear of stumps, roots, brush, etc., unless loam and loamy material shall be removed; unless work in excavation or embankment shall be brought to a sub-grade; unless all rocks and boulders are first removed and embankments built of clear sand gravel cinders, furnace slag, sound rock or broken stone; unless above sub-grade and to finish grade, binding gravel shall be used and shall be well wetted and rolled.

Copies of the proposed ordinances with drawings of street profiles are soon to be printed for the Councilmen and others interested.

New Market at Old Stand.

A great transformation has taken place in the store of Thomas E. Fernald since it passed into the control of Joseph W. Johnson. The latter now announces that he is ready for business, and he has almost a new market. There is a new show front, a new refrigerator, new office, new shelves, bins, meat block, etc., and everything is bright and attractive, and everybody knows that only reliable goods will be offered for sale. By a new sign—J. W. Johnson—you will know the place.

A Menace to Health.

Senator Sprague's committee on Public Health viewed the Charles river at South Natick on Thursday, which the citizens of the town claim is a menace to health because the water is drawn off by the Electric Light Co. The legislators took dinner at Bailey's hotel, and afterwards gave a hearing.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designated by TIFFANY.

The inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Every body desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party.

General Grosvenor has written into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hills. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men.

General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Engravings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Engravings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grande Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $200. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quickly, as the territory will be assigned soon.

M'CAUGHEY REAFFIRMS

All That Was Said in the Letter Which Has Been Published

Providence, March 21.—Robert L. Fosburg and his son, Robert S. Fosburg, were here yesterday. The elder Mr. Fosburg had arranged to make a visit with Detective Sherman to the Rhode Island state prison to interview William McCaughy regarding the letter he had written Mrs. Fosburg offering to give information relating to the case. After the interview the elder Mr. Fosburg and Detective Sherman said McCaughy had reaffirmed all that was in the letter which has already been published. They said he had also suggested something that they hoped might prove of use later. What this was they did not say.

John Bly, accused by McCaughy, was taken by a Journal reporter to the Narragansett hotel to meet the Fosburgs, but could not do so. The younger Mr. Fosburg said he had certain reasons for not desiring to meet and talk with Bly.

The father of Bertha Sheldon told Mr. Fosburg that if Miss Sheldon's knowledge of what occurred on the night May Fosburg was shot was of use she would be ready to go to Pittsfield as a witness in the case.

Strike at Marseilles

Marseilles, March 21.—The situation here is very disquieting, owing to the increasingly aggressive attitude of the strikers. During the disorders the panic spread to the townspeople and stores, restaurants and cafes were hurriedly closed. The Rue De La Canne-biere and the other leading thoroughfares of the city were deserted. It was feared that the mob, which was charged by mounted gendarmes and hussars, would attempt to pillage.

A crowd numbering 2000 burst through a cordon of infantry along the dock side. The cavalry charged and drove the strikers back. A volley of stones was then thrown in all directions, and a brigadier, two gendarmes, a hussar and several infantrymen were injured.

Wenzell Identified

New London, Conn., March 21.—John A. Wenzell, the Boston lawyer, who is held in this city in default of bail on a charge of passing a worthless sight draft, has been identified by two New Haven merchants as the person who they allege defrauded them by similar means. A warrant from New Haven is at the jail waiting to be served, in case Wenzell secures bail. Captain Delaney of New York has sent word to the captain of the local police that he has three indictments for grand larceny against Wenzell and the Worcester, Mass., authorities also want him.

Dropped Matches in Cotton

Hartford, March 21.—In the superior court yesterday the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Marguerite Carroll, an 18-year-old Bristol girl, charged with an attempt at statutory arson. It was claimed in the complaint to the state that on the morning of Jan. 17, 1901, the girl was found in a carding room of the mill of N. J. Birge & Sons, in the act of dropping two heads of parlor matches in some cotton about to be placed in a carding machine, and that the matches were put in the cotton for the purpose of burning the mill. The defense has filed a motion for an arrest of judgment.

TRIPLE MURDER IN MAINE

Ghastly Scene in the Town of Clinton

CENTRAL MAINE EXCITED

A Well-to-Do Farmer Brutally Murders His Three Offspring and Is Taken Into Custody by the Authorities

Clinton, Me., March 22.—This town is in a great state of excitement over the worst tragedy ever committed in this section of the state. It was late yesterday afternoon when Manly Morrison, the chairman of the board of selectmen drove into town and announced that a triple murder had been committed on a farm eight miles from this postoffice. Mr. Morrison summoned Coroner Snell of Waterville, and that official arrived on the 5 o'clock train. A drive of eight miles, over a road that is at its worst, and in a drenching rain, was taken and the party arrived at the farm home of Jacob Dearborn Marr. Here a horrible sight met the eyes of the visitors. Stretched upon the floor of the kitchen, with a broad stream of coagulated blood beside her, lay the lifeless body of Alice M. Marr, aged 13 years. Upstairs in the hall lay the body of Edwin, 9 years old, while in a sleeping apartment of the same floor was the dead body of Helen, 7 years old. Shortly after dinner, yesterday, Dearborn Marr, as he is called, went to the woodshed and secured an axe. With this weapon he stepped into the kitchen, and without word or warning deliberately struck the oldest girl on the top of the head, felling her to the floor. The skull was crushed, and the child died within 20 minutes. Then Marr went to the second floor, where the two other children were playing. Sounds which came from the upper floor were such as led Mrs. Marr, who was in the sitting room, to believe that her husband was murdering his children. The wife and mother ran rapidly to the home of her husband's father, Samuel Marr, and told him that Dearborn was killing the children. Frantic at the thought of such a crime, the elder Marr, a man of 80 years, ran to the house of his son, a few rods away. When there he saw Marr stopped into the kitchen he saw his son at the sink washing his hands and face. On the floor the body of Alice lay, and the grandfather, bending over her, saw that life was nearly gone, and that nothing could be done to save her. Putting the question to his son, the old man asked: "My God, Dearborn, what have you done?" "I don't know" was the answer, and that to the murderer father has stuck. Neighbors were summoned, and a watch was kept on Marr, who then went to the sitting room and remained there through all the excitement of the afternoon. When Coroner Snell entered the house, Marr was still in the sitting room. The coroner was assisted in the examination of the bodies by two assistants.

Satisfying himself that the crime had been committed by the father, Coroner Snell ordered Marr's arrest. The neighbors of the family speak in the very highest terms of Marr, as an industrious and quiet citizen. It was the very emphatic expression of opinion of every one about the house that Marr must certainly be insane. The wife and mother remained at the home of the senior Marr all the afternoon, and for the greater part of the time was in a hysterical condition. She could say little about the affair other than that she had felt the horrible crime was to be committed. She did say that she and her husband had never had any trouble, and that he was very fond of the children. Her husband had been very despondent at times during the winter and she believed that he thought the family was nearing poverty. Marr has a good farm and has a small bank account. There appeared not to be the slightest feeling against Marr by his neighbors.

But one blow had been sufficient to do the work, the axe had sunk through the scalp and skull of the little one. When the officers and the prisoner arrived at the village, the story of the horrible affair had spread to a greater part of the town, and a great crowd gathered.

When the train arrived at Waterville Marr asked the deputy sheriff if the children had been cared for, and if anyone would stay with them. Upon being assured that the children had been cared for, Marr relaxed into silence.

It is the opinion of the greater part of the townspeople of the prisoner to whose ears the case had come, that the man, known to them to be sober, quiet and industrious, must certainly have become suddenly insane to have committed the horrible act.

For Civil Government

Washington, March 22.—The transfer from the military to the civil government in the Philippines is expected to occur about June 30, according to calculations made at the war department upon information received from the Taft commission and General MacArthur. It is known that even where civil governments are being established by the Philippine commission, the military will be necessary for some time to support civil authorities. It is the intention to withdraw the military as far as possible, however, from any participation in the government's establishment, and the soldiers will be more of a police than a military force. Wherever possible, native police will be organized.

Narrow Escape

Malden, Mass., March 22.—Fire totally destroyed the house owned by Daniel S. King early this morning. The occupants, including Mr. King, his wife and children, escaped.

TEACHING OF CHILDREN

Forebly Discussed in the French Chamber of Deputies

Paris, March 22.—Comte De Mun, Conservative, made a notable speech in the chamber of deputies yesterday during the discussion of article 14 of the law of associations, the purpose of which is to suppress religious orders. This provision is one of the most important of the bill, and its fate is deeply interesting to the middle classes, and to the aristocracy, who largely entrust the education of their children to religious establishments.

Comte De Mun declared that the proposition of the article simply implied a tyrannical state monopoly of education. "The delicate question of what doctrine should be taught to children," he said, "ought not to depend upon changing parliamentary majorities. Otherwise we may have the God of Jules Simon during one legislature, no God at all during the next, and the true God for the following four years, by a majority vote."

Proceeding to sketch the history of the conquest of liberty in teaching, Comte De Mun exclaimed:

"M. Waldeck-Rousseau and Millerand are Jacobins and are seeking to enforce the ideas of Danton, but where the convention, and even Napoleon failed, M. Waldeck-Rousseau will not succeed, even though he secures a parliamentary majority."

"The conscience of the people will revolt against the suppression of liberty in teaching. We demand that parents shall not be deprived of the right to bring up their children as they wish, and the congregations are alone able to give moral education."

The speech was received by the Rightists with prolonged applause, and the debate was adjourned.

Kitchener-Botha Negotiations

London, March 22.—The Times, commenting on the Kitchener-Botha negotiations, says: "The event shows that the Boers are still hopeful of something turning up to their advantage. It is difficult otherwise to understand their rejection of Lord Kitchener's terms, which the parliamentary papers on the subject will no doubt show were lenient to the verge of weakness."

Dies in Search of Health

Boston, March 22.—A cablegram received by C. P. Clark, general manager of the eastern division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, announced the death of his father, Charles P. Clark, former president of the road and president of the Boston Terminal company, at Nice, where he had gone in search of health.

Never Equalled

Baltimore, March 22.—The schooner Rover, Captain S. Henry Hoddinott, has made a record-breaking cruise. She loaded 190 tons of coal in Baltimore, sailed to Norfolk, discharged her cargo, loaded 130,000 feet of lumber and returned, in all 7 1/2 days. It is stated in shipping circles that this record has never been equalled.

Sampson Rewarded

Boston, March 22.—Admiral William T. Sampson yesterday received from Washington a certified check for $8335 from the treasury department, as his share of the award for the capture of the Spanish fleet at Santiago.

Reducing Output

Biddeford, Me., March 22.—The Pepperell cloth mills in this city, giving employment to 3000 operatives, will curtail its production after April 1, by reducing its output about one-fourth.

HOLE IN THE LUNGS

There are thousands of men and women, as well as ever, with holes in their lungs: consumption stopped.

Consumption stopped is consumption cured. What does it?

Some change in the way of life and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

With the emulsion, give some attention to circumstances: change from a dark damp close room to a sunny dry airy one; from city to country; from hard to an easy life; indoors to out.

A hole in the lungs once healed is no worse than a tight waist or waistcoat.

Take the emulsion, and give it a chance to heal the wound.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

EVIDENCES OF RELIEF

At the Prospect of Peace at Tientsin

LANSDOWNE'S STATEMENT

Great Britain Reserves the Question of Title and Proprietary Rights For Subsequent Examination—Waldsee Happy

London, March 22.—Mr. Lansdowne, the foreign secretary, announced in the house of lords yesterday that Russia and Great Britain had agreed to withdraw their troops from the disputed territory at Tientsin, and reserve the question of title and proprietary rights for subsequent examination.

Lord Lansdowne's announcement was received by the house with every evidence of relief. He supplemented the announcement by explaining that the dispute concerned an extensive area on the left bank of the Pei-Ho, which the Russians occupied in the autumn, placing the area under Russian occupation. The area, however, comprises plots belonging to the North Chinese railroad, and was, therefore, part of the security of the British bondholders.

The line of railroad was part of the railroad recently transferred by the Russians to Field Marshal Von Waldersee, who retransferred it to the British. The necessities of the allies required the construction of a siding on one of the plots referred to, and the presence of British workers "on the plot was treated as a trespass on Russian territory."

It was subsequently alleged that the Russian boundary marks had been removed by the British. In those circumstances the government, March 16, telegraphed to its representatives in China that it thought the rights of the British or Russian troops to occupy the disputed territory could best be settled by Field Marshal Von Waldersee, as commander-in-chief, and General Gaslee, the British commander, was instructed to request the field marshal to settle the immediate differences, reserving for future examination the question of the validity of the alleged private rights. General Gaslee was also instructed to refrain from using force, except to repel aggression.

On March 20 the alleged removal of the Russian boundary pillar occurred, and the government instructed the British minister at Peking, Sir Ernest Satow, that Great Britain was ready to refer the facts to Field Marshal Von Waldersee, on the understanding that, if either side was found to have committed an irregularity it should apologize to the other.

Lord Lansdowne was glad to say that he had heard from the British ambassador at St. Petersburg that the Russian foreign minister, Count Lamsdorff, had proposed that they should agree to reserve all questions of title and proprietary rights for the examination of the two governments, and that in the meanwhile orders be forthwith sent for the withdrawal of both sides from the disputed place.

Lord Lansdowne added that since the receipt of Count Lamsdorff's proposal the government had ordered the withdrawal of the troops to the satisfaction of Field Marshal Von Waldersee, so that there might be no room for a renewed misunderstanding.

This lordship expressed a hope that the result of the negotiations showed that what was really a very small matter of strictly local importance would not be allowed to disturb the relations between the two countries.

Baseballists Organize

Boston, March 22.—The happy outlook for sports the coming season has induced baseball men in New England cities to agitate the matter of a New England league, notwithstanding that few seasons have been completely successful since the early nineties. The league of six clubs was organized at the Quincy House yesterday. The circuit will include Manchester, Lowell, Haverhill, Lewiston, Bangor and probably Portland.

Car Barns Destroyed

Cincinnati, March 22.—One of the car barns of the Cincinnati Traction company, situated on Ohio avenue, was totally destroyed by fire last night. Thirty-five street cars, aggregating a loss of $70,000, were consumed. The building was valued at $20,000, making the total loss $90,000.

AND THE YEARS GO BY.

Lightly sip youth at the wine of its joys,
Laughs at the charms of yesterday's toys;
Life is so long, and nothing alloys,
And the years go by.

Little by little the world shows its dress,
Deepens the sense of enjoyment and loss;
Pleasure is wearing off part of its gloss,
And the years go by.

Now there is question and doubt and dismay;
Well, time will alter, and truth will outstay;
Night is as tedious, perhaps, as the day,
And the years go by.

Work multiplies, and pleasures abate;
So much to do, and we are so late;
Duties still flocking now knock at the gate,
And the years go by.

Once—ah, we sigh, but we never can stop!
What is life for but to work till we drop?
Only one thought—to rise to the top—
And the years go by.

Age is oncoming, and what have we done?
Oh, we had dreamed of such victories won!
Whose is the fault, and what is undone?
And the years go by.

What do we hold but a handful of dust?
We were so wise in our first ardent trust,
Somehow we missed the real metal for rust,
And the years go by.

"THE DEVIL'S OWN"

A Story of a Station Agent.

BY CHARLES DONALD MACKAY.

Tom Dean was ticket agent and telegraph operator for the Union Pacific at Wellsville, a settlement of not more than a few dozen scattered houses, the most pretentious of which was the "hotel and lunchroom." About 100 yards down the track from this popular resort at "train time" stood a low, one roomed building, the station, Tom's St. Helena.

To an energetic, ambitious young man, socially inclined, Wellsville was well nigh intolerable, but Tom had hopes and made the best of it. He had removed his belongings from the "hotel" to Mrs. Jordan's cozy little cottage, where he made himself at home. He found Miss Jordan a charming companion and "years ahead of the village in every way." Nevertheless the uneventful days would drag, and the nights—well, after the 8:50 "accommodation" pulled out until 11:10, when the west bound "express" dashed past, one night as well have been stationed in the middle of the Great Sahara. At least so Tom said many times.

One raw, gusty December night just before the holidays Tom with much pleasure piled the three cases billed through to Omaha on the truck and ran them down the track, ready to be hauled aboard the baggage car of the coming train. He was not overfond of work, but this meant the stopping of the express, the latest newspapers and good reading for several days. To signal the express was an event.

Taking a last look at the lights, he entered the station and slammed the door after him as if to bar out the loneliness of the dripping outside world. The last light in the hotel had gone out long before the blind howled in the wires, the red light blinked and flickered—

"Well, of all the God forsaken—"
The door opened suddenly, and two men stepped into the room, followed by a third.

"Hands up—quick!" the foremost cried.

In less than two minutes Tom was bound, gagged and lying helpless behind the partition in the baggage end of the room.

"He's safe. Where's Jim?" asked the man who had spoken before.

"Down to the siding," came the answer. "Set the white light."

The door closed quickly after them. Out of Tom's bewilderment and confusion came the question, What did it mean? Robbery? There was nothing worth the risk at the station, and the men had gone.

"Set the white light." That meant the express would not stop.

"Down to the siding." The blind siding, an eighth of a mile beyond the station by the sand hill! It ended in the gravel bank.

The terrible truth flashed across his mind. He turned cold. Great beads of moisture stood out upon his forehead. Twenty-six, with its living freight, was to be switched on to the siding at full speed.

As the horror of it rushed upon him Tom strained at the cords that bound him hand and foot with a strength he never dreamed he possessed. It was useless. The work had been done well. He looked quickly at the clock—10:41. In 29 minutes more the train would be due. As he turned the knots of the gag pressed into the back of his head. Bearing heavily upon them, unmindful of the pain, he moved his head, forcing his chin downward. They gave. They moved. Again he tried and again, until at last the handkerchief slipped to his neck.

"Help, help! Townsend! Bill! Help!" he cried. But his voice was lost in the mocking howl of the wind, and he realized that the effort was strength wasted and time lost.

Again he looked at the clock—only 26 minutes remained. How fast the seconds flew! Twenty-five—

The sharp click, click, click, from the other side of the partition caught his ear—a telegraphic message. "Twenty-six 20 minutes late."

"Thank God, a delay!"

Forty-four minutes now—a gain of 20. The train, due at 11:10, would not arrive until 11:30. Townsend relieved him at 12. "Too late! Too late!" rushed through his mind as he glared at the clock. Then the light of hope fairly blazed in his eyes.

The summer before, when he had long, weary night watches, twice he overslept because his alarm had failed him, so to insure his "call" he had run a wire from the station clock to a bell in his room at the hotel. By an ingenious connection when the hands marked 11:45 the ringing of the bell brought him violently out of the land of dreams. When Tom was promoted to the shorter watch and went to live at Mrs. Jordan's, Bill Townsend, who succeeded him, fell heir to his room and "the devil's own," as Tom called the bell. The clock was an imitation of the old fashioned, big faced, caseless timepieces, with weights and chains and a long, heavy pendulum.

"Twenty minutes late," he muttered. The hour hand was less than two inches from the connection, but how slowly it crept! If he could only move that hand! His knees were free. He drew them up toward his chin, shot out his legs and came to a sitting position. Then, by a series of short jumps and bumps, he reached the wall, braced his back against it and, with great difficulty, worked himself to his feet. The pendulum swung close to his ear, but how could he reach the hand? Was he to fall now?

His eyes quickly searched the room. A few feet to the right was the window, heavily barred, the torn shade partly down. His glance rested on the stick that weighted the latter, just what he needed. New hope gave him new strength. Inch by inch he edged himself along the wall to the shade, caught the stick between his teeth and sank quickly to the floor. He had succeeded. The stick was torn loose from its flimsy fastenings. Back again, up and along the wall he worked until he stood nearly under the clock. He turned sideways, raised his head until the stick pointed at the hand, made a terrific effort to reach it, failed, lost his balance and fell heavily to the floor.

The bodily pain was nothing to him, but he groaned in anguish at the loss of time. He looked up. The clock had stopped!

The hands marked 11. He could reach the pendulum. It must be started. There was still a chance of more delay. Again the struggle to regain his feet, harder now because of his growing weakness. Nearer and nearer he crept to the motionless rod. A nod of his head would start it.

"My God!" he suddenly cried. "Why didn't I think of it before? Is there still time?" And seizing the heavy brass disk at the end of the pendulum in his teeth he raised his head and detached it.

The rod, freed of its heavy weight, swung rapidly back and forward, impelling the hands onward at a greatly increased rate of speed. His eyes were following the minute hand. He could see it move, and the hour hand? Yes, it was creeping along. Tom's strength was going fast. He sank to his knees and rolled over on the floor, but his eyes were fixed on that hand. How long would it take to reach 11:45? Closer and closer it crept. Now it touched the iron connection and moved slowly past it. The alarm had been sounded, but there were 15 minutes more before Bill would arrive. He strained his ears to catch the slightest sound. The noise of the storm was all that he could hear.

Click, click, click came from the instrument—a message from Maysville. Twenty-six had just passed. Maysville was 12 minutes up the road—it must now be 11:48. Tom tried to calculate the time since the hands started on their wild race, but his mind was a chaos of mad thoughts. What if Bill did not arrive in season? He rolled over on his face and waited for the worst.

The door burst open.

"Hello, where are you?" It was Bill's voice.

"Stop 26—hold up at Dyke's siding—get men!" But Bill was gone.

The red light flashed up the track, and 26, with a noisy grinding of wheels and many jolts, came to a stop. A posse was hastily formed, but when the siding was reached nothing was found but the open switch that meant death and destruction.

The passengers and crew tried to make Tom believe that he was a hero, but he only pointed to the clock and said:

"It was the 'devil's own.'"—Waverley Magazine.

Hats in the House of Commons.

Speaker Denison if he saw a member wear any unwonted headgear other than the regulation tall hat would send for him and point out the irregularity. In these days a billycock hat has frequently been seen in one particular quarter of the house, and the innovation is tolerated. What Speaker Denison would have said or thought if he had seen a few straw hats in the extremely hot weather of last session the writer cannot venture even to conjecture.

A reference to hats recalls the curious custom which prevails, that when a member wishes to interpose with a point of order after the question has been put from the chair he must speak "covered." On one occasion Mr. Gladstone wished to speak in this way, and as he never brought a hat into the house, he was obliged hastily to borrow a hat. It happened that the hat which he borrowed belonged to his then solicitor general, Sir F. Herschell (afterward the lord chancellor), and it proved to be far too small for Mr. Gladstone's head. He was unable for some time to address the house owing to the shouts of laughter which his appearance called forth.—Good Words.

RESIDENCE WITH TOWER.

An Excellent Suburban Home Design—Cost to Erect, $2,900.
[Copyright, 1901, by George Hitchings, architect, 1090 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn.]

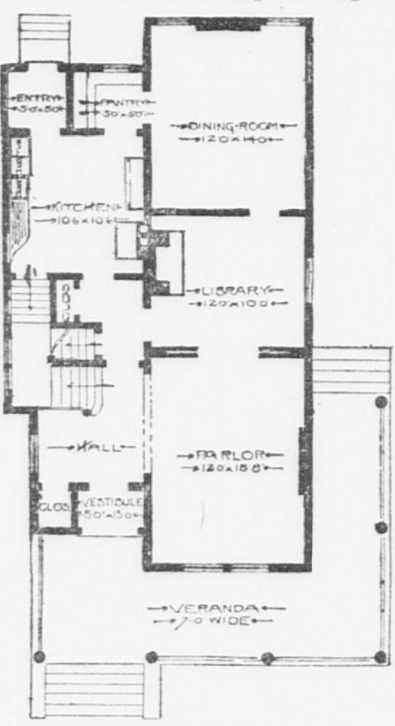

Most people in selecting a design for a suburban home favor those with towers. This design has a tower of remarkably fine proportions. Above the roof it is covered with shingles stained a deep

The balcony on the second floor opens from the front chamber with a jib panel window, which is of great value in the summer near the seashore.

The house contains ten rooms, a bathroom and a storeroom. The stairs are built of oak, with a large landing on each flight and art glass windows on same. The rooms are all large and well lighted. The butler's pantry is provided with a china closet. The dining room has an oak mantel of a colonial design, with large columns the entire height on each side and a bevel plate mirror above the shelf. The bathroom floor is tiled with a neat design of mosaic tiling.

One particular feature of this house is the ample closet room it possesses. The library or study, whichever you may Fireproof House Furnishing.

Recent fatal conflagrations in New York residences have led to a great deal of discussion as to the fireproof furnishings of a home, and the chief of the New York fire department has gone so far as to advocate the elimination from private residences of the dainty draperies, furniture and, in fact, pretty nearly all the accessories which go to insure comfort and luxury in modern dwellings and the substitution thereof of asbestos in various forms, iron and steel wherever possible and inflammable wood where absolutely necessary.

These theories may be correct enough, but it is an assured fact that the average householder would much prefer to take the really small chance of a fatal fire to transforming his home into a fireproof vault.

There are of course a few common sense precautions which most intelligent people preserve, such as the careful placing of curtains and hangings at a safe distance from gas jets, a close watch upon house fires, periodical inspection of flues and the closing of all doors at night to prevent the rapid spread of flames should anything possibly happen. Perhaps the most flagrant violation of these few simple precautions is that of placing gas jets in close proximity to the windows, and this is oftentimes the fault of the builder, but our observation shows us that the American people are quite sensible to warnings, and we have noticed in many homes that the gas jets which have been removed entirely or else careful provision made that by no chance can the curtains come in contact with the flames.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 24—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—What I owe to Christ.—II Cor. viii, 9; I Pet. ii, 21-25.

The individual as well as humanity at large owes a debt to Jesus Christ—a debt that can never be estimated and a debt that can never be paid. It is well for us to consider our individual indebtedness to Christ. What do I owe to Christ? And when we try to fathom this great indebtedness and realize that we can never pay it we should throw ourselves into His arms of everlasting mercy, and we will find that it will be increased by being freely and fully forgiven. "What a wonderful Saviour is Jesus, our Lord!"

The topical influences suggest that—

1. We owe Christ for spiritual riches. II Cor. viii, 9. "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor that ye through His poverty might become rich." Christ gave up heavenly riches for earthly poverty that we might become rich. The riches that He thus brought us are not temporal but spiritual riches, the present and future blessings that come to us through the gospel of Christ. And what riches indeed! God's love, reconciliation with God, forgiveness of sin and eternal life, all these we owe to Christ, and that we might have them He gave up heaven for earth, a crown for a cross. What an indebtedness for spiritual riches!

2. We owe Christ for a perfect example. I Pet. ii, 21. "Christ also suffered, leaving us an example that ye should follow His steps, who did no sin, neither was guile found in His mouth." In urging servants to patiently endure persecution and mistreatment Peter appeals to the example of Christ, who acted in this way under even worse circumstances. In patient endurance and in all things Christ has left us a perfect example. He knew no sin. He was tempted, yet without sin. He is the only one who ever lived a perfect life, and this should make His perfect example all the more valuable to us. Had Christ not lived we should have had no perfect life as an encouragement, an inspiration and a guide. A Christian life would thus have been lived under more difficult circumstances, for it is easier to copy a perfect model than to be directed simply by precepts. Our debt to Christ here is great, and we should try to pay it by imitating His example in all things.

3. We owe Christ for a vicarious atonement. I Pet. ii, 25. "Who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree." Peter here refers to the death of Christ for us. Christ did not die simply to leave us an example of self sacrifice. He died to atone for our sins, as our substitute. Our sins were placed upon Him on the cross, and He bore them in our stead. Had He not done so it would have been impossible for us to be saved. We would have been compelled to bear the debt of sin ourselves—eternal separation from God. But Christ paid our debt on the cross. Here we see our greatest indebtedness to Christ. All else sinks into insignificance in comparison to the debt of the cross. To pay it in kind is impossible. Christ does not ask it. All the pay that He asks is that we accept the sacrifice and that we devote the lives He thus saves to His service. Can we do less than that? Is He not a gracious creditor, who will accept such payment for such a debt?

But drops of tears can never repay The debt of love I owe;
Here, Lord, I give myself away;
'Tis all that I can do.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a testimony meeting. Let each member testify concerning his individual indebtedness to Christ.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ecd. xii, 13, 14; Isa. liii, 1-14; Math. viii, 19, 20; xxii, 36-40; John iii, 16; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I Cor. vi, 19, 20; Phil. ii, 1-11; Col. iii, 17.

Capital and Character.

Capital, say some modern economists, justifying what is termed the capitalistic age, is accumulated by self denial. It is brought into being when an individual defers present enjoyment in order to secure a better one in the future. So, too, is character produced. Character is potentiality of appreciation and enjoyment kept in check, the reserve force of the individual looking to secure the higher happiness, the more permanent, in preference to the lesser, the unstable and the fleeting. It will not barter a calm and reasonable enjoyment in consonance with ideals for mere sensation that leaves one weak and dissatisfied. Character may be termed the exalted economy of the soul.—American Hebrew.

Bringing About Reforms.

It is truth, not soft sentimentalities, that bring reformation. It was truth, not music, that pierced the heart of Luther with conviction of sin and led to the reformation. It was the light from heaven that struck Saul blind and helpless on the way to Damascus and led to his ministry, by which the world has been made better in all ages. Why are men so reluctant to resort to the power of God for the salvation of man from all his corruptions? They will hunt in vain for a substitute. Their labor will be in vain till they return to the old paths of God's word for the salvation of the world.—Christian Instructor.

Unjust Criticism.

To criticize is easy. It requires no scholarship, no industry, no great labor to become an unmerciful critic. The smallest man can point out faults in the greatest. Small people often indulge in this kind of dealing with their brethren. Perhaps they are peculiarly tempted to do so by their very smallness.—Christian Advocate.

DRAMATIC SURPRISE

Bailey's Watch Found Hidden at Breakheart Hill Farm

THE TESTIMONY OF STILES

Was Most Damaging to the Defendant in the Bailey Murder Trial—Interested Spectators Present in Large Numbers

Salem, Mass., March 23.—William H. Stiles of Lynn, the brother-in-law of John C. Best, yesterday gave the most damaging and fatal testimony that has been brought out against the man who is charged with the murder of George E. Bailey.

According to his testimony, John Best, two Sundays ago, in the Salem jail, gave Stiles two plans of the barn on Breakheart Hill farm, showing where George E. Bailey's gold watch and chain, that disappeared with Bailey, and some other property of Bailey's was hidden.

Stiles was asked by Best to go to the barn and get the watch and to "keep the other property for the trouble."

The gold watch he was told to take to the seashore, when the water was at low tide and to fling it as far as he could.

"For if that watch comes to light," Stiles testified that Best said, "I am lost."

And in the cellar of the barn at Breakheart Hill farm, State Officer Neal last evening found a gold watch and $75 in money wrapped about with a newspaper.

It was a most complete and dramatic surprise. Even the district attorney had but a scant idea of what the afternoon would bring forth.

Stiles is a luster of Lynn. He is a young man with a high forehead, drooping mustache, dark eyes that are sombre and sad. His face was pale and drawn.

When he spoke his voice was low, a voice that never departed from monotone, yet was the voice of tragedy.

Stiles continued by saying that he saw Best last Sunday. Best motioned to him to indicate this question: "Had Stiles got the watch?"

Very strongly Mr. Sisk, Best's counsel, objected to sign language being introduced, but for the present it was allowed to stand.

"I said I had been to Boston," went on Stiles, "and returned by way of Melrose. That was enough. Best understood."

At 5:35 the court adjourned.

Best did not blanch as he held out his hands for the handcuffs, and they did not tremble. There was not a quiver of his eyelids. If anything he seemed more calm and self-contained as he walked forth from the court house.

The largest crowd that has yet assembled was there to see him come out, for the news had spread rapidly. Their morbid craving for sensation was disappointed. John Best walked to the carriage that was to take him to the jail as a man might walk to the carriage that was to take him to some dinner, play or dance.

Railroad Officials in Conference

Portland, Me., March 23.—General Superintendent M. Guigan, Superintendent Jones of the Eastern division, and Mr. Metcalf of the Grand Trunk railroad were in this city yesterday in conference with Mayor Boothby and other members of the city government in regard to the improvements in the Grand Trunk property, to be made during the coming summer. It was announced that all plans were practically completed and workmen will begin to raze the old station next Monday. Work on the new elevator and new station will be begun as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

Injunction Ordered

Boston, March 23.—The firemen employed in the breweries controlled by the Massachusetts Breweries' companies in this city, were enjoined against striking, as it is alleged was threatened, by Judge Brawley, who ordered an injunction issued against members of the local union of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, their agents or servants. The threatened strike was occasioned by the discharge of a fireman in one of the breweries.

Rhode Island Cotton Mills

Providence, March 23.—Rhode Island cotton mills will take no concerted action in curtailing production, neither will they cut wages, although business here, as elsewhere, is unsatisfactory. There will be more or less curtailment, nevertheless, since there is a sort of tacit agreement among local mills men that the present is a good time to make needed repairs, such as will necessitate the closing of the factories for a week or two at a time.

Washout on Shore Line

St. John, March 23.—A washout on the Shore Line railway, which runs between St. John and St. Stephen, occurred yesterday. It is near the St. John end and was caused by the recent heavy rains. The break is not very wide, but it is at a spot where a high bank overlooks the bay and it is feared the slide may continue. Repairs will be made at once.

CONSIDERED REMARKABLE

Havana Now Classed Among the Healthiest Cities of the World

Washington, March 23.—A report has been received at the war department from General Wood showing that the death rate for the city of Havana for the month of February was 19.32 per 1000, which is said to be below the average of most American cities. The death rate, it is said, steadily decreases and this is taken as an indication of improved sanitary conditions.

The death rate is considered remarkable. During the last February of Spanish rule, in 1898, it was 82.32 per 1000. The particular object of the report is to endeavor to correct what is said to be an erroneous impression concerning the sanitation of Havana, and attention is called to the fact that that city now can be classed among the healthy cities of the world.

As to yellow fever, it is shown that in February, 1900, Havana had 17 cases of that disease, against only eight cases during the February just passed. Taking into consideration the fact that the number of non-immunes was much larger in February, 1901, than in 1900, this showing is regarded as very encouraging.

Cabinet Meeting

Washington, March 23.—The cabinet meeting yesterday was not a protracted one. The latest advices from China, largely press reports, indicating an adjustment of the acute situation between the Russian and British troops at Tientsin was considered reassuring. Secretary Hay submitted the recent dispatches from Commissioner Rockhill.

The reports from the Philippine commission submitted by Secretary Root, indicating rapid progress of the establishment of civil government at various points in the islands, and showing a constantly increasing disposition on the part of the insurgent chiefs to surrender were considered very satisfactory.

Bay State Legislature

Boston, March 23.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Chamberlain of Plymouth supported a bill to provide that no part of the dog license fees shall be retained by officials of Boston.

When the bill to regulate the sale of liquor (the so-called bill) was reached, Mr. Fitzgerald of Suffolk moved that it be assigned for next Wednesday. Mr. Codman of Suffolk moved an amendment to lay the bill on the table. The amendment being defeated by a vote of 4 to 15, he immediately offered another assigning the bill to Wednesday, April 8.

In the house various committee reports were received.

Very Much Needed

Washington, March 23.—The ordnance department of the army has arranged to equip all the United States Krag-Jorgensen rifles with a new sight, developed by the department after years of careful experiment. The feature of the sight is the combination of the ordinary hinged elevating eye-piece with a side movement, controlled by a simple and strong friction clamp, which turns the sight into a very effective graduated wind gauge.

The ordnance department also has secured an effective clip for the Krag-Jorgensen, something very much needed to bring it up to the rapidity of fire of other magazine rifles.

Transfer of Trolley Lines

New York, March 23.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Worcester Traction company, which owns the trolley lines of Worcester, Mass., in its offices in Newark, N. J., it was voted to ratify the contract for the sale of the road to Vermilye & Co. of New York, which was recently entered into by the directors of the company. The deed will be consummated as soon as the purchase money is paid to the stockholders. The terms of the sale are cash, but figures are withheld for the present.

Lunatic at Large

Berlin, March 23.—An unidentified person, supposed to be an escaped lunatic, has recently been committing outrages suggesting those committed by "Jack the Ripper," in the vicinity of Ludwigsplatz, Bavaria. During the last few nights he has made five attacks, in one case inflicting a serious, if not fatal, injury. All attempts to capture him have thus far proved unavailing.

In Front of an Engine

Woodville, N. H., March 23.—E. L. Seavy, a wood chopper, was killed in the lower railroad yard here by the northbound mail train, No. 71. He was walking beside the track, and was seen to slip in front of the engine, probably having become confused by the noise and headlight of the coming train. He was 37 years old and was boarding with his young daughter at the house of A. L. Skimmers.

Daily For West Point

TO DEMAND APOLOGY

Cruiser New York on Mission to Morocco

OUR CLAIMS MUST BE MET

Or Serious Complications May Arise As Uncle Sam Is Apparently at Last on His Dignity—Awaiting Developments

London, March 23.—A dispatch from Gibraltar yesterday says the armored cruiser New York arrived here yesterday. She will proceed to Tangier to demand the settlement of the claims of the United States government against Morocco.

The New York is now the flagship of Rear Admiral Frederick Rodgers, and she is fresh from a thorough overhauling at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The cruiser will convey Mr. Gummere, the United States consul general, from Tangier to the seaport of Mazagan, whence he will travel overland to Morocco City, the political capital of Morocco, there to demand from the sultan an apology for an apparent discourtesy to the United States, committed by the sultan's grand vizier and his minister of foreign affairs.

At the same time Mr. Gummere will request the sultan to settle certain claims of the United States, long pending against the government of Morocco.

These claims arose largely from alleged undue interference by officials of the sultan with American citizens doing business in Morocco.

The occurrences happened some time ago, and the suggestions of the American government, through its consular representative, that the claims arising therefrom should be settled by Morocco, have been ignored by the sultan.

When Mr. Gummere said he would see the sultan personally on the matter of these claims, he was told by the sultan's grand vizier and his minister of foreign affairs, that any such effort would be useless, as the sultan would remove himself and his ministers from Morocco City if the American consul general attempted to visit them there.

This discourteous statement constituted the offense for which the Moroccan government has been asked to apologize, and to secure which apology Mr. Gummere, backed by the New York at Mazagan, will travel overland to the sultan's capital.

Claims Indictment Illegal

Boston, March 23.—A demurrer was filed by counsel for John W. Dickinson in the United States district court, to the indictment found against Dickinson, charging him with aiding and abetting George M. Foster in the alleged wilful misapplication of about $49,000 of the funds of the South Danvers National bank of Peabody. In the demurrer it is claimed that the indictment is bad in law, for certain reasons alleged, and that it should be dismissed and the defendant discharged. No time has yet been fixed for a hearing.

Readville's Race

Boston, March 23.—A race for a $50,000 stake, made up of $10,000 a corner and $20,000 added by Thomas W. Lawson, is announced between Charlie Herr, Crescens and Borahna, is announced by Mr. Lawson. A statement issued by the latter says that the race will be at Readville, in the week beginning Sept. 16, all the gate receipts to go to charity. The race will be handled by the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association.

Military Operations Progressing

Bloomington, March 23.—Military operations in the southeastern part of the Orange River colony are progressing. Major Julian Byng has brought in 300 refugees, 16,000 cattle and 10,000 sheep from the Wepener and Smithfield districts. Colonel Bechene has sent in 17 prisoners. There are 300 prisoners now camped here.

Largest Ever Made

New York, March 23.—The American Bridge company announced that it has closed one of the largest foreign contracts ever made, aggregating over 20,000 tons. The contract was issued by the Ecuadorian association, limited, the material to be used for bridge construction on the Guayaquil and Quito railway company in Ecuador.

Brigantine Wrecked

London, March 23.—The brigantine Rose was wrecked off Whitstable, Kent, Wednesday. Seven of the crew clung to the rigging. Four dropped off and were drowned after becoming mad with suffering. The others were rescued in a terribly exhausted condition after exposure for 30 hours.

Ships Attacked, Cargoes Stolen

Pekin, March 23.—Robert M. McWade, the United States consul at Canton, reports a great increase in piracy on the West river. Ships are attacked by the pirates even in sight of Canton and their cargoes are stolen. Three pirates have been captured and beheaded in the presence of the foreign consuls.

Good Afternoon.

The City Council can hardly be accused of being "sidewalk crazy" when it is proposed to build in one year less than a mile of permanent sidewalk. With over 100 miles of street and 200 miles of sidewalks, which mileage is increasing rapidly each year, will someone attempt to tell when Quincy will have good sidewalks. By building one mile a year it would take 200 years to build sidewalks on what streets we have and then there will be 500 more miles of sidewalks to build. The city should build more than one mile per year, every year.

Few realized, until their attention was called to it in the annual report of Head Master Harper, that the number of teachers were so much less in proportion to pupils at the Quincy High than in the State generally or in the cities with about the same number of pupils as Quincy. All were aware that the number of pupils had increased very rapidly, and had doubled in a few years, and they knew there were more teachers employed but did not realize that our High should have from 5 to 12 more teachers. It is surprising when this and the crowded condition of the buildings are taken into consideration, that the school is so popular, but there is no doubt about that.

Drift of Opinion.

"Any youngster who 'spreads himself out' over a sidewalk and is saucy to people certainly ought to be sent to a reformatory for a long term of years. Recalling our own youth, we know so well that there never was a time that we were saucy or played marbles on the sidewalks or did anything, but wear clean collars and carry books and say 'please, sir' and 'Yes, sir'." Consequently we cannot for the life of us see how the modern boys, even in wicked Taunton, can behave so that the police have to be awakened from their reveries and sent after them.—Brookton Enterprise.

"Don't bother us, we have troubles of our own." This seems to be the sentiment expressed by many towns, and it looks as though they were in hot water, and doing the best they can to get out in a proper and satisfactory way. Weymouth had more than $10,000 deficiency last year, and in consequence have taken off $1,000 from police appropriations, and refuse to light the town. Rockland voted license but the property holders don't want it. A monster petition has been signed and presented to the Selectmen protesting against the issuing of liquor licenses. Quincy's common council has been a very select body of men in the past, and have got along wonderfully smooth; but just now they have run up against something, and trouble is brewing. Abington elected a minister for chief of police, and the liquor sellers are fleeing for a place of safety. Brookline had a stormy meeting, one of the most talked about in its history. So, if Randolph has had a peaceful and satisfactory town meeting, congratulations are in order, and always let peace prevail.—Randolph Register.

—The following call for professional services was sent by a Kansas City resident to a doctor in a neighboring town:—"Dear Doctor:—My wife's mother is at death's door. Please come at once and see if you can't pull her through."

LITERARY TRIFLES.

Amusing Papers in Light Vein at Unity Club.

The Unity club of Wollaston has put in some good solid work this winter, so that when it is announced that the next meeting would be on "Literary Trifles" and be in charge of Mr. Emery L. Crane, every one commended to smile in anticipation of the meeting.

Early Friday evening the Unitarian vestry began to fill and it was found necessary to bring in extra seats to accommodate all. With the exception of Mr. Harper's evening, it was the largest attendance of the season. The club has a paid membership of 151, and there were present last evening 174.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, presided and introduced Mr. Crane, who said the program would fully carry out the thoughts suggested by the subject of the evening. The papers would be of a bright nature, also the music, the idea being to give all a happy evening, free from care and thought, and when the program was ended all could go away and forget all about it.

In the absence of Miss Mabel Adams, Mrs. Wilson Marsh treated the subject of "Epigrams, Anagrams, Chronograms, Macaronies and Acrostics" in a very entertaining manner and the audience began to smile in a quiet appreciative way, which became audible when Miss Edith Randall read her paper on "Fun and Parody." Miss Randall has a way of presenting a deep thoughtful subject in a bright attractive manner which would make any subject interesting, therefore her paper in a light vein last evening was one of the hits of the evening, and was heartily enjoyed.

The same might be said of Mr. Crane. People expect him to be funny and original, and he never disappoints them. His paper on "Nonsense Verses," was full of wit; original and quotations.

Miss Florence Emery sang two songs, "Marionettes" and "Little Dutch Dolls," both in light vein. They were beautifully sung and appreciatively enjoyed.

The musical hits of the evening were "Ambolena Snow" and "My Hannah Lady," solos by Mrs. N. S. Hunting, and a chorus. Mrs. Hunting was in fine voice and sang most fascinatingly, and the chorus was also very good. It was a part of the chorus which gave such a good minstrel entertainment at Quincy Music hall early in the winter. In the chorus were: Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mr. Hunting, Miss Emery, the Misses Sibley, Miss Alice Prescott, Miss Waterhouse, Miss Ellsworth, Mrs. E. H. Dewson, Jr., Mr. James F. Harlow, Mr. Crane, Mr. Winslow, Mr. Brooks Keyes, and Mr. Sheppard, accompanied on the piano by Miss Sara Whichee.

The entertainment closed with the song "Listen to the Band" by Miss Emery and chorus.

Pastor and Bride.

The ladies of the United Presbyterian church tendered a wedding reception last evening to Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Dornan at the church, which was largely attended, and a happy gathering. The pastor and his bride were assisted in receiving by Mr. Andrew Stewart, Mr. Charles Marton and Mrs. Alexander Falconer. The ushers were: Miss Bessie McLeod, Miss Arabella McDougall, Miss Jennie Leavick, Mr. John MacDonald, Mr. John Campbell and Mr. Archibald Parsons. The guests were limited to the church but included Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Hardy, Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Wilder and numerous friends of the bride and groom.

The entertainment was informal. Rev. E. N. Hardy of Bethany church was chairman, and he called upon Dr. McLennan, Mr. Frank F. Prescott, Rev. C. W. Wilder and finally Rev. Mr. Dornan. These were interspersed by singing, including solos by Mr. Archibald Parsons, selections by the Granite City quartette composed of W. C. Warrington, A. Parson, J. C. Pierce and G. Guston, and by the church choir.

Ice cream and cake were bountifully served by the ladies.

PUNCHBOWL OF TIN.

Presented to Manet Encampment on 10th Anniversary.

Weymouth Old Fellows associate a tin wedding with a tenth anniversary, and so when they received an invitation to help Manet encampment of Quincy celebrate last evening its tenth anniversary they thoughtfully brought along a tin punch bowl, about which were hung several dippers. The bowl was not empty either, but was filled with fruit lemonade.

District Deputy Mitchell of South Boston and suite were present, also about thirty members of Mt. Washington encampment, forty members of Elliston encampment, and twenty-five of Wompatuck encampment.

Manet encampment worked the Royal Purple degree on four candidates in approved style. A turkey supper and speeches followed.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

The biographical year, when the public mind is turned upon Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its value is already tremendous, and will perhaps be increased by the issue of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.
Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor,
the staunch old Republican leader in Congress,
has to say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party.
General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fine and curious of his nature.
The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand.
The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a diamond over the hills. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men.
The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $60, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own
it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so careful that when people see it they want it.
The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grosvenor, initial letters hand painted,
Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price, $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will be assigned soon.

altitude, and at a distance of 1,000 yards does not rise over six feet.The rifles used today carry a ball less than one-fourth inch in diameter, and have a range of two and one-half miles.It will penetrate over 18 inches of ordinary brick wall, three-sixteenth inches of steel, and go through a human body. The shock to a person hit is very slight much less than the shock caused by the old fashioned rifles or guns. The ball leaving a rifle rotates from 10,000 to 20,000 times a minute.

If stopped by a plate it fuses and leaves the plate cold. If it passes through a plate it leaves the plate hot.

In closing his address, Commander

Eaton described the Whitehead torpedo at length. How it was manufactured and how it was controlled after leaving the tube from which it had been thrown.

They have not proved so effective as was expected. In the Spanish war the actual damage by the torpedoes thrown

by the Vesuvius was insignificant, but morally it was enormous.

At the conclusion of the address

there was a social hour during which

T. D. Cook & Co. served refreshments.

Braitree Golf Club.

Owing to town meeting and other attractions the annual meeting of the Braitree Golf Club was not as well attended as it otherwise would have been, only about thirty being present.President Lewis W. Lothrop presided and called the meeting to order. In the absence of the secretary Mr. Henry Thayer was elected secretary pro tem.The treasurer, Mr. Lowell Hayden, read an interesting account of the finances of the club. There is on handsome two hundred and twenty-five dollars and no outstanding bills. Most of this amount was the result of the minstrel show given at Cochato hall a fewweeks ago. A vote was passed thanking those who took part and assisted in making the minstrel entertainment the great success it was.Before proceeding to ballot for officers for the coming year, Mr. Thayer made a motion that Mr. Lothrop the present president be unanimously re-elected president, and it was so voted.
Mr. Lothrop declined a reelection but was prevailed upon to consider the matter and report his decision at a later meeting.The officers elected are: secretary, Mr. Bill; treasurer, Mr. W. H. Reynolds; executive committee, Miss Helen
L. Arnold, Miss Elizabeth B. Pray,
Miss Mary E. Wardwell, Mr. Herbert F.Kneeland, Mr. Lewis F. Small and Mr.
Henry Thayer.The question of raising the annual dues to five dollars was debated and finally voted that hereafter
the dues be five dollars for each individual, man or woman.Messrs. Lewis W. Lothrop, Henry Thayer, H. F. Kneeland and W. H.
Reynolds were appointed a committee to meet Mr. Alex. Findley, the expert golfer, and go over the club links and get his opinion of them.By-laws were submitted and discussed, a club house was talked of and other matters came up, all of which were laid over until after a report had been received from Mr. Findley and the committee.A meeting will be called at a later date for further consideration of club matters.

Semi-Colon Bill.

The semi-colon came to a full stop in the Senate yesterday, when the bill to regulate the sale of liquor was reached Mr.
Fitzgerald of Suffolk moved that it be assigned for next Wednesday. Mr.Codman of Suffolk moved an amendment to lay the bill on the table, saying
some of the Senators desired more time.
This amendment being defeated by a vote of 4 to 15, he immediately offeredanother assigning the bill to Wednesday, April 3. This amendment was adopted.

New Registry.

Contrary to expectations, the Committee on Counties of the Legislature reported yesterday a bill for a new Norfolk county registry building at Dedham, at a cost not exceeding $200,- 000.—Great thoughts are not always evidence of a great brain. They sometimes indicate the acquisition of a new hours intermission at noon for lunch.Adams Chapter of Quincy was well represented some fifteen members

Braitree Literary Club.

The third meeting of the present
club season, was held with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Ewart, Monday evening, Mar. 18 with good attendance.After the usual routine business it was voted upon motion of Mr. O. C.
Gallagher, that the president and secretary constitute a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the deep loss sustained by the Braitree Literary club, in the recent death of one of its most valued charter members, Mrs. A.
B. Keith.President Oakman briefly reviewed
Mrs. Keith's work in the club and recalled with grateful appreciation the effectiveness of her membership in this organization.The work of the evening was next taken up. The subject was, "Ballads and Lyrics, Old English and Scotch."The consideration of the club was occupied with the reading and singing of many of the best and most representative English and Scotch ballads in illustration of this subject.The readings were contributed as follows:English Ballads, Mrs. Joseph A.
Ewart.Wordsworth and his Works, Mr. I.
W. Horne.Scotch Ballads and Lyrics, Mrs. F.
W. Crooker.The club was indebted for vocal illustrations to, Miss Susie Arnold,
Mr. Joseph A. Ewart, and O. C.
Gallagher.The program, as arranged by Chairman O. C. Gallagher of the Board of Instructions, was a very discriminate array of delectable literary food, and was well worth the approval it received.

Vespers at Braitree.

Vesper services have been held fortnightly in the First church, Sunday afternoons at four o'clock, under the auspices of Class 27. The services have all been of a very high order and attended with increasing popularity.Tomorrow's service will be the last of the season and will be the best one in the course, being the most expensive and elaborate.Miss Blanche H. Kilduff, soprano; Mrs. Helen Allen Hunt, alto; Robert Hall, tenor; Edward A. Osgood, basso; with Mr. C. P. Scott, organist;
from the Meeting House Hill church, Dorchester, will furnish all the musical part of the program.Mrs. Hunt, whose singing is so popular in Braitree, is associated in the above quartet with rich voices.

Now is the Time.

If you wish to save your fruit or ornamental trees from canker worms,
caterpillars, and other crawling insects
now's the time. As the frost comes out of the ground the insects start,
and a little labor now will destroy thousands. Morrill's tree ink or canker worm exterminator, is the best thing to use. For sale in small cans at this office.—An enterprising St. Louis tobacco-ist advertises:—"Imported cigars of my Children's Corner.

Missed His Chance.

During his lecture to children at the Society of Arts Mr. E. Walter Maunder told his audience an instructive story.
A certain lecturer on astronomy observed that some of the students were not paying due attention. "Mr. So-and-so," he called out to one of them, "will you be good enough to tell us of what the corona is composed?" The student addressed hesitated for a moment and then blurted out, "I did know, sir, but I've forgotten." The professor looked at him and then exclaimed: "What a calamity! Here we have the only man who ever knew the composition of the corona, and he has forgotten!"—London Chronicle.

Juvenile Logic.

Norman's mamma was something of a stickler for propriety, and she was not a little annoyed that it seemed impossible to make the boy give his uncle's name the customary handle. One day after the little fellow had met with a severe reproof than usual for this shortcoming of his he said:
"I mean to be good, mamma, but I don't see why I should say Uncle Harry. I don't say Uncle Papa, do I?"—

OPPOSES AGREEMENT

The Attitude of Japan in Tientsin Incident

FREE HAND AGAINST RUSSIA

Integrity of Chinese Empire Unsettled
—Russia's Treaty With China Modified—A Matter of Diplomatic ConsiderationLondon, March 23.—Officials of the foreign office take a pessimistic view of the immediate future in the far east, in spite of the settlement of the Tientsin incident, and entertain grave fears that the relations between Japan and Russia may shortly reach the danger point.Judging from information obtained in various official quarters in London, Japan has confined to at least some of the powers
the determination to oppose at all costs any secret agreements made between Russia and China by which the former could secure territorial or other advantages contiguous to Korea.The British government has received no official confirmation that the Japanese fleet is mobilizing, but it would not be surprised to learn that such was the fact.A highly placed British official says:
"All Japan wants is a free hand against Russia. This she has got so far as England and Germany are concerned, and I presume, so far as the United States government is concerned, although I do not imagine for one moment that any of the powers
mentioned will be drawn into a war between Japan and Russia. If Japan sees nothing for it but to fight, she would have the moral support of objections committed to paper
by at least two other powers against secret treaties with China. That is all, but Japan seems to consider it sufficient to provide against interference."Confirmation of the foregoing definition of the situation was afforded by the secretary of the Japanese legation, who said,
in the course of an interview: "While rejoicing
in the fact that England and Russia have reached a peaceful settlement over the minor issue, the main question—the integrity of the Chinese empire—remains unsettled. In response to pressure brought by Japan upon Russia, it was announced that Russia's secret treaties with China had been modified, but the terms have been withheld. Until we see the treaties, we will not be satisfied that the modification does not consist of words merely without any alteration in the spirit. In this contention we believe other powers will support us."It appears that Great Britain would be quite willing to refer the whole Manchuria matter to arbitration on the lines of the Hague conference. The Tientsin siding affair is not considered important enough to be disposed of in this way, and it will immediately become a matter of diplomatic interchange between St. Petersburg and London.

Print Cloth Market

Fall River, Mass., March 23.—The
sales in the print cloth market during the week amounted to a total of 125-000 pieces, of which 10,000 were regulars and the remainder wide goods.Already the result of the curtailment of production is being shown in the increased sales and strong inquiry. The demand for goods is now better than it has been for several months past, and it appears that the movement begun
this week by buyers may ultimately result in the reduction to a great extent
at least of the surplus of goods now stored in the warehouses here by local agents.

Demonstration by Students

London, March 23.—The Moscow correspondent of The Standard says: "A great demonstration of 20,000 students and workmen was planned for yesterday, but, possibly on account of the elaborate police and military precautions, it has been postponed until the body of M. Bogolepoff, the victim of Karpovitch is brought here for burial.
For the last 10 nights the troops of the Moscow garrison have slept in their clothing, ready for instant action. It will be surprising if matters are finally settled without bloodshed."

Millions Involved

Cleveland, March 23.—A meeting of representatives of the vapor stove companies of America was held yesterday,
the object of which is said to be the formation of a vapor stove trust and that all the companies manufacturing vapor stoves in America would be merged into one concern, that would be known as the American Vapor Stove company. The capital of the new company, it is said, will consist of $3,000,000
in preferred stock, and $3,000,000 in common stock.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Can company, the trust, are being invoiced, and they will be turned over the first of next week.The British headquarters at Peking report the withdrawal of both Russian and British troops from the disputed territory at Tientsin.Governor Stickney of Vermont has appointed Arthur F. Stone of St. Johnsbury one of the presidents from Vermont to the Pan American exposition, in place of Hon. H. C. Bates, resigned.Andrew Carnegie has offered to erect a $20,000 building for the Catskill, N. Y., public library, provided the village
which owns a site will guarantee $2000 annually for its support.The fire loss in Boston for the insurance underwriters' year, ending March 1, was $1,974,776, on buildings and contents, on which the insurance loss was $1,407,584. The loss per capita of population was $2.30.

SOME DECREASE

But Generally Good Spring Trade
Is PredictedNew York, March 23.—R. C. Dun
& Co.'s weekly review of trade says:
The position of general business is satisfactory, being marked this week by increased activity of retail operations throughout the west, and in some Atlantic seaboard cities, which is considered the forerunner of a generally good spring trade. New enterprise is reflected in the largest demand for many months for builders' hardware and general material and contracts for prompt delivery of all structural goods are very difficult to place. Collections are prompt, and railroad tonnage is well maintained.The textile industry alone does not improve. Short time has been adopted by Fall River cotton mills and there are reports that some of the southern weaving mills are about to curtail production, but this has been without special effect upon demand for either principal or heavy brown cottons.Bank clearings show 66 percent gain over last year at New York, while outside New York the increase is 25.2 percent.Footwear is firmly maintained for staple lines, although high priced grades are easier. Some decrease in demand does not disturb producers, as factories are busy on contracts that will require months to fill. Orders for boots have exceeded last year's to date, with trade most active at the south. Buyers who recently left Boston are now sending in orders freely.Foreign commerce at this port for two weeks shows a striking loss compared with 1900, exports falling off $6,699,- 222, and imports decreasing $1,976,927.
Failures for the week numbered 224
in the United States, against 181 last year, and 33 in Canada, against 27 last
year.

Piano Factory Burned

Milwaukee, March 23.—Fire last night completely wiped out the big piano establishment of William Rohlfing
2 Sons on Broadway, and wrought further destruction to adjoining property, entailing a loss close to $300,000, fully insured. The four-story building occupied by the concern and the contents were licked up in the space of half an hour, and the fire quickly spread to buildings on either side. The loss to the piano company will reach $250,000.
The loss to the occupants of the other buildings is estimated at $45,000.

Defective In Detail

Washington, March 23.—Chief Wilkie
of the secret service has announced the appearance of a new counterfeit $5
national bank note on the National Bank of Morristown, N. J. It is a deceptive counterfeit printed on two pieces of paper, between which silk fiber has been distributed. The face of the note, apparently printed from an engraved plate, is defective in detail.
The word "cashier," abbreviated in the genuine to "cash," appears in the counterfeit as "cashish."

To Raise Duty on Fish

Halifax, March 23.—At a meeting of fresh fish shippers here yesterday the government was urged to increase the license for American fishing schooners to allow themselves of the privileges of Nova Scotia ports. It seems that fresh fish from Boston, Portland and Gloucester is capturing the Toronto and Montreal markets.The shippers also recommend raising the Canadian duty from 12 cent per pound, the same as the American duty.

The Banigan Estate

Providence, March 23.—John Conway
of Brooklyn and Susan F. Maher of this city, brother and sister of the late Maria T. Banigan, widow of Joseph Banigan, filed in the municipal court a claim of appeal from the decree, proving the will of Mrs. Banigan, and also a claim for a jury trial. The heirs to the property are made the defendants in the case. The estate is an extremely valuable one, and will undoubtedly run well into the hundred thousands.

A New Casting

Boston, March 23.—Another casting will be made for the balance rudder of the Lawson boat Independence, as the one now at the Atlantic works, it is said,
did not prove strong enough to stand the tremendous strain expected of
it. The rudder casting is supposed to have a tensile strength of 60,000 pounds to the square inch. The new casting, or bronze frame, which will be even heavier than the first one, will be made of Hyde metal, at Bath, Me.

Five Indictments Against Him

New York, March 23.—Sigmund Hertz, formerly the confidential man of Stei-fuchs & Co., charged with defalcations amounting to between $30,000 and $40,- 000, who was brought from London, was arraigned before Judge Newburger in the court of general sessions here.
There are five indictments against him;
one for grand larceny in the second degree and four for forgery in the second degree.

Held Offices of Trust

Machias, Me., March 23.—John K.
Anes died at his home last evening of pneumonia, after an illness of two days.
His age was 23, and during a busy life in the community he had held many offices of town and county trust, and had served in both branches of the legislature, was collector of customs at the time of his death, had been a large ship owner and a prominent lumber manufacturer.

A Coincidence

New York, March 23.—Charles Pifer, 30 years old, of Brooklyn, while on his way home last evening, was taken ill
and died on the sidewalk near his residence. When the neighbors went to inform his mother of her son's death, it was found that she also had died suddenly at her home at about the same time her son's death occurred.

UNDER LOCK AND KEY

The Battle Creek Murderer Lodged
In PrisonAugusta, Me., March 23.—The Battle Creek murderer, John Dearborn Marr, who slaughtered in cold blood his three children with an axe, was brought to Augusta, and lodged in the county jail yesterday afternoon. Quite a crowd awaited the arrival of the prisoner, and nearly would have been present had it been generally known that he was to be brought. With hands handcuffed in front of his body, Marr took the trip
from the depot to the jail without uttering a word. He looked to neither side and held his eyes downcast as though in deep thought. He was perfectly quiet while on the train.The coroner's jury empaneled to inquire into the case of the death of the children, was made up of neighbors of the locality.The principal testimony was relating to the mental condition of Jacob D.
Marr. After an hour's deliberation, the jury returned the following verdict
which is generally accepted with satisfaction by the residents of Clinton:"That the said persons—Alice May, Elwin and Helen Marr—met their deaths by the use of an axe or some similar instrument in the hands of their father, J. D. Marr, and that the said J. D. Marr was insane at the time he committed the act."The next move in the case will be before the grand jury of the May term of the supreme court for Kennebec county.

Will Probably Recover

Colbrook, Mass., March 23.—Mrs. Lizzie Narramore, who Thursday afternoon slaughtered her six children with an axe, and then attempted her own life,
at her home on the Babcock farm, in the town of Falmouth, was alive and good hopes were held out for her recovery at latest accounts. She appears rational but up to the present time has not told how or why she committed the terrible deed.

A New Combine

Indianapolis, March 23.—The immense plant of the Duggale Can company, with an annual capacity of 25,- 000,000 cans, was yesterday transferred to the American Can company of New York, which has a capital of $80,000,000.
This completes the consolidation of all the large tin can manufacturing concerns of the company. William Dug-dale will remain with the concern as general manager.

Firemen Injured

Worcester, Mass., March 23.—Captain Couch of hose 4, Lieutenant Noyes of engine 1, John Valentine and Arthur McGee, call firemen, were badly burned
at a fire in the Second Swedish church, M. E., here last night. The fire was caused by the janitor searching for a gas leak with a lighted lantern. After the fire started he failed to tell the firemen of the leak, and they entered the building with lighted lanterns.

Perjurers Convicted

Boston, March 23.—John Weinberg,
a witness for Hyman Bon, who sued
the Boston Elevated railroad for damages, alleged to have been received in an electric car collision, was sent to the house of correction for two years for perjury in giving testimony. Bon, the plaintiff, for perjury in the same case, was sent to the state prison for four years.

To Resume Work

Naples, March 23.—Two thousand of the 2500 dock laborers who went on strike here Tuesday in sympathy with the Marseilles strikers, decided to resume work yesterday, provided vessels
from the south of France were not admitted to this port. It is thought that the local strike is ended.

Three Bullets Extracted

Montreal, March 23.—Three bullets were extracted from the head of Arthur B. Townsend, the New York clubman, who attempted suicide at St. Lawrence hall on March 12. The operation was a delicate one. It is expected that Townsend will be able to leave the hospital in a short time.

For a Naval Arch

New York, March 23.—The city will be asked to appropriate $1,000,000 for the naval arch to be erected in Battery park. This statement was made last night by Park Benjamin, chairman of the naval arch committee. Until now the committee has been unable to state definitely what the cost will be.

Gift of $100,000

New York, March 23.—The trustees
of the teachers' college of Columbia university, announce the receipt of a gift of $100,000 for the erection and equipment of a free school in the neighborhood of the college. The names of the donors are withheld.

Threatened With Punishment

Berlin, March 23.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette, from Peking, dated Thursday, March 21, says an imperial decree, in accordance with article 10
of the peace conditions, has been placarded
on the walls of Peking, threatening all anti-foreign societies with punishment.

Murder In First Degree

Harrisburg, March 23.—Watson Kelper and Henry Rowe of Lykens, who shot and killed Cashier Charles W. Ryan of the Halifax bank last Thursday, in an attempt to rob the bank, were each convicted of murder in the first degree.

Passenger Agents association, representing all the steamboat and railway lines of Canada has decided that there will be no reduction of passenger rates
on Canadian lines for another year.

FORESAW HIS OWN DEATH.

Prenatal That Quickly Came
True Reported From Canada.The little country town of St. Eustache in Quebec reports a case of second sight, premonition or presentiment which is scarcely equalled by any of those related by M. Camille Flammarion in "The Unknown."One of the villagers, a healthy, middle aged man named Legare, after rising one morning recently apparently in the best of health and spirits said absolutely to his wife:"I am going to die tonight, but you must not trouble yourself about it. I am going to arrange everything in such a manner as to give you as little worry
as possible."Mrs. Legare believed that her husband was joking and attempted to laugh off his remarks. Nevertheless, Legare proceeded to shave himself with care, changed all his clothing and put on clean apparel, placed all his papers and business affairs in proper order and made his will.Then he calmly asked his wife to go for the parish priest in order that he might make his confession and receive the last sacraments of the church before dying. Seeing that he was apparently in the best of health, his wife positively refused to go for the priest until Legare had insisted again and again that he was perfectly sane and knew only too well what he was about.The priest went to the house with Mrs. Legare and consented to receive her husband's confession, but positively refused to administer the sacrament of extreme unction, reminding Legare
that it could be given only to a dying person. In vain Legare insisted that he was about to die, although perfectly well at that time, and that he would be a corpse that very night. The priest was obdurate and left him.Legare continued to busy himself with the affairs of his estate until early in the evening, when he suddenly expired. The doctors say that death was due to heart failure and could not possibly in the natural order of things have been foreseen. The remarkable circumstances attending the death are, naturally enough, the wonder of the whole district.

TO GO TO POLAR REGIONS.

Ernest Leffengwell To Be Geodeticist
of Baldwin-Ziegler Expedition.Ernest de Koven Leffengwell, a University of Chicago student and athlete,
will accompany the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition to the arctic regions. He will be the geodeticist of the party.Mr. Leffengwell has been a graduate student in the department of physics for the last two years and has been prominent in athletics as a sprinter and discus thrower. Last spring he won the 100 yard dash in the dual meet with Illinois, making the distance in 10 seconds. He also won the discus throwing. In 1897 he played on the university football team. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity.Leffengwell is the son of the rector of St. Mary's academy, Knoxville, Ills.
He was graduated from Trinity college
in 1896 and then entered the graduate school of the University of Chicago.
He is fond of outdoor life and has roughed it many times on long hunting expeditions in Canada, Arizona and California. At the outbreak of the Spanish war he joined the Illinois naval reserves and was assigned to duty on the Oregon. In the battle of Santiago he was stationed in the forward turret in charge of one of the guns.

Noninflammable Rubber Tubing.

Consul Hughes of Coburg, Germany, reports that Muller & Korte of Pankow, near Berlin, has brought out a new kind of rubber tubing to be used in cases where damage to the rubber is to be feared either from the flame itself or by contact with hot dishes or stands.
The rubber tube is sheathed with asbestos and the asbestos coated with incombustible paint lest the fibers should peel off. The tubing remains pliable and can be cut as before. Burners with such rubber tubes may be placed on sand baths or hot stoves. The protection is of course not absolute, for when the heat becomes too strong the rubber inside will give way. The well known pipes with metallic spirals were originally made with the same object, but they have found other useful applications, and they differ from these new tubes by being hard and inclined to break. Once leaky they cannot be mended.

She Refused to "Make Faces."

An odd case was brought to the attention of the criminal court at Reading, Pa., the other afternoon, when the petition of Florence E. Shalter, daughter of Jonathan Shalter, a leading citizen of Bernville, Pa., was presented.
Miss Shalter is a pupil in the Bern-ville High school, and it is alleged that Professor W. M. Pfleger, her teacher, caught her "making a face" at him recently. Then he ordered her daily, she says, to stand at his desk and "make a face." Finally she refused, and in consequence of her persistent refusal to comply with making herself ridiculous,
her petition says, she has been deprived of her recess privilege twice daily since Jan. 23.

Noiseless Milk.

A dairyman went to the Hoosier capital for treatment and while there, lying in bed, was greatly annoyed by being awakened each morning by the man delivering milk. As soon as he got well he had the milkmen shod with rubber heels and rubber soled shoes
and rubber tires put on all his wagons.
He presented each customer with a rubber mat upon which to set the milk
can by the door, had his horses shod with rubber shoes and then began to exploit his noiseless milk. His business has quadrupled.

RARE FINDS IN EGYPT.

Important Discoveries Made Among the Royal Tombs.

ART OBJECTS 6,500 YEARS OLD.

Development of Civilization Traced to Period When Writing Was Sel-dum Used—Forearm of a Queen Unearthed, With Four Magnificent Bracelets Intact—Records of Dynasties.

The season's yield in archaeological finds in Egypt is briefly reported by Professor Flinders Petrie Edwards, professor of Egyptology of the University college, London, who has spent the winter in exploring the royal tombs of the earliest Egyptian dynasties, and whose discoveries included some of fascinating interest, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"We are now able to trace," he says, "the regular development of civilization during 400 years, from the time when writing was rarely used, and then only in a rude, pictorial stage, down to common use of delicately figured hieroglyphs which could not be distinguished from those which were used thousands of years afterward. We have now found beautifully wrought jewelry and gold work, minutely engraved ivories and toilet objects of Menes, the founder of monarchy, and his successor, fashioned more than 6,500 years ago. There are 30 inscriptions in stone and ivory, and from these we learn the names of the three kings—Nomer, Ka and a name written with a fish sign. Among these works of Menes are parts of four ebony tablets, with figures and inscriptions, one apparently showing a human sacrifice.

"The strangest object is a massive strip of gold, whose purpose is unknown to us, with the name 'Menes' upon it. Of Zer, the successor to Menes, it is astonishing to find the forearm of his queen still in its wrappings, with four splendid bracelets intact. One is a series of figures of the royal hawk perched on the tomb. There are 13 figures in chased gold, alternating with 14 in carved turquoise. The second bracelet is composed of spiral beads of gold and lazuli in three groups. The third bracelet has four groups in the shape of an hourglass, with beads of amethyst between gold with connections of gold and turquoise. The fourth has a centerpiece of gold copied from the rosette seed, with amethyst and turquoise beads and bands and braided gold wire.

"This brilliant and exquisitely finished group of jewelry shows the high level that had been attained at the beginning of the first dynasty. It is 2,000 years older than jewelry of Dah-saur, the oldest before known, and has the great advantage of being carefully examined as it was found and restrung in exact arrangement. The arm of the queen had been broken off by the first plunderers and laid in a hole in the wall of the tomb and there remained neglected for four parties in ancient and modern times, who successively cleared the tomb. There are 40 inscribed pieces of ivory and stone and two lions carved in ivory of the same kind. There was also discovered a great royal tombstone which was found in pieces and rejoined. Sixty private tombstones give the names in use in the royal household. Many were formed from the goddess Neith and not one from Isis or King Den V of the first dynasty.

"A dozen inscribed ivories were found, including the handle of the royal bed measuring cord, and also an impress of the beautiful royal seal showing the king wrestling with a hippopotamus and spearing a crocodile.

"Coming to the second dynasty, the tomb of Perabben yielded a large tombstone of the king, carved in syenite; also the names of his three predecessors, carved in stone bowls. These are Hopedan, Rauch and Neteven. From these we see Perabben was probably the fourth king of the dynasty, and his successor was apparently Khase Rhenat, in whose tomb was the royal scepter, formed by cylinders of sand held together by a copper rod in axis and with gold bands at intervals. There remains 28 inches of this, but the lower end has been lost. There are also seven stone vases with gold covers, fastened with twisted gold wire, two gold bracelets, 20 copper dishes, dozens of copper models, tools, copper axes, fruit knives and a perfect dish of diorite."

Red raspberries are grown in rows and loosely tied to wires, which are held in place by stakes or posts at intervals of about 12 feet. Two runs of wires are most commonly used, the lower about two feet from the ground and the upper one 1½ or 2 feet higher, and the canes are not allowed to extend more than one foot above the top wire.

Cultivated roots hereabout are carefully staked and wired. Blackpeas are usually grown in clumps which have a strong stake firmly driven into the center and the canes loosely tied with binder twine. The twine will last but one year. This will insure annual attention.

Where raspberries are grown in large quantities for evaporation in western New York neither stakes nor wires are used as supports, says a New York fruit grower in American Gardening.

Smyrna Figs in America.

The insect which fertilizes the Smyrna fig was successfully carried through last winter in California, and during the summer it was cared for with good results that in one locality in California more than six tons of Smyrna figs of the highest grade of excellence were produced and packed. Down to the present time the Smyrna fig has had a practical monopoly of the dried fig market of the world. None had been successfully grown in America. It has been estimated that the value of the Smyrna fig industry to California will not be less than $1,000,000 annually.

Found a Washington Letter.

An autograph letter of George Washington, dated 1776, was found among some waste paper stock at the Bryant paper mill in Kalamazoo, Mich., the other day. It was written to Captain James Jamieson, a New York merchant, asking for boat freight rates on a quantity of flour. Two copies of The Federal Gazette and Baltimore Advertiser over 100 years old and an autograph letter of Robert Morris of Philadelphia dated 1793 were also found. The waste paper came from Philadelphia.

Findings Gold in Philippines.

Frank W. Redding, formerly of Newark, N. J., who was a member of the Astor battery during the Spanish war, has, it is said, discovered a gold mine on the island of Mindanao, in the Philippines. He forwarded a quantity of the dust to his brother, William F. Redding of Newark. The latter sent it to the United States assay office in New York, and he has received a report from the government assayer that the dust proved to be .897 fine and that it was worth in its crude state $18.50 an ounce. The Newark man cabled the news to his brother.

FRUIT & FLOWERS

THE REVIVAL OF HEATH.

This Old Favorite Is Now a Popular Christmas and Easter Plant.

The erica or heath family has lately come into very general popularity as interior decorative plants, being widely grown for both the Christmas and the Easter pot plant market.

The winter heath (Erica hymenalis) is well known for its delicate beauty, its pink and white blossoms being very abundant. But it is not so easy to manage as some other plants, and it is to be feared that many of the beautiful specimens of this erica sold soon die or at least become too unhealthy to blossom again.

Although heaths enjoy a little warmth in winter, it must be accompanied by moisture or it is fatal to them. They should never be placed over hot water pipes, but will do best in a position where the ground is constantly damp. If used in the house for a few hours daily, they should be removed to the conservatory before lights are lit in the evening, or they may stand safely in a bathroom for the night, where the hot water can be turned on for a few minutes to moisten the air.

Plenty of tepid water is necessary for heaths at all times, and faded flowers should be carefully cut off after cutting back the fresh growth to within three or four inches of their base. If kept moist and warm, the heath will quickly throw out fresh shoots, and the plant should be repotted as soon as these are half an inch in length. Ample drainage and fibrous peat, with silver sand and powdered charcoal, will suit this plant, and the soil must be made extremely firm between the ball of roots and the clean pot, allowing about half an inch between the two.

In June it can be placed in the open air, the pot being sunk to the rim in coal ashes. Taken into the conservatory in the fall, it will be found to be covered with buds, which will open from Christmas time to February, according to the temperature kept up.

Erica wilmorei is a variety that may be flowered later, especially in March or April or about Eastertide.

Raspberries in Winter.

Our wild raspberries (black and red) usually withstand the winters without tying or protection, but they sometimes "kill back" a foot or more—natural pruning to prevent overproduction perhaps. During mild winters they often become so heavily coated with ice or sleet that they break in the place where the bend is shortest, on strong canes high and on weak ones low.

Cultivated roots hereabout are carefully staked and wired. Blackpeas are usually grown in clumps which have a strong stake firmly driven into the center and the canes loosely tied with binder twine. The twine will last but one year. This will insure annual attention.

DISCOVERS BIG CAVE.

Chicago Man Tells of Wonderful Cavern in the Cascades.

STRANGE LAKE AND CHAMBERS.

Petrified Giants and Canoes, Besides Hot and Cold Springs, Are Other of Its Curiosities—Cave Is Rich With Gold Quartz and Copper.

H. F. Forrest, a miner from Chicago who has been prospecting in the Cascade mountains, claims to have discovered a wonderful cave in the foothills in the eastern part of Lewis county, Wash., says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The cavern is thus described by Forrest:

"It is 12 feet in height and from 80 to 50 or 60 feet in width. The walls have been polished and contain many hieroglyphics and figures made by human hands. The main passage I explored for five miles. Passages lead off in many directions from the main cave, in one of which was boiling water. In other parts there were ice caves. Two tubs have been cut into the stone near these springs. In this same passage was a well about 30 feet deep, and around the well a circular stairway leads to the bottom. After devious winding about the bottom of the well I came to an immense underground lake, and the entrance was a petrified canoe, apparently made of cedar, chained to a heavy metal staple driven in the wall.

"Another passage leading from the main boulevard carried me to a flight of stone steps leading down about 60 feet. At the bottom there was a long passageway ten feet or more wide and of about equal height. Along this passageway were several sealed vaults. Beside one of the vaults was a small lid lying loosely against a small slab which inclosed it. The chamber seemed dry, but it was exceedingly cold and ice was all about. On a huge slab, side by side, were two human figures, one that of a woman measuring more than seven feet in length and the other that of a man 7 feet 10 inches long. Both bodies were frozen solid and in a perfect state of preservation. The man had a black beard and dark hair, and on his left wrist was a gold band an inch and a half wide. On the band was an engraving of an antelope and numerous characters. The woman had remarkably long hair and in one ear hung a heavy pendant of gold.

"Near the bodies were the dismembered skeletons of two children, and numerous bones were lying about various parts of the cave. There were several vessels of different kinds, all of metal, and a number of tools. Seven hammers, weighing from 12 to 15 pounds each, with metal handles, and many chisels were among my discoveries.

"The cave is rich with splendid white gold quartz and also much copper." Forrest's story is told with minuteness of detail and great plausibility. He says he will file a mining claim on the property and that when his brother arrives from Chicago they will go in and make a further examination.

AGAINST ALCOHOLISM.

International Meeting to Be Held Shortly in Vienna.

The state department at Washington has received a note from the Austrian legation, dated Feb. 27, 1901, stating that an international congress against alcoholism will be held in Vienna from the 9th to the 14th of April next. The United States government is invited to send delegates. Members of the congress, except the official delegates of governments, will pay in advance an assessment of 6 crowns ($1.22), receiving a ticket of membership, which authorizes them to take part in all debates and to receive its reports; also to obtain reduced railway fare.

The congress will hold eight public sessions. Reports and speeches can be made in German, French, English or Italian. The programme includes discussions upon the effects of alcohol—diseases, heredity, degeneration and criminality caused by its use—and means to combat alcoholism, both of legal and of private initiative. Partisans of the moderate use of liquors as well as the adherents of total abstinence are admitted to the congress.

THE SOCIAL REALM.

Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Willard were among the guests of the Vermont academy alumni, last night, at the Brunswick, Boston. Dr. Willard was formerly principal of the school, and was one of the speakers. One of the speakers said that in every place he had ever visited the influence of men and women from small schools was very noticeable. He claimed that the young men and women of the small schools were the ones who would make the rulers in the future, and they must be heard in all walks of life. They are being sought by large business establishments.

Mr. and Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold of Coddingtown boulevard are in New York. Mr. Arnold is to go south on a trip and Mrs. Arnold will return home on Monday.

Miss Edith Rapdall is to read a paper at the April meeting of Adams chapter, at the John Hancock birthplace.

The dancing classes of Miss E. J. Corlew will give their annual reception on Friday evening next at Quincy music hall, when parents and friends will be admitted by invitation only. The beginners have made good progress while older pupils are very proficient in dancing.

Early next month Mr. and Mrs. Emery L. Crane are to move into the handsome colonial house which they have recently built on Whitney road.

At the meeting of the Quincy Branch of the Women's alliance Monday afternoon, March 25, Mrs. Frank W. Pratt of Wollaston will give a paper on Miracle Plays. All are cordially invited to attend.

Viking.

The interest already shown by the Quincy smart set in the "Viking" to be given by the Pi Eta Society for the benefit of the Quincy Yacht club in April, bids fair to fill Music hall to the utmost of its seating capacity. This year the society presents an original play in three acts which will eclipse all previous productions. The few favored ones who have seen the rehearsals are unanimous in declaring that this year's show is the best thing yet gotten up by the Pi Eta.

No bill is liable to become a law in this State at least which provides that every passenger in a street car must have a seat—or else get off the crowded car and walk to his destination. We all think we want laws passed governing street cars until we find that, conversely they would govern us. They would compel us to stand on street corners in the rain and snow and wait sometimes for an hour till a car came along with plenty of seating capacity to accommodate all of us. No law could compel companies to run cars enough to provide for all the people at all times, because no human brain could ever figure in advance on the cars needed to carry the people comfortably at all times. A law compelling the provision of seats would therefore act against the interest of a good many people.—Brockton Enterprise.

BRAINTREE.

The recent showers have filled Little pond to within 41 1-2 inches of high water mark, covering the island 2 1-2 inches. Last year, March 22, the pond was filled within 12 1-4 inches. Let us have more rain.

Wednesday evening the members of Class No. 27, of the First Parish church with the aid of the Parsonage Association, presented what proved to be the best concert in this town for years. The artists were Miss Edna Marie Goulaud, soprano; Mrs. Helen Allen Hunt, contralto; Miss Bertha Shaye Holbrook, reader; and Mr. Arthur W. Raymond, organist.

Mrs. Rachel Bryant died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maria Margerson, on Plain street, early yesterday morning after a five days' illness of pneumonia.

A large audience gathered in the town hall Thursday evening to witness the dramatic entertainment, "The Spy of Gettysburg," given for the benefit of the Braintree Fife and Drum Corps, by members of the James L. Bates camp, S. of V., of East Weymouth. In the cast were Misses Gertrude Barnes and Gertrude Berry of South Braintree. The entertainment was given in a most excellent manner and was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

William A. Hollis a well known and much respected citizen of Braintree, died at his home on Union street, Friday, after a short illness. He left a widow and two sons Ellsworth A. and Amer W.

The Gen. Sylvanus Thayer W. R. C. netted over $60 at their fair.

Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern will preach at Mayflower Park chapel next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Charles G. Richards was drawn Monday by the Seletmen to serve as jurymen for the ensuing term.

The Braintree Club will play whist, billiards, pool and bowling with the Merrymount club at Wollaston next Wednesday evening, in the Norfolk County league.

Rev. George H. Young, recently a preacher at All Souls' church and formerly settled at Lawrence, Mass., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Unitarian church of Sandwich, Mass.

Rev. F. R. Griffin will begin his pastorate at All Souls' church May 1.

The gentlemen's candle pin tournament at the Cochato club will commence next Monday evening.

Rev. Wayland Spaulding from New York city will preach tomorrow morning in the First church. The public are invited.

Administration was granted at Dedham this week on the estate of Elizabeth A. Cutting, late of Braintree, to Ina E. Cutting and James M. Cutting, of Quincy.

Mrs. William A. McKean met with a serious accident yesterday morning while walking on a plank walk to her son's house. She slipped and fell dislocating her arm at the shoulder and fracturing the shoulder cap. The bones were set, under ether, and it will be several weeks before she will be out again.

Rev. H. S. Snyder of the Union church is to move into the Alden Bowditch house on Quincy avenue.

About twenty-five little friends and playmates gathered at the home of Daniel Mahan on Penn's hill, Saturday evening, to help him celebrate his twelfth birthday. The affair was a complete surprise, but nevertheless, was thoroughly enjoyed. Instrumental and vocal music, recitations, games and refreshments formed the evening's entertainment until about nine o'clock when the young guests departed leaving their good wishes and several little birthday tokens.

Keith's Theatre.

One of the strongest and most varied programmes offered this season at Keith's Boston playhouse is that scheduled for presentation the week commencing Monday, March 25. The principal feature will be the song sheet chorus, the revival of which has been petitioned for by hundreds of patrons. An entirely new "coon song" will be produced, with a chorus of 50 voices, and the noted Belle Davis as soloist, assisted by her precocious pickaninny, the brightest boy in the varieties, Homer Lind, the well known opera singer, is announced to appear in a one-act musical comedy from the French. Tony Cummings, the former comedian of the Castle Square stock company, whose debut as a vaudeville entertainer was made so successfully this week, will be retained, but will be seen in a new piece. His supporting company, Eva Westcott and Alfred Kranz, are pronounced the best yet seen in the continuous playhouses.

Colonial Theatre.

The 100th performance of the great Klaw & Erlanger dramatization of Gen. Lew Wallace's famous novel "Ben Hur" has been passed at the beautiful Colonial Theatre in Boston, a record which few plays of any kind have ever reached in Boston and the demand for seats continues as steadily as it has almost from the beginning of the season now entering its 15th week at the Colonial. Its magnificent and wonderfully artistic pictures, its scenes of revelry, its melodramatic periods, its singularity, its medieval and highly dignified religious environment all make strong appeals to almost all the senses of the play-goer and all are so presented as to completely satisfy. "Ben Hur" is indeed a play of a century, not that just begun, but of the past 100 years, and all New England is crowding to the Colonial Theatre to see it before its season here is closed. The end of the Boston engagement is fast approaching and all who want to see the dramatization of the book which they undoubtedly have read, must secure their seats early. To be seen in its entirety the spectator must be in his seat at 7.45 o'clock at night and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for while the curtain is raised on the beautiful opening tableau of the appearance of the star of Bethlehem to the three wise men of the East, the theatre is in darkness and no one is allowed to take his seat. The final curtain is dropped at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and at 10.45 o'clock at night.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square Theatre company is to make a production of the fine old play "Peg Woffington" next week and an unusual interest will be felt in this addition to the season's repertoire at this house. The play is the joint work of Charles Reade and Tom Taylor and has been considered a classic in its line for the better part of a century. Its original production at the "Haymarket," London, was under the name "Peg Woffington" but later it was produced at the Adelphi theatre under the title "Masks and Faces" or "Before and Behind the Curtain." The latter title was used when the play was first introduced to American audiences at "Billy" Burton's Theatre in New York. The title part will afford Miss Lillian Lawrence a fine opportunity and her appearance in this play, as well as that of Mr. John T. Craven in the famous character of Triplet, will be awaited with much interest. The complete cast is as follows: Sir Charles Pomeroy, John Craig; Mr. Ernest Vane, Charles Mackay; Colley Cibber, Edmund Breese; Mr. Soaper, Stanley Kent; Peg Woffington, Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. Vane, Hope Ross; Kitty Clive, Leonora Gaito; Mrs. Triplet, Leonora Bradley; Roxalana, Little May Green. Souvenir boxes of choice chocolate bonbons will be given all patrons of the Monday matinee.

CZAR'S LIFE IN DANGER

Students Drew Lots to See
Who Should Slay Him.

GENERAL'S SON WAS CHOSEN

Balked at the Job and Told His Father,
Who Posted the Czar—Ministers Consider Methods of Tiding Over Serious
State of Public Affairs

London, March 25.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that Sunday passed quietly in that city. Some 20,000 persons promenade about noon along the Nevskoi Prospekt, particularly in front of the cathedral of Our Lady of Kazan. The crowd dwindled to normal proportions when it became apparent that nothing would happen. The promoters were for the greater part curiosity seekers.

The Daily Mail publishes the following, dated March 24, from its St. Petersburg correspondent:

The police have discovered a plot against the life of the czar. It appears that a group of students drew lots and that the fatal choice fell to the son of a prominent general. The student told his father, and the latter informed the czar, imploring him to leave St. Petersburg.

Saturday 500 workmen from the Obukhov metal works paraded on the Nevskoi Prospekt. On the way thither they demolished the state brandy booths. Eight hundred Cossacks, with drawn swords, met the workmen and a sanguinary encounter ensued. The number of killed and wounded is kept secret.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Express says: In the last encounter at Narva Gate 100 workmen are reported to have been killed or wounded by the Cossacks.

The political situation is so serious that the ministers yesterday to consider the state of public affairs. The czar presided at the council, which convened at the Tsarskoe-Selo palace. It was decided not to abolish the law for drafting recalcitrant students into the army, but for the present to refrain from applying the law. It was also resolved to revise the university statutes.

Threatening letters have been received by Lieutenant General Kornilov, minister of war; M. N. Y. Mouraviev, minister of justice, and M. Spizninski, minister of the interior. Renewed demonstrations on a great scale are expected.

Judges Had to Compromise

Brussels, March 25.—The races at Groendael yesterday were suspended on account of a riot among the spectators. In the first race three horses were left at the post. The judges permitted the result to stand. Enraged at this decision, the spectators invaded the track, broke the rails, set fire to the paddocks and only desisted from the work of demolition when the judges promised to return all bets on horses left at the post.

Trio of Tramps in Trouble

Schenectady, N. Y., March 25.—Word was telegraphed to this city from Karer last night that a gang of tramps had held up a New York Central freight train just before it reached that place, and was terrorizing the crew. When the train reached this city it was stopped and searched. Three men were found in a box car and captured. They insisted that they had not taken part in the holdup. They were held.

MRS. NATION BLOCKED

She Finds Leavenworth a Most Unsatisfactory Field For Her Crusade
Kansas City, March 25.—After an eventful day at Leavenworth, Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived here last evening, and left immediately for Cincinnati, where she is booked to deliver half a dozen lectures. It was believed she would make an attempt at joint smashing at Leavenworth, but two policemen remained with her all the time she was in that city. She wanted to make a speech in the Leavenworth Opera House, but this was locked against her. She then attempted to speak in the public square, but officers stopped her. Later she went to the southern part of the city and addressed an audience of 300 persons on a vacant lot. She visited the national soldiers' home at Fort Leavenworth, and began abusing Governor Rowland for allowing a canteen to be run on the grounds. After listening to her a short time the governor called the captain of police and had her escorted off the grounds and placed in a car for the city. Along the route from Leavenworth to Kansas City she made rear-platform speeches at every stop.

At the same time a protocol was signed by Mr. Hay and Duke D'Arcos exchanging ratifications of the treaty of cession. The specific purpose of the transaction is to add the islands of Cagayan-Sulu and Sibutu to the possessions of the United States.

Sensational Street Tragedy

Waiting For Critical Period

Philadelphia, March 25.—The anthracite coal trade is waiting for the first of April to pass, so that the labor question may be settled. The opinion is that there will be no trouble, as the operators and miners alike wish work to go on, and the healthy condition of business affairs insures a demand for coal.

Good Afternoon.

Senator Sprague finds that his duties at the State House—in the Senate, in the committee rooms and on tours of inspection—occupy most of his time, so that some weeks he is unable to get to his place of business in Boston. He makes it a point to be well informed on matters referred to his committees and is doing valuable work.

The School Committee in their annual report deplore the amount appropriated by the City Council for schools, yet according to their own figures, Quincy stands well among the 352 cities and towns of the State, and has moved up 47 points in four years. The report says Quincy's position, according to sum appropriated for schools for each child between 5 and 15 years of age, has been as follows since 1894:

In 1895,	Number 177
In 1896,	Number 156
In 1897,	Number 156
In 1898,	Number 135
In 1899,	Number 130

Whether the comparison should be "per child" is an open question. Some small towns with few children and more wealth per capita, might easily appropriate more per child and yet not get as good results. It should cost less per child where there are a large number of children, than in small towns.

In percentage of valuation appropriated for public schools, Quincy is above the average. Only 153 cities and towns in the State appropriated a larger percentage in 1900, while 199 appropriated a smaller percentage. The same is true in Norfolk county: Only 12 appropriated a larger percentage while 15 appropriated a smaller percentage. Quincy it should be remembered is not a wealthy city. It would not do to make appropriations for streets, by the mileage; for fire department, by houses; for police, by inhabitant; etc.

Drift of Opinion.

The announcement that President McKinley will visit Senator Hoar at the senator's home in Worcester is amazing to those little souls which cannot comprehend how two men can disagree on any question and yet be polite to each other.—New Bedford Standard.

"Cheap and good" is the universal verdict in regard to the United States products. If we can keep this reputation, and we can by exercising a little care, the world's markets will be won just as fast as we can supply the world's wants.—Philadelphia Manufacturer.

The magnificence of other charities of the present day will not belittle the importance of the philanthropic move which Rev. Dr. George L. Perin of the Every Day church of Boston has just made in the purchase of the building of New England Conservatory of Music for a Working Girls' Home. In the strict sense of a word it is not a charity beyond the providing of the building and its furnishings, as the home is intended to pay its own way and to be under the government of its own inmates, substantially the plan that has been followed by the Young Women's Boarding Home of this city. The Boston institution will accommodate 400 girls and its influence for good in the life of the Hub cannot be easily estimated.—Haverhill Gazette.

Rutland, Vt., March 25.—The city hall here caught fire last night and was completely destroyed within an hour. ON THIRD HILL.

Standpipe to Possess Considerable Architectural Beauty.

Two contracts of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Boards, now approaching completion at Quincy, are of considerable interest, says the Transcript. One of them is the standpipe being erected on Forbes hill, and which is being enclosed by a circular stone basin. The tower will be seventy-five feet high, of Quincy granite with cut stone trimmings. There will be a circular staircase inside leading to the roof, which will be open to the public for observation purposes. The roof will be surmounted with battlements and will possess considerable architectural beauty. The capacity of the standpipe is 335,000 gallons and will be used for supplying the cities and towns of that section of the metropolitan system.

The second contract is the reservoir also being built on Forbes hill, and which will be completed during the latter part of the summer of 1901. The earthwork embankments are nearly completed and the concrete lining will soon be laid. The high water in the reservoir will be one hundred and ninety-two feet above Boston city base, so-called, and the capacity of the reservoir will be 5,000,000 gallons. The reservoir will be oblong in shape, one hundred and seventy feet by three hundred and fifty feet, and a granolithic walk will surround it, making it a delightful place for promenade purposes.

Ruby Seal Club.

Saturday afternoon the members of the Ruby Seal club presented the play, entitled, "Little Women," in a very artistic manner.

The amateurs had a good attendance. The play was under direction of Miss Mabel Johnson, to whom great credit is due for its success. It was in two acts, and the cast as follows:

Samuel Pickwick,	Meg March
Augustus Troldgran,	Jo March
Tracy Tipton,	Beth March
Nathaniel Winkle,	Amy March
Sam Weller,	Laurie
Meg March,	Marion Hatch
Joe March,	Gertrude Sayward
Beth March,	Marion Farwell
Amy March,	Evelyn Cummings
Laurie,	Beulah Hatch
Mrs. March,	Marion West
Mr. Lawrence,	Mildred Huston
Hannah,	Elizabeth Freeman

Between the acts Masters John and Ernest Merrill played selections on piano and violin. During the afternoon there was a sale of candy by the Misses Hatch, Farwell, West and Jones. Misses Sayward and Freeman were at the fancy table. Miss Evelyn Cummings sold lemonade and Miss Marion Hatch had charge of the grab bag.

New Music for March.

It is interesting to note that H. W. Petrie, the celebrated composer of "Asleep in the Deep" has written a splendid new bass song entitled "Davy Jones' Locker." It is a decided hit. One of May Irwin's greatest successes is entitled "Everything is Lovely and the Goose Hangs High." It is by a New York newspaper man, George Waugh Arnold, of the World, and it is an exceedingly original and clever song.

Williams and Walker, the popular comic comedians, authors of "Why Don't You Get a Lady of Your Own" and "He's Up Against the Real Thing Now," have a new song which is a big hit. It is called "The Fortune Telling Man."

A novelty in a popular song is Ed. Rogers' "Everybody Has a Whistle Like Me," in the chorus of which there is a strain to be whistled. The song has a catchy melody which is easily remembered. "Phoebe Thompson's Cakewalk" is the name of a new instrumental oddity which is enjoying great popularity. It has a vim-and-go to it, which is exceedingly up-to-date.

The above musical publications are issued this month by Jos. W. Stearn & Co., "The House of Hits," who will be pleased to send their catalogue, upon request to their offices, 34 East 21st street, New York.

A New Commander.

Another builders' trial was given the torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence Saturday. On this trip she had a new commander, Capt. Arthur Hart of Boston. Capt. George H. Nutter, who has been in command of the Lawrence in her trips previous to Saturday, went to New York a few days ago to take charge of a steam yacht to which he is attached. Saturday's trip was to enable Capt. Hart to become acquainted with the boat. Another builders' trial is being held today.

ADAMS OF QUINCY.

Inauguration of John as President.

Lived to See His Son

President.

Correspondence of Over One Hundred Years Ago.

The Sunday Herald republished some of the letters of President John Adams, introducing the same with this comment:

In all human probability the experience of the nonagenarian, John Adams, in February, 1825, himself an ex-President of the United States, in receiving the following letter from his own son, will never fall to lot of another father.

Washington, 9 February, 1825. My Dear and Honored Father—The inclosed note from Mr. King will inform you of the event of this day upon which I can only offer you my congratulations and ask your blessings and prayers.

Your affectionate and dutiful son,

(Signed) John Quincy Adams.

The inclosed note was written to John Quincy Adams, so soon as the result of the vote in the House was known, by Mr. Rufus King, one of the Senators from the State of New York, and was as follows:

Senate Chamber, 9 February, 1825. My Dear Sir—We have this moment heard the issue of the election, and I send you, and your venerable father, my affectionate congratulations upon your choice as President of the United States on the first ballot of the House of Representatives. I include your father, as I consider your election as the best amends for the injustice of which he was made the victim.

To me and mine the choice has been such as we have cordially hoped for and expected.

(Signed) Rufus King.

The venerable John Adams, then in the 90th year of his age, must have had some sweet moments of triumphal satisfaction to himself before he was able to pen the following reply:

Quincy, 18 February, 1825. My Dear Son—I have received your letter of the 9th. Never did I feel so much solemnity as upon this occasion. The multitude of my thoughts, and the intensity of my feelings are too much for a mind like mine, in its 90th year.

May the blessing of God Almighty continue to protect you to the end of your life, as it has heretofore protected you in so remarkable a manner from your errand.

"I offer the same prayer for your lady and your family, and am your affectionate father,

(Signed) John Adams.

In the preceding 22d of January John Adams, in a letter to Thomas Jefferson—and the reconciliation of these sterling patriots of the revolution, and former political antagonists, was not the least notable feature in connection with the two parallel lives—Mr. Adams thus refers to the candidacy of his son for the presidency:

"The presidential election has given me less anxiety than I myself could have imagined. The next administration will be a troublesome one, to whomsoever it falls, and our John has been too much worn to contend much longer with conflicting factions. I call him our John, because, when you were at the Cul de Sac at Paris, he appeared to me to be almost as much your boy as mine. I have often speculated upon the consequences that would have ensued from my taking your advice to send him to William and Mary College in Virginia for an education."

Back in July, 1815, Mr. Adams, in a letter to Gov. Thomas McKean of Delaware, had this to say of the possible elevation of his son to the presidency:

"Your parallel between John and J. Q. is amusing enough. Whether it will continue a step or two farther is a question before the democratical tribunal, and there I leave it, but I have a presentiment that if it should be protracted for a leap or two, it will end in a perfect resemblance of disgrace, contempt and neglect."

It seems very appropriate in this connection, to give some extracts from the letters of President John Adams, at Philadelphia, to his wife at Quincy, relating scenes and incidents of his induction into the office just vacated by the beloved Washington. Under date of March 5, 1797, Mr. Adams writes:

"Your dearest friend never had a more trying day than yesterday. A solemn scene it was indeed, and it was made more affecting to me by the presence of the general, whose countenance was as serene and unclouded as the day. * * * When the ceremony was over, he came and made me a visit, and cordially congratulated me, and wished my administration might be happy, successful and honorable. It is now settled that I am to go into his house. It is whispered that he intends to take French leave tomorrow. My chariot is finished and I made" my first appearance in it yesterday. It is simple, but elegant enough. My horses are young but clever.

In the chamber of the House of Representatives was a multitude as great as the space could contain, and I believe, scarcely a dry eye but Washington's. The sight of the sun setting full orb, and another rising, though less splendid, was a novelty. Justice Ellsworth administered the oath and great energy. I was unwell and did not know whether I should get through it or not. I did, however. How the business was received I know not, only I have been told that Mason, the treaty publisher, said we should lose nothing by the change, for he never heard such a speech in public in his life. All agree that, taken altogether, it was the sublimest thing ever exhibited in America."

Again, March 9, Mr. Adams writes:

"I have no letter this week and begin to fear that your respect to our late President has laid a foundation for a sick spring and summer. The public papers must give you an account of proceedings, which I am wholly unable to describe. What judgment is formed of my part of the late transactions by my friends, or my enemies, I know not. There is a reserve in both beyond my comprehension. * * * It is the general report that there was more weeping than there has been at the representation of any tragedy. But whether it was from grief or joy, whether from the loss of their beloved President, or from the accession of an unbeloved one * * * or whatever cause, I know not."

"One thing I know; I am a being of too much sensibility to act my part well in such an exhibition. * * * I have ventured to say things, both in that speech and in my farewell to the Senate, so open to scoffs and sarcasm that I expected them in abundance. I have not yet seen any. I have been so strongly used in this country, so belied and so undefended, that I was determined to say some things as an appeal to posterity. Foreign nations and future times will understand them better than my friends or enemies will own they do."

"My dear wife, your society is invaluable to me, and yet I cannot enjoy it before July, I fear. All will depend upon public events. I am, with an affection that can end only with my life, and I hope not then, your faithful friend and husband,

(Signed) JOHN ADAMS.

INSANE WOMAN'S WORK

Cut Off Her Own Toes, Ears and Nose, and Otherwise Mutilated Herself

Toledo, March 25.—Mrs. G. Brunnschneider occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible self-inflicted injuries. On Saturday evening, armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all the toes of her left foot, both her ears, a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home Sunday, and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

Many Visitors to Naramore Home

Coldbrook Springs, Mass., March 25.—Probably 100 people got into the destitute and blood-stained Naramore home yesterday, where Mrs. F. L. Naramore killed her six children and tried to kill herself. Souvenirs that in any way related to the family were eagerly taken, among them being a pair of children's shoes, toys and even Mr. Naramore's engineer's license, which hung on the wall. The place was later boarded up when it was found how much mischief the vandals had done. Mrs. Naramore slept eight hours Saturday night and yesterday morning, and when she awoke drank a glass of milk, almost her first nourishment since Thursday. She probably will be removed to Worcester today to the jail hospital.

Treasurer Hooper's Bad Fall

Boston, March 25.—Edward W. Hooper, for more than 25 years past treasurer of Harvard College, and a lawyer in this city, fell from the third story of his residence at 49 Beacon street, shortly after midnight, and received serious, though it is believed not fatal, injuries. He received a bad injury to his head and possible fracture of the ribs. Mr. Hooper has been confined to his room for 10 days past, with illness brought on by overwork, and has been in charge of a trained nurse. The accident occurred when the latter was temporarily absent from the room, and no one witnessed it.

Woman Charged With Manslaughter

Worcester, Mass., March 25.—Miss Mary Schofield, 70 years old, is under arrest on a charge of manslaughter as a result of the death of Mrs. Edna McKee yesterday afternoon. A medical examiner's autopsy showed death was the result of an operation. Mrs. McKee had been married three years, and has a baby 11 months old. Her husband is a street railway conductor. Miss Schofield has been under suspicion by the police for some time. The police believe they have a strong case against her.

Sunday Mill at Worcester

Worcester, Mass., March 25.—Arthur LaCroix and "Dutch" Morrissey, 10-year-old lads, weighing about 120 pounds, fought about 20 minutes with bare knuckles on the outskirts of this city yesterday, LaCroix knocking out his opponent. Three hundred spectators witnessed the fight, and there was considerable betting. By agreement there was no resting period during the fight. The fighters put up a small stake.

A Sad Coincidence

Cincinnati, March 25.—Frank R. Wright, publisher of Chic, and connected with Cincinnati papers for 20 years, died suddenly yesterday, aged 42 years. His wife died of pneumonia yesterday morning. He had been worried about her while afflicted with pneumonia himself, and died within a few hours after his wife expired. Wright was not considered seriously afflicted until an hour before his death.

Police Legislation Discussed

New York, March 25.—Leading Republican politicians of this city and state met in Senator Platt's rooms yesterday, and were in conference for several hours. As a result of the conference it was decided to attempt no police legislation this session. The conference adjourned subject to the call of Senator Platt, whenever in his judgment police legislation seems necessary.

Austria Again Snowbound

Vienna, March 25.—Austria is experiencing another heavy snowfall, the third of the season. In some places it has been snowing for 30 hours, with serious interruption to railway communication. Several rivers in Bohemia have overflowed and flooded the villages, and further floods are feared when the heavy snows on the mountains melt.

Baby Strangled While Nursing

AN ALABAMA TORNADO

Leaves Death and Destruction
In Its Wake

STORM RAGED VIOLENTLY

Twenty-Five Persons Killed at Birmingham and Scores Are Wounded—Many Houses, a Church, Trees and Fences Laid Low by the Wind

Birmingham, Ala., March 26.—About 25 persons were killed and scores of people were wounded in a tornado which passed through the residence section of this city yesterday. The destruction to property is estimated at $250,000. One fifth of those killed were white. Eighteen bodies have been recovered from the debris up to date.

The storm struck the city in the extreme southeastern corner, and plowed its way eastward, leaving a path 150 feet wide through the entire southern section, and continued its course on until its fury was spent in the mountains beyond Ironton, a small town six miles east of the city.

The morning dawned cloudy and sultry, and grew more threatening as the day advanced. Clouds began to gather and shortly after 5 o'clock sharp lightning flashed from the southwest. The air became heavy and stifling. The velocity of the wind suddenly began to increase and soon from out of the overcast sky the dreaded funnel-shaped cloud made its descent. Hazing close to the earth it passed through the city in leaps and bounds with terrific force, and was away to the east before people generally realized what had happened.

The altitude of the cyclone was not more than 75 feet. The negro shanties and cottages in the lowlands in the path of the storm were the principal sufferers. The larger residences on the higher ground suffered only slightly. The large trees on the hillside of the St. Vincent's hospital were torn up by the roots, and masses of stone were twisted out of the ground.

From Eighth to Tenth streets the wind bounded like a rubber ball. Onward the wind sped in its fury, demolishing houses, trees and fences. Skimming close to the earth it swept through small pine grove, tearing the trees up by the roots and hurling them through the air like arrows.

Beyond the grove the storm-cloud swept down on a negro settlement, and the frail cabins were crushed like eggshells, not one being left in the pathway of the storm. Eastward the storm swept, cutting its way through another strip of woods, striking the Second Presbyterian church, and demolishing the structure. A small oak table which was used on the rostrum was deposited on the highest point of the wreckage. East of the church, directly in the tornado's path, in another negro settlement, seven frail shacks were swept away. A number of small houses were leveled between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets.

The storm then struck the more thickly settled residence portion of the city and its work of destruction increased. Almost a clean sweep was made of the district lying between Eighth and Twentieth streets and avenues H and I. Two blocks. Here the scene is one of complete demolition. The frame cottages were reduced to flattened piles of debris, every tree, large or small, was either crushed down or uprooted, and fallen telephone poles and their tangle of wires made a mass of destruction. The occupants of some of the houses had no warning of the coming of the storm, and were buried under the ruins. Most of them, however, were rescued, bruised and bleeding, by neighbors.

Railroad Train in Gale's Path:
Columbus, Ga., March 26.—A mixed train was blown off the tracks one mile east of Buena Vista, late yesterday. The engine was lifted from the track, the tender was turned over, and baggage car, two coaches and three freight cars were thrown on their sides. The rest of the train, however, remained on the track. No one was killed. Four of the crew were slightly injured.

Cyclone Strikes Michigan:
Detroit, March 26.—A special to The Tribune from Kalamazoo says that a cyclone struck the town of Pavilion, a small village about 25 miles from Kalamazoo. It wrecked a number of houses, uprooted trees, tore down telegraph poles and did much other damage. One woman is reported fatally hurt, and many others are injured.

Wind Storm In Ohio:
Sandusky, O., March 26.—A severe wind storm passed over the western part of Erie county late yesterday afternoon. The principal sufferer was the settlement of Mustach, on the shore of Sandusky bay, where several roofs were blown from houses and trees were blown down. No one was injured so far as known. The storm did not touch Sandusky.

NEARING THE END

Government Has Submitted Nearly All Its Evidence In Best Murder Trial

Salem, Mass., March 26.—Last night saw the end of the seventh day of the Best murder trial, and it looks as though the government has got in the bulk of its testimony. It is generally expected that the commonwealth's case will be all in today. More expert testimony is counted on.

Yesterday afternoon's testimony was largely technical. A photographer turned in some photographs he had made of the bullets found in Bailey's body, and of some other bullets with which experiments had been made by firearms experts, but these photographs were not formally introduced into the case. Captain Proctor of the state police giving his expert testimony in regard to these bullets in technical and other bulletins in general; the Best rifle, so-called, in particular, and other rifles in general.

After the case of the prosecution has been finished there will probably be some evidence in rebuttal. The line of defense to be taken up by Best's lawyers has not been announced. Lawyers Sisk and Clark say that the testimony of Stiles is not worrying them at all. What they have to combat the mass of evidence presented by the government is a matter of general conjecture.

Suppressing Illegal Liquor Selling

River Point, R. I., March 26.—The crusade started by Rev. J. R. Bourgeois against the low saloons in that village and Sunday liquor selling by all classes of saloons, assumed a serious aspect for the liquor dealers yesterday. On his complaint the Warwick town council revoked the license for a saloon, and two hotel proprietors and a prominent saloon keeper were charged with illegal liquor selling last Sunday, and a revocation of their licenses demanded. This section of Rhode Island has heretofore been notorious for the lax enforcement of the liquor laws.

A Jump In Corn

Chicago, March 26.—The news says: George H. Phillips, who engineered a squeeze in November corn on the board of trade, is once more the leader of the corn pit, and his reign promises to be a hard one for the shorts. The cereal yesterday sold to 42 3/8@42 1/2 for May delivery, a gain of 3-4c over the previous session, and the highest price touched this season. The country is heavily represented on the long side of the market, and will profit by the advance.

Absorbed by Morgan & Co.

New York, March 26.—The announcement that J. P. Morgan & Co. have purchased what is known as the Rockefeller interests in the ships, railroads and mines of the northwest is confirmed by Mr. Rockefeller's representative, F. T. Gates. Mr. Gates was not at liberty, he said, to state the exact terms of the deal. He could only say that the terms were satisfactory.

Uneasiness at Cape Town

Cape Town, March 26.—The threatening attitude of the Malays respecting the bubonic plague regulations causes the authorities much uneasiness. Two Malays died of the disease yesterday and three fresh Malay cases were officially reported. In addition to these there are six fresh European cases. Two Kaffirs succumbed to the plague yesterday.

Skirmish For General Strike

Boston, March 26.—Fifty bookbinders and rulers in the bookbinding establishment of Robert Buren quit work yesterday because their demand for a shorter workday without a reduction of wages was not granted. The demand is for nine hours in place of ten hours a day, and the strike is said to be the skirmish for a general strike in the trade.

Relief of Our Old Navy

Boston, March 26.—The state of Massachusetts is about to turn over to the navy department the old frigate Minnesota, which has been used by this state as a practice ship for the naval brigade. The Minnesota will be towed to the navy yard soon, and get a relic's berth, like that of the Constitution.

Thieves Escaped With Fat Pickings

Columbus, O., March 26.—A telephone message from Somerset, received at the police headquarters this morning, stated that six masked men had blown the safe in the local bank and secured $15,000 in money and a large amount of bonds. The robbers escaped.

Tenement Block Burned

Woonsocket, R. I., March 26.—Fire started from some unknown cause last evening in the upper portion of a block occupied by four families, which resulted in the destruction of the building and a loss of $5000. The four families lost all their effects.

TWO SECRET TREATIES

Which Will Give Russia a Free Hand In Manchuria

JAPAN STRONGLY OBJECTS

Will Go to War Rather Than See What Would Mean the Partition of Chinese Empire and the End of the Open Door—Has No Fear of the Result

London, March 26.—The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Mail declares that the modification of the Manchurian convention regarding Mongolia and Turkestan is absolutely illusory.

The Manchurian situation is greatly complicated, owing to the fact, ascertained by a representative of the Associated Press, that there are two secret treaties, one of which is to be signed at St. Petersburg, dealing with Russia's military control of Manchuria, and another, to be signed at Pekin, dealing with her civil powers.

The Chinese appeals for support have failed to produce any direct remonstrances from Great Britain, or, apparently, from any other power to St. Petersburg, for Russia persistently adheres to her contention that the secret agreement concerns no one except herself and China. On this ground, Great Britain's request for copies of the agreement was abruptly declined.

It is explained at the foreign office here that it would be a dangerous and useless breach of diplomatic procedure to endeavor to enter upon expostulations with Russia, which would only be based upon information supplied by the Chinese.

In other words, the copies of the secret treaties and alleged modifications of them recently given to the powers by the Chinese are worthless documents and will remain such until Russia herself chooses to communicate the text of the actual treaties and modifications.

In the absence of the Japanese minister in London, Baron Hayashi, Mr. Matsui, first secretary of the Japanese legation, who was interviewed yesterday afternoon by a representative of the Associated Press, made a comparative statement of the issues involved in the Manchurian dispute. He said:

"Russia's insistence, China's helplessness and the probable victory of Russian diplomacy tomorrow will bring us to the brink of a dangerous situation, in which none of the powers so deeply concerned as Japan. Even if the secret treaties have been modified, as alleged, the changes are so trifling as to make the documents thoroughly objectionable to Japan."

"Assuming that China signs the treaties, I suppose Great Britain, Germany and the United States will protest to Russia. But that is about as far as they will go and about as much as they will get. With Japan it is a matter of fighting."

"The question is whether we are to fight Russia now or to fight her later on. She has no right to Manchuria, and if she secures Manchuria she will be on the way to securing Korea."

"Our government, I believe, are seriously considering the crisis. Their eyes are wide open, and they will not be driven to precipitate action by the jingoists of Japan, who are openly clamoring for immediate war. Yet, if they see that war is unavoidable, they will not hesitate to strike."

"Japan has no reason to be afraid as to the result. Many reasons occur to the average Japanese mind in favor of forcing at the present moment a struggle which must come eventually. The chief reason against so doing is the fact that Japan is just beginning a new industrial era, which would be temporarily killed should we endeavor by force of arms to prevent Russian encroachments."

"If we follow the lead of other powers and do not threaten hostilities, we realize that we must sit down tamely and see any other nation step in to make agreements similar to those which China signs on the verge of signing with Russia. This would mean the partition of the Chinese empire, and would end the 'open door.' If we opposed it we naturally think we would have the moral support of the United States, which has been the champion of these principles, and also of Great Britain and Germany."

Good Afternoon.

By all means invite President McKinley, while in Hingham in July, to "drop around and see the town." The City of Presidents should be of interest to him historically, and the modern ship building plant and modern methods of manufacturing granite would also surprise him. Who will introduce an order at the next meeting of the City Council, requesting the Mayor to extend President McKinley an invitation?

Some people of Quincy think abutments should not be asked to pay one-half the cost of brick and concrete sidewalks, but this is the usual practice in Massachusetts cities, and everything considered is as it should be. The same result might be reached in another way, as we understand it is in Lynn, where the city puts in the brick or concrete after the abutment has paid the whole cost of setting edgestone. There is a bill before the Legislature requiring abutments in Boston to pay the whole cost of the construction of new streets, but it has been decided to report in favor of assessing but one half. This may have a bearing on the proposed street ordinance now before the Quincy Council.

Drift of Opinion.

It remained for a Manchester man to make a most unique suggestion. He said that many boys grow up to manhood, in the cities, without knowing how to harness or even drive a horse. It is his opinion that for a small sum a steed of sufficiently urbane disposition might be purchased and driven about from school to school and the boys could practice on him.—Manchester, N. H., Union.

When a man who has for years been speculating in stocks on a large scale and running all sorts of risks with uncertain securities strikes the wrong side of the market, he gets little or no sympathy. He is not in the same position as a man, after years of hard labor in building up some legitimate business enterprise, meets with failure, owing to conditions which he could not foresee and over which he had no control.—Baltimore American.

It is all very well to say virtuously that we must return to simplicity. We are not going to return to simplicity. Simplicity is pretty, but it is vastly uncomfortable. There is no end of worry and expense about plumbing; but we shall not return to outhouses and wash tubs; instead every house is coming to have a bathroom as inevitably as a staircase; and it is a very unpretentious house which has only one bathroom. The furnace will not give way to stoves; we shall only add open fireplaces to radiators. There are more dish-washing every year in the United States—which means there are more courses at meals whether more viands or not. We may as well make up our minds that we are not going back to plain living and try to get high thinking with the comforts of civilization.—Octave Thanet in Good House-keeping for April.

RUM PUNCHES.

Henry H. Faxon Does Not Advise Them.

Wants Braintree Voters to Wake Up.

And Endeavor to Put a Stop to Rum Selling.

In the Town Hall at Braintree last evening about 800 people gathered consisting mostly of men, a few women and several boys, eager to witness the developments in the investigation by the town of charges brought against special police officer Mr. E. H. Hunter, Constable James R. Qualey, the night police and all the constables. Henry H. Faxon of Quincy arrived after the hall was crowded and as usual he worked his way to the front, where he found a piano stool near the stage upon which he sat. Men were there out of curiosity from far and near.

Charles C. Mellen, chairman of the investigating committee called the meeting to order at 7:45. Daniel Potter was secretary, and the remainder of the committee upon the platform were Edwin F. Porter, William A. McKean, John W. West, George H. Arnold, and George Hussey.

The chairman called for the charges and ruled that they be made in writing which was held to in spite of the desire to the contrary by Attorney Phillip H. Sullivan and others.

Henry H. Faxon arose and desired of the chairman a chance to say a few words.

The chairman desired to get right down to business and refused Mr. Faxon the privilege, saying that later in the evening there would most likely be an opportunity.

Edwin F. Porter left the committee to take the floor in favor of oral charges.

To expedite matters a list of the constables of Braintree were given to the chairman to call off and if there be any charges against any of them, then and there was the opportunity.

No charges were made except against James R. Qualey by E. H. Hunter, Mr. Qualey's charges being withheld for future developments.

District Attorney Harris of Brockton appeared for Mr. E. H. Hunter and Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern.

Upon request, the women and boys left the hall.

Mr. Crathern was asked if he had ever called upon the constables of Braintree for help and was refused.

Mr. Crathern said he desired the aid of one of them for a week, but could not get him as said constable was employed by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and could not be away from his duties.

Mr. Crathern spoke of one good constable, Mr. Downey, who was doing good work and for that reason was left off the list at the town meeting.

These remarks were hissed by a large gathering of Mr. Crathern's enemies.

Orrin W. Hollis of Braintree was chosen stenographer by the committee, but examination of witnesses was left over until the next meeting, Monday, April 1, at 7:30 P. M.

Mr. Crathern asked permission of the chairman to allow Mr. Faxon to speak. This was granted as the meeting was near its end.

MR. FAXON'S SPEECH.
Mr. Chairman and gentlemen and committee of the town,—I feel interested in this investigation as the liquor law especially was never enforced in Braintree as it ought to be. Within the last fifteen years, I think, I have spent from $1,200 to $1,500 to help you enforce this law in Braintree.

The last case, I think, that was brought up in court I gave the officers the information they needed to convict the rum seller.

THE PRESIDENT.

Will be at Hingham on the Fourth of July.

Should be Invited to Visit Quincy.

The Home of Presidents and Builders of the Navy.

President McKinley when he visits the home of Secretary Long in Hingham the last of June, should be invited to visit the birthplaces and burial place of President John Adams and John Quincy Adams, also the Fore River Ship plant where three U. S. warships will be in process of building at the time.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says:

The President, accompanied by Mrs. McKinley and Secretaries Hay and Long, will arrive in Boston, June 26, stopping on the way at Middletown, Ct., to attend the exercises at West-leyan College. He desires also to visit his niece, Miss Grace McKinley, who is a school teacher in that city.

The President will be received in Boston by Gov. Crane, who will escort him to Cambridge, where he will attend Harvard commencement exercises on the 26th. He will then go to Worcester as the guest of Senator Hoar, visiting, also, the old house at Rutland of Rufus Putnam, the father and founder of Ohio. The President will then go to Concord and Lexington and to the Essex court, reaching Manchester-by-the-sea in season to spend Sunday, June 30, with Senator McMillan of Michigan.

Collector Lyman, at his summer residence nearby, will also receive a call from the President, who will next be guest of Mr. Justice Gray of the United States supreme court at Nahant. Here, also, the President will spend a day or two with Senator Lodge.

From Nahant the President and his party will take a government tug across the bay to Hingham, where for several days they will be the guests of Secretary Long, remaining there over the Fourth and taking part in the big celebration which the people of the town have already planned for that anniversary. During the President's visit in Hingham, Secretary Long will take him to the Webster place at Marshfield, and will arrange, also, to spend a day at Plymouth, both of which historic places the President is anxious to see. The President is taking great interest in the plans for his Massachusetts trip, which he is looking forward to with peculiar pleasure.

Not a Success.

Harvey S. Chase, an expert who at the request of Mayor Hart has examined the Boston printing plant, reports in part:

"It is evident that the municipal printing plant has not been the financial success which was anticipated when the plant was established in 1897, and it is further evident that unless a marked improvement is made in the results, the plant must necessarily be dispensed with and the city printing handled by private contracts as formerly."

In considering the capital invested by the city in the plant, the expert figures that there has been a practical deficit upon the operation of the plant for four years of $8,517.99, or a net loss of $2120.50 per annum.

Run Over by Stone Team.
A young son of the late James Beahm was quite seriously injured Monday afternoon on Willard street near the Griderly Bryant school. The boy with others was playing about the street when one of Reinhalter's stone teams came along. In some manner the Beahm boy fell beneath the wheels of the team, which passed over his body. He was taken to his home and a physician summoned. It was at first thought that he could not live, but report said he was alive this morning. Fortunately the stone team was empty at the time.

The Yale lock manufacturers have proven that in a lock having six steps each capable of being reduced in eight 20 times, the number of changes of combinations will be 86,400.

BUILDING ACTIVE.

Many Houses Being Erected in Ward Two.

Demand Greatly Exceeds Supply.

One Corner Lot Now Held at $1.00 Per Foot.

Probably in no part of Quincy has there been more activity during the past few months in the building line, than at Quincy Point. From the time that the Fore River Ship & Engine Company, or as it was then called the Fore River Engine Co., commenced the erection of its extensive plant at Quincy Neck, real estate has been jumping, and building has been active.

From time to time the Ledger has briefly noted the new buildings, both for business and residential purposes, that were going up in this section. These little items, however, have been passed by, almost unnoticed, except by those who were interested in realty and the growth of that section of the city. It, however, must be evident to anyone who will visit this section, and use their eyes, that it is the growing ward of the city. Certain it is that when the Assessors make their annual rounds in May many new buildings will be found upon locations, that a year ago were a rolling green meadow.

Perhaps the largest firm that has been operating here is the Bay State Building Co. Others are J. W. Pratt, W. F. Steadman and Charles C. Foster. The buildings erected, now under way and contemplated by the Bay State Building Co. are as follows:

On Claremont avenue, which is a part of the Glidden farm, on Chubbuck street, a seven room house for Harry Pray costing $2,700.

An eight-room house for Will Rumiell costing $2,800.

There is building on the corner of South street and Claremont avenue an eleven-room house which will cost $3,000.

On Edison Park a ten room house costing $4,000 for A. T. Ingham.

A seven-room house for James M. Gibbs, costing $3,000.

A seven-room house for James Keyle, costing $2,900.

Two blocks on the corner of Washington and Chubbuck street.

In the first block, the two stores on the street floor will be occupied by Henry Glidden and E. A. Cook, respectively as a market and drug store.

The basement will be occupied by Fisher & Whitcomb as a bakery.

Over these stores is a tenement of 28 rooms which will be occupied as a boarding house by George Eaton. The dining room will seat fifty.

The second block which is as yet uncompleted will have four tenements upstairs, three of which have already been let, and two stores on the street floor. These will be occupied by A. E. Chappel of Bath, Me., who will open a cigar and stationery store. The remaining store will be opened by a man from Lowell as a grocery.

Work has also been commenced for two houses on Claremont avenue, of 7 and 8 rooms each and costing about $2,800 each.

In the rear of the two blocks mentioned above a three-tenement block, one tenement of five rooms and others of six rooms each, will be built in the immediate future at a cost of $3,800.

Plans have also been made for a sixteen-tenement house, of four and five rooms each to be erected on Chubbuck street at a cost of $12,000.

Charles C. Foster has built a two-tenement house on Washington street near North street of six rooms each, at cost of $3,000.

A two tenement house of five rooms each on North street, costing $2,900.

A cottage house of six rooms on Summer street, costing about $1,300.

He has also commenced work on a seven-room house on Cherry street, costing $2,800.

Also plans for another house of eight rooms on Cherry street, to cost about $2,200.

W. F. Steadman has built a $5,000 house on the corner of Curtis avenue and Beach street.

He is also building a 30 room apartment house on Cherry street, which will cost $10,000.

J. W. Pratt has erected three cottage houses on the Kittredge property of seven and eight rooms each, costing from $2,200 to $2,500 each.

Mr. McDonald is building a seven-room cottage on the Kittredge estate, the cost of which is about $2,400.

Oxney & Quinn are building two tenement houses of seven rooms on Cleverly court. These will cost about $4,000 each.

W. R. Lofgren is building a ten-room house on Cherry street for a Michael T. Sullivan. The cost of this house is about $3,500.

A. A. Hirtle is building an eight room house on Edison street, to cost about $3,500.

Strange it may seem there is no building near the Quincy avenue side of the ward. The only new building here, aside from those of the Fore River Co., being a little store id Newcomb square.

Some idea of the manner in which realty has taken a boom in the Quincy Point section when it is said that land values have increased from ten to twenty-five per cent. during the past few months. The lot at the corner of Howard street and Howard avenue, which H. H. Faxon offered to lease free a few years ago to anyone who would make the repairs and pay taxes, he now holds at $1 per foot.

This is but the beginning, and if business at the Fore River Co. increases, as it surely must, there must be many more houses, for the thousands of workmen who will be employed here will want to live near their work.

Miss Spear prefaced the recital by giving short sketches of the writers, lives and of the nature of the songs. Several duets were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Follett with artistic skill. A number of selections were given by Miss Spear in a very charming manner. "A Swiss Spring Song" was one of the most pleasing.

Master Findlay sang with much feeling, "O for the wings of a dove," "Henry the Fowler," "Two Grenadiers," and other solos were sung with great expression by Mr. Follett. Mrs. Follett contributed the closing selection, "A summer's night."

It will be pleasant to know that such able artists as Mr. and Mrs. Follett are to assist at the next recital, April 18, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Goodrich, Lincoln avenue.

Inspector of Granite.

Timothy P. Sullivan, of Concord, N. H., has received notice from Secretary of the Navy Long of his appointment as inspector of granite in the bureau of yards and docks in the navy department and of his assignment to duty at the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

Mr. Sullivan is one of the best known granite men in New England.

He has been superintendent of the works of the New England Granite Company in Concord, agent of the Granite Railway Company of Quincy, Mass., and secretary of the New England Granite Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Sullivan will assume the duties of his position as soon as some pending business matters can be disposed of.

Mr. Carnegie's Gifts.

The World's Work for April publishes the first map ever made, showing the extent of what Mr. Carnegie has given away. But the publishers announce that between the time the map was made and the time it could be published—less than a month—Mr. Carnegie had given away about thirty five separate public libraries, offered sixty five more to New York City, and a million dollars for libraries to St. Louis. The sketch of Andrew Carnegie is of great interest.

Two Lodges in Attendance.

The funeral of John L. Lawry was held Monday from the United Presbyterian church on Pleasant street. The services were conducted by Rev. W. W. Dornan and were largely attended, John Adams court, Foresters of America, and Granite lodge, Sons of St. George, being present in a body. At the conclusion of the services at the church the two lodges escorted the remains to Mt. Wollaston cemetery, where each performed a burial service.

WHY ENGLAND REFUSED

To Accept Amendments to Hay-Pauncefote Treaty

A FRIENDLY DISPOSITION

Induced Her to Sign Original Agreement, but Changes Placed Her in Position of Marked Disadvantage Compared With Other Powers

Washington, March 26.—The communication from the British government, giving the reasons why that government declined to accept the senate amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which was delivered to Secretary Hay by Lord Pauncefote on March 11, was made public yesterday.

Lord Lansdowne begins by showing there was no desire on the part of the British government to change the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. But some of its provisions, he says, had been regarded with disfavor by the government of the United States, and in the president's message of December, 1898, it was urged that the national policy called more imperatively than ever for the "control" of the projected highway by the government of the United States.

The result of the discussion, Lord Lansdowne says, was the treaty which Mr. Hay handed to Lord Pauncefote in January, 1899. The British government was not yet prepared to accept the treaty, as serious difficulties had arisen in seeking to arrange affairs then pending before the joint high commission, and Lord Salisbury did not see how the government could sanction any convention for amending the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, as the opinion of England would hardly support them in making a concession which would be wholly to the benefit of the United States, at a time when they appeared to be so little inclined to come to a satisfactory settlement in regard to the Alaskan frontier.

Later the introduction of the Nicaraguan bill in congress revived attention to the treaty and it was accepted, Lord Lansdowne saying: "Her majesty's government determined to accept the treaty unconditionally, as a signal proof of their friendly disposition, and of their desire not to impede the execution of a project declared to be of national importance to the people of the United States."

Lord Lansdowne then discusses the right of the United States to annul the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, saying: "The Clayton-Bulwer treaty is an international contract of unquestionable validity, a contract which ought not to be abrogated or modified, save with the consent of both the parties to the contract."

Lord Lansdowne then considers the senate amendments, declaring that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is "thereby superseded" by the amendments, upon the basis most strongly, however, upon other senate amendments, and says they present more formidable difficulties.

On these he says: "The first of them, which reserves to the United States the right of taking any measures which they may find necessary to secure by their own forces the defense of the United States, appears to his majesty's government to involve a distinct departure from the principles which had until now found acceptance with both governments; the principle, namely, that in time of war, as well as in time of peace, the passage of the canal is to remain free and unimpeded, and is to be so maintained by the power or powers responsible for its control."

He takes issue with the proposition that the senate amendment is analogous to a provision of the Suez canal convention, and he also points out that some of the articles of the Suez convention seem to have escaped attention, and he quotes those providing that permanent fortifications are prohibited, and for the dispersion of assemblages near the canal likely to interfere with its use.

Respecting the contention that there is a specific prohibition in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty against the erection of fortifications, and that this would sufficiently insure the free use of the canal, Lord Lansdowne says: "This contention is one which his majesty's government is unable to admit."

The third senate amendment struck out the provision inviting the adherence of other powers. As to this, Lord Lansdowne says: "The amendment not only removes all prospect of the wider guarantee of the neutrality of the canal, but places this country in a position of marked disadvantage compared with other powers which would not be subjected to the self-denying ordinance which Great Britain is desired to accept."

"I request your excellency will explain to the secretary of state the reasons, as set forth in this dispatch, why his majesty's government feels unable to accept the convention in the shape presented to them by the American ambassador and why they prefer as modified at present, to retain unmodified the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. His majesty's government have, throughout the negotiations, given evidence of their earnest desire to meet the views of the United States. They would on this occasion have been ready to consider in a friendly spirit any amendments of the convention inconsistent with the principles accepted by both governments which the government of the United States might have desired to propose and they would sincerely regret a failure to come to an amicable understanding in regard to this subject."

WEYMOUTH'S BAD PLIGHT

Has No Money For Street Lighting and Citizens Are Alarmed

Weymouth, Mass., March 26.—For the past 10 nights this town has been in total darkness, owing to the failure of the usual appropriation for lighting the streets to pass at the annual town meeting, and few women venture out after sundown, the unaccustomed condition causing much fear of crime being committed under cover of the darkness.

That this fear is not without cause was shown when three young women were alarmed by a man jumping out from the bushes by the side of a road as they were walking on Broad street after dark. Pursued by the man, the girls ran until they reached the house of Anthony Tracy. They hurriedly told their story, and a posse of citizens was organized and a search for the man was made, but without success. The office of Augustus J. Richards & Son was entered, but the thieves did not succeed in securing anything of value.

The townspeople are thoroughly aroused by these occurrences, and a special town meeting is to be called for the purpose of reconsidering the matter of appropriating the usual sum for street lighting. Should it for any reason fail to pass, the selectmen will be asked to furnish additional night police officers.

Dog on a Rampage

Newton, Mass., March 26.—A dog acting strangely created a panic in the Lincoln primary school yesterday afternoon, and for half an hour kept the residents in the vicinity of the school in a state of terror. Fortunately no one was bitten, but there were a number of narrow escapes. The dog, which was a large Irish terrier, rushed into the main room of the school and snapped viciously at the children, overturning chairs and tables in his wild race about the room. Patrolman Burke finally shot the dog, but not before he had caused great excitement on the streets nearby, one aged woman being knocked down.

America Leads Y. M. C. A. Work

Boston, March 26.—A meeting was held in Tuomey Temple last evening in the interest of the Young Men's Christian association jubilee convention, which is to be held in Boston, June 11-15. Lucien C. Warner, chairman of the international committee in New York, quoted the following interesting statistics: In the United States there are 255,000 out of a total membership of 521,000. Four-fifths of all the employed secretaries and associations in the world are in America. In the United States there are 400 buildings, in the whole world there are 640 buildings.

Present Methods Not Economical

Boston, March 26.—The municipal printing plant established under Mayor Quincy was pronounced not a success by Mayor Hart, in a report sent by him to the board of aldermen yesterday. Mayor Hart's report is based on an inquiry by an expert whom he had selected to look the plant over. This expert suggested many changes which, in his opinion, would make a municipal printing plant an economy over contract letting to newspaper and job concerns.

Young's Statement Probably True

Bridgewater, Conn., March 26.—No record of the alleged marriage of Miss Maude Williams of Bethel, Conn., and Rev. Clarence Young, who is under arrest in Newark, N. J., charged with bigamy, is upon the files of the city registrar here. At Bethel, where Mr. Young was engaged in evangelical work, boarding with the parents of Miss Williams, no marriage to Miss Williams is recorded, and the report is discredited.

Two Victims of Boarding House Fire

Lynn, Mass., March 26.—Two persons were injured and rescued with some difficulty from a boarding house which took fire last evening from an overturned lamp. W. J. Clark, in whose room the lamp was overturned, was burned about the arms and face, and Bertha Bartina was taken unconscious from the third story. The loss is $1500.

Fencing Meet Won by Yale

New Haven, March 26.—Yale defeated Columbia last night in their first fencing meet by a score of five bouts to four. Both colleges had four bouts each to their credit, while the team from Yale with the two cleverest men, Deland and Queanue, matched, Deland scored his final point, winning the meet for Yale.

General Curtailment Feared

Providence, March 26.—The mill situation in Rhode Island continues to be a perplexing question and the past few days have added to the uneasiness of the operatives, who fear that a wholesale curtailment plan may go into effect at any time, it being noted that all favorable opportunities are taken advantage of to close down.

Sequel to Lamp Throwing Affair

Boston, March 26.—Frank Enos is under arrest, charged with manslaughter, his case growing out of the death of his wife from burns and shock, after a lamp throwing affair at their home in East Boston. Enos' story was that his wife threw the lighted lamp at him. The police are inclined to believe his story.

BOER CONVOY CAPTURED

Kitchener Reports Successful Engagement of His Troop Near Ventersdorp

London, March 26.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, March 25: "Badington's force, including Skelton's column, attacked Delarey, 1500 strong, southwest of Ventersdorp, and, having defeated him, followed him up rapidly, with the result that the Boer rear guard was driven in and their convoy, including the guns, captured at Vaalbank. Our troops displayed great gallantry and dash. They captured two 15-pounder guns, one non-pom, six Maxim's, 320 rounds of big ammunition, 15,000 rounds of small ammunition, 160 rifles, 53 wagons and 24 carts, besides taking 140 prisoners. Chicago Suburbs Inundated Chicago, March 26.—Heavy rains of the past few days have caused floods in the lowlands south and southeast of Chicago, and the suburban towns of Grand Crossing, Drexel, Woodruff, Dauphin Park and Burnside are inundated. The flood in some places is so deep that many families are imprisoned in their homes, and sidewalks, fences and outbuildings have floated away. In some places the water is four feet deep and boats and rafts are being used in the streets.

As a result of the explosion the mine is on fire. The cause of the explosion was an accumulation of gas in the heading of the Gates mine, one of the new mines opened up this winter by the American Steel and Wire company.

R., March 26.—At a meeting of the San Juan chamber of commerce it was decided to present a petition to President McKinley asking for a loan, for free trade, for an extension of the constitution and for a protective tariff on coffee entering the United States. The president of the chamber of commerce, looking upon these requests as unreasonable, has resigned.

THE OUTLOOK

For a woman's happiness in the married state depends less, as a rule, upon the man she is to marry than upon her own health. The woman who enters upon marriage, suffering from womanly weakness, is "heaping up trouble against the day of trouble."

Weak woman are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the one reliable regulator. It dries enfeebled drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It nourishes the nerves and invigorates the entire womanly organism. It makes the baby's advent practically painless, and gives strength to nursing mothers.

"I suffered for twelve years with female trouble," writes Mrs. Milton Grimes, of Adair, Adair Co., Iowa, "which brought on other diseases—heart trouble, Bright's disease, nervousness, and at times would be nearly paralyzed. I had neuritis of stomach. I can freely say your medicines (nine bottles in all, five of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of Golden Medical Discovery, and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets) have cured me. I can work with comfort now, and do a big day's work, something I had not done for over eleven years before." Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Good Afternoon.

It is reported that the mayor of Brockton will extend an invitation to President McKinley to visit, but Quincy should get in her invitation first. The attractions of Brockton, except during the week of the Brockton fair, will not compare with Quincy with its historic sites, its big ship yard, its unexcelled granite and its seashore. Even the Brockton people like to come to the Quincy shore in July.

Many parents will be disappointed to learn that upon the opening of the spring term of the public schools on Monday, April 8, they will not be permitted to enter new children in the lowest primary. It has been customary for a large number to enter in April,
over 200 last year we believe, and probably parents had decided to send as many more this year.

Some parents who believe with Supt.
Parlin that children are often rushed into school too young, did not enter their pupils last September, because they realized that winter was coming on, and preferred to wait until the spring term. When these children enter next September they will be over six years of age. In Braintree and some other towns children enter the public kindergartens before they are four years old.

Supt. Parlin gives good reasons in his annual report, why children should not enter school as young as they do.
He also thinks the young pupils are required to attend school too many hours per day. Would it not be well to continue to admit children in April and put the pupils of the lowest primary grade on half time. Let the old pupils form the morning class, and the new pupils the afternoon class. This would be a saving to the city in buildings and teachers' salaries.

Drift of Opinion.

The New Hampshire Legislature voted to honor the memory of Franklin Pierce because he was the only President the Granite State has ever furnished. It may be said, as some of the legislators did during the discussion, that this was his only distinction. He promoted the war of the rebellion, and during its progress leaned towards the copperhead side of the question so that it was not easy for men who remember the dark days of the summer of 1863 to encourage the proposed monument.—Lynn Item.

Man has always lent a ready ear
for new theories and his hearing has grown more distinct and sensitive with his improved education. Culture has made him sceptical in only one line of mental research—religion. In all others he has preserved a crudality like that of Mediaeval times. He laughs at South Sea bubbles, but hearkens eagerly to the Arizona promoter with a silver mine or the gentleman from Missouri interested in zinc. He fools the moose with a love call and listens to the siren notes of a Zella Nicolaus or a Fayne Moore. He sets decoys to lure the wild duck within range of his gun and seeks an exactly similar lure of the financial sort
in Wall Street.—New York World.

NEW CHILDREN.

Not to Be Admitted into Schools in April.

School Committee have so Voted.

Because of the Crowd and the Expense.

The regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening.
Messrs. Dion and Record were absent.
Miss Elizabeth G. Thomas was elected as teacher of grade VII of the Gridley Bryant school.

Miss Florence E. Gammonds was elected as substitute for grade II of the Massachusetts Fields school.

Miss Elizabeth A. Souther was granted a leave of absence for the spring term.

The resignation of Miss Sarah G.
Edwards, assistant at the Quincy school, was accepted.

In executive session the board considered at length the condition of the primary grades and in view of the crowded condition of this grade it was decided not to admit new children in April. Also that hereafter, beginners of the first grade work will be admitted
but once a year, in September.

In regard to this board say that while this may be a disappointment to a few mothers, the School Committee feel sure that it will be quite as well
for children, and will save the city the expense of maintaining during the spring term several extra rooms.

SUPT. PARLIN

In his annual report made comment as follows, relative to the attendance of young children:

The welfare of the child being the chief consideration, is it not a mistake to send him to school at the age of five years?

At this age the child is far from being prepared for the usual school work and his development will be much more natural and satisfactory if,
for a year or two longer, he is sent to play in the open air and sunshine
instead of to school and to books.

At the very time nature is saying to the child, "taste, smell, see, hear, feel and move—use your senses and muscles," we shut him up in a school room for four or five hours a day with paper and pencil, books and busy work
and tell him to keep still and study.

It would be better to send him with his teacher to romp in the fields. At the age of five years the child should be free. It is too early to impose upon him the restraints and instructions of the schoolroom. He is then prementally a pupil of nature and of action.

To him the world is new and wonderful and each day he essays with all his might to know and conquer it.

Mr. V. E. Miller, a grocer of large experience, has moved to Quincy and opened a store in Faxon block, nearly opposite post office, where he intends to sell first quality groceries at a slight advance over wholesale prices. He will not keep teams and solicit orders from house to house, and can therefore sell groceries so much cheaper that it will be a great inducement to citizens of Quincy to call and purchase from him.

The prices of a few articles will be found advertised in another column;
but he would more especially invite those looking for economy to call and examine his stock and cash prices.

A New Grocery.

FROM DAWN TO DUSK

he investigates, questions, imitates and works until his whole being—bone, muscle, brain and mind—has been fully exercised. He plays a hundred parts—dog, horse, locomotive, merchant, doctor, prince and beggar—and at each completes as he sees it. The senses are busy gathering new ideas which the imagination weaves into a web of life to be acted and lived out. For him noise is more appropriate than silence and movement than thought. By his observations and play he is earning more things than we can teach him at school, and at the same time he is being prepared in the best possible way for our instruction.

At the age of five the child's brain is growing very rapidly and continues to grow rapidly up to the age of seven,
then more slowly, attaining its maximum weight at the age of fourteen or fifteen, while development and organization are not completed before the age of thirty.

We do not say that a child of five cannot do the work of the primary schools. The fact is he does do it every year but his development has not prepared him for much of it, and therefore it is premature and accomplished
at unnecessary cost of time and energy.

The result is that, although his progress
may seem very satisfactory in the lower grades, there is a distinct loss in mental grasp and rational power in the upper grades. His development is arrested or rendered defective by our attempting to ignore the lower and fundamental powers and to appeal prematurely to the higher and accessory and the child pays for our impatience.

As long as children are admitted at the age of five, is it not a mistake to keep them in school as many hours a day as older pupils? Are not

TWO HOURS A DAY
enough for children of five or six? By reducing the number in attendance at one time and by making some desirable changes in the primary work, this reduction of time can be made not only with great physical benefit to the children but without any loss in scholarship. The average membership of the first grade rooms in the schools of this city is about fifty-four. Who can properly care for and instruct fifty-four pupils of the first grade, or of any grade?

By assigning to a single teacher so many we waste tremendously the energy of the teacher and diminish greatly the efficiency of her work.
These children can do very little of importance at school without the teacher, but she can rarely work to advantage with more than a dozen. So she has to rack her brain to devise means of keeping the rest quiet and out of mischief.

Most of the so-called "busy work"
has come into use to meet this demand
and, beyond this service, much of it has little value while some of it is positively harmful. From an educational point of view and for the good of the children, it would be better to divide a class of forty or fifty, first or second grade pupils into two sections and have one section attend in the morning, the other in the afternoon.

It is little short of criminal to crowd over seventy small children into a poorly ventilated schoolroom and keep them there during two sessions a day.
For his child the wise parent would unhesitatingly say, "Let him have less education if necessary and more air and sunshine." But this is not the alternative since the educational interests of the child would be as well, if not better, served under the proposed arrangement.

IS IT NOT A MISTAKE
to admit pupils to the first grade twice a year—in September and April? The September children much overtax our accommodations and by admitting others in April the already overcrowded conditions are made worse. If the expectation is that a sufficient number will be promoted from each grade to the next higher, the relief is not adequate and there is no outlet at the top, moreover, the primary pupils should not be hurried.

Under existing conditions almost nothing can be done for the April children during the remainder of the year. They must join those who enter the following September. Their presence complicates difficulties and deprives the other pupils of the needed
time and services of the teacher.
What compensating advantages are there for this interruption and these new burdens during the last term of the year? Would it not be best for all concerned to admit pupils beginning the work of the first grade but once a year—in September?

The chief objections to the above
propositions come from those who regard the primary school as a kind of public nursery—a safe place to send the babies when the home wishes to be relieved of their care. We all sympathize with overworked and distracted mothers, but we believe even they will approve when they know it is best for their little ones.

JUMPED INTO BROOK.

Attempt of Woman at Drowning at South Quincy.

An Italian woman whose name could not be learned, created quite a little excitement on Liberty street, Tuesday, by trying to drown herself in Town brook. The woman occupies part of the John McKay house and according to the neighbors moved in a week ago.
That is all that is known of them.
Town brook is quite near the house and owing to the recent heavy rains is well filled. It was shortly before noon Tuesday when the woman was seen to run screaming out of the house, jump
the low fence, between the yard and the brook and throw herself headlong into the water. Following her closely was a man, presumably her husband, and he jumped in after her. Employees at Quinley's stone yard also went to the rescue and the woman was hauled out.
She was nearly exhausted and a few minutes more would have doubtless ended her existence.

TREATY NOT YET SIGNED

China Hesitates Over Parting With Manchuria

MAY BE SEIZED BY RUSSIA

In Which Event Japan Would Feel Compelled to Go to War—China in a Quandary in Any Event—The United States Criticized

London, March 27.—While several dispatches say that China has refused to sign the treaty which would give Russia control of Manchuria, others say that this decision is not final, but that she wants to have some of the clauses modified.

This is thought to mean war, for Russia will seize the territory by force, and Japan will fight to prevent her.

There is much excitement in military circles, and rumors are abroad that several warships have been ordered to Chinese waters.

China is in a quandary in any case, with Russia on one side and Japan on the other. It is thought to mean war no matter what course she takes.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says: "I am informed that the best authority that the Chinese court has instructed Li Hung Chang to inform the ministers of the powers that China has refused to sign the Manchurian convention, and has also notified all the viceroys to the same effect. It is further asserted that the court seriously contemplates a removal of the capital from Peking."

The Reuter Telegram company has received the following dispatch:

"Peking, March 26, 7 p. m.—The report that China rejects the Manchurian convention is not true. She objects to many points which are under discussion. China strenuously objects to the prohibition of the importation of arms and ammunition into Manchuria and to the provision forbidding China to construct her own railways without Russia's consent. She also takes exception to relinquishing autonomy in China."

"China does not desire to grant a concession which would be likely to prove an embargo to other powers."

The Morning Post, in the course of a sarcastic editorial dealing with the memorandum of the United States government on the Manchurian convention, says: "The only thing that can bring the powers together in support of China against Russia is the initiative of the British government, of which, however, there is no sign."

The Daily Chronicle, discussing the same subject says: "The United States government objects, yet declines to fight. It is not a very dignified attitude, but it is at least clearly defined and intelligible. Owing to the South African complications, the British government apparently does not see its way to repeat the tour de force of Fashoda, and has made up its mind to swallow the snub as best it may."

Against Debenture Companies
Columbus, O., March 27.—The supreme court yesterday dealt a death blow to the so-called debenture business in Ohio. In the quo warranto proceedings brought by the attorney general against the Interstate Investment company of Cincinnati, the court entered judgment of ouster. The decision is based upon the finding of the court that the methods employed by the debenture companies are those of a lottery; that they are contrary to public policy and unlawful.

Flood at Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 27.—Grand river has reached the high water mark of 1892—12 feet 6 inches—and is rising an inch an hour. Three big tributaries are pouring a swollen flood into the Grand. All the factories along the canals in this city have been shut down, and their basements are flooded. Hundreds of acres of lowlands along the river are flooded.

Confessed to Robbing Employers

Kansas City, March 27.—William Dearduff, 29 years old, a clerk, was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing $300 worth of diamond rings from his employers, Edwards & Sloan, wholesale jewelers. Dearduff confessed to the theft and also confessed to having sent Mr. Edwards a letter threatening to kidnap his son if he did not immediately produce $1000.

Burglars Working at Portland

Portland, Me., March 27.—Two burglars broke into the house of George H. Jordan last night and bound and gagged Mr. Jordan's son Carl, whom they found in his chamber. After securing a few dollars they departed without visiting other portions of the house. This is the third burglary in the same locality within a fortnight.

Sent to Insane Asylum

Edgartown, Mass., March 27.—Samuel P. Huxford of Cottage City, who has been confined in jail here charged with forgery, and who recently attempted to commit suicide, was yesterday pronounced insane and was committed by Judge Eldridge to the state asylum for insane criminals, at Bridge-water.

Alleged Russian Traitors

Berlin, March 27.—Advices from Lamberg, Galicia, assert that a large number of persons have been arrested in Warsaw on charges of being spies of the German war office. Those in custody include officers of the Russian army and Colonel Sergieff, chief of the Russian frontier police.

Grand Jury Will Deal With Them

New York, March 27.—George F. Abbott, Jr., Edward Gleason and David Patterson, who are accused of drugging and criminally assaulting Mary E. Paige, 16 years old, on March 10 last, were yesterday remanded at Brooklyn to await the action of the grand jury.

THE CANAL SCHEME.

F. O. Wellington Among Those in Favor of Surveys, Etc.

The committee on harbors at the State House yesterday gave a continued hearing on the resolve directing the harbor and land commissioners to make surveys and estimates relative to the construction of a ship canal from Boston harbor to the Taunton river which is reported by the Herald as follows:

Representatives Garfield of Brockton took charge of the hearing, and called City Engineer Felton of Brockton. Mr. Felton showed an elevation plan, by which he said two locks would be needed, and the depth of the greatest cut (in Avon) would be 60 feet.

Mr. Felton thought the $10,000 appropriation provided for in the resolve was ample to pay the expenses of the survey. He did not think there was a possibility of its reaching $20,000.

F. O. Wellington of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company of Quincy said he had not given the matter any special study, but in a general way he thought a canal would be a great advantage to Boston and points along the route. It would make considerable difference to the coal rate, he thought. He thought it advisable for the state to make the expenditure if for nothing more than to find out whether such a canal is feasible.

George C. Newton of Weymouth said the people in his neighborhood believe it will be of great service to them. Representative Reed of Taunton spoke in a similar vein.

N. R. Chester of the committee on legislation of the National Association of Boards of Trade, said his business was largely shipping and he believed the state water ways should be protected. The state should stop spending money for ornamental purposes and develop its commercial interests.

Senator Holt of Taunton spoke in favor of the plan as did E. B. Mellen of Brockton.

Parker Chandler said this canal was not a local matter. It would benefit Lowell, Salem, and those places as much if not more than towns along the line.

The hearing was continued to April 4 at 4 P. M. for the purpose of hearing Boston parties.

Foresters United.

One of the most important meetings of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters ever held in the district, says the Enterprise, was held in Foresters' Hall, Brockton, Sunday afternoon. Twenty-three of the most important courts were represented, the number including those in Taunton, Quincy and all the neighboring towns. The object of the meeting was to decide upon some policy to be pursued at the next convention of the high court. The courts in this section have common interests and by going to the convention in a strong, well organized body, the delegates feel that they can accomplish much more than by acting independently.

Burns Monument Fund.

Senator George F. Hoar will be the orator tomorrow evening at the grand Scottish event to be held in Tremont temple in aid of the Burns monument fund, the purpose of which is to erect a statue or other memorial here in Boston in honor of Robert Burns, the great Scottish poet. This contribution to Bannians by the venerable statesman will be one of the finest essays on the bard of Ayr which have yet been written by an American, and will doubtless rank high among the many famous writings on Burns and the influence of his works.

Now is the Time.

If you wish to save your fruit or ornamental trees from canker worms, caterpillars, and other crawling insects now's the time. As the frost comes out of the ground the insects start, and a little labor now will destroy thousands. Morrill's tree ink or canker worm exterminator, is the best thing to use. For sale in small cans at this office.

Evidence enough has been produced that the people of this state are not, as a rule, in favor of any of the schemes for pensioning public employees of any class. In a few cities, the test of an election did result in the acceptance of the firemen's pension act, but in other cities the vote was the other way and as to the numerous applications which have been made to the general court of this year for the extension of the principle the opposition has been pronounced and emphatic. That the time may come when public servants will be pensioned is not unlikely but that time will be when the state is ready for a universal old age pension—the only pension idea which is fair all-round.

MAY LAST FOR YEARS

No Signs of Conflict In South Africa Drawing to a Close

SUPPLY OF FRESH TROOPS

Must Be Constantly Sent From England to Occupy Districts—Milner Said to Chafe Under His Qualified Authority and May Resign

London, March 27.—The Pretoria and Bloemfontein correspondents of The Times send long dispatches admitting that Lord Kitchener's policy and operations have failed to achieve the results hoped for, and pointing out that the British public must be prepared to return to the original policy of occupying districts and studding the country with military posts as the only means of effecting complete pacification.

This process, the correspondents say, will occupy much time, and necessitate a constant supply of fresh troops. The strain on both officers and men has been and will be immense, and arrangements must be made to send absolutely fresh troops to the front in order to enable the others to be sent home.

"Unless this aspect of the case is grasped by the authorities," say the writers to The Times, "there is a possibility of the war lasting for years. It is quite useless to renew peace negotiations. Nothing approaching terms," as the word is generally understood, would be possible or even possible with the Boers."

The Daily Express prints a rumor that Sir Alfred Milner is dissatisfied with his qualified authority, and has asked the government to give him "either a free hand or no hand."

Mr. Chamberlain is said to have replied that it would not be advisable to dissociate the authority of Sir Alfred Milner from that of Lord Kitchener, and the rumor goes that Sir Alfred contemplates resignation.

"It is an open secret," says The Daily Express, "that Sir Alfred Milner has long chafed at having Lord Kitchener at his elbow to check or modify his proposals."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Express reports the capture by 100 Boers of 130 colonials in a rocky defile near Richmond last Thursday. He asserts that the colonials lost 13 men before they surrendered, adding that they were all liberated after having been stripped of the accoutrements.

It is reported from Bloemfontein that General De Wet is again in the Orange River colony.

Guerrilla Game Will Continue

London, March 27.—The Amsterdam correspondent of The Daily Mail wires the substance of an interview with Mr. Kruger, whom he found in a "most optimistic frame of mind." General Bullfinch's victory over General Delany had been, Mr. Kruger thought, exaggerated in the reports. "He said the Magoesburg range and Tustenburg were again in the possession of the Boers," continues the correspondent, "and the old guerrilla game would continue until England had been forced into making peace overtures."

Somebody's Word at Fault

Berlin, March 27.—Referring to recent answers of Lord Grantham in the house of commons to questions regarding the applicability of the Anglo-German agreement to Manchuria, a high German official says: "It was Lord Salisbury himself who, during the negotiations preceding the Anglo-German agreement, wished to insert in the agreement a paragraph formally excepting Manchuria. We can produce the documents any day."

"Hopes to Collect $50,000,000"

Paris, March 27.—Le Rappel gives space this morning to the following communication from Amsterdam: Mr. Kruger will sail for the United States next month, on the invitation of the American Pro-Boer committee, to give a series of lectures. The committee hopes to collect $50,000,000 and to form a volunteer militia with which to transport men and ammunition to the Transvaal.

French's Heavy Rakeoff

Vryheid, March 27.—General French, with Durnall's and Putney's columns, arrived here Monday, having killed, wounded or captured 1200 Boers. He has also taken seven cannon, 1000 rifles, 1800 wagons and 26,000 head of horses, cattle and sheep.

Death List Reduced

Birmingham, Ala., March 27.—Under the harmonious working of the state militia and local police force, much order has come out of the chaos incident to the fatal storm which swept portions of this city. A careful revision of the death list places the total number of dead in the city at 13, several persons who were missing and had been reported dead having shown up. The total may possibly be increased to 18. The property loss is placed at $200,000.

Will Try to Prevent Strike

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—The senate last night unanimously adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a joint legislative committee to confer immediately with the anthracite coal operators and with the officials of the United Mine Workers of America to endeavor to bring about an amicable solution of the differences now existing between the operators and miners.

Thieving Official Sentenced

Buffalo, March 27.—John E. Tipton, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Switchmen's union, who pleaded guilty to one of a number of indictments charging him with stealing $900 of the union's money, was sentenced yesterday to serve 21 months in Auburn prison.

MILK WAR IN SIGHT

New England Producers Fail to Agree With the Contractors

Boston, March 27.—As a result of a meeting held here yesterday between the milk contractors and the directors of the New England Milk Producers' union, President Ward of the union stated last night that it is probable there will be a milk war, as all milk deliveries to Boston have been ordered off until a satisfactory arrangement is made with the contractors. Mr. Ward further stated that it is likely the deliveries will stop at once.

One of the most important meetings of the farmers of New England, to take action on the milk question, was held during the day, there being about 500 milk producers from all sections of New England in attendance. The delegates voted as a unit to accept nothing but straight prices of 32 cents a can, and no surplus. This meeting was followed by one between the milk contractors and the directors of the New England Milk Producers' union, but no decision was reached on the question of the price of milk for the six months between April 1 and Oct. 1.

While the milk producers voted to accept 32 cents and no surplus, delivered in Boston, the contractors voted not to give over 20 cents a can of 5½ quarts, and further desired a varying price from month to month, according to the amount of milk placed on the market. If there should be a great supply during any month, the contractors want to pay a lower price during that month. After a long discussion it was found that no satisfactory decision could be reached, and the meeting adjourned, after which the farmers returned to their homes.

Milk Will Probably Close

Ipswich, Mass., March 27.—A mass meeting of the striking operatives of the Ipswich milk last night unanimously voted not to accept the reduction of wages announced by Agent Brown, and which was to have gone into effect Tuesday. The company had given the strikers until last night to decide whether they would accept the reduction, under the threat that the mills will close if the reduction is refused. It is anticipated that the mills will now close.

Capital Stock Halved

Amesbury, Mass., March 27.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Powow National bank, held here yesterday, it was voted to reduce the capital stock of the bank to $100,000, the present capital stock being $200,000. The cause of the reduction is on account of losses sustained by the bank on loans to unsuccessful business firms, and also in the depreciation of the value of real estate where advances have been made.

Lawson Breaks Another Record

Boston, March 27.—Thomas W. Lawson has made 132 entries for the coming Boston horse show, entering 52 different horses. This is the largest exhibit ever made by an individual in this or any other country. Of these horses 28 are blue ribbon winners and 14 are champions. He will also show five different four-in-hands. One of these four-in-hands will be composed of stallions, all trotting bred.

Was Famous in Wrestling World

Central Falls, R. I., March 27.—William Schorr, once the champion wrestler of England, and in one class, of the world, died at his home here yesterday, aged 63 years. For years he devoted himself to the life of a professional wrestler and trainer. It is said of him that he trained more men and seconded more winners than any other man in the world.

Excessive License Rates Reduced

Fall River, Mass., March 27.—The local board of police and license commissioners yesterday recessed from its action of last week in raising the price of the combined first and fourth class licenses, from $1800 to $3000, and made the figure the same as last year. They, however, add several restrictions which were not insisted upon last year.

Religious Riot in Portugal

Lisbon, March 27.—A religious riot has occurred in Setubal, 18 miles southeast of Lisbon. Troops were called out. Several persons are wounded, and it is rumored that some were killed. Order was finally restored.

Girls Resist a Cutdown

New York, March 27.—A hundred girls in the plug department of Lorillard's tobacco factory in Jersey City quit work yesterday, rather than submit to a cut in wages. The girls say their pay was reduced 9 cents a hundred pounds.

Rathbone's Bondsmen Withdraw Bail

Havana, March 27.—Estes G. Rathbone, former director general of posts, who is now on bail, under charges of fraudulent practices, will be taken into custody, his bondsmen having refused to continue the guarantee.

A Regular Occurrence

Kingston, Jama., March 27.—The government of Ecuador is making great preparations for an expected revolution.

NEWS IN BRIEF

C. P. Gibson, a real estate man of Chesterfield, N. H., has sold a handsome residence site in Chesterfield to Mrs. Rudyard Kipling.

Walter A. Mitchell was drowned while crossing a stream as he was returning to Carratunk, Me., after a winter passed in a lumber camp.

Henry J. Copp committed suicide by shooting at Pawtucket, R. I. Copp was 39 years old, and had been despondent for some time.

MOROCCO MUST SETTLE

Admiral Rogers Will Assist In Enforcing Our Demands If Necessary

Washington, March 27.—Admiral Rogers cables from Tangier, Morocco, to the navy department that he arrived at that port yesterday on the New York. He is to take United States Consul General Gummere to Marzagan.

Upon being advised by the navy department that the New York had arrived at Tangier, the state department immediately sent a cablegram to Consul General Gummere, directing him to board the New York at once and go forward on his special mission. Something is left to Mr. Gummere's discretion as to the execution of the details, and it is for him to say whether he will be satisfied if the sultan and court meet him half way at Marzagan, or whether he will proceed according to the original program directly to Morocco City.

It probably will make no difference in principle, provided the necessary explanations are afforded for the treatment our consul has received, and provision be made for settling the claims. They are not very large in the aggregate; probably $60,000 will cover them all, or less than half an indemnity that was summarily collected by Germany a short time ago on a precisely similar class of claims. But it can be stated that if the court does not appear at Marzagan by the third week in April, then Consul General Gummere will go to Morocco City.

An Unusual Procedure

Chicago, March 27.—The grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging conspiracy against Miss Marie Deffenbach, who has been dead several months. Miss Deffenbach came to her death mysteriously in connection with an alleged scheme to swindle life insurance companies. The procedure was to have her mentioned as a conspirator, in order that certain evidence may be introduced at the trial. Miss Deffenbach, the evidence shows, was interested in the alleged conspiracy. New indictments were also voted against F. W. Smiley, Dr. A. M. Unger and Frank H. Smiley, charged with engaging in a conspiracy to defraud insurance companies.

Mrs. Nation "Jaws" a Mayor

Cincinnati, March 27.—Mrs. Carrie Nation called on Mayor Fleischmann at the city hall yesterday afternoon and scolded him for operating a distillery here. For 20 minutes the mayor listened to perhaps the strongest denunciation that a chief executive ever received in his own office. When she had finished, Mayor Fleischmann remarked briefly: "I am sorry we can't agree. I am afraid you have struck a hard proposition—the mayor of a wicked city and a whisky manufacturer. I am glad to have met you, and hope you may do much good."

Crazed by Fear of Hydrophobia

South Norwalk, Conn., March 27.—Myron R. Olmstead, aged 32, died at his home here yesterday, with all the symptoms of hydrophobia. He was bitten by a dog on Jan. 23, but his physicians say the wound would have led to no serious trouble had Olmstead not been frightened by companions in the hat factory where he was employed into believing that he was doomed to an attack of rabies. He was thrown into a state of hysteria by his imagination, according to the physicians. Pseudo-hydrophobia is assigned as the cause of death.

Dissatisfaction Spreading

Berlin, March 27.—Dispatches from Russia to several Berlin papers tell of serious disturbances, especially at Odessa, where 100 arrests have been made; at Riga, where 300 persons are in custody, and Kieff, Kharkoff, Borspat, Tomsk and Moscow, where high officials are involved.

Cadets to Use the Indiana

Washington, March 27.—The navy department has entered into an entirely new policy by designating a first-class battleship, the Indiana, for the service of the cadets at the United States naval academy. The cadets will go aboard her the latter part of May.

Knox's Intention Not Known

Pittsburg, March 27.—P. G. Knox, whom President McKinley has asked to join his official family as attorney general, is in the city, but denies himself to all callers and nothing can be learned as to whether he will accept the offer or not.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

The inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic Party.

General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch of Jackson all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hills. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men.

General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Engravings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Engravings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it.

The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition, de Grande Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $20. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders for this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will be assigned soon.

Washington, March 23.—The president had retired before the bulletin announcing the capture of Aguinaldo arrived, and heard the news for the first time this morning. The capture of Aguinaldo will be a source of great satisfaction to the president and his advisers. TELEGRAPHIC. 3 O'CLOCK. ROUNDED UP. Aguinaldo Captured by General Funston. Whole Plan Mapped Out by Plucky Soldier. Washington Will Regard It as Beginning of the End of the War. Manila, March 23.—General Frederick Funston's daring project for the capture of Aguinaldo in his hiding place in the province of Isabela, island of Luzon, has proved completely successful.

BRIGADIER GENERAL FUNSTON. Aguinaldo was captured there March 23. The United States gunboat Vicksburg, Commander Barry, with General Funston and Aguinaldo on board, arrived here this morning. The whole plan to capture Aguinaldo was mapped out by General Funston and was authorized by General MacArthur. For his aids in the daring attempt there were detailed Surgeon Major Harris, Captain Newton, Lieutenant Admire, Lieutenant Mitchell, scout and a company of native scouts, all picked men. They embarked on the gunboat Vicksburg and were landed on a remote beach above Baler.

EMILIO AGUINALDO. To deceive the enemy it was arranged that Aguinaldo's representative, who had given the information as to Aguinaldo's hiding place in Isabela province to the Americans, should lead the native scouts, and assume the character of insurgents' still loyal to the rebel cause. They were to make it appear that they had captured General Funston and other American officers of high rank and were taking them into the camp of the insurgent chief to be delivered as prisoners of war at the proper time. The pretended prisoners were to throw aside their assumed characters and seize Aguinaldo, beat down any opposition that might show itself and hold their prisoner. To carry out the program required a six-days' march into the interior, and never-ceasing caution to guard against treachery. The troops in New Vizcaya and New Esija and the gunboat Vicksburg were ordered to co-operate with the capturing party.

EVIDENCE IS ALL IN. Best Case May Go to the Jury This Afternoon. A PLEA BY COUNSEL SISK. In Which He Refers to the Stain and Cromwell Case and Asks the Jury Not to Make a Similar Mistake in the Case of His Client. Salem, Mass., March 23.—Mr. Sisk, counsel for John C. Best, finished his argument this morning, and Attorney General Knowlton began to sum up for the government. The charge will be given to the jury by Judge Fox. The case will probably be in the hands of the jury this afternoon, and it is possible that a verdict may be reached by tonight. The defense closed yesterday, the prisoner having been on the stand a period of four hours in all, over an hour of which was under the pitiless cross-examination of Attorney General Knowlton. The prisoner was by turns defiant and then he writhed and showed the effect of the barb. Taken as a whole, however, the man stood the ordeal very well. Mr. Sisk made his plea to the jury in behalf of his client, carefully going over the case from its opening and attacking every point made by the government, analyzing the words of the many witnesses, pointing out what he contended to be the weakness of the structure built up by the district attorney, and striving to impress upon the jury the terrible nature of the crime charged against the prisoner at the bar. In opening his plea, Mr. Sisk said: "The charge in this case is the highest known to the law. If you shall say that this man is guilty of murder in the first degree the court has no power but to send the man to the electric chair. So whatever your verdict, it will be almost a sentence of this man. You have almost the power of the Creator. You can say 'live' or you can say 'die.' "No person can say that George E. Bailey was not alive on Oct. 10. No person can say that he was not murdered, if he was murdered at all, in Middlesex county. Because Dr. Pinkham said that the man had not eaten for three hours when death came to him, did not signify that he was not alive on Oct. 10." Mr. Sisk then called attention to the Stain and Cromwell case, remarking that fortunately capital punishment did not exist in Maine. In that case an influential newspaper with great resources went back, picked up the threads step by step, and if there was ever a case where fair-minded men could say that the error had been made that was one. Through the work of that paper these men had been liberated by the governor and council, against the protest of the attorney general. "If an error is made here," he said, "it will be of no consequence to Best if it is discovered 10 years hence, because Best will be dead. Such is the law in this state."

Good Afternoon.

If the young people of Atlantic will bring their "Diamonds and Hearts" to Quincy, we guarantee that Clubs will not be used, and that they may carry home a spade heaped with dollars.

Braintree has disposed of its mock investigation very speedily. In Quincy it was ruled that the City Council could not instruct its committee, but the voters of Braintree discharged their committee without even asking for a report.

Again Brockton has been unsuccessful in its attempt to get a branch registry of deeds, the report being: Ought not to pass. If the canal scheme should be referred to the next General Court, Brockton may conclude that her cup of sorrow is full to overflowing. But then she will not want to pay fifty per cent of the cost of the canal.

Commissioner Knowlton informs the Daily Ledger that the assessments for concrete sidewalks are usually from fifty to sixty cents per foot frontage. As this may be apportioned over ten years the cost is but five to six cents per foot, with interest, per year. Or less than $4 per foot for a sidewalk in front of a fifty foot lot. It's worth that to any estate.

The enrollment of the public schools will be as large next December in one case as the other; that is, whether children are admitted in September only, or in April and September. The cost of schools is usually estimated on the enrollment. Under the new plan, with 200 less pupils to educate during one term the School Committee should make a better financial showing. It shows however, that comparisons on the basis of enrollment are not always fair.

Drift of Opinion.

If schemes for saving a million dollars at a time can be shown to be feasible the proposed ship canal may be built without expense. The discovery that the outer harbor, just east of the narrows and leading up into Weymouth Fore River, provides excellent depth and room for anchorage, which Boston harbor proper does not, was an important one and one which should help the canal plan along.—Brockton Enterprise.

It is an undeniable fact that too great attention to athletics whether in school or college, cannot but interfere with the close attention to studies that is necessary for high standing as a student. It is equally true that a judicious amount of athletic exercise and training is not only, not pre-judicial to the school's standing, but is positively beneficial. Too close and too long continued mental application is as injurious as overdevotion to athletics. The best results are to be found in a judicious combination of both.—Utica Observer.

The czar of Russia is advised to spend less time and thought in devising means for putting down riots and a little more in considering how to make his subjects cease wishing to riot. Advice like that might be bestowed on the great American nation with as much reason. Every time there is a lynching or a season of mob violence in the United States, half the orators and newspapers break out with vehement exhortations to vindicate the majesty of the law by stern repression of all disorder. A modicum of the intensity might well be devoted to thinking whether the way is not open to prevent the desire to riot.—New Bedford Standard.

An Event of Unusual Social Interest.

Congratulations to Mr. Merrick and His Class.

An event of unusual social interest to the residents of Ward Six, was the presentation of "Diamonds and Hearts," a three-act play, at Atlantic Music hall, Wednesday evening. The play was given by members of Mr. Charles F. Merrick's class of the Memorial Congregational Sunday school an organization whose helpful influence is widely exercised in church and social affairs in Atlantic.

The class having deservedly earned the reputation of always giving a first class entertainment, the announcement that this was to be the most elaborate and ambitious yet attempted, with an increase in the price of both admission tickets and reserved seats called forth an audience which filled the hall to overflowing.

The stage of Music hall was hardly recognizable on account of the improved properties provided by the untiring efforts of Mr. Merrick in his desire to make every detail of the evening's work a success.

At the entrance people were welcomed by the following young ladies, attractively attired, who acted as ushers, — the Misses Florence E. Thomas, Caroline E. Herrmann, Annie E. White, Laura M. Hill, Florence Wetherbee, and Mrs. William G. Gasset.

An orchestra under the direction of Mr. Charles Childstet, rendered appropriate and pleasing selections. The handsome sixteen page program was much admired, particularly the cover design, the gift of the Atlantic artist Mr. Charles W. Reed.

The entire performance and its accessories showed careful thought, good judgment, and untiring pains. The play itself moved smoothly in all parts, and at times attained a dignity quite unexpected.

Miss Emma G. Curtin took the part of a young woman persecuted by her step mother's son, because she would not become his wife. Her prospective fortune gave determination and persistence to his efforts, which scrupled at no meanness to attain the desired end. Miss Curtin acted her part with distinction and ease. The ungrateful part of the intriguing son was taken by Mr. Frank M. Coe, whose make up quite effectually disguised him.

The step mother who aids her son in his villainy, although not fully comprehending what is being done, was impersonated by Miss Alice G. Coe, who made a distinguished figure on the stage, and one could not help wishing that a woman so refined and well bred even in the most disagreeable situations had been blessed with a more manly son.

Mr. Percival A. Hall looked and acted in a thoroughly capable manner the part of Dr. Burton, the young physician who woos and wins the woman of his love.

Mr. Howard Wade with an excellent makeup took the minor part of an attorney.

Councilman William Gasset took the part of a country beau.
Mr. William Moffat made a clever colored bell boy and did his part well, provoking much laughter.

Miss Frances A. Hayes and Miss Annie P. Hall were exceedingly attractive, both in their appearance and the ease and vivacity with which they assumed their parts.

The audience was greatly pleased with the pretty dance at the close of the first act, in which the Misses Curtin, Hayes, and Hall delighted the eye with their graceful movements.
To Miss Lillian Waterhouse and Mr. W. N. Ware fell two extremely interesting character parts: Mr. Ware presenting the part of Abraham Barnes—or "Bub"—a Yankee farmer, still unmarried at forty — and Miss Waterhouse that of "Sis" his faithful and well loved sister and housekeeper. In the first scene of the second act, in the old fashioned farmhouse kitchen, a fine bit of acting was given by these two, the effect of which could scarcely have been surpassed by professionals of high rank and as the farmer and his sister part for the night, lingering to add the last goodnight touches to the homely cares of the day the pathos of the simple scene was most commendably done. Miss Waterhouse has never been seen to better advantage, her faculty of appearing to be actually living her part made every move natural and convincing. Mr. Ware has this same gift, and simply to look into his genial face is to lose all sense of care.

The proceeds of the evening are to go toward the mortgage on the Congregational church. Here are congratulations to Mr. Merrick upon this class of 35 young people and here are congratulations to the class upon Mr. Merrick, and to Atlantic upon both.

NO INVESTIGATION.

Braintree Disgusted with Police Charges.

Committee Is Thanked and Dismissed.

Charges Personal and Reflected Discredit Upon Town.

Another town meeting was held at Braintree last evening, at which the town washed its hand of the police charges, upon which an investigation had previously been ordered.

Mr. E. E. Abercrombie moved that a vote of thanks be extended by the town to the committee recently appointed to investigate the Police department of the Town of Braintree, for their courtesy so far shown, and that they be discharged from any further duty relating to this investigation; and that it is the sentiment of the town of Braintree that all such investigation should stop.

This motion provoked considerable discussion, and various expressions of opinion.

Mr. T. H. Dearing hoped that the investigation would not be dismissed but that it be held—not in public—but before the Selectmen or some other fitting committee, stating that if there be any charges, it is not well to cover them up now.

Col. Drinkwater called for a report of the Investigating Committee.

Chairman Mellen of the committee spoke briefly upon the subject, outlining what had been done in the matter, and ended by stating that the charges preferred appeared to be of a personal nature. He hoped that grievances of a personal nature would not be brought into an open town meeting, as they reflected discredit upon the town.

At this point Mr. Abercrombie's motion was carried and the committee discharged from further duty in the matter.

Voted—On motion of Mr. Potter, that the Selectmen be requested to appoint one of the police force of the town to guard against the illegal selling of intoxicating liquors, gambling, cock fighting and similar violations of the law.

The entertainment in evening was very attractive. The features of the evening were the recitations of Miss Cloud, from Emerson school of oratory, who, impersonated delightfully one of Kate Douglas Wiggin's stories.

Several times Mr. Sprague, Mr. McTier and Miss Burman entertained the audience with selections on cornet, violin and piano.

M'KINLEY INVITED.

Likely to Visit Quincy in July.

Daughters of the Revolution Ahead.

Personally Invited by Regent of Adams Chapter, D. R.

The newspapers now report that President McKinley, while a guest of Secretary Long at Hingham over the Fourth of July, will visit Marshfield and Quincy in order to see the homes of Webster and the Adamses, and there is some foundation for the report.

Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, the regent of Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, was among the pilgrims to Washington at the time of the second inauguration of President McKinley early this month and in an interview with the President Mrs. Titus extended him an invitation to visit Quincy while in Massachusetts in June.

She went further. She saw Secretary Long and urged him to include Quincy in the itinerary for the President's trip, and the Secretary promised to do so if possible.

The thoughtfulness of the regent of Adams chapter will undoubtedly receive the hearty endorsement of the members of the chapter at the April meeting next Monday, and preliminary arrangements made to entertain the distinguished guests who will be in the Presidential party.

The invitation of the Daughters should be promptly supplemented by one from the Mayor and City Council of Quincy, and at the same time the preliminary steps might be taken for an old-time Fourth of July celebration.

If President McKinley comes to the City of Presidents, he will be here either July 3, 4 or 5.

Quincy has many sites of historic interest, as will be seen by the partial list which follows:

BIRTHPLACE JOHN ADAMS.
Franklin street, Quincy Adams, house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

BIRTHPLACE JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.
Junction of Franklin street. Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN.
Penns hill, erected June 17, 1896, by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the memory of Abigail Adams, who with her son John Quincy, from the spot watched the smoke of battle at Bunker Hill. Cairn composed of many historic stones, the corner stone being part of old sleeper of first railroad in United States which ran from Quincy quarries to tide water, Neponset river.

BURIAL PLACE OF PRESIDENTS ADAMS.
First Congregational Church (Unitarian), Quincy center. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. In cellar is old town house, also box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams. At extreme end, under front steps are the vaults of the presidents, a massive stone door closing the entrance. Janitor can be found at Savings Bank building or at his home Maple place. No fee charged, but janitor may be paid for his trouble.

HANCOCK CEMETERY.
Hancock street, across from First Church. Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. John Hancock, father of the Patriot, who died May 7, 1744. Was fifth minister of First Church.

PRESIDENTS ADAMS MANSION.
Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

PRESIDENTS LANE.
Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE.
Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born.

MYLES STANDISH CAIRN.
Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here in 1621 while exploring the coast.

SQUAW ROCK.
Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

MYLES STANDISH SPRING.
On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish quenched his thirst, and carried a supply to the boat.

DOROTHY Q. HOUSE.
Maccock street, corner Butler road, Quincy.

Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q. was born. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Private home, not open to public.

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in 1826; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished; also the big ship yard now established at Quincy Point.

Brig. Gen. Whitney.
Col. J. H. Whitney of the Fifth regiment successfully passed muster Wednesday, and an order will issue today for the assignment of Gen. Whitney to command of the Second Brigade. Gen. Bancroft may then retire from the service at the head of the Military Examining Board.

It is but natural to suppose and it would be entirely justifiable that Gen. Whitney should like to take his entire brigade into camp at South Framingham next summer, in which case the proposed regimental camp of the Eighth Infantry might be reasonably deferred to another year.

Everybody apparently in the Second Brigade is very happy in the result, and the Assistant Adjutant General of the Second Brigade, it is believed, will go almost without question to Gen. Whitney's devoted Adjutant of the Fifth, Capt. Elmore E. Locke of Malden, who was all through the Spanish war with the General in his service.

Lieut. Col. Oakes is now in command of the Fifth Infantry, which is now an interesting centre for the succession of Gen. Whitney to the Colonels. Lieut. Col. William H. Oakes and Maj. Murray D. Clements of Waltham are the leading candidates, with Capt. Willis W. Stover for Major or Colonel as the situation may develop.

Probate Business.
At the session of the Norfolk County Probate court at Dedham, Wednesday, wills were allowed on estate of E. D. Wadsworth of Milton; Samuel Gannett, executor; bond $50,000; estate of F. H. Russell of Quincy; Lizzie C. Russell executrix; bond $10,000. Administration was granted Mary A. Pope on the estate of H. A. Pope, Milton, bond $5,000.

The Missing Turk.
Sarah Bernhardt was once playing at Marseilles in a spectacular play in which she made her entrance accompanied by six Turkish slaves. A line on the programme announced that these six Turks would accompany Mme. Bernhardt, but when the time came for them to go on one of the youngsters had disappeared. Sarah mustered the five in order and made her entrance with a grand flourish. The house was crowded, but not a hand clapped her as she appeared. Then a still, small voice in the gallery murmured something in an indignant tone. Fifty voices immediately took up the strain, and in ten seconds more the whole house was shouting the same phrase.

Bernhardt strained every nerve to catch what they were complaining about. She knew the phrase began with "Manque," but the rest of it was lost in the general hubbub. For a full minute the tumult continued. Then Sarah, muttering things below her breath, rushed like a fury down to the footlights. In the front row the actress had spotted one man who was not taking part in the hubbub. Pointing at him, the actress exclaimed sternly: "You seem to be the only sensible person in the house. Tell me what on earth they are kicking up this row for?"

The man rose, bowed to the actress and remarked in very bad American-French, "Madame, you are shy one Turk."

General Greene's Discipline.
General Francis Vinton Greene was one of the strictest disciplinarians in all the army that went out to fight Spain. He was in command of the Seventy-first regiment, N. G. N. Y., at Camp Black, near Hempstead, N. Y.

As the regiment was breaking camp on the way to the front an old gentleman interrupted General Greene, who was talking with the writer.

"Sir," he said, "will you grant a brief leave of absence to Mr. Blank, a private in this regiment? He is the son of the late Colonel Blank of the army. His mother is dying, and she is asking for her boy. He will join his command at Tampa."

"I am very sorry, sir," replied General Greene, "but it will be impossible to deviate in any case from the rule by which we are all bound. My own father lies dying at home, yet I cannot go to him."

And General Greene, as a matter of fact, did not for many weeks see his father, who died before the Spanish war was ended.

A Card.
We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

AN ARREST MADE.

And Some Property Recently Stolen Recovered.

Charles N. Perkins Held in $1,400 Bonds.

The Brooks Adams Burglary One of the Counts Against Him.

Charles N. Perkins, aged 19 years, a well known young man of East Milton was arrested Wednesday, for breaking and entering and larceny. There have been three breaks at East Milton within the past few days and the officers believe that Perkins is one of the gang that had a hand in them. The first break was in J. E. Quimby's drug store, where $4 in money, cigars and articles were taken. Then the house of A. B. Crocker was entered and silver and other articles to the value of $140 was carried off. Then came the break this week at East Milton depot, where a penny slot machine was cleaned out. While these breaks were fresh in the minds of the Milton police there came the break in the Brooks Adams estate at Quincy. Goods to the value of nearly if not fully $500 were taken here, although for good reasons it was published that but little had been taken.

The Milton police had their suspicions directed to Perkins, and on Wednesday he was arrested, and was fully identified by the Boston pawnbroker to whom he had sold articles. Later Perkins' room on Bulfinch street, Boston, was searched, and many of the articles taken from the Brooks Adams house were found.

The police also recovered at pawnshops many of the articles stolen in Milton.

The three overcoats, fur lined opera cloak, and sealskin cloak taken from the Brooks Adams house were not recovered.

Perkins acknowledged breaking into the Brooks Adams house, but claimed that his chum who accompanied him on his expeditions, had in turn stolen the overcoats from him and had disappeared.

Perkins was arraigned in the Quincy court this morning upon three complaints, and was held in $1400 for the grand jury.

Boy and Cash Missing.

James Mitchell, the 16 year old son of James Mitchell of 147 Water street, is reported as missing as well as $34 of Mr. Mitchell's in cash. It is said that the Mitchell boy and a boy named Everson of Cranich hill were seen to take a train for Boston Wednesday noon. The affair was reported to the police.

Now is the Time.

If you wish to save your fruit or ornamental trees from canker worms, caterpillars, and other crawling insects now's the time. As the frost comes out of the ground the insects start, and a little labor now will destroy thousands. Morrill's tree ink or canker worm exterminator, is the best thing to use. For sale in small cans at this office.

A Terrible Death Record

Calcutta, March 28.—Eight thousand people died of the plague last week in Bengal alone, including Calcutta. Whole towns are being deserted. There is, however, no panic.

Scarlet seems the color most conspicuously in bright sunshine, and scarlet flowers are commonest in dry and sunny climates, where their color gives them an advantage in their struggle with other flowers for the attention of butterflies and other pollen-bearers.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the Grippe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease; get a bottle today and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose, lungs free from inflammation. All drug-gests sell KEMP'S BALSAM at 25c. and 50c.

Children's Corner.

Teach the Child to Love Nature.

If nature be the teacher, we need never fear that children have become pupils too soon, because here is not a cramming method. Every little mind brought in contact with her is filled incessantly with knowledge, it is true, yet as freely as the air is drawn into the lungs and fills them, giving with each respiration new vigor and life, even so does Dame Nature impart her instruction to the mind. Often she may require a preceptor. Let us not fail to be that preceptor, and show the children how her book always lies open before them, waiting to be read, filled from cover to cover with every living, growing thing about; and that nothing is too insignificant to find a place among the pages. If they become well acquainted with her, they will love her, and will have gained besides a knowledge which will never be forgotten, nor relegated to the attics of the brain on account of disuse. In view of this, would it not be wise to let the children give up the first seven or eight years of their lives to the tutelage of nature alone?—Gertrude Okie Gaskell in the April Woman's Home Companion.

Drift of Opinion.

"England doesn't want a war with Russia at least, not until she has completed her present engagement, which is gradually developing into a continuous performance."—New York Mail and Express.

"Weymouth has voted to spend no money this year in street lights of any kind. Reason—they cost too much, or at least, a majority of the voters think they do. If they stick to their belief it will be a wonder."—New Bedford Standard.

"The czar is having a choice line of riots at home to attend to, and the whole truth concerning them is not known in the outside world. The Russian censorship is a continuous performance, and has no sympathy with the public thirst for knowledge."—Springfield Republican.

"Young men, there are three things I want to impress on you regarding the trusts. They are, firstly, perilous to independence; secondly, perilous to the state, and, thirdly, perilous to freedom of speech. How many United States senators are there who would get up and oppose legislation affecting the great steel combine and two other trusts I might mention? You have heard of government by injunction, but if we don't look out we will have government by trusts."—Dr. Lorimer.

"The golfers who wish the privilege of playing on Sunday contend that there is no more evil in Sunday golf than there is in bicycling or in driving on the Lord's day. From this point of view there is a certain speciousness in the contention, for golf is essentially a game, and without a contest would be as tame as a game of solitaire, while wheeling and driving are entirely lacking in any of the elements of a contest. This however, does not mean that golfers ought not to be permitted to play on Sunday. Reasonable people have no wish to place difficulties in the way of all rational enjoyment, and golf may well come under this head. But neither is there any wish to establish in this state what is known as a Continental Sunday, and it would appear that certain suggested restrictions in Sunday golf playing would be steps in the right direction."—Beverly Times.

"Burns revealed to mankind the dignity of humility. His heart went out to the poor peasant because of his poverty. He never doffed his bonnet in reverence to any man because of his accidents. He never seemed to have had a taste for grandeur, whether physical or social. The sublime objects of art or nature, the cloud-rapt towers, the gorgeous palaces, the solemn temples, the everlasting sea, the mountain summits, the splendor of courts, the pride, pomp and circumstance of glorious war did not stir him to poetical utterance. The field mouse whose nest his furrow had laid bare, the daisy his plow had torn up by the roots, the cottage, the country alehouse, the humble thistle spreading wide among the bearded bear, the peasant and the peasant girl, the weaver by the mother's knee, were the things, dear to him. These were his inspirations. The strength of weakness, the wealth of poverty the glory of humility are what he came into the world to teach mankind."—Senator Hoar in Boston.

Our Secondary Schools.

Dr. Everett and Rev. E. C. Butler are the respective chairmen of the Adams academy and Woodward Institute.

In Brockton Too.

The Brockton Enterprise reports that no small children will be taken into the public schools this spring. Supt. Russell giving as a reason that the appropriation will not allow the necessary expense for extra teachers. The number of teachers usually required because of this practice in the past, is from two to three. This will be unwelcome news, says the Enterprise to many citizens who have been intending to start their little ones during the spring term, which is considered the best time for small children, and there have already been several complaints regarding the matter made to the Enterprise.

NEW WORK SHOP.

Water Department Utilizing Old Pumping Station.

Appropriately Dedicated
With a Banquet.

Supt. Gleason Popular with Ladies
as Well as Men.

As has been stated the water pumping station at South Quincy is now being used by the Water department as a shop. Work making the necessary changes has been in progress for several weeks under the direction of Commissioner Knowlton and J. F. Gleason, superintendent of the department.

Supt. Gleason feels proud of his new shop and he has good reason to be, for it is one of the best in the State.

Thursday the young ladies, who perform the clerical work at City Hall, and who are naturally more or less interested in every department, accepted Mr. Gleason's invitation to inspect the new shop. Hardly had the hammer of the old Town clock ceased striking the hour of four, when carriages drew up in front of City Hall, and a few minutes later the carriages containing their precious freight were on their way toward South Quincy.

Aside from the clerical force mentioned, Commissioner Knowlton, Mrs. Knowlton, and City Engineer Flood went along as chaperons.

Arriving at the station they were received by Supt. Gleason, who took them about the building and showed them everything of interest.

The new stable, which has been built onto the building, was first visited. This contains four stalls and a box stall. Everything was as neat as wax, and even the most precise could find no flaw in the furnishings.

Then the other rooms were visited. The neat box racks, containing couplets and other things of a like nature used in the department. They were shown how water meters were tested; the neat racks containing wrenches of all kinds; the instruments used in tapping water mains, and in fact every thing of interest.

Everything was neat and clean and the brass shone like gold. It was an object lesson in neatness to the young ladies, in case they contemplated assuming the higher duties, incumbent upon matrimonial life.

Suddenly a door was opened and the voice of Supt. Gleason was heard to say: "Come up here and see my office." Up they went and as they entered, a very pretty lunch table greeted the eye, which had been prepared and was presided over by Mrs. Gleason. The table was arranged in the centre of the office and was prettily decorated with roses and jonquils.

Wraps were laid aside and as the young ladies arranged themselves about the table a beautiful picture was presented, one beyond the descriptive powers of the writer, one which only an artist could fittingly describe. The lunch served by Mr. and Mrs. Gleason included salads, sandwiches, coffee, ices and cake. At the conclusion of the lunch each guest was presented with a rose bud. With one exception no attempt was made at speechmaking.

At 5.30 three musical cheers were given for Mr. and Mrs. Gleason and carriages were taken for home.

As a whole it was a very pleasant and pretty affair, one that the young ladies, as well as the gentlemen fortunate enough to be present, will not soon forget.

The upper part of the building is occupied by James Young, one of the inspectors, and at night several of the employees sleep in the building, ready to answer any emergency call.

The Magazines.

There is a general complaint among the granite manufacturers because they can not get rough stock as fast as they want it. The quarrymen say the trouble is that everybody waited until the last minute before ordering, and then they all rushed their orders in. The result is that someone is bound to wait.

A FAIRY SCENE.

Brilliant Reception by Miss Corlew's Dancing Classes.

The crowning event of the dancing school classes of Miss Corlew, held during the winter at Colonial hall, was the grand reception or ball given at Music hall last evening. It was likewise the prettiest party of the many which this successful teacher has given, because of the universal prevalence of light dresses in light shades which harmonized beautifully.

Miss Corlew was herself charming in a lemon colored silk trimmed with lavender and lace, and a huge bouquet of violets with ribbon streamers. She wore conspicuously a beautiful belt clasp set with jewels presented by the classes.

Mrs. Byner, the accomplished pianist, was remembered with the complete poetical works of Browning. Both were also remembered with flowers.

The matrons were Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee, Mrs. Sylvester Brown, Mrs. George H. Hitchcock, Mrs. Frank S. Patch, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott and Mrs. W. H. Fay, but the last mentioned was seated with a friend. The matrons were directly in front of platform.

Miss Corlew received the pupils near the centre of the hall as they entered, being assisted by Master Ralph Austin and Master Raymond Hall, and the courtesies and bows in greeting at once impressed the large audience that the pupils had been well trained in etiquette.

Fond parents, grandparents, aunts and friends of the pupils occupied two rows of seats around the hall, but these were not sufficient, and others were upon the platform and in the balcony. The inner row of seats around the hall was reserved for the pupils, and there were enough to completely circle the hall.

The pupils showed great proficiency in the varied program of dances, not excepting the very smallest children who have this winter attended dancing school for the first time. The dances included the waltz, two step, Lanciers, Berlin, Portland Fancy, Minuets and Germans. The minutet by the Saturday afternoon class was particularly pleasing, but probably the prettiest dance was the garland figure of the Germans.

The program closed with a grand march, and then a prettily decorated table laden with ices was brought in, and the pupils were served by Hendrie. The pupils of the three classes included:

Ethel Swift, Raymond Hall, Ben Weeden, Marion Weeden, Ralph Austin, Russell Hall, Kenneth Hall, Joseph Lincoln, Helen Lincoln, Raymond Coyle, Ethel Thomas, Allison Marsh, Carl Marsh, Gladys Parker, Mabel Lovejoy, Harris Dexter, Eleanor Wheeler, Muriel Badger, Henry Prescott, Albert Prescott, Cony Holyoke, Charles Holyoke, John Curtis, Arnold Curtis, Charles Curtis.

Morton Smith, Frank Bishop, Grace Bishop, Corinne Barbour, Foster Hitchcock, Gertrude Sayward, Evelyn Cummings, Helen Sprague, Bathurst Sprague, Winnifred White, Roscoe Ricker, Homer Morrison, Avenel Sprout, Carl Prescott, Harold Curtis, Marion Johnson, Marguerite Davis, Allan Arnold, Hannah Liebfield, Marjorie Fay, Dorothy Fay, George Brown, Mollie Brown, Richard Pattee, Grace Spear, Lyndon Hardwick, Thomas Hardwick, Huntington Hardwick.

THE REASON WHY.

Devout she sits within her pew,
A vision fair, with eyes of blue,
A face divine, serenely sweet
In calm repose, content complete;
Her thoughts must dwell above the skies
Within the pale of paradise.

The mighty music fills her soul,
As through the church its echoes roll;
And the thought that worships there
She sits, devout in peace and prayer
And perfect bliss; for, though you search,
She has the finest hat in church.

UNCLE MECK'S "GOSLIN"

AN EASTER STORY
BY ELI SHEPPERD

ON A bright Saturday in April Uncle Meck and Aunt Rebekah walked down the big road to town.

Jo-Jim, the adopted son of this old couple, despite their injunctions, played ill conditioned pranks along the way. In Aunt Rebekah's white oak splint basket were ten dozen eggs, nicely packed in cotton seed, with a bit of lint cotton on top.

With this she counted on buying many delicacies to add to an Easter feast, mainly to be furnished by a basket from Tolstone House. That never failing Easter basket would contain a turkey, flanked with jams and "lightnin bread" and real "white folks' cake." Master and mistress never forgot these old quondam slaves at Easter.

But at the first store of the short row of village shops Rebekah came to fear that she could not get even the moderate price of 10 cents a dozen for the eggs she carried, for there she saw what she had never seen before, a gorgeous supply of eggs—red, yellow, purple, blue, gold, and never a plain white one among them.

"For goodness' sake, Meck, what sorter eggs is dem?" exclaimed the old woman. "They are Easter eggs. The Easter hen laid them," explained the young clerk facetiously.

"You don't say! Not des one hen, sir? You hear dat, Meck! Des one hen. Do she hatch also?"

"Well, not often. She usually rests up till another Easter."

"Well, she need to."

"Can't I sell you some?"

A gleam lit up Meck's dim old eyes as he drew his wife aside to whisper:

"Boot leg blue hen want set, Rebekah."

"Per true!" exclaimed Rebekah.

"Swap yo' eggs for some of dem, Rebekah."

"Even swap?"

"Is you crazy? Dozen fer one and be glad."

"What 'bout de other things us wuz gwine buy?"

"Ain't what marse sends a'n'a 'nough and mo'?"

So Rebekah offered the exchange of a dozen for one. The clerk made the bargain and, perhaps pricked in conscience at so manifestly unfair a trade, threw in an extra one—a great white egg with just a tiny blue flower drawn here and there on its surface.

At home, in their little daubed log cabin, they carefully handled the eggs. Meck raised the large one gingerly: "Dis must be de last of de litter, hit so different from de rest. Hit's clearer dan de others too."

In fact, it was the only raw one of the number, the only one whose pores were not thick with dye.

With every precaution the boot leg blue was "set."

There were two treasures now to be guarded from the prying proclivities of Jo-Jim—the nest of many colored eggs and a certain strong box chained to the leg of the old four post bed in the cabin.

Even since the little scamp could remember he had tried to find out how that box got there and what was in it, but old Rebekah did not herself know.

If Meck knew its contents, he had never told either Rebekah or Jo-Jim. Old master had given it to his trusted slave to keep till young master needed it most. This box, this injunction and an old blunderbuss of a pistol had been given to old Meck.

Three weeks had passed and no sign of a chick, another week and yet another. Then, just as the boot leg blue was beginning to distrust the laws of nature—

CARRYING THE GOSLIN.

"Peep, peep!" And out of the great white egg with blue flowers on it came a downy something!

The creature was surrounded with every precaution from the first hour of its hatching. It grew amazingly, but proved to be no Easter hen—only a gosling, and a gander at that!

The old people, though disappointed, yet loved it, and when in time it grew to be an old, pink eyed, snow white gander it manifested in its turn a strange devotion for Meck.

Meantime the adopted child, Jo-Jim, had grown up lazy, ill contrived, ungrateful. He had stolen money from Colonel Tolstone, who, for the sake of the good old people, had refrained from committing the boy to be sentenced to the penitentiary.

Jo-Jim was given to wandering off. He had in his last wandering away staid two whole years, and all this time Meck felt that the strong box chained to the bedpost was safer than when Jo-Jim had been about the cabin.

It was Easter eve now, and no turkey had yet come from Tolstone House. The old people felt forsaken and forlorn as they shivered under their smoldering logs.

It was the first time master had forgotten them since the surrender, and now they needed help badly.

Now and then in his misery Meck looked furtively and uneasily toward the box chained to the bedpost. The guardianship of the box had grown heavier year by year, yet he felt that he must be true to his word to old master and not give it over to young master, who was now himself 58 years old, until he should plainly need it most. But Meck had reasons of his own for being very anxious to deliver to master that strong box. Meck recalled with grief and fear Jo-Jim's never allayed curiosity concerning the contents of the box. He sighed a great deal by his fireside and kept his old pistol loaded.

Dusk was settling down when tramping hoofs roused the old couple by the fire, and then at last came the long looked for basket from Tolstone House.

"But such a small basket!"

"You see," said the boy who brought the basket, "times is hard wid us. Been gettin hard a long time. Us ain't got a turkey ourselves. Sold all our turkeys to git Mr. Lewis home from de college at Sewanee. He gotter go to clerking at Mr. Jenkins' store in town at $10 a month. De ole place gwine be sold mortgage sale next month. I'm leavin next week. Colonel say he ain't able to keep no servants."

Leaving the poor little present, a package of tea crackers and a robin pie, the boy was off before the old people had roused themselves from the shock of his news.

Real want at Tolstone House! The place was their ideal of all that was rich, beautiful and generous. They both sat silent awhile, casting solicitous glances at the robin pie and tea cakes.

There was a long pause, then Rebekah said, "A young, tender goose ain't bad eatin'."

Now, though Easter, as they called him, might, as the ages of geese go, be expected to have many a year before him, yet he could by no means be called young and tender, but so he seemed to these fond old people.

"For young master's sake," murmured Meck, tenderly stroking the gander's white head as Easter hissed softly and upturned a questioning pink-stained eye.

"Us can put him 'live in a basket and start by soon daylight."

"I must carry dat box to young master."

"You tote de box. I'll tote de goslin."

Latterly Meck's uneasiness over the box had kept him wakeful, but that night the knowledge that he was so soon to get rid of the great responsibility acted like a sedative on the weary old brain.

Old Rebekah, however, kept awake as long as the pet of the household remained restless, and it was late ere she, too, sank into heavy slumber.

But at midnight both old people were shaken roughly from their slumbers by a loud note of terror from Easter. "Dat's dat gander! Kill him," said a muffled voice in the cabin.

Instantly Meck snatched the old pistol from his pillow and cocked it with a loud click.

"Lord, have mercy on me," groaned Meck, "but if you was my own son I'd kill you if you got dat box. If I don't see you git empty handed out dat do' 'fo' I count three, you is a dead nigger fer sho'."

Then Aunt Rebekah screamed louder than Easter, and the two cowardly thieves made a dash for the door. As they leaped out the two old people saw that one was their scapegrace, their sorrow, Jo-Jim.

Meck made fast the door again. Easter hissed in exultation. The rest of the night they sat by the hearth guarding their trust. Next morning at dawn the old couple were off, laden with box, basket and blunderbuss. The sweet April air was all astir with flight and fluttering of bird wings. The fence corners were blue with wild violets. The golden bells of the jasmine sweetened every swamp and field.

At last the white pillars of Tolstone House came in sight. The poor old people were admitted, and Rebekah presented her gift—Easter.

Easter behaved very handsomely. He turned up one bright eye on the master, the other on the mistress, who wept at the gift of her former slave. Master, too, must wipe his glasses. Meck put the box on the table before the colonel. From his neck he took the key on its leather string. Old master had given it to him long years before, when the now staid old colonel was a wild spendthrift.

After much ado it opened. The lid was lifted. The glow of gold and the sparkle of jewels shone before the amazed eyes.

A yellow letter told a part of the story. The colonel's recollections of his early escapades filled up any blanks.

"And Easter save us all dat money," cried Rebekah, and she reiterated the story of how the sagacious gander had awakened them in the night.

"Easter shall never be eaten," declared mistress. Indeed, Easter's age had already given bond that he should never be eaten with pleasure.

So it came about that the colonel's young son visited a home of rejoicing instead of one of sorrow.

The two old people went but once more to their cabin in the lonely swamp, and then only to move all their belongings to a house of their own in sight of Tolstone Place, a gift of young master.—New York Evening Post.

An Easter Scene.

Sunlight poured through polished panes upon a well scoured floor. The odor of chemicals filled the air. Down a long room stretched a row of white iron beds. On a cot lay a child whose face was as pale as the lime washed walls. In one blue veined hand the youngster held a flower—a flower once a bud under the Bermuda sky.

"I've seen them before," the child was saying. "I used to see them in the windows of the shops where they make them."

All day the lily stood in a slender vase at the head of the cot. When the night came and the lights burned low that long, white room, the lily bent tenderly over the face of the sleeping child.

The Feast of Easter.

The name Easter is derived, as some suppose, from Easte, the title of a Saxon deity whose feast was celebrated every year in the spring about the same time as the Christian festival, the name being retained when the character of the feast was changed, or, as others suppose, from Oster, which signifies rising. If the latter supposition be correct, Easter is in name as well as reality the feast of the resurrection.

The kings of England had a custom on Good Friday of hallowing rings with much ceremony, the wearers of which would not be afflicted with the falling sickness, epilepsy.

A TWO FAMILY HOUSE.

Soon Pays For Itself—Costs $5,000 to Build Complete.

(Copyright, 1901, by George Hitchings, architect, 1099 21st Avenue, Brooklyn.)

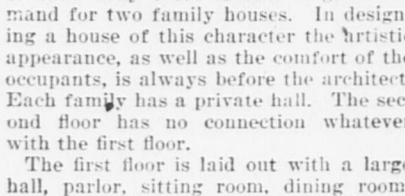

I find the demand for two family houses growing greater every day for the simple reason that they are built with the appearance of a single family dwelling and at the same time are paying for themselves. Where can one invest his money better than in a good two family house?

FRONT ELEVATION.

in a good neighborhood? A house similar to the one herewith presented can be built for $3,800. Place this building on a plot to cost $1,200, making a total cost of $5,000. The building will rent for $200 per month, and there you are with a piece of property netting you 12 per cent on the investment. Now, this just goes to show why there is such a great demand for two family houses. In designing a house of this character the architect, as well as the comfort of the occupants, is always before the architect. Each family has a private hall. The second floor has no connection whatever with the first floor.

The first floor is laid out with a large hall, parlor, sitting room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and a bath. There is a dumb waiter for each family, back of the stairway, running from cellar to attic.

The second floor has one more room over the vestibule. The attic has two servants' rooms and two storerooms. The cellar is divided off in two parts, each part containing a separate furnace, coal bins, etc., the floors of which are concreted. Each family has also a separate piazza. The rooms are all large and well ventilated. The parlor is 14 feet 8 inches by 15 feet 4 inches, with a large bay window finishing it off in the form of a tower above the roof.

The underpinning is of rock faced bluestone, and the superstructure is frame. The roof is covered with cedar shingles.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The exterior is most pleasing to the eye. It has a shingle gable roof, with dormer windows and a well proportioned tower.

The second story is covered with shingles and has a large balcony over the whole piazza. The first story is covered with white pine bevel siding. The front doors are one panel bevel plate glass. Dimensions—front, 31 feet, including bay window, and 54 feet deep, not including piazza.

HOME MATTERS.

Always keep butter in earthenware or stoneware and in a cool place.

A slice of ripe tomato rubbed on ink stains on a white cloth or the hands will remove the stains.

For your windows use kerosene for polishing. Nothing else will make them shine so brightly.

The teapot requires to be washed out and fully dried each time after use as carefully as any jug or cup if good tea is to be had.

A dirty silk umbrella will be greatly improved by sponging, when opened, with a little beer, which should be slightly warmed.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 31—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Missions: Love of souls.—Rom. x, 1.

Paul, the greatest of missionaries, loved all men. He loved the gentiles and gave his life for their conversion. Paul loved the Jew, his countryman. In Rom. ix, 3, 4, he says, "I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh, who are Israelites." No more patriotic sentiment was ever expressed. In the typical inference his love for and interest in the Jews is again set forth, for he says, "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved."

The secret of Paul's love for all men lay in the fact that he recognized the great truth that all men are "brethren" in Jesus Christ. Paul earnestly and practically believed in the fatherhood of God and in the brotherhood of man. If ever we would become great missionaries, if ever we would have a burning love of souls, these great truths must be burned into our souls. All men naturally are not lovable. All men naturally are not attractive. Many would repel and repulse were it not for the fact that Christianity makes all men brethren. Christianity breaks down all barriers between men. It recognizes no classes and no caste systems. This brotherhood in the fatherhood of God and in the brotherhood of Christ makes it possible for us to love all men, and we must love men if we would save their souls. Without love it is impossible to lead a soul to Christ. An intellectual interest, a financial interest in unsaved humanity is not enough. If we succeed, it must be a heart interest—our "hearts' desire."

Paul's love for men made him earnestly desire their salvation. This was natural and logical. We covet the best gifts for those whom we love. Salvation is the best gift. Therefore if we truly love our countrymen, if we truly love mankind, our hearts' desire will be for their salvation. It is not enough to be interested in the physical and mental welfare of men. We must be interested in their souls. It is not enough to try to advance them industrially and socially. We must desire their moral and spiritual elevation and improvement.

Paul's love of souls and his desire for their salvation led to practical endeavors to bring about their salvation. As a result of his heart's desire for Israel's salvation he prayed that they might be saved. "My heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is that they might be saved." Men usually try to realize that which they intensely desire. If therefore it is our heart's desire that all men should be saved, we should try to bring about such a result. We should pray to God for the salvation of men, for "who can forgive sin but God only?" We should give liberally of our means that missionaries may be sent to those who do not have the gospel, for "how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard, and how shall they hear without a preacher?" Believing that all men are brethren in Jesus Christ, loving all men as brethren, let us earnestly desire and strive to bring about the salvation of all men.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

This would be an opportune occasion for a "home missionary meeting." Paul was a "Jew" and desired "Israel's" salvation. As Americans we should desire the salvation of Americans. Make a special study of the un-Christianized of our land—the Indians, Mormons, colored people of the south, the unevangelized masses of our great cities, the mountain whites and the Filipinos.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. iii, 7; Jonah iii, 1-10; Nah. i, 15; Math. xxviii, 19, 20; Luke xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; Acts i, 1-8; Rom. i, 14-17; ix, 1-5; 1 John iv, 19-21.

It Does Matter.

Occasionally I hear some one say with a pious air, "It doesn't matter what people think of me; I know my heart is right." Ah, my friend, but it does matter. Let me give you an illustration: In sight of my office window is a church tower. On each of the three sides there is a clock face. On one of these one of the hands has been broken, making the old clock tell strange tales. Of course there are people who do not understand the circumstances and are therefore misled by it. At heart the old clock is all right, but that doesn't alter the seriousness of the fact that people have been late in meeting their engagements and have missed their trains because the face is not an index of that which it covers.—Outlook.

Friendship.

Friendship is the cradle of love. The distinction between love and friendship is one of degree. When the new wine becomes old we call it by another name. There can be no love devoid of friendship and no friendship which does not involve the possibility of love further on. The greater must always include the less, just as the bud is a part of every flower. As love is not ever susceptible of analysis, neither is friendship. Why two men should be known as friends may be a mystery even to themselves. The tie that binds them together is invisible. They know the fact and but little else.—Presbyterian Journal.

I'm tired of this greivous land;
I've tiahed of de lonely yash;

THE TAGALOG LEADER

Receives Attention at a Meeting of the Cabinet

TRANSPORTATION FAVORED

As the Best Means For Avoiding His Posing as a Martyr—Funston Likely to Be Made a Brigadier General in the Regular Army

Washington, March 30.—At the cabinet meeting yesterday the bulk of the discussion was on Aguinaldo's capture and its sequel. The view of the majority of the cabinet was that the time is not yet ripe to decide what course should be pursued in the disposition of Aguinaldo.

It is felt by administration officials that some little time should elapse to permit an opportunity to deliberate carefully over what course would prove the wisest, whether he can be of any service to the United States government by remaining at Manila and exerting his influence in the direction of peace, whether it would be dangerous to permit him to remain so close to the field of insurrectionary activity, or whether even it would be best to send him among the other insurgent prisoners on the island of Guam.

There is no disposition to deal other than leniently with him, but there are various questions that will have to be considered in the case, as, for instance, whether he personally instigated assassinations of Americans and similar offenses, which some of the members of the cabinet think should call for some penalty.

It cannot be too emphatically stated that the administration will avoid giving the captured leader any basis for posing as a martyr. The matter of transporting him to Guam will receive serious consideration. One senator who called at the White House suggested to the president the advisability of transporting Aguinaldo to some place like Tutuila, in the Samoan group. It was pointed out he would be in a climate of which he could make no complaint. The trend of views as expressed by the cabinet indicated that ultimate transportation to some place of confinement outside of the Philippines was the course most likely to be adopted.

The question as to how General Funston will be rewarded for his services in capturing the head and front of the Philippine insurrection continues to be a topic of discussion in all official circles.

In view of General MacArthur's specific recommendation, endorsed by General Wheaton, that General Funston be appointed a brigadier general in the regular army, there seems to be no doubt in well-informed quarters that the president will meet promptly the popular demand in this matter, and appoint General Funston to one of the existing vacancies in the list of brigadier generals.

The only objection made to such action is that it would shut out all officers of the army below the grade of brigadier general from possible appointment to the head of the army.

If appointed, he would be the youngest general officer in the army, and it is prominently made by seniority he eventually would become the lieutenant general, and hold that office for many years, but under the law, the president selects all the general officers, and is not even confined to the army in making them. The same wide range of selection also applies to the lieutenant general, notwithstanding the popular impression that the senior major general legally is entitled to the promotion. It appears, therefore, that General Funston's appointment as a brigadier general would not necessarily mean his enforced promotion to the head of the army in consequence of the retirement of officers now his superiors in rank. Whether his advancement would be slow or rapid would depend altogether upon the wishes of the chief executive.

Insurgent Cause Weakened. Manila, March 30.—After being convinced of Aguinaldo's capture, General Geronimo, the insurgent leader in the province of Morong, Luzon, has surrendered with six officers, 46 men and 50 rifles to Colonel Thompson. As the news of Aguinaldo's capture spreads through the archipelago, the insurgents are becoming disheartened and there is a marked increase in the number of individual surrenders. General Calles, who is practically outlawed on account of his atrocious crimes, has sent an emissary to General Bates, who answered that he must surrender unconditionally and stand trial.

Batch of Students Released. St. Petersburg, March 30.—Forty-one students who were arrested for participation in a student meeting have been released. They spent one week in solitary confinement. Under the law the 1119 prisoners taken into custody recently on account of political demonstrations must be released within a month, unless their prosecution has legally begun before the expiration of that time. Several of the students have committed suicide.

YOUTHFUL BURGLARS

Claim to Have Worked Under the Direction of a Tutor

Somerville, Mass., March 30.—An alleged modern Fagan was taken into custody yesterday by the Somerville police. Three of his pupils, self-confessed criminals, were placed under arrest and their confessions implicated their alleged tutor. The boys are Vasco Silva, 15; W. J. Gallagher, 16; and Christopher Martin, 16.

Sunday night the confectionery store of John P. West was broken into and candy and bakery articles valued at $10 were taken.

On the same night the same parties forced an entrance to the bakery of Miss O'Neil. After a window had been forced open, a pair of solid and securely fastened heavy wooden shutters were encountered, and after working fruitlessly in the endeavor to pry them open, they became frightened and gave up the attempt.

The police suspected that the boys did the work, and Thursday evening a patrolman located three boys in Mr. West's store, commiserating him on his loss of property last Sunday night and drawing him out as to the details of the break. They were taken to the station house, where they confessed. They said that they had been incited to crime by Taylor. They told of their acquaintance with him; how he had planned the jobs, alleging that there was no fear of detection.

They said that Taylor procured a jimmy and instructed them how to use it. They followed his instructions and entrance was comparatively easy. They say that while they were working on the inside Taylor stood guard on the outside.

The information they gave Patrolman Carter was not the first he had received implicating Taylor. The man was arrested while asleep in the layoff of a barn. He gave his age as 22. He said that for several years he had been at work in the navy, serving as a fireman, and he claims to have been in the affair at Santiago. He pleaded not guilty, and was held for the grand jury in $100 on each count. The boys will be arraigned at a juvenile session of the court.

Terrible Turk Wins Two Bouts

Boston, March 30.—Nonpareil, the "terrible Turk," proved more than a match for the two heavyweight wrestlers, Lundin, the Swedish champion, and John Smith of Brooklyn, who were pitted against him in a wrestling tournament here last night. The Turk handled both his opponents with comparative ease, and secured both bouts by his superior strength.

Brady's Innocence Established

Boston, March 30.—James H. Brady, a former postal clerk in the Boston office, was found not guilty of the charge of taking letters addressed to Henry Parker, "the lucky box man," who is a fugitive from justice, by a federal jury yesterday afternoon. It was his second trial, the previous one having brought a disagreement.

Board of Arbitration at Work

Ipswich, Mass., March 30.—On the surface the strike at the Ipswich mills does not appear to be any nearer a settlement. Whether or not the state board of arbitration will succeed in its efforts to bring about a settlement is still in doubt, but the members of the board are working hard to accomplish that result.

Best Expected a Disagreement

Salem, Mass., March 30.—John G. Best, convicted of the murder of George E. Bailey, has nothing to say in regard to the finding of the jury, except that he was very much surprised, as he expected a disagreement. He still maintains the cool, collected appearance that characterized him all through the trial.

A Dull Foreign Trade

Nashua, March 30.—The Indian Head Manufacturing company is building several large additional storehouses, to hold its surplus product. Officials of the company state that unless China and other eastern markets open soon the factory will have to shut down for a time this summer.

Jones' Hearing Hangs Fire

Middlebury, Vt., March 30.—There is talk of habeas corpus proceedings to get Nelson Jones out of jail until he is given a hearing on the charge of the murder of Ida Fosburgh of Shoreham. The outlook now is that the hearing will not be called before the last of next week.

Girl's Mother the Complainant

Chelsea, Mass., March 30.—Charles E. Smith, a widower, aged 52, and Alice M. Hewes, aged 17, who left Chelsea under conditions which caused the girl's mother to complain to the police, are locked up in the police station here. They were arrested at Providence yesterday.

Ended Life With a Rope

Boston, March 30.—George Ewers, single, 39 years old, was last night found hanging by a rope from a nail in the wall of his room on Blue Hill avenue, where he was a lodger. No cause for the suicide is known.

Killed by Mighty Weight

Thomaston, Me., March 30.—Charles Brown was instantly killed in the Ulmer lime rock quarry. A rock weighing 1½ tons fell on him and crushed him to death.

Drift of Opinion.

Our advice to Cuba—get admitted to the big Union as a state. Then work politics for all it is worth, exchanging favors for considerations.—Mexican Herald.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have voted to exclude reporters from their meetings. The better way for them would be for them to conduct their meetings so that the reporters would not criticize. The average reporter prefers to ignore untoward incidents in women's meetings, and if the women are only half proper, the reporters will be pretty sure to overlook the improprieties of the other half.—Fitchburg Sentinel.

The army and navy ought to be, and undoubtedly are, highly gratified at the continuance in President McKinley's cabinet of the two secretaries, Messrs. Root and Long, who are associated with so much that is historic in the recent achievements of both services. It will assuredly be the wish of those who are interested in the future of our country's defenders that their period of incumbency will extend through the full term.—Army and Navy Journal.

It is an undeniable fact that too great attention to athletics whether in school or college, cannot but interfere with the close attention to studies that is necessary for high standing as a student. It is equally true that a judicious amount of athletic exercise and training is not only not pre-judicial to the school's standing, but is positively beneficial. Too close and too long continued mental application is as injurious as overdevotion to athletics. The best results are to be found in a judicious combination of both.—Fitchburg Observer.

Good Job for Someone.

Secretary Long has advertised for special mechanic for Quincy at $3.75 per diem.

The position requires the performance of outside inspection on Government vessels under the direction of the superintendent constructor.

Applicants must be practical shipwrights and have had experience in the building of modern steel ships, preferably at navy yards or private shipbuilding yards doing Government contract work.

The examination will be open to all comers who can give evidence of experience in the kind of work for which they seek employment, and who are citizens of the United States. Applications will be addressed to the Commandant, Navy yard, Boston, Mass., and must be delivered to him on or before Tuesday, April 2. No application received after that date will be considered. Each applicant will state in his application his name, age, residence, citizenship, present occupation, and previous employment or work done. The applications will be accompanied by evidence of citizenship, and by certificates, preferably from previous employers, as to character, habits of industry and sobriety and skill, and experience in work of the kind required.

THE KENILEY CASE. THE SOCIAL REALM.

Board of Health Decides Charges Are Not Sustained.

Another chapter in the famous Keniley case was practically brought to a close last evening at a meeting of the Board of Health.

It will be remembered that early last January charges, eight in number, were preferred against Inspector Keniley after his refusal to resign as requested. After numerous delays hearings were held. These hearings dragged along until the meeting held about three weeks ago, at the conclusion of which, all of the charges, but the fifth, had been dropped. This charge was:

"That said inspector did, in the house of S. B. Willey, Jr., Highland avenue, Wollaston, permit the laying of a light soil pipe below the cellar bottom, in violation of the ordinance of the city."

Upon this it was decided that action should be deferred until the premises had been personally inspected. Owing to the illness of Mr. Badger, of the board, the inspection of the premises was delayed until last Friday, when the board accompanied by the counsel for Mr. Keniley, visited Wollaston for a personal inspection.

Nothing more developed until last night when the Board of Health held a meeting and passed the following vote: "That after due inspection of the plumbing work done in the house of S. B. Willey, Jr., of Wollaston, and explained in the fifth charge, of charges against Keniley, it is the unanimous opinion of the board that said work is done in strict accordance with the Ordinance of Plumbing."

This practically disposes of all the charges against Inspector Keniley and exonerates him from any violation of his office.

It now remains for the City Council, who are investigating the Inspector of Plumbing and the Board of Health to complete their part of the program and give the citizens and Inspector Keniley a rest.

School Debate.

At the Lincoln school this week there was a debate on the resolve: "That rotation in office is beneficial."

The affirmative was taken by Anna Galligan, Isabella Mitchell and Sadie McLeod. The negative by Alexander Cowe, Adolard Picard and Alford Micora.

The affirmative principal argued that men had different ideas, and that many ideas were better than one. That it would be better if Quincy had a new Mayor every year. Lincoln was quoted as follows: "That all men are created equal." The negative principal argued that a new officer was an experiment, and the people did not know whether he was a rascal, robber or thief. The longer statesmen were continued in office the better business would be conducted. The loyalty of President McKinley to fourth class postmasters was noted, and his reelection ensures their services for another four years.

The arguments were met pro and con by the other speakers and other reasons advanced.

Mr. Atkins, the principal of the school, complimented both sides, but decided in favor of the negative.

A general debate followed when others spoke intelligently.

Norfolk Grand Jury.

The Norfolk grand jury will come in at Dedham next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The jurors drawn for service during the present year are as below: Robert Atkinson, Hyde Park; George Bacon, Franklin; Walter L. Bigelow, Brookline; Henry F. Boyle, Weymouth; William A. TO CONTINUE AT WORK

Threatened Strike of Hard Coal Miners Has Been Averted.

PRESENT WAGES CONTINUE

With the Expectation of Full and Complete Recognition of the Union at a Future Date—Operators Call It a Graceful Backdown

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 30.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the United Mine Workers of the three anthracite districts, held in this city yesterday, it was decided that the men should continue at work, and the threatened strike of 143,000 miners in the hard coal region is thus averted.

In the opinion of the committee in a lengthy address issued last evening, and which was prepared by John Mitchell, the circumstances did not warrant a strike at this time.

The statement says that the representatives of the operators, while they would not agree to meet in general joint conference with the miners this year, did agree that the notices which were posted continuing the advance in wages until April 1, 1902, should be interpreted and construed to mean that grievances should be considered and adjusted with representatives or committees of the mine workers, and they held out the hope that if, during the present year, the mine workers demonstrated their willingness and ability to abstain from engaging in local strikes, full and complete recognition of the organization would unquestionably be accorded at a future date.

"We are of the opinion that this record is an important advance step in the right direction and presages more harmonious and equitable relations between employers and employees than have prevailed in the anthracite region heretofore.

"In consideration of the vast interests involved and in view of the fact that at least partial recognition of our organization has been secured, we respectfully recommend that work be continued and that committees be selected at each mine, colliery, stripping and washery, and instructed to present any grievances, either as to prices or conditions of employment, that the mine workers may have, and ask that such grievances be adjusted.

"We would further recommend and urge upon mine workers everywhere to refrain from engaging in local strikes, except when authorized by the district presidents."

A number of coal operators when shown the statement issued by the committee said it was a graceful back down on Mitchell's part, but they gave the president of the mine workers credit for his conservative policy. It is conceded that had he so desired he could have made a great deal of trouble. On the whole, the miners are well pleased with the action of the committee.

Barrymore in Insane Hospital

New York, March 30.—Maurice Barrymore, the actor, was taken to the insane pavilion of Bellevue hospital yesterday by his son, John. Barrymore went to the hospital willingly. He had nothing to say, and acted like a man who was dazed. John Barrymore said that his father's real name is Blye, and that he was born in the East Indies about 50 years ago. The younger man was overcome with emotion. Barrymore's daughter, Ethel, is now playing in a New York theatre.

Omaha, March 30.—A snowstorm covers the entire state and parts of Iowa, extending north of Sioux City and west to the Wyoming and Colorado line. Railroads report considerable delay. The temperature is above the freezing mark.

Majority Against Platt Amendment

Havana, March 30.—Senator Villanueva of the committee on relations of the Cuban constitutional convention yesterday signed the report of Juan G. Gomez, thus placing a majority of the committee in opposition to the principal features of the Platt amendment. Neither the radicals nor the conservatives seem anxious to put the question to an immediate vote.

Killed Three Children and Himself

Devil's Lake, N. D., March 30.—Emil Segerlin, a farmer, living eight miles northeast of this town, killed his three daughters, aged 9, 7 and 5, and stabbed himself to death yesterday. Segerlin was sent to an asylum about 10 years ago, but was soon allowed to return home. He was a hard working man, well thought of and in excellent financial condition.

Retires to Private Life

Washington, March 30.—Attorney General Clegg yesterday took leave of his associates in the department of justice, and today he departed for his home in Paterson, N. J., where he will practice law. During the leave-taking the officers and employees of the department presented to the retiring attorney general a large solid silver claret pitcher.

Evidence of Horrible Crime

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 30.—The naked and headless body of a man was found in the river near Stonewall yesterday. The right arm and right foot were missing. There is no clue to identity. The coroner believes that it is a case of murder.

London, March 30.—Lord Salisbury, according to The Daily Express, is suffering from a kidney trouble, which is likely to incapacitate him for some time.

The Conductor's Ready Answer.

The Metropolitan Street Railway company has in its employ a philosopher in the person of a Broadway conductor. It was late in the evening, and his car on its up town trip had reached the vicinity of the city hall. As it passed one of the taller office buildings a stout woman, clutching him by the arm, exclaimed:

"Oh, conductor, how many stories high is that building?"

"Leven," laconically replied the conductor, without so much as an upward glance. The woman sank back with a sigh of satisfaction.

Just then a small man with a large traveling bag rushed in almost out of breath.

"I say, conductor," he gasped, "what time can I get to the Grand Central depot?"

"Leven," was the quiet reply.

"That's good," commented the small man, evidently relieved.

At this juncture another man climbed aboard that wanted to know about what time the car would reach the Gilsey House.

"Leven," again replied the conductor, with a weary look.

When questioned as to the uniformity of his answers, he replied:

"Yes. You see, if you hesitate about answering 'em, they get worried, but if you have an answer ready they're satisfied. Now, about this time of night, I always say 'Leven.' It's a good, handy number, easy to say. Other times I use other numbers. I allus have a lot of stock answers on hand. It saves time and trouble."—New York Sun.

The Queen and Jenny Lind.

There is a pretty story told of Queen Victoria and Jenny Lind which shows how the modesty of two women, the queen of England and the queen of song, caused a momentary awkwardness which the gentle tact of the singer overcame.

It was on a night when Jenny Lind was to sing at Her Majesty's Opera House that the queen made her first public appearance after the memorable Christy day.

For the great artist, too, this was a first appearance, for it was the beginning of her career at a place where the year before she had won unparalleled fame. It happened that the queen entered the royal box at the same moment that the prima donna stepped upon the stage. Instantly a tumult of acclamation burst forth.

Jenny Lind modestly retired to the back of the stage, waiting till the demonstration of loyalty to the sovereign should subside. The queen, refusing to appropriate to herself that which she imagined to be intended for the artist, made no acknowledgment.

At length, when the situation became embarrassing, Jenny Lind, with ready tact, ran forward to the footlights and sang "God Save the Queen," which was caught up at the end of the solo by the orchestra, chorus and audience.

The queen then came to the front of her box and bowed, and the opera was resumed.

Why Roads Are Crooked In China.

The Chinese road is private property, a strip taken from somebody's land. This is done much against the will of the owner, since he not only loses the use of it, but also still has to pay taxes on it.

One consequence is that it is wide enough for only one vehicle, and carts can pass one another only by trespassing on the cultivated land. To prevent this the farmers dig deep ditches by the roadside. As the surface wears away and the dust blows off it gradually grows lower, and after awhile it becomes a drain for the surrounding fields. A current forms in the rainy season, which still further hollows it out, and thus has arisen the proverb that a road a thousand years old becomes a river.

Those whose lands are used for roads naturally prefer to have the roads run along the edge of their farms instead of cutting across them, and this accounts for the fact that Chinese roads are often so crooked that one may have to go a considerable distance to reach a place that is in reality but a few miles away. This always interests the stranger.—Church Eclectic.

How the Car Got There.

The other day at Twenty-sixth street an inspector "hopped" on the front platform of a Madison avenue electric car bound down town. He said to the motorman:

"Where the dickens is this car going?"

"Why, to the Brooklyn bridge, of course."

"Get off and look at yer signs."

The motorman did so and discovered that the sign on the front hood of the car read, "One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street," the sign on the right side of the roof read, "Second avenue," and the sign on the rear hood, "Astor place." The conductor and motorman between them having adjusted the signs, the inspector permitted the car to proceed.—Electrical Review.

Shaves of a Lifetime.

Beard appears to grow at the same rate and to follow the same rules of personal conduct as the hair of the head. So if a man began shaving when he was 16 and lives to be 70 years old he will have cut more than a little bit off the top. If he could keep in position all his feet long and a beard 27 feet long, 35 in one bunch, would enable him to travel with a circus summer and sit in a store window to advertise a hair restorer in the winter.—Ainslee's Magazine.

A NOTORIOUS SWINDLER

Falls Into the Hands of the Police of Omaha

BLACK RECORD OF CRIME

Extending Back Twenty Years, During Which He Has Figured as Letter Box Thief, Bank Sneak and Professional Forger

Omaha, March 30.—The police of this city have in custody Prentice Tiller, who, they say, is wanted on a large number of charges, and for whose arrest rewards aggregating several thousand dollars are offered, was arrested here yesterday. It is charged that he has secured money from a number of postoffices on stolen money orders, with robbing the postoffice at Cincinnati and with having defrauded banks in Ohio on forged checks. A man named Fisher, who is said to be an accomplice of Tiller, was also arrested at Hastings, and was brought to Omaha.

Tiller has a long record of crime extending back nearly 20 years, but he is best remembered for his first theft, where, by a bold and daring stroke, he stole more than $100,000 of the funds of the St. Louis branch of the Pacific Express company. He was captured by a mere chance, but not before he had made away with $15,000 of the money.

Tiller is apparently 35 years old, dresses well and is an easy talker. He said he had been charged with a great many crimes for which others were responsible. When asked about a draft on which Fisher had tried to secure money at Hastings, he declined to say anything.

Tiller admitted having served penitentiary sentences for mailbox robbery, but would not state where he had been in prison. He said his occupation "as billing clerk, and that he had worked in several railroad freight and accounting offices in Cincinnati and Louisville. He denied having made a confession to the police of complicity in the Cincinnati robbery. When his attention was called to it he said it was the first time the matter had been mentioned to him by anyone, and he could not understand how the report originated.

Tiller is credited with operating in Cincinnati, St. Louis, St. Joseph, Kansas City and several other southern and eastern cities.

Chief of Police Donahue received a telegram last night from William A. Pinkerton, as follows: "We congratulate you upon your great arrest of Tiller and Fisher. You have two of the most desperate letter-box thieves, bank sneaks and professional forgers in the United States. Hold them tight. Will write particulars."

Solons Engaged in Fisticuffs

Little Rock, March 30.—In the house of representatives yesterday a personal difficulty occurred between Representatives Leary and Blalock, over a local bill affecting Lee county. While addressing the house, Blalock denounced as falsehood a statement reflecting on him made by Leary in a speech. The latter then struck Blalock on the head with a cane. Both men clinched and were engaged in a struggle when other members separated them.

Wicked St. Louis Politicians

St. Louis, March 30.—The February grand jury made its final report yesterday to Judge Wood. Most of the jury's time was occupied in investigating election frauds perpetrated in the November election. The jury says it is appalled at the unmistakable evidence of the most flagrant, defiant and audacious violations of the sanctity of the ballot box that were committed at the election on Nov. 6 last.

An Auto-Spring Blizzard

London, March 30.—Snowstorms and blizzards were general throughout the north of Great Britain yesterday, and strong, cold, winds in southern England. Much damage was done to telegraph and telephone wires. Today the indications are of a change to spring-like weather next week.

A "Temporarily Successful" Break

Berlin, March 30.—According to The Kleines Journal, Emperor William, during a toast last evening, said: "Attempts have been made to disturb the cordial friendship between Russia and Germany. It is certainly not my fault if such attempts have temporarily proved successful."

Torrents of Rain in Texas

Dallas, March 30.—A heavy rainstorm accompanied by high winds prevailed here yesterday. The wind damaged roofs and blew down shrubbery, and the precipitation was so heavy that it swept torrents in the streets which swirled everything before them. The damage is heavy.

Two Views of Morgan

Berlin, March 30.—The National Zeitung, referring to the expected visit to Germany of J. Pierpont Morgan, greets it as a "great financial innovation," and expresses a hope that good may follow it. The Kreuz Zeitung takes The Zeitung to task, and describes Mr. Morgan's coming as the "last humiliation of Europe."

Brodie Accumulated $105,000

New York, March 30.—The will of Steve Brodie was filed yesterday. Brodie died in Texas last January. By his will he leaves all his property to his eldest daughter in trust until his other two children become of age, when it is to be equally divided among the three children. The estate is valued at $105,000.

Acquitted on Murder Charge

New York, March 30.—Mrs. Mary Eitel, who has been on trial since Monday for the killing of George Deges, was last night acquitted by a jury. Mrs. Eitel is a German woman, 30 years old. Deges was a Greek, 25 years old. Mrs. Eitel had left her husband for Deges. On Dec. 31, 1900, the woman and the Greek had a quarrel, during which the woman shot and killed Deges with his own revolver.

Shows Generally Prosperous Conditions Except in Dry Goods

New York, March 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The condition of general business is in most respects satisfactory. The dry goods trade, and particularly the cotton division is gloomy, with further reductions in prices of staple goods this week, and demand falling to increase with the shading of quotations, but from every other department of business reports are cheerful, and the outlook for a good spring retail turnover is encouraging. There is little difficulty over collections in any direction and the mercantile demand for money from numerous quarters is proof of the confidence felt among manufacturers and jobbers. The labor situation is more tranquil. Mining differences in the soft coal region are settled, and sober counsels seem to have prevailed among anthracite miners. Railroad earnings in three weeks of March show an increase of 10.2 percent over last year.

Prices of boots and shoes are well sustained, without any notable change. There is some improvement in the local jobbing trade, and retail houses begin to feel the impetus of Easter demand. New England shops report fewer orders, but most concerns have sufficient work for some months on old contracts.

That bottom prices for wool have been reached at last is evidenced by the growing unwillingness of holders to make concessions, the greater activity of dealers, and indications that purchases for speculation are of considerable volume. Transactions show a material gain at the leading markets.

It was not possible to maintain the small recovery late last week in raw cotton, and subsequent reaction established a new low record for the crop year. While the decline has been severe, mills are not ready to purchase freely, and foreign buying for the month is far below last year's.

Has Earned a Reward

Washington, March 30.—A petition, signed by all officers serving with the Fourteenth regiment, has been sent to Adjutant General Corbin, requesting the appointment of Musician Calvin P. Titus.

Calvin P. Titus.

Titus, the first American soldier to enter Peking during the recent troubles in China, a cadet at large to the military academy. The petition sets forth that his meritorious conduct throughout his service deserves recognition, and it is believed that if given an appointment to West Point and a commission upon graduation, Titus will make an excellent officer.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

The Fore River Ship Co., are making the foundation ready to enlarge the store room building.

It is rumored that the street railway is to extend its line to take in the plant of the Fore River Co.

Several dwellings other than those mentioned this week in the Ledger are to be built at Quincy Point this spring.

The Old Colony Association of Universalist churches will meet morning and afternoon, April 24, at New Bedford, Mass. Hon. Hosea M. Knowlton, Attorney General will preside.

Surveys have been made for a branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to run from the main line between Quincy Adams and Braintree to the Fore River ship building plant. This will enable freight that comes by rail to be landed at the plant.

Infants will be baptised at the Easter Even service at Christ church on Saturday next at 4 P. M. The rector says: Every unbaptised child in the Parish should be brought at that time that he may be made a member of Christ, a child of God and an inheritor of the Kingdom of Heaven."

The Fore River Ship Co. have found it necessary to prohibit people going through the plant. If everybody was permitted to go through the works who desired, they would be overrun with visitors who would interfere more or less with the workmen, and at the same time be liable to accidents.

Special services will be held during Passion Week, April 2, 3, 4, at the Wollaston Congregational church as follows: Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, a service for women led by Mrs. Chase. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, at 7.45, a preaching service with appropriate music.
